Hint Provinces May Take Over Care Of Indians

WINNIPEG (CP)—The provinces may undertake a joint attack on the problems of Indians, Metis and Eskimos.

The subject came up for discussion Monday at the sixth premiers' conference and Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, conference chairman said:

"There was general agreement that the provinces and other government levels are not dealing with these problems as effectively as might be wished.

"I think there was a feeling that one of the main problems in this field is motivation. The aim must be to help the Indians achieve self-respect and then give them the tools with which to do the kjob."

Mr. Roblin told a press conference that the premiers believe there is a need for a more comprehensive, over - all approach to aid for Indians, Metis and Eskimos.

He said the problem is to be explored further, but declined to say how.

During his press conference, Mr. Roblin refused to disclose whether there were discussions among the premiers on federal financing of aid for Indians and Eskimos or on the possibility of the provinces assuming responsibility for these people—now under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

In an interview, Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said the federal government is prepared to turn over to his province responsibility for Eskimos in northern areas and for treaty Indians.

He said Ottawa would be prepared to do the same for other provinces, but unlike Quebec "most provinces are not ready to accept them."

Premier John Robarts of Ontario said there should be closer co-operation between the provinces and the federal government in helping Indians, Metis and Eskimos.

Private pensions were discussed at the conference Monday morning.

Mr. Roblin said the provinces are making good progress toward Canada-wide portability for private pensions. Model legislation has been drafted which, if approved by each province, would achieve portability.

Quebec and Ontario have passed the legislation and other provinces are studying it, with Manitoba and Saskatchewan likely to act next year.

Private pensions, distinct from the Canada Pension Plan, are those provided by companies or labor unions for employees. If a pension is portable, an employee leaving to take a new job may withdraw all or part of his contributions to the pension pool at his former place of employment and apply them to the new place of employment.

Other discussion topics Monday were preferential bidding on government contracts and sales tax collection.

Preferential bidding is an arrangement whereby some provinces favor companies within their own boundaries within their own boundaries over out-of-province firms in awarding government contracts.

The provinces that don't use preferential bidding are seeking to reduce the advantage given to companies from provinces that do use the system.

Conspiracy Charged By Rivard

LAREDO, Tex. (CP-AP)—Lucien Rivard, accused of masterminding a multi-million-dollar narcotics smuggling operation into the United States, claimed in U.S. federal court Monday that he was deported from Canada to advance a political conspiracy.

Rivard's Laredo lawyer, William C. Wright, argued before U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally that his client is a political prisoner "illegally extradited" from Canada and thus cannot be tried in the United States.

The assertions were put forward in a motion claiming Rivard was extradited "for political reasons under the guise of being charged with a narcotic offence when in fact, his removal from the Dominion of Canada was in furtherance of a political conspiracy in said nation to remove him from his surroundings, so that evidence and circumstances of said political conspiracy would be suppressed."

The husky, 50-year-old Montrealer, charged with conspiracy to smuggle 76 pounds of heroin into the United States, stood silently as the seven-page indictment against him was read. Wright said Rivard had been advised not to do any talking.

Rivard, who escaped from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail March 2 and was recaptured near Montreal July 16, was under heavy guard for the short walk to the courtroom. Authorities refused to say where he has been detained since he was removed from Harris County jail in Houston Friday.

SIX OTHERS NAMED

The indictment against Rivard also names Jorge Eduardo Moreno Chauvet, Paul Mondoloni, Joseph Raymond Jones, Julien Gagnon, Charles Emile Groleau, and Frank James Coppola. Jones, Gagnon and Groleau are also Canadians.

The indictment alleges the accused men conspired with Roger Beauchemin and Joseph-Michel Caron "to unlawfully, knowingly, and fraudulently smuggle" heroin into the United States.

The indictment says Rivard would acquire heroin outside the United States and arrange for it to be delivered at Bridgeport, Conn., and various other

Tries to Curb Costs

Federal Govt. Curtails Construction Programs

OTTAWA (CP)—The Pearson government is putting certain brakes on the building boom, in efforts to alleviate a shortage of skilled workers and prevent inflation in construction costs.

A surprise statement issued by Prime Minister Pearson Monday night said the brakes are also designed to sustain "a steady rate of economic growth throughout Canada," during the next five years.

Highlights of the statement:

—The government is deferring for at least 18 months work on the new national museum and the Parliament Hill underground parking garage in Ottawa, a new runway at Montreal International Airport and a new postal terminal in Toronto.

—Construction of a terminal at Vancouver International Airport will be put off until late 1966 if tenders now being prepared are regarded as too high.

—Federal spending programs for the trans-Canada Highway, sewage treatment plants and trade schools which run out in 1967 will be extended to 1970 to prevent a construction rush in the next two years.

The slow-down measures are the first of their kind to be adopted since the start of the Korean war in 1950, when private investment was discouraged to permit a rapid defence production buildup.

The announcement said the reason was widespread evidence in recent weeks that the high level of construction spending, an estimated record $10,-

Skilled Labor Short

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—A mid-year government report on capital spending plans, both private and public, sparkles with record figures but says "the growing shortage of skilled labor" may prove a big obstacle to investment plans.

The trade department's review of investment in Canada, issued Monday night, reports plans to spend $12,800,000,000 on capital projects in 1965.

This was a four-per-cent increase above the initial survey issued last March which reported intended spending of $12,300,000,000.

The figure was nearly 19 per cent above the 1964 level.

"In both value and volume terms, such a capital expenditure program would be the largest on record and would represent the sharpest annual increase in such spending since 1956," the report said.

It would "provide a strong expansionary influence to the economy generally."

MORE PRESSURE

However, it meant a substantial increase for the second consecutive year and "this rapid rate of expansion is placing increasing pressures on the available supply of materials and labor.

"Perhaps of greatest importance from the standpoint of possible impediments to the accomplishment of investment plans is the growing shortage of skilled labor."

By May of this year, the report noted, the reserve of skilled, unplaced construction workers was one-third less than

Civic Holiday in Ontario Proves Cool, Wet, Dreary

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was fun and sun in the West, but cool, wet and dreary in Ontario for the three-day civic holiday weekend.

Temperatures in Alberta soared to 95 and for those who didn't flock to beaches there were rodeos, outdoor barbeques, a road derby, street dancing and a canoe-sailing spectacle.

Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario communities are the only ones which observed the midsummer holiday, based on an old British tradition of marking the first Monday in August as a "bank holiday."

There was hardly a ray of sunshine over Ontario Monday Thundershowers and record-low temperatures hit most areas. A day earlier hail fell in the resort-dotted Muskoka district.

Manitoba reacted calmly to the holiday. In Winnipeg, a regular horse-racing event vied for attention with Canada's provincial premiers, assembled for their annual conference.

It was more cold than wet for the first two days of the long weekend in Ontario. In Windsor, a joint emancipation day went off on schedule. It marked the 131st anniversary of the abolition of slavery in the British Empire.

But the temperature struggled to only 63, the coldest Aug. 2 for the city since the 1949 mark of 74.

Toronto temperatures fell to 69 degrees, compared with the previous Aug. 2 low of 72. North Bay had a 60, six degrees below the 66 recorded for the day in 1951.

In the lake resort areas nearest Toronto, business fell off Monday. Robert Frith, a Keswick service station operator, estimated his business was down 35 per cent.

Wilson Wins Easily

By PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government easily survived a conservative no-confidence vote in the House of Commons Monday night after a lacklustre attack by Edward Heath, making his first major speech as Tory leader.

The vote was 303 to 290 against Heath's motion, one of the strongest censures since Labor took office last October. The 10 Liberal members, who earlier said they would support the government, abstained instead.

His speech had been built up for nearly a week as his chance to prove that he is Wilson's match as a debater. Hundreds of people lined up in the rain outside the parliament buildings in a vain attempt to get seats in the public galleries.

But the sharpest verbal clash came after many of the original spectators had gone home. Shortly before the 10 p.m. vote, as Wilson was defending his government's economic measures, a shouting match developed between the prime minister and Heath over measures Wilson said the Tories had prepared last year to meet the balance-of-payments crisis.

With the speaker shouting to both men to keep order, and a hubbub arising from both sides of the House, Wilson threw a sheaf of papers across the floor at the Opposition benches.

The left-wing Daily Mirror calls Heath's speech the "flopperoo of the session." Even two Conservative papers are critical. The Daily Telegraph reporting that "disappointment was sadly and generally registered by conservative MPs' that Heath "was not brilliant, rousing or triumphant."

The Manchester Guardian, a Liberal supporter, says the talk was less than evastating" and the Financial Times says Heath "failed to capture the initiative and rouse his supporters."

Postal Workers Not Bothering About Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Spokesmen for the 4,100 Montreal postal workers, now in their 13th day on strike, reacted icily Monday night to an anonymous but authorized threat from Prime Minister Pearson's office that the men might be fired if they stay off the job.

"Let the prime minister say it himself," commented Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) —with which Mr. Houle's union is affiliated—and a pledged supporter of the strike.

The statement was made in an Ottawa interview by an unidentified spokesman for the prime minister. He modified Mr. Pearson's remark Friday that the government "can live" without postal service in Montreal.

The prime minister merely meant he could tolerate the Montreal walkout over the weekend following the return to work of postmen elsewhere in Canada, the spokesman said. The prime minister's office had been flooded with calls from angry Montrealers.

The spokesman said his remarks were official, though he preferred they be anonymous. He mentioned two other possible steps to restore the posts to Montreal: A special session of Parliament and the despatching of troops to the post offices.

HOPE FOR SOLUTION

But he hoped that Judge J. C. Anderson, the federal mediator who spent the day in conference with advisers at his Ontario summer cottage, beyond telephone reach of reporters, would produce this week a formula to bring the strike to an end without such measures.

Earlier in the day, 2,500 of the strikers shouted and chanted their intentions in a packed and smoky east-end Montreal hall.

"This strike will establish the climate of the public service for the next 20 years," said Mr. Houle in urging the strikers at the meeting to persevere.

The meeting followed in the wake of reports that the government had made a new salary offer to the strikers, one of a number of groups who began leaving their postal jobs at widespread points across Canada July 22. Virtually all the other groups resumed work last week.

One report said Judge Anderson, a federally-appointed mediator, was presenting an interim report urging the government to offer a $550 annual increase.

This would give letter carriers, mail sorters and grade 1 postal clerks a maximum annual salary of $4,930, and grade 2 clerks, sorters and dispatchers a $5,230 maximum.

The government offer said to be based on this reported recommendation was apparently not in fact made, and the meeting didn't bother to take a vote on whether the strike should continue.

The shirt-sleeved men heard speeches in English from two Toronto postal workers who said the return to work in that city had been ordered on the mistaken assumption that the Montrealers were planning to return as well.

OTTAWA (CP)—Judge J. C. Anderson is no longer committed to producing his wage boost recommendations for postal workers within a two-week deadline although he is working hard to do so, a spokesman said today.

The spokesman on his staff said the judge, a government-appointed commissioner investigating the pay dispute, was no longer "honor bound" to meet the deadline because Montreal's postal workers have failed to return to work.

The deadline now was "self-imposed" rather than a commitment because the deadline agreement worked out last week provided that all the striking workers should go back to their jobs.

The spokesman denied press reports that the judge would hand in his report early this week in view of the Montreal workers' decision to remain off the job until specific pay recommendations are made.

The Postal Workers Brotherhood, which embraces three unions, has threatened to call a nationwide strike when the 14-day deadline expires in two weeks from July 28.

Whites Buy Permits For Guns

By JOE ZELLNER

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — The first arrests of Negro pickets and a blunt warning that white residents were ready to defend themselves heightened tensions today despite pleas for racial harmony from the governor's office.

Mayor T. Griffin Walker called a meeting with reporters an hour after the Sumter County grand jury begins considering for the second day murder indictments in the slaying of a white youth.

Negro leaders, ignoring appeals from Governor Carl E. Sanders for local handling of racial disputes, said pickets would return to a grocery store where 23 were arrested Monday.

They called, too, for another early evening march to the courthouse.

The grand jury convened in special session Monday to begin considering murder charges against Eddie Will Lamar and Charles Lee Hopkins, both 21. The two young Negroes are charged with slaying Andrew A. Whatley, 21, a white marine enlistee shot near midnight Wednesday about three blocks from a civil rights demonstration.

ARREST 23

Police arrested 23 pickets Monday when grocery store manager Carl Fox pointed out that they were parading on a private sidewalk. They were charged with trespassing.

The demonstrations came as a county official announced that white residents were busy buying permits to carry pistols. A $2 fee is the only prerequisite for obtaining the permits—and all sold so far have gone only to whites.

"The people here are excited about their own safety," said county ordinary Eugene Horne. "People here are going to defend themselves and their rights." An ordinary is a county judge who handles probate matters and such other duties as provided by law, such as issuing gun permits.

Meanwhile, in Atlanta, Governor Sanders called for settlement of racial differences without outsiders "to stir up emotions and perhaps cause more violence."

Britain Imposes Quotas On Commonwealth Immigrants

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government moved Monday to ease Britain's race problem, slashing the number of immigrants it will allow into the country from Commonwealth countries and taking steps to encourage the integration of those already here.

Immigrants from other Commonwealth countries, once received with all but open arms by Mother England, will be subject now to rigid quota systems.

Instead of the approximately 23,000 Commonwealth immigrants who entered Britain last year, the government plans to cut the number next year to 7,500, with an additional 1,000 to come from Malta under a special arrangement with that newly-independent island.

The quota will apply only to those planning permanent settlement.

Government officials said the changes are not likely to affect such countries as Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Each country of the Commonwealth will be allowed to provide a maximum of 15 per cent of the total immigrant quota, but the number of Canadians who come to Britain with the intention of settling permanently rarely exceeds more than a few hundred.

The government's new policy sets a premium on those who have lined up a job beforehand or those—such as doctors, dentists, nurses and teachers—with skills the country needs.

There will be no admission whatsoever for those without jobs or needed skills, a policy already in effect since last September.

A government white paper presented to the House of Commons said the government plans to provide special financial help to local councils which have unusually tough immigrant problems. A new group called the National Committee for Commonwealth Immigrants will be set up to oversee local efforts and co-ordinate government policy.

The new policy represents an about-face for the Labor party. When the Conservative government introduced the first restrictions on Commonwealth immigration in 1962, it was fiercely opposed by many opposition Labor MPs.

There now are approximately 1,000,000 non-whites in Britain from such Commonwealth areas as India, Pakistan, the West Indies and Africa.

Although they represent barely two per cent of the population, they have tended, or been forced, to congregate in relatively few areas. The result has been growing racial tension in a country which had long prided itself on a lack of race distinction.

Final Stratford Festival Play Is Most Successful

By ROBERT TANNER

The fourth and last play in this year's Stratford Festival, Anton Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard," is also perhaps the most successful. With the exception of the contemporary Canadian play, "The Canvas Barricade," presented in 1961, it is the most modern play yet to appear on the Stratford stage, and gives the student of the theatre a fascinating insight into the possibilities of the "thrust"-stage for plays written expressly for a proscenium type of building. Director John Hirsch has made the transition quite painlessly, and in some instances with actual advantages, as for example, when the characters come right down stage to gaze through an imaginary at an equally imaginary cherry orchard, rather than retiring up stage to look through a real window at a backcloth.

The play may be described as a comedy-tragedy, since although it is very amusing throughout, the tragedy implicit in the opening scene pursues the characters in relentless fashion, as they refuse to take note of the changing conditions in the world around and adapt to them.

The three main characters in particular, Lyuba, the owner of the orchard, her brother Gaev, and the wealthy upstart, Lopahin, each in their own way meet tragedy. Lyuba, played with masterly authority by Kate Reid, is turned out of her home, the only place where she has ever found happiness, to face a poverty - stricken future. Gaev, a role in which William Hutt once again excels, portraying his dedicated uselessness with consummate skill, finds himself compelled to take a salaried position in a bank, a terrible fate for an aristocrat, and one to which one feels he is completely unsuited. Even the apparently successful Lopahin, the merchant whose father was a serf, and who buys the cherry orchard to build summer cottages on the land, has failed to make his own adaptation, and finds himself unable to propose marriage to Lyuba's adopted daughter Varya. In these two roles, Douglas Campbell and Frances Hyland both give very strong performances, which make all the more poignant their final separation.

Luba's real daughter, Anya, is a rather inspid character trying at all times to bring sweetness and light into the gradually darkening lives of her family. Even during the closing moments of the play, she is still facing the future with undimmed optimism, but failing to convey this mood to her mother or uncle. A difficult part this for any young girl, and Susan Ringwood, in her first appearance with the Stratford Company, makes a noble effort to give roundness and depth to the role. One cannot help wondering how it would have been handled by Martha Henry, who instead takes the part of Dunyasha, a giggling, headstrong, maid, in startling contrast to her role as Lady Percy in two parts of Henry IV. Dunyasha is one side of a most unequilateral triangle, the two others being Yepihodov, who is deeply in love with her, but is plagued by the results of his own clumsiness (a delightful part for the versatile William Needles), and Yasha, her mistress' flashy maojr - domo who rejects her advances with easy boredom, a role which gives Bruno Gerussi an opportunity to be smoothly unattractive.

In a very evenly matched cast, four others deserve mention for excellent work: Hugh Webster as Petya, the perennial student; Mervyn Blake, as Lyuba's equally impecunious neighbor; Powys Thomas, as Gaev's aged valet, still nursing him with unwavering devotion, and Mary Savidge, as Charlotta, a most improbable governess who could only come out of a Russian play.

John Hirsch is of course well known for his work at the Manitoba Theatre Centre, but this is his first Stratford venture. Naturally, more static than the Shakespeare productions, it was effective and smooth, and seemed to indicate that the stage held no terrors for Mr. Hirsch. He was ably assisted by Brian Jackson, who designed the costumes and settings, and by Louis Applebaum who wrote the very attractive accompanying music.

Soil Judging Contest Held

About thirty-five 4-H and Junior Farmer members from Hastings County took part in the soil and land use judging competition held at Frank Foster's farm, R.R. 2, Tweed, on Thursday.

During the morning the group toured the Tweed area, where J. J. Hagarty, regional soils specialist, Brighton, assisted by Gordon Munroe, instructed them on soil structure and type and noted crops best suited for each type of soil.

Lunch was eaten at the Colonel Vanderwater Park. J. H. McLeod, secretary-treasurer of the Moira Conservation Authority was on hand to address the gathering. The Authority donates two silver trays to the top contestant in each division of the competition. Christine Brown and Roger Sine, both of Foxboro, R.R. 1, were the winners of the intermediate and junior classes, respectively.

Mr. Frank Foster voiced his pleasure at being host to the judging competition. The competition was under the direction of Lyall MacLachlan, Associate Agricultural Representative of Hastings County.

RCN Sailors Run Into Tough Weather

TRENTON — The Royal Canadian Navy Sailing Association from Ottawa took home the RCNSA - RCAF Challenge Trophy on Sunday, after two days of disappointing sailing weather in the Bay of Quinte. Only six of the planned-for eight races were run off, and the sixth and final race Sunday afternoon was run in thunder, rain and at the end, a flat calm.

Around 22 sailors arrived at Baker's Island from Ottawa on Friday night, and by 10.30 a.m. Saturday the annual regatta was under way. Three races were run off in light winds that day, Ottawa being the two-time winner. Six teams of four were competing from each club

Sunday morning, with a fresh breeze, saw two races run off, with Trenton winning both. This put the score at three to two for the RCAF.

By Sunday p.m., the "weather" started and the commodores, Cmd. Doug Wright from the Ottawa club and F/L Ernie Domney from Trenton, decided to only run six races. Ottawa was the overall winner on points, 342 to 321½ for Trenton.

WEATHER TAKING TOLL

The cold weather is taking its toll of holiday boat traffic on the Trent and James Howard, the lockmaster at Lock No. 1, reports a mere 51 boats through the lock over the holiday — much fewer than in other years. The story was the same with the boats tying up at the government dock.

Two Accidents Involve Injury To Two Drivers

TRENTON — Trenton police report a rash of minor accidents over the long holiday weekend, and two accidents involving injury to the drivers.

Around 2.35 p.m. Sunday, cars driven by Leonard Cronin, Edwin McKay Elliott and Gordon William Preston, all of the RCAF, were involved in a three-way accident at the corner of Dundas Street East and Byron Street. Mr. Elliott and Leatrice Elliott complained of stiff necks following the accident. Heavy rain and wet pavement were given as contributing causes on the report.

Robert F. Hull, 16, of Hewson Drive, Middleton Park, suffered abrasions to his head and a cut requiring three stitches to his right hand as a result of his car going out of control on the dirt road in Hanna Park around 9.40 p.m. Sunday and striking a large cedar tree.

IN MEMORIAM

HAY — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today.

If we had all the world to give,
We would give it yes and more,
To hear her voice and see her smile,
And greet you at the door,
But all we can do dear mother,
Is go and tend your grave,
And leave behind tokens of our love,
To the best mother God ever made.
We like to think when life is done,
Wherever heaven may be,
You'll be standing at the door,
To welcome us to thee,
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
And secret tears will flow,
What it meant to lose you,
No one can possibly know,
When we are sad and lonely,
And every day seems so long,
We seem to hear you whisper,
Cheer up and carry on,
Each time we see your photo,
You seem to smile and say,
Don't cry, I am only sleeping,
We'll meet again some day.

—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Ralph and family.

HAY — In loving memory of a dear daughter who passed away one year ago today.

Though her smile is gone forever,
And her hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories,
Of the one we loved so much,
Her memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.

—Lovingly remembered, mother.

COLDEN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Samuel Colden, who passed away August 3, 1953.

At the pathway's end is an open gate,
Through which our loved ones go,
To a place of far more peace and joy,
Than we could ever know,
Our loving Father was waiting there,
To give him strength and rest,
May we then find our comfort,
In the thought that God knows best.

WHITFIELD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Herbert Whitfield, who passed away August 3, 1963.

You left memories to blossom,
Bearing fruit for years to come,
In the lives of those who loved you,
Precious memories of days that are gone.

WARDLE — Mrs. "Lil" Wardle, August 3rd, 1949.

BROWN — In loving memory of the late Mrs. Annie Brown, wife of Donald H. Brown, of Belleville, Ont., who passed away on August 1, 1963.

There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Through each must go alone,
And they in light we cannot see,
Our Father claims His own,
Beyond the gate our loved one,
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought,
A loving God knows best.

—Lovingly remembered by her husband and family, Rev. C. Ross Brown, Ruth, Dorothy, Olive, Marion and Estella and their families.

at the same date in 1963 or 1964.

This might make it difficult to achieve the normal build-up of construction activity in the summer and early fall months.

"In such circumstances, expansion programs are more susceptible to delays resulting from supply limitations."

While the increased investment plans meant more pressure on the construction, materials and equipment producing industries, "new capital facilities are being created at an increasing rate thus adding to the productive potential available to meet the rising demands of domestic and foreign consumers."

The survey was made in May and June and covered businesses, institutions and all levels of government. Housing estimates also were included.

Planned spending for new construction amounted to $8,300,000,000, three per cent above the earlier estimate for 1965 and 19 per cent above 1964 outlays.

Machinery and equipment expenditures were expected to reach $4,500,000,000 in 1965, six per cent above earlier forecasts and 18 per cent above 1964.

In manufacturing and mining, increases were especially noticeable. Capital spending plans by manufacturers had been increased another nine per cent, bringing them 33 per cent above actual outlays in 1964.

Major increases were in paper products, primary iron and steel, motor vehicles and textile industries.

Power and telephone concerns accounted for the 15 per cent jump over 1964 of estimated capital spending in the service industries group.

The previously expected rise of 27 per cent in commercial investment had now become 29 per cent, the additional strength all in the trades group.

Spending by churches, schools, universities, hospitals and other institutions was now expected to rise 30 per cent over 1964 figures and spending by municipal, provincial and federal governments 20 per cent.

Total increase in social capital spending had edged to 23 per cent from 22 per cent above 1964.

Car Thief Being Sought After Chase

A car thief – possibly injured in the wrecking of an automobile that ended a dramatic cross - city car chase – today is still being sought by city police.

The chase started late Saturday night as the crew of a cruiser checked reports of prowlers at Stevenson Ford Sales Ltd. on North Front Street.

The chase roared down Front and up Bridge Street East, at times reaching 90 miles-an-hour speed.

It ended abruptly at Stanley Park Drive where the pursued car swerved out of control, mounted the pavement and crashed through a three - foot wall.

By the time the officers reached the car its driver had disappeared.

AFTER THE RAIN—Play at the 23rd annual Corbin Gold Cup tournament gets underway at the Belleville Bowling Green following the early morning rain. Interest is high as nearing the end of the round skips line up shots to knock out opposing teams' counters. Tournament attracted 40 rinks coming from London to Prescott. Winner was Dick Edney's rink from Kingston, a repeater from last year.

Dick Edney's Kingston Rink Winner of Corbin Gold Cup For Second Year in Row

Despite intermittent showers and cool temperature the 23rd annual Corbin Gold Cup tournament staged by the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club and sponsored by many merchants and industrial firms of the city, was held at the local greens on Civic Holiday and was an outstanding success from every viewpoint.

William Van Tassel, general chairman of the tourney; Gerald Hyde, draw champion, with help from Bruce Miller and an energetic committee are to be congratulated for the success of this tournament which draws rinks from every section of the province.

A Kingston rink of Eddie Dennison, Howard Jagges, Bill Duncan Jr., with Dick Edney as skip, were the winners of the handsome trophy donated by the International Hardware Company and presented by Dawson Boyd, resident manager of the plant in this city. The winning rink had a remarkable score of 36 with a plus of 30 and only eight ends were scored against them in 45 played. This is the third win for Dick Edney in this tournament and the rink thoroughly deserved their convincing win over the day's play.

RECEPTION HELD

The tournament was sent off to a good start when over the weekend the visiting bowlers were guests of the Calvert Distillery with Pete Webber as host. This event was held at the Hotel Quinte and again was voted the best ever. Paul Rouleau of Cornmall kept the large crowd in good humor with one good story after another.

There were 40 rinks entered in the tourney and play was started promptly at 9.30 with the "Spider" as the chief attraction and won by Bob Stringer of the Kingston.

The president of the club, William Wright, welcomed the bowlers, while "Jerry" Hyde, vice-president of the PLBA, expressed the good wishes of Charles Iredale, president of the association. Charles Bodle, president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Tournament to be held in Toronto next week, spoke on behalf of this tourney and promised a good time for the visiting bowlers.

MAYOR WELCOMES BOWLERS

Mayor J. R. Ellis, on behalf of the citizens, welcomed the bowlers and hoped their stay would be pleasant and fruitful. Bill Van Tassel, then gave the rules of play and wishing all good bowling, the greens soon became a hive of activity. On two occasions play had to be halted for showers but it did not affect the keenness of the greens and the greens chairman, Gordon Vince and the greenskeeper, Jack Smith, came in for many words of praise of the greens.

The large gallery throughout the day witnessed some interesting games and so close was the play two rinks finished with identical scores and had to play an extra end to decide their positions in the tournament. The women's section of the Club, catered to a large number throughout the day and the food served was simply delicious.

STREETSVILLE A WINNER

The first two - game high winner was a rink of Jack Miller, Ed Albertson, Henry Pickett with Harvey Andrew of Streetsville as skip. These prizes were donated by the Stephens Adamson Company. A Belleville rink of John Murdock, Goldie Fitzgibbon, Gordon Vince with Orlo Smith as skip won the prizes sponsored by the local club.

The first one-game high winner was a rink of J. Bayliss, C. Townsend, Bill Ball with Jim Watkin of London as skip. The prizes for this event were sponsored by the O"Keefe Brewing Company. The second winner was a rink of Charles Coleman, "Skit" Vandervoort, Norman Anderson, with Ab Wonnacott of the local club as skip, while a rink of D. Laporte Jr., G. Laporte, P. Elliott with D. Laporte Sr. of Prescott was the high scorer for no wins. The sponsor of the second one-game high winner was Stephen Licence Ltd., while Elliott Motors sponsored the no wins.

Each of the winning skips expressed the thanks for their rink for the fine day of bowling and the wonderful hospitality while Mr. Edney hoped that the Belleville Bowling Club would long continue to sponsor this fine tournament. "It is one of the best rink tournaments in the province," said Mr. Edney.

The scores of the several draws follow:

By ROBERT TANNER

STRATFORD — Pressure of other commitments has allowed visits to only two of the many attractions offered this year by the music section of the Stratford Festival, which include two operas, and the concert appearance of such distinguished artists as Claudio Arrau, Benny Goodman, Lois Marshall, Dave Brubeck, the Festival Singers, and the National Youth Orchestra. Mozart's Marriage of Figaro is a repeat of last year's presentation, with a few changes in cast, and in particular a change in conductors. Under the musical direction of Mario Bernardi, the performance comes to life in a much more exciting way than it did in 1964. Jan Rubes, Howell Glynne, Elizabeth Mawson and many of the chorus repeat their last year's roles with conspicuous success. The leading role of Susanna, however, is sung this year by Gwenlynn Little, in a very attractive and pert performance, while the blonde beauty of last year, Ilona Kombrink, is replaced in the role of the Countess Rosina by the dark-haired charm of Lilian Sukis, who received an ovation for her singing of one particular aria. Another change was that of Joan Patenaude in the very difficult role of Cherubino, the page. It is hard for a girl to be convincing as a boy, but oddly enough Miss Patenaude was at her most successful in this regard when Cherubino had been dressed as a girl.

All in all, this is a delightful production, under the competent stage direction of Jean Gascon, strongly musical, well acted and with a spectacular climax of on-stage fireworks. The other opera, "The Rise and Fall of the City of Mahagonny" by Bertolt Brecht and Kurt Weill, is the centre of considerable controversy. It drew more critics from a wider radius in North America than any other Stratford production, and appears to arouse fierce feelings of dislike or admiration in all who hear it. A challenging work, the Stratford presentation is said to catch the spirit of the opera as completely as Brecht's own company in Germany.

YOUTH ORCHESTRA

On Sunday afternoon, the National Youth Orchestra played in the Festival Theatre the second concert of its 1965 Trans-Canada tour. After an opening performance in Toronto's O'Keefe Centre last week, which was greeted with a standing ovation from a packed house. This young group of 106 players made an equally deep impression on its Stratford audience. Approximately half of the players are veterans of former years, but the 51 newcomers have obviously been through strict and rewarding training during the past months, for here is an orchestra of fantastic precision and command of its instruments.

The concert opened with a delightful presentation of Mozart's short overture to the Abduction from the Seraglio, which was followed by a symphonic ode by John Weinzweig, one of Canada's leading composers. A difficult work, in the modern idiom, the ode calls for considerable maturity on the part of the orchestra. The composer, who was present and took a bow, seemed as pleased with the performance as the rest of the audience.

Another difficult work, "Schelomo", a rhapsody for 'cello and orchestra by Ernest Bloch, made further demands on soloist Leonard Rose and orchestra alike, demands which were met with apparent ease. Short solo passages by the principals of the various sections were handled with professional skill. The pianissimo sustained notes, played by all the first violins, yet hardly audible in the silent theatre, demonstrated a technical competence seldom encountered in much older and famous orchestras. It is a special pleasure in this country of high school bands, and a cult of wind instruments, to find such a wealth of string talent among young Canadians.

The final item on the program was a stirring performance of Beethoven's 3rd symphony, marked by great depth of feeling in the Funera March and again the amazing precision of the Pizzicato theme of the finale. The weakest part was perhaps the French horns of the trio, but these are without doubt the most difficult of all orchestral instruments, and a slight tendency towards tentativeness is quite excusable.

It is quite obvious that in Franz - Paul Decker the orchestra has a conductor of great musicianship, capable of extracting the very best out out of his young performers. Their attention to him, and concentration on the work in hand, was a delight to watch. Mr. Decker, Ezra Schabas, the orchestra's general manager, and the other members of the faculty have once again done a tremendous job in preparing this wonderful group for Canadian audiences, and perhaps many of them for a life of professional music.

Cool . . . Cool Water

It is ironic that it should be an American firm—Ralph M. Parsons Co. Ltd., of Los Angeles —that has come up with the monumental $100,000,000 diversion scheme to meet the freshwater needs of the western half of the continent.

Only the Americans could think that big, and of course no scheme of such magnitude would be possible without United States resources. Naturally there are strong motivations of self-interest involved in the scheme, for it would meet the needs of no fewer than 33 American states and three Mexican states, as well as seven provinces of Canada.

Thus, it is not difficult to see why the Americans are pushing the plan, part of which would involve development of a 2,000-mile cross-Canada canal-river system linking British Columbia with the Great Lakes.

As a joint venture by Canada and the United States, the harnessing of these water resources would be one of the great engineering feats of ll time. Its benefits would be incalculable, ith the United States enjoying the lion's share. nd that is the reason for Canada's discomfiture.

However, any embarrassment felt over American covetousness in this matter is tempered by he fact that these very water resources represent powerful bargaining agent in Canada's hands.

Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing has een quoted as saying: "This is our water and e intend to do with it what we like . . ." ater, at a meeting in Portland, Ore., he said he id not "rule out the possibility of bold, imaginative water diversion scheme involving Canaian rivers, but if Canadian waters are to be hared with our neighbors there must be a ommensurate flow of benefits toward our anadian economy."

The Americans know that Canada holds e trump card. U.S. Secretary of the Interior tewart Udall recognized this when he said there as no escape from the fact that "our No. 1 sources problem is water."

Cool . . . cool water, as the old western ng has it. And Canada, with more water than has engineering and human resources to pe with it, is playing it cool too, on the political ene.

Hard on Drinking Drivers

In Sweden the authorities are rough on inking drivers. They send them out on work ngs, to the forests of the far north and other kely spots where they perform some honest bor for the state.

A Swedish television performer returned om such a stint with the wry comment that s career had been ruined, but he was as trong as an ox."

The Brockville Recorder and Times notes at Finland has a similar approach to the oblem and suggests it would pay off in Canada.

"Drunken driving in Finland is suppressed Draconian laws. Hard labor is the only nishment, with no suspended sentences alwed. Offenders are gathered in open colonies d put to work which is of use to the comunity or country. The national airport at lsinki was built by such labor."

Offenders are not classified as felons. ther the punishment is classified in law as rrective training without a criminal record. ree to six months' hard labor is the usual ntence, with the more severe cases getting a ar or two. But this takes into account only e drunkenness involved. Accidents, injury d culpable homicide are punished separately.

The Recorder adds: "Another interesting pect of the Finnish law is that a motorist's ndition is decided by police on a combination blood tests and medical examination. There no legal limit of alcohol concentration in the od, for it is accepted that one man may ely tolerate what another may not. But general it is not safe to drink more than a ss of beer before driving in Finland."

Crisis is the normal condition of humanity, ether it is the fellow who doesn't know where next meal is coming from or the nation which esn't know where its next invasion, revolution, nine or pestilence is coming from . . . life, as n Masefield has observed, is one damn thing er another.—Globe and Mail columnist Rich- J. Needham.

Canada Undergoing Change

Montreal Gazette

The federal-provincial conference, for all its stresses, is another movement forward along the lines of co-operative federalism. It is not to be expected that the theory or practice of co-operative federalism is to be worked out without conflicting views, or recurrent struggles. But it has obviously become the only hopeful way of readjusting relationships within the Canadian federation. And with this massive conference the pattern of such co-operation was thrust forward.

There are bound to be shifts between centralization and decentralization within any federal system. To some extent the Canadian federal Government grew strong over the years because many of the provincial governments were weak. This led to the initiatives for policies being taken in Ottawa. And it also led to Ottawa taking action across the country in many fields that were actually those of provincial responsibility, or were of indistinct jurisdiction.

During this period — and it extends back long before the Second World War, and through the post-war years — the provinces, when meeting at conferences with the federal Government, considered themselves successful if they had been able to induce Ottawa to do more for them. This was notably true of the post-war years when the provinces were even ready to "rent" certain of their important taxing fields to Ottawa, in return for services that Ottawa would provide.

This phase was not without certain practical advantages. It made the provision of uniform services possible, and kept the taxation situation in considerable tidiness. But it was not a phase that could last. The rising prosperity of Canada has inevitably increased the economic strength of many regions. And this has been accompanied with the rising up of strong provincial leadership, often lacking in previous years. The trend has become for the provinces to assume more and more of their own responsibilities; show initiative for their own policies; and claim the tax resources necessary to their functions.

This has led inevitably to a gradual dismantling of the centralized structures that had been erected. In some ways it has been a clear-cut substitution of provincial for federal action. But it has not proved — and never will prove — to be simple. There is an inevitable sharing of responsibility in many fields. Even the exercise of purely federal or purely provincial action has effects, the one upon the other.

The formulas for co-operation will often have to be ingenious. Whatever may be thought of the medicare plan itself, the formula advanced for it would be applicable in many other fields, as a method that preserves federal initiative, even fundamental criteria federally-set, and yet allows freedom of provincial administration.

The remarkable feature of this conference was the huge number of committees that have been at work on adjusting federal-provincial action, and the increasing degree of consultation that has become necessary, now that the provinces are choosing to exercise more and more of their constitutional responsibilities. Any idea that the assertion of provincial activity would mean the wilting of contacts with Ottawa is disproved by the rapid growth in the means of working together, such as have never existed before.

Mr. Pearson called the conference the most rugged and the most rewarding so far. Rugged it certainly was, in the explosion, in many ways regrettable and excessive, over the question of off-shore rights. But even this question appeared to have been modified before the conference ended, with some prospect of an adjustment being reached.

The country is in the midst of change. The risks, the dangers, the problems of retaining a national consciousness are evident and often disquieting. Yet the many evidences of growth and strength are to be recognized also. There is a growing fellowship — and more in common — among the provinces who are alike assuming more of their responsibilities. And there is a closer working together among all governments in Canada, and a more complex machinery for consultation, than the past ever knew or imagined possible.

A country in which there is such widespread energy, so manifold a readiness to assume responsibilities with zest, and which is developing so many means of consultation is very far from being a country in sad decline. With wisdom and faith and a rational restraint it could create for itself a new future, nonetheless vital for being different from what the past has been.

Strictly Personal

Feminine Pattern Set By Schools

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If you have ever watched a class for any length of time, you will have noticed a remarkable difference between the behavior of the boys and of the girls. The girls are, on the whole, tractable and attentive and co-operative; the boys are fidgety and noisy and disruptive.

Boys and girls mature at difference rates, in different ways. The girls mature faster in ways that are more acceptable to early schooling. They are more docile, more patient, more co-ordinated in their gross bodily movements.

The same kind of training does not work equally well for both sexes; yet the early grades are set up on a "feminine" pattern, encouraging and rewarding those traits the girls already possess, while clamping down on the kinetic and aggressive traits the boys possess.

This explains why girls do so well in the early years of schooling, but the boys outshine them later. It has nothing to do with intellectual superiority of one sex or another, but simply with motivations and character traits.

Boys have a much harder time adjusting to school. The girls are ready to sit at a desk and do careful work long before the boys are. Even a girl who does not write or draw well will patiently keep at it, while a boy who may be skilled at it will soon become bored and restless. He wants to move, jump, run, push — and he can hardly wait for recess in which to exercise these skills.

Schools tend to demasculinize boys, not merely because 70 per cent of all teachers are women, but because the curriculum and discipline of a school is designed to curb and frustrate the masculine tendencies. Schools try to ignore the fact that the differences between the sexes are immense, beginning at birth.

Three times more boys than girls drop out of school, even among the economically and culturally deprived. This is largely, I am convinced, because the boys never get on the track in the early grades, never are taught how to express and channel their drives for activity, exploration, adventure, and problem-solving. By the time they reach the middle grades they are so far behind that they have given up.

Those who remain do better than the girls, academically, because by that time the boys are motivated toward college and a career, while the girls on the whole are more concerned with beauty and charm and social popularity and marriage. It is not a question of intelligence, but of emotional dynamics that are too rarely understood and come to grips within the school system.

Segregated classes for boys and girls, in the early grades, might be one way of coping with this problem — and this also, incidentally, might provide a happy solution for a pattern of racial integration in the schools, where sex is the dominating fear of the white group, no matter what other "reasons" are advanced.

Automated Coal Mine

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

world's leading nations in the

Invariably among the field of industrial invention, Great Britain recently has developed a new process which will be watched with much interest by other countries. This time it is the world's first completely remote-controlled coal mine which serves Britain's state-owned coal industry.

Experts from various world centres attending a mining congress were shown the robot mine situated at Bevercotes, 20 miles north of Nottingham. The $54,000,000 automated project has a communications system which comprises closed-circuit television, radio devices and a 200-line telephone exchange. They will combine to help control underground chores performed little more than 100 years ago by sweating, naked miners, girl helpers and at the coalface, boys of five and six.

When Bevercotes was opened in 1961 as a conventional coal mine, it was estimated that 2,000 men would produce 1,250,000 tons of coal a year at a rate of three tons a man-shift.

In the new robot form, the mine will produce 1,500,000 tons a year at the rate of eight tons a man-shift and will employ only 770 workers. If the Bevercotes experiment proves successful — the new system actually begins operating next October — it is expected half of Britain's coal mines will be working in this form within the next decade.

Lord Robens, chief of Britain's coal industry, holds high hopes of a coal mine working like an oil refinery 18 hours a day, seven days a week. Lord Robens still sticks to his total production goal of 200,000,000 tons of coal a year even though there is a reluctance in the nationalized electricity industry to give guarantees about consumption. Within the next 10 years he hopes roughly half of this total will come from automated mines and that coal prices will tumble.

If this should come about, coal then would be more competitive with oil and nuclear power for generating electricity. Britain's robot coal mine experiment therefore will bear watching by other major coal-producing nations.

Eugene Aram, an English schoolmaster, went on trial 206 years ago today—in 1759 —at York, for the murder in 1745 of a friend, Daniel Clark. At that time Aram had been suspected but there was no evidence even that Clark was dead. In 1758 a man called Houseman led the authorities to Clark's body, and Aram was thereafter found guilty and hanged. At the time of his conviction he had been making philological researches which anticipated the findings of much later scholars.

Best Relief for Hay Fever Is Slow Desensitization

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What permanent relief is available to hay fever sufferers? Can an operation solve it?

I won't say that there is no permanent relief from hay fever, because sometimes there is, but you've got to be realistic about things, and not hope for some fairy god-mother to come along and do it all with a wave of the wand.

An operation won't solve hay fever. It isn't that kind of an ailment. It is a chemical problem. The chemistry of the body is such that contact with certain substances — ragweed pollen, along with quite a number of other protein materials from plants—causes a curious reaction which leads to sniffles, inflamed eyes, asthma, sneezes and the rest of the annoying symptoms that we call hay fever.

You wouldn't expect a pill to cure a broken leg, or an injection to take the place of removing a burst appendix.

The reverse is true, too. Surgery won't change the particular chemistry of your body which is sensitive to hay fever pollen.

We can avoid hay fever by staying away from ragweed or timothy or other pollens which contain things that bother us. This is not easy to do. If we have enough money, we can go far north, or on a sea cruise, or have an air-conditioned home. But not everybody can go to such extremes to avoid pollen. And what real hay fever victim hasn't resorted to air-conditioned movie theatres or department stores for a little relief from the nasty sniffles?

Next to that, the best answer is desensitization — a long, slow, but good method of changing our personal body chemistry so that it is not so sensitive to these pollens.

This cannot be done quickly, and rarely if ever can it be done permanently. But you can reduce your sensitivity to such particles of pollen in the hay fever season. Or to put it another way, if you do so gradually, you can build up your tolerance to the offending substances.

This is done by exposing yourself to very small amounts, which you can tolerate without getting hay fever, and then gradually increasing them.

Who can give this treatment? Your own physician or an allergist. For best results, treatment should start in the fall, or at least by early winter, so the gradual exposure to small amounts of pollen extract can be increased gradually until maximum resistance has been built up by next year's hay fever season.

A quick, sure, easy solution to hay fever would be welcome, with cheers, but there is none. The slow and careful treatment is the one that works best.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I suffered a fractured hip socket in an accident, and understand the doctor did a closed reduction. Just what does that mean? Also what does "apex heart beat" mean?—R. H.

A closed reduction means the bones were put into place without cutting. Open reduction means a surgical operation so the bones can be seen and manipulated directly.

Apex heart beat is the thrust of the heart usually noticed under the left nipple. Its location (whether inside or outside the nipple line, that is) can be a clue to heart enlargement.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a typical case of male baldness. What do you think of hormone treatment for it.—H. J. S.

How to Be A Canadian

New York Herald Tribune

In an effort to promote President de Gaulle's theories of national distinctions (and also presumably to help President Johnson keep Americans at home), the French Government tourist agency has been advising Canadians how to avoid being taken for Americans or Britons.

Since the advice includes a suggestions that Canadians do not carry copies of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune, this newspaper naturally does not approve. And since it also has suggestions to the French-speaking Canadians on how to speak French, we doubt whether the Quebecois will approve.

As for the English-speaking Canadian (duly decked out, as the French recommend, with a maple leaf or a beaver), the tourist agency unaccountably failed to press him to emphasize the "oo" sound in "out" and "about," the Scotticism that is the most distinctively Canadian utterance.

In any case, a Canadian (who may have some dozens of relatives south of the border) marching through France with a beaver (live? stuffed?) and singing O Canada to make sure he is not taken for an American would lend color to the French scene.

The practice might even be carried back to this hemisphere, where Canadians have a tendency to melt into the American background —which must be distressing to an ardent nationalist.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 3, 1945

A special meeting of the City Council will be held in connection with the proposed sewage disposal system and there will be present to confer with the members of the council representatives of the Department of Municipal Affairs and members of the local Public Utilities Commission. It is likely some recommendations will be made at this meeting so that a start on the proposed plant can be made as soon as possible. The meeting will take the form of a discussion on how the plant will be paid for and under whose supervision the plant will be operated. In any case the city council will have to guarantee the debentures for the proposed work, but there is a possibility that the council will favor the management be placed under the Commission.

30 YEARS AGO

August 3, 1935

One hundred and fifty relatives gathered at Oak Lake yesterday for the Morton family picnic. Guests were present from Cleveland, Ohio; Midland, Toronto, Napanee, and a large representation from Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. Tables were laid in Bird's pavilion and a most excellent dinner was enjoyed. Mr. John Morton of Stirling, the president, made an interesting address after the dinner, and then the officers for the ensuing years were elected. During the afternoon swimming and sports were enjoyed and at six o'clock an excellent supper was served. A resolution was passed thanking Mrs. J. E. Brown of Thomasburg, for her untiring and efficient services as secretary-treasurer during the past thirteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Flurey and children of this city, the Misses Graves and Mr. Ennis Graves of Lindsay are spending a vacation at Stoco Lake.

Mr. Judson Whalen, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Bowmanville, and Mrs. Whalen, formerly of this city, are spending a few days here.

The Peace Celebration and Old Boys' Reunion commenced yesterday and will continue until Aug. 8. Many visitors are arriving, but the formal opening will not take place until more of the former residents, who are now enroute, have arrived; it will take place on the courthouse lawn, on a date to be announced. His Honor Judge J. F. Wills, the president of the celebration, will preside at the opening and His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel will extend the welcome of the city.

Mr. Ted H. Hambly of Philadelphia, Pa., is home on a visit to his parents, Lieut.-Col. P. H. Hambly and Mrs. Hambly.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman McMullen of Detroit, Mich., are the guests of the Misses Binnigar and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frost, Foundry St.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Canniff of Edmonton, Alta., formerly of Belleville, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Scantlebury.

26 Receive Awards for Safe Boating

Certificates have been awarded to twenty - six local boys and girls who have successfully passed examinations in The Canadian Junior Safe Boating Course. Although all the children registered for the course were interested and enthusiastic a number failed to pass the final examination. Their instructors Mrs. H. C. Reid and Mrs. R. B. McCulloch felt that in view of the importance of a thorough knowledge of safe boating practices the passing marks should be quite high. All examination papers have been marked and returned to the pupils together with an explanation for the failure. It is hoped that these remarks will help the students to relize the importance of every phase of the course, and also encourage them to try for their certificate at some future date.

The Canadian Junior Safe Boating Course is an eight - week course sponsored by the Canadian Power Squadron and taught locally by the Bay of Quinte Squadronettes with special lectures by members of the C.P.S. Vice Commander, R. B. McCulloch gave a lecture on small boat handling, with special emphasis on docking and undocking. He used a bicycle to demonstrate the proper technique.

SPEAKS ON RULES

District Commander, D. D. Hickson, spoke to the students on the importance of weather observation and the Canadian Rules of the Road, especially those rules which apply to the handling of small outboards, small sailboats and canoes. These lectures stressed the use of simple available aids in learning safe boating practices. Reg Morry, a native of Newfoundland, also showed his vast store of knowledge of boats and boating with the children.

The Squadronettes are indebted to many safety - minded people in Belleville who helped to make this new venture a success. Gratitude is expressed to L. A. Kells, Superintendent and Chief Inspector of Belleville Public Schools, who assisted by making classroom space available, also to Ken Harnden Principal of Prince Charles School, where the lectures were presented. Many other principals and teachers co - operated in the showing of a short safety film in schools where the course was not available.

The Squadronettes are encouraged by the public response to the Canadian Junior Safe Boating Course and hope to offer it again next spring on a larger scale.

Bay Quinte Being Used As Lighter

Ever wonder what happened to the old Bay Quinte, the coal carrier which for the past two or three years has been tied up out of service at the government dock in Belleville?

Last spring the coal carrier disappeared from the local dock, and quite a few persons wondered if the old laker had been sold for scrap.

But such was not the case — the old laker is now being used by its owners as a barge to help defeat low water conditions in the transport of coal for use at the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne.

Owned by the Bayswater Shipping Company of Brockville, the Bay Quinte is being used as a lighter to reduce the load of the regular coal carrier as outside The Narrows west of Deseronto.

The shallow water in The Narrows has for many years forced light loading for lake boats coming into Belleville.

Now, using the Bay Quinte as a barge the regular carriers can be loaded to near capacity, and with their cargo reduced at Deseronto, can continue the trip on into Point Anne.

Electric unloading equipment is used to transfer part of the coal cargo to the Bay Quinte and the boat is then hauled by a tug on into Point Anne.

Canada Cement Company manager at Point Anne, Mr. John Legate, says that for the past several years his plant had been receiving coal shipments by rail.

This year there was a switch back to water transport, with the Bayswater company using the old dis-used laker as a barge to help defeat low lake levels.

Using the old laker as a barge, the coal company now delivers up to 2500 tons of coal on each trip.

Roslin Doctor Suspended for Three Months

A Belleville - district doctor is among eight Ontario disciplined for professional misconduct, according to the July report of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

Dr. Andrew Ali Hosein, of Roslin, was one of three doctors penalized for allegedly submitting accounts to Physician Services Incorporated for treatment not rendered.

Dr. Ellis Shenken of Scarborough was severely reprimanded. Dr. Hosein and Dr. Ennio Melillo were suspended three months from the register. All were directed to make restitution to PSI.

The college found there were mitigating circumstances in Dr. Shenken's case. Dr. Hosein's suspension, on four misconduct charges, was effective May 1. Dr. Melillo was suspended from March 31 on two charges.

New Addition To Factory Cost $30,000

A $30,000 factory storage addition on Coleman Street, topped the July building activity in Belleville during July when 30 permits for a total construction value of just over $130,000 were issued.

The new factory storage addition is for G. T. Lanning Ltd., the one-storey addition to be constructed to the north of the present building on property formerly used as a used car lot.

During the month permits for five new dwellings were issued as well as permits for new commercial construction valued at $21,000.

Deliver Us From Evil

There is a movement afloat in the East Hill to gain the necessary signatures on a petition to open a retail liquor store (perish the thought) at the Belleville Plaza.

A counter-movement is diametrically opposed to such an outlet.

Those opposed to a liquor store have made their point of view public. They believe it is a business promotion and not just a matter of convenience to customers. So be it, but since when did business promotions become an object of scorn? I must have missed the bulletin because I've always thought our economic system revolved around the establishment and operation of new businesses.

The opposition says the outlet would have a most harmful effect on the young people and children who frequent the Plaza. They say they do not want growing boys and girls to have to pass a liquor store every time they visit the Plaza.

I can't remember specifically, but I'm sure when I was too young to drink that I passed a liquor store sometimes without being tempted to get stinking, rotten drunk. Maybe what we could do would be to gather all liquor outlets, cigarette sellers and dance halls, and put them together in one big evil block so that anybody who wanted to resort to such horrible things could do so in private. That way, we could keep our young people away from all such things. The only problem is that when they did get old enough to view this evil block for themselves, they wouldn't know how to handle it rationally and the whole world would soon become alcoholic. Better scrap the plan.

The opposition also feels a liquor store in the area would depreciate the value of their property. To the contrary, the proximity of services is usually an important consideration in the purchasing of a home. At least it is to most people, and not a few consider a liquor store as a service worth having.

And making liquor more readily available will not cause people to drink who wouldn't come downtown to pick up a drink.

Lastly, the opposition says alcoholism is our biggest social problem. I'm sure that another liquor outlet will undoubtedly make every citizen of Belleville an alcoholic. At the same time, I'm also sure it will snow today.

A liquor store is not something that residents should demand to have any more than they could demand to have a clothing store within two blocks of their houses. It is not a divine right. It's a business, like any other business. It sells a product, a product that if you want it, buy it, if not, don't buy it. After all, it's your own money.

If the opposition is so interested in the welfare of our own youth, and I'm sure they are, then let them concentrate on the root of the problem — the alcoholics themselves.

You don't fight evil, if indeed having a sociable drink can be called evil, by hiding it. All you do is make it more attractive.

Playground Activities

CHURCHILL HEIGHTS

The girls and boys of Churchill Heights brought their pets to the playground on Thursday, July 29. There were many varieties of animals, ranging from dogs to tropical fish. Each pet was taken before the judges and showed its tricks, if any. Prizes were awarded as follows: for the biggest dog, Linda Hulley; small cat, Kathy Keane; curliest tailed animal, a tie between Virginia Irwin and Janice Christopher; fluffiest animal, Laura Gustofson; smallest animal, Sandra Murray; oddest animal, Michael Halley; best groomed, Bob Campbell; handsomest, Kevin Smith; best trained, Mary Wilson.

The supervisor, Margaret Kellar is looking forward to meeting the parents of those children attending Churchill Heights playgrounds on Neighborhood Night, Tuesday, August 3.

PRINCE OF WALES

A doll and toy show was held at Prince of Wales playground on July 30th at 1.30 p.m. Tiny tots came, treasuring their rag dolls and dump trucks in their arms while the older ones showed up with their teen dolls and puppets. Prizes were awarded to the following children: Kevin Reid, Wendy Elliott, George McKnight, Joel Oliver, George Elliott, Pamela Wood, Christine Brunet, Cathy Amode., Jeannie Amodeo, Cindy Roberts, Heather Elliott and Trevor King.

The supervisor is Mary Ness and the judges were Phyllis Cronkright, Linda Brunet and Terry Doran.

Fraud Charge Dismissed By Magistrate

A fraud charge against a Belleville salesman was dismissed today after Magistrate T. Y. Wills had adjourned his decision three weeks.

The charge was brought against Dennis Gordon after a tangle of incidents following sale of a vacuum cleaner to an East Hill resident last December.

A post-dated cheque given in payment was subsequently stopped by the customer—but Mr. Gordon already had deposited it at his own bank. The customer's bank duly honored the cheque.

Later, Mr. Gordon alleged, believing the first cheque had been stopped, he requested and received a second payment from his customer and cashed the cheque.

Magistrate Wills ruled that a reasonable doubt existed in the case and it had to be proven the accused knew the first cheque was still outstanding when he cashed the second.

Federal

000,000,000 this year, is "leading to a rapid increase in the costs of construction and to difficulties in securing satisfactory tenders for construction contracts."

The government believed the demand upon the industry was greater than it could now meet and probably would continue until late 1966.

It was desirable therefore to defer capital construction projects in booming metropolitan areas.

This wasn't necessary in parts of the Prairie provinces or in Eastern Canada east of Trois - Rivieres, Que. where workers and equipment are still available.

Commenting on the announcement, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said the situation isn't a crisis.

SUSTAINS GROWTH

"This is a means of sustaining the expansion that is so great now, over a longer period."

Did it indicate any deep-seated problem with the economy?

"No, it indicates how expansionary the economy is," Mr. Sharp said. "There is evidence Canada is moving ahead more rapidly than ever before, indeed, at the present time, somewhat more rapidly than we can accomplish in the immediate future."

This was a very good long-term sign, he added.

The announcement came on the heels of a mid-year report on public and private investment outlook by the trade department and bureaus of statistics that was sprinkled with record figures.

Ann Landers

Says 'Good Teen-ager' Can Become Pain in Neck

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — You say you are a friend of us teen-agers but you are really our enemy. You have hurt our image worse than anyone else I can think of.

I have been reading your column for four years and I have never read one letter from a good teen-ager. You only print letters from girls who have to get married, or boys who steal cars and get into trouble with the law. I am a 15-year-old who doesn't know even one person who has done the things you are always yakking about in your crummy column.

You owe it to all teen-agers to turn over a new leaf and start to print letters from us good kids. This can be your first. — ONE OF MILLIONS.

DEAR ONE — A columnist named Mike Royko who writes for the Chicago Daily News received a letter similar to yours. Here is what Mike said in his reply:

"Dear Good Teen-Ager: I am sick of you. You are getting to be a pain in the neck.

"I can't remember the last time a Good Teen-Ager came up to me and shook my hand and said, 'Gee, Good Adult, thanks for not being a Bad Adult.'

"You say nobody understands you and point out how valiantly you have resisted being a robber, a sniffer of glue, a drop-out, and a menace to society. Beside, you don't hit your teacher, and you work after school and are a joy to your parents.

"I do not go around taking pep pills or shooting people either. My reward is that I don't get thrown in jail. That is also your reward. You don't punch your teacher and I don't punch my boss. So you get an education and I get to keep my job. You don't hot rod your car and neither do I. We both may live longer and that is a pretty nice reward, isn't it?

"You work after school. I work after work. We both get money which is always handy to have around. And don't forget that for many years I have been contributing part of my money to building those schools that you are so generously not dropping out of.

Your reward for staying in school is an education which will help you hold down a better job, or be a doctor or a lawyer. Education can help you live a fuller life and be a Good Adult. So stop writing and asking for praise for doing what you are supposed to do. That's what you're here for.

Yours truly,
Mike Royko
Chicago Daily News."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have a friend who is an absolute genius when it comes to mooching small amounts. Whenever we get on a bus she says, "Put in my fare, Minnie, I haven't got change. I'll get it next time."

When we have coffee breaks together she sticks me at least twice a week. Yesterday, she asked me to pick up her watch at the jewellers. She suffers from hay fever and was feeling lousy. She didn't mention that I'd have to pay $2.50 to get the watch out. I don't want to be petty, but I can't afford these small nicks. Help! Help! — MINNIE THE MOOCHED ON.

DEAR MIN. — What's the matter? No vocal chords?

Skilled moochers must be dealt with in a skillful manner. Don't let her outfumble you. Develop an impediment in your reach. When you have coffee together don't be bashful about saying, "It's your turn. I got it yesterday." When she asks you to pick up items which have been repaired, you should assume they must be bailed out. Tell her, "Sorry, I can't afford it. Things are tough all over."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bassett Clan Holds Reunion

William Bassett and Sarah Sturgess were married in England in 1882 in St. Andrew's Church, Burghclere. They came to Canada on their honeymoon aboard a Dutch sailing vessel called the Schidam which took 48 days. They settled in West Huntingdon and later in Madoc, Ontario.

There were 11 children, all of whom are deceased, except one girl, Mrs. Roy Carleton (Muriel) of Kingston.

The families began to arrive around 10 a.m. and signed the register. A full day of races, games, visiting, swimming and horseshoe playing was enjoyed.

A business and memorial service was held during the day with Mr. Malcolm Bassett, Peterborough, conducting the business and Mrs. Norman Wessels leading the prayer service for the members of the clan who have passed on.

Results of the races and games were as follows:

Girls, 1 to 4 years—Tina Crawford, Dawn Nickle, Glenda Crawford; boys, 1 to 4 years, Richard Nickle, Norman Roberts, Gordon Simmons; girls, 5 to 7 years, Toni Roberts, Brenda Nickle, Debby Lynn Leavey; girls, 8 to 10 years, Reta Carleton Brenda Nickle; boys, 8 to 10 years, Billy Bassett, Curtis Crawford, Brian Bassett; girls, 11 to 13 years, Linda Nickle, Gail Simmons; boys, 11 to 16 years, Fred Bassett, Brian Roberts.

Girls, 11 to 16 years, Cheryle Duesbuerry, Linda Simmons; men's race, Glen Crawford, Ronald Harper; women's race, Gail Crawford, Carol Harper; egg tossing contest, Glen and Gail Crawford; women's shoe race, Carol Harper, Gail Crawford; men's ball throwing, Garnet Thain; women's ball throwing, Bonnie Bassett; bow tieing contest, Bernice Simmons, Gail Crawford; car contest, Millie Burleigh; questionnaire contest Millie Burleigh, Garnet Thain; bingo winners, Dorothy Stewart, Lillian Leavey, Linda Simmons.

Eldest woman present, Mrs. Agnes Bassett, Trenton; eldest man present, Mr. Roy Carleton, Kingston; youngest baby boy present, Scott Harper, age 13 months, from Columbus, Ohio; youngest baby girl, Dawn Nickle, two years, Belleville; farthest distance, Ronald and Carol Harper, Columbus, Ohio; largest family present, Ivan and Dorothy Stewart.

BUILDS TWO-FOOT BRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dr. Seweryn K. P. Ehrlich worked for eight years to build his functional model of the human brain. About two feet high, the model weighs three pounds and is made of plywood and string. Colored threads show the nerves of the brain and what senses they relate to. The 58-year-old Polish-born doctor wants to make another larger model to show the man in the street "what the inside of his skull looks like."

COOKIE CONFERENCE

(Cont'd. From Last Week)

It was with mixed feelings that I made these Mud Pies. They are unbaked cookies and were recommended by Mabel. In addition I know that busy mothers clutch at anything that will speed up the cookie-making procedure.

This batch makes anywhere from 40 to 60 Mud Pies and my grandchildren and their daddy gobbled them up like candy.

TUESDAY Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

The Maple Buds are a different dish of tea entirely — for receptions and showers and high teas and the like — very dainty and short and rich.

MUD PIES (courtesy Mabel N.):

2 cups white sugar, ½ cup milk, ½ cup shortening, 5 tablespoons cocoa, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups quick-cooking oats, 1 cup fine cocoanut.

In a saucepan bring all but oats and cocoanut to boil. Remove from heat and at once add oats and cocoanut. Stir well. Cool a little then drop by neat spoonfuls approximately 1½" in diameter, onto wax-paper-covered cookie sheets — about three. Allow to harden. These keep well in covered tin cookie box. They must be 1 or 2 hours old before serving. Mabel has kept them as long as three weeks.

MAPLE BUDS (dainty little double cookies):

1 cup butter (do not substitute), ½ cup light brown sugar, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon single-acting baking powder.

Cream together butter and sugar until very light. Beat in flour and baking powder until smoothly blended. (This dough does not have to be chilled.)

For afternoon teas shape into balls about the diameter of a nickel, place on lightly greased cookie sheets, about 1½" apart, press slightly with fork, and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 9 or 10 minutes. Do not burn one!

For family use shape into balls about 1" in diameter (about size of a walnut), place on lightly greased cookie sheets about 1½" apart, press lightly with fork and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

Cool on cake racks then put together, tops out, in pairs with Maple Icing between: One cup unsifted icing sugar, 2 teaspoons butter, 2 teaspoons milk, ½ teaspoon maple flavoring. Mix well together. This icing is exactly the right consistency — stiff enough not to spread and squeeze out when two cookies are pressed together.

Susanna's Family Fare

NO SNAG CHAIR LEGS

Dear Susanna: The idea of having my own private desk and chair at one end of our huge kitchen where I could work, and keep filed neatly away, all the accounts, letters and papers that are left up to so many wives these days to look after, has always been my dream. However other items for the family always came first; but just recently the school was discarding a good sturdy medium size desk set which was badly scratched and ink stained, and I was able to acquire it.

Instead of undertaking the almost hopeless task of sanding it all down I purchased a quantity of contact paper in a pleasant oak pattern to match the grain of the wood and covered the top of the desk with this. It was startling how the whole set was transformed. I also applied what was left to the straight legs of the chair as I found I was catching my stockings on the little uneven edges. This looked well and eliminated all that snagging.

My, how I'm enjoying this important extra furniture in my kitchen! — Glenna Shaw.

Dear Susanna — The most expensive part about preparing a tempting dish of rhubarb for the table is the quantity of sugar required. Many of us even have a rhubarb patch right in our own gardens which yields plenty of fruit for our neighbors and ourselves — but then there always comes the problem of that large amount of sugar we must add before we can plunk down a delicious tasting pie in front of our families.

This is where my hint comes in. In order to use only about half the quantity of sugar you ordinarily would in preparing rhubarb, soak it for two or three hours in cold water before cooking. After soaking, drain well and proceed in the usual way. If you have never done this, I'm sure you will find the results quite remarkable. — R. Brooks.

Meals on Wheels Service Helpful to Aged at Home

DEAR DORIS — Do you know of a good restaurant or caterer in H - - - that specializes in a complete meal for one with delivery service?

DORIS CLARK

I have a very dear friend who is 83 years old. She lives alone in an apartment. Although she uses frozen foods, etc., it is boring to always eat that sort of thing. I have read about some caterers in the United States with a home delivery service but know of none in H - - -.

A special meal once a week would be something to look forward to. — J.R.

DEAR J.R. — Just wish I had the answer. I'm sure such a service would be well patronized.

"Meals On Wheels" have been served up in many towns in Great Britain for the past 15 or 20 years. In Canada, I know of two communities which have introduced similar projects: Brantford and Peterborough. For a small charge a hot meal is delivered right to the elderly customer's home. Volunteers do the work.

Other cities are mulling over the idea, but it is not yet off the ground anywhere else, as far as I know.

Alternatives? Well, one visiting nurse propositioned a small restaurant to deliver a hot meal daily to a needy gentleman who found it hard to get out. And there are fine Chinese restaurants which specialize in catering to private dinners. Perhaps such a place would consider a delivery to a single oldster.

I'm sure the welfare council or family service in H - - - would have other suggestions. (For the story of the Brantford Meals-On-Wheels project, write to me asking for it, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

* * *

DEAR FIRST — I agree. But I'm wondering whether your baby sitting service can still replace you adequately with pre-schoolers?

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am a boy 18. I am shy and I just can't seem to get over it.

One of my brothers was shy a little but now he drinks and goes to parties and has overcome it. But this, Doris, does not mix with me.

I can hardly speak to a girl. Mother and Dad just make a joke of it. When I asked them once what to do they told me to stop daydreaming and get down to business, but I just don't find it that simple.

I go to the drive-in about three times a month just to get out. I get so lonely I almost cry. I don't ever remember being kissed or hugged by anyone. — SHY AND LONELY.

DEAR SHY — It isn't simple — at all! It's wretched to want to disappear into the woodwork when the girls are around.

Has it ever occurred to you that popular fellows you envy were once shy and troubled? What you do about it now will color your future. The key is to realize just how anxious and worried that nice girl is — not how much you'd like to drop dead!

Right now, write a little note to the girl you know best, asking her to go out with you. When she says "yes," that'll be your first step in the right direction. I'm sending you my leaflet "Tips On Talking" which will carry you through that first date. The next one will be easier.

Go on — do it! Then write me and say you did.

(Note to other readers: "Tips On Talking" may be yours for ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

* * *

Confidential to PLEASE HELP — I'd guess your mother-in-law stays on her own side of the road because she doesn't want to interfere. If you are devoting yourself to a clean house and spotless children, with no allowance made for visits with their grandparents, you are cheating them.

Have a try at baking a cake to take over to Grandma, for her enjoyment, along with the young ones; seek her advice about something she'll enjoy helping with. Learn to drive the car and make a bid for some fun.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — This short letter is a "special" to all stutterers.

Recently while watching a late show, Robert Merrill, a great baritone, mentioned that he had stuttered until he was 17 years of age. He overcame his problem by singing his conversation.

I know from experience that by using a very sofe voice or a whisper, is one of the most helpful ways possible.

Try this method, folks. It takes a while, but you'll end up with a lovely sounding voice, as well. You'll find it is so relaxing, too, as stutterers are usually under great tension and strain. — INTERESTED.

P.S. — Your column is terrific.

DEAR INTERESTED — So it would seem that soft talk and soothing song chase the jitters. What you suggest is bound to help some stutterers. (And the P.S. helps me)

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Please advise me on how to seat three people in a small car. They are: my husband who will drive; his brother who will be visiting us and older by a few years; and myself.

We are all past middle age. We plan to drive him around quite a bit as this is his first visit here. My husband thinks that I should keep the front seat. But I wonder if I should offer it to his brother? — DOUBTFUL.

DEAR DOUBTFUL — It's optional. With a larger car you could sit three across, with you in the middle.

If the visitor were a lady relative, it would be good manners to give her the seat in front. But the brother might well be embarrassed for you to give up your place to him. If you keep it, be sure to turn around and visit with him as you drive. Make him feel he is the important guest.

MR. AND MRS. MURRAY GEORGE MARTIN

Martin – Jose

Rev. T. F. Townsend performed the double-ring ceremony in Holloway Street United Church for the recent marriage of Elizabeth Jean Jose, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jose, Belleville, and Murray George Martin, only son of Dr. Reginald Martin and Mrs. Martin of Omemee, R.R. 2.

Traditional wedding music was played by the church organist, Mr. Angus Macleod, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Arnold Dilts of Plainfield, as she rendered two vocal selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white satin floor-length bridal gown featuring a fitted bodice with softly rounded neckline and short sleeves. The skirt was enhanced with unpressed pleats and highlighted with cummerbund and matching bow at back and a flowing chapel train. A four-tier bouffant veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of satin adorned with crystals and pearls. She carried a cascade of pink Sweetheart roses with white 'mums and trailing ivy.

The bride's only attendant as maid of honor was Miss Florence Foster of Belleville R.R. 7, who wore an orchid floor-length gown of satin featuring short sleeves and softly pleated skirt with matching headdress adorned with tulle. She carried a semi-crescent bouquet of white Thunderbolt daisies and trailing ivy.

Mr. Reginald Paul of Peterborough was groomsman, while Mr. William Jose, cousin of the bride of Belleville, and Mr. Gerald Sills of Campbellford, were the ushers.

For the reception in the Christian Education Building at Holloway Street United Church, the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with wedding bells and doves misted about the base with tulle and pink rosebuds. The colorful bridal bouquets and pastel pink candles completed the attractive nuptial setting. The bride's mother dressed in delph blue crepe dress with matching feathered hat, black accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a pink suit with off white accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

For the wedding trip to points in Northern Ontario, the bride chose a sheath styled dress of pink and blue French cotton, white accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin will reside at 102 Queen Street, Campbellford.

Scandal Bathing Suits Getting a Strong Play

By DORIS KLEIN

Twice as many women are wearing bikinis, and thousands of girls across North America are snuggling their curves into a teasing new kind of beach attire, called scandal suits, composed of strategically - located patches of fabric and see - through mesh.

It's part of a movement among bathing suit manufacturers toward ever briefer attire for the sweet young things who frolic on the shore.

The mesh-and-skimpy-fabric jobs are the season's sensation.

Plunging to the navel, slashed at the sides, sans middle — with only rubberized mesh for strategic screening—they are this summer's follow-up to last summer's topless swimsuit, which generated much talk but few takers.

SCANDAL SELLS FAST

"We thought we'd sell 36,000 scandal suits, but wound up selling 200,000," says Barbara Kelly of Cole of California, which introduced them. "We had to buy a new factory to keep up with the demand."

Dozens of small firms tried to cash in with copies.

Mrs. Kelly's ad campaign helped.

A sultry brunette was shown in what is called the savage suit, done up in tiger and zebra stripes with nude mesh. Its caption:

"Out of your chair, Jane. . . . It's utterly uncivilized not to run wild one hot summer of your life."

About 73,000 Janes are expected to run wild before summer ends.

ADMIRE IN COMFORT

A man likes the suits, says its designer, because he can "admire it comfortably — he's embarrassed, you know, if the body's out there in the raw."

Bikinis now account for about 10 per cent of the swimsuit business. Once they were only sold to a daring few.

"Swimsuits of all kinds will continue to get sexy—even more so next year," says Bob Beck, president of Elizabeth Stewart.

Customers for both bikinis and scandal suits are mostly teenagers and young matrons, or older ones "who think they have good figures."

So where do we go from here?

"I'm waiting," said one male beach-goer, "for the girls to just buy a can of paint and spray it one."

Wants Court Rule Woman Legally Wed

By PATRICIA CLOUGH

BONN (Reuters) — A Nuernberg woman has asked the West German Supreme Court to rule that she was legally wed to a man she married when he was officially dead—so that she can divorce him.

The case, unique in German legal history, goes back to a wartime decree by Hitler permitting girls to marry fiances killed in the Second World War, providing they could prove that they had been engaged.

The law gave legitimacy and inheritance rights to children born to such couples.

The Nuernberg woman, whose name has not been officially disclosed, after hearing officially of the death of her fiance in 1940, went through a Hitler-type marriage with him thinking that she was already a widow.

But, after the war, the bridegroom turned up. The couple set up a home, had a son and lived together happily for several years.

In 1963 the woman filed a divorce petition, on the grounds of repeated adultery. Her husband, a lawyer and senior government official, said: "You can't divorce me. We were never married."

Wanting to avoid the stigma of being declared an adulterer, he argued that the marriage was carried out without his knowledge or consent.

Therefore, despite the fact that he had lived as her husband, paid taxes and supported her for some 20 years, the marriage was technically invalid, he argued.

After two long lawsuits the Bavarian High Court in Nuernberg agreed. It told the woman that not only was she never married but that her teen-age son was illegitimate.

With this ruling the woman loses her inheritance right and her claim to a widow's pension. She has appealed to the Supreme Court in Karlsruhe, but a decision is not expected for at least a year.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald N. Fox announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Marlene, to Mr. James Frederick Jarrell, son of Mrs. Jarrell and the late Mr. James Jarrell. The marriage will take place at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, at 11 a.m. on Saturday August 28.

Stewardesses Championed By Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen is reported to be taking a sympathetic view of complaints from airline stewardesses about the company rules that force them out of their jobs when they marry or reach the age of 32.

The bachelor minister, 44 last month, has written to Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines asking them for a complete statement of their policy in this regard.

He recently received protests from the Canadian Airline Flight Attendants' Association (CLC) over the situation. The association says the rules are rank discrimination, contrary to international labor accords.

Publicly - owned Air Canada five years ago began requiring that newly-hired stewardesses sign a form agreeing to leave the airline or take another job within it upon reaching the age of 32.

Most of the major American airlines allow stewardesses to continue in their jobs after marriage and have no set retirement rule.

The attendants' association has attempted in contract talks with Air Canada to have the rules dropped.

However, Air Canada said it would only discard one and asked the association to make a choice. The stewardesses held out unsuccessfully for withdrawal of both rules.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Breakfast of Champions—Phooey. That's milky kid stuff. The morning slobbies were just an early burp to some of the top boys in sport.

All athletes love to eat and some are noted for odd gustatory habits. Back in my Halifax cub reporter days I once saw Mike McTigue, later world middleweight champion gobble three huge raw steaks two hours before he entered the ring.

Local-wise when on a hockey safari years ago Vern Goyer after demolishing a big steak was asked what he wanted for dessert.

"Another steak like that one," said Big Jumbo.

Art Wright, one of the city's best pitchers, guzzled three helpings of fish and chips—and went out and tossed a two-hitter.

Former Cleveland hurler Early Wynn ate a double order of flapjacks with six eggs generously garnished with catsup. Clete Boyer of the Yankees, eats a huge meal chased with—"Ugh"—a honey and vinegar cocktail.

The oddest eater the Detroit Tigers every had was freckle-faced J. W. Porter, a catcher.

He'd walk into a diner after a night game and order a dozen eggs. Of course they never believed him—until he would finish them and then order "another dozen over light."

Steve Boros remembers rooming with Phil Regan and Cloude Osteen in a Caribbean league. Osteen did all the cooking from fried shrimp to chicken and steak. "He was such a good cook that I thought about marrying him," kidded Boros, "except that I didn't believe in long engagements."

Tiger players will speak in awe of the eating exhibition Bob Miller, the 180-pound lefthander put on in Atlanta when the club was coming north.

Miller put away a plate of antipasto, a whole roast chicken, spaghetti and meat balls, apple pie a-la-mode, cheese cake and two quarts of milk. For dessert he had a milkshake at the corner drug store.

One of the current biggest eaters is the Detroit Tiger Joe Sparma. They fear that some day he will have a weight problems. Jumbo Joe thinks nothing of having a side order of spaghetti at every meal, even when he's having spaghetti.

Johnny Groth used to order the same thing at every breakfast—bacon and eggs with grits. "You-all from the south?" asked a waitress.

"Ah suah am," quipped Johnny, "South Chicago."

Prince Hal Newhouser ate twelve steaks on a bet. Babe Ruth thought nothing of gobbling a dozen hot dogs and six bottles of pop before a game. Dizzy Trout ate 72 steamed clams without a bet.

A former hockey great of this city long since dead used to breakfast on a huge cocktail. Four raw eggs immersed in vinegar.

A friend of mine down Halifax way used to eat strips of raw steak before a big hockey game. He "chased" them with a half goblet of olive oil. "Why the oil?" I once asked him.

Said he, "I always throw up before a game. The oil is for lubricating purposes."

Speaking of breakfasts old Boots Poffenberger of the Detroit Tigers tops them all... Boots would call room service and order the "breakfast of champions."

"The breakfast of champions, sir?"

Eastern Track And Field

Only One Mark Broken

KINGSTON (CP) — Jennie Wingerson of Toronto Tiger-ttes won the senior women's nd Bill Greenough of St. Lam-ert, Que., the senior men's hampionship at the Eastern anada track and field meet ere this weekend.

Roberta Picco of Toronto was amed the meet's outstanding erformer for her surprise up-et victory in the women's 880 ards.

She defeated Canadian rec-rd holder Abigail Hoffman of oronto in 2.11.8. It was 2.1 sec-rds faster than her previous est and only 1.9 seconds off liss Hoffman's Canadian na-ve record of 2:09.9.

Setting a fast early pace, liss Picco led from start to fin-h leaving Miss Hoffman well ehind at 2.20.6. Cecelia Carter Hamilton, Friday's 440-yard inner, was further back at 23.4.

Greenough won the long jump ith 22 feet, 7½ inches and the gh jump with 6 feet even. oth events were held Friday.

CLIPSES MARK

Miss Wingerson won the omen's long jump with 18 feet, ven inches, eclipsing by 3½ ches her previous best with hich she won the Canadian ampionship at St. Lambert in ne. She clocked 24.4 second win the 220, tossed the shot 41 feet 7 inches for her third first place.

She took second in the discus and the 80-metre hurdles and third in the 100-yard sprint.

Cathy Chapman, 17, of Toronto upset Miss Wingerson in the 80-metre hurdles by an eyelash. Both were timed in 11.0 seconds, about 1-10 of a second faster than Miss Chapman had ever run before.

Except for Miss Picco's 880 performance, no Canadian records were threatened.

Dave Bailey of Toronto clocked 152.4 in winning the 880, chopping 6-10 of a second off his personal best and bettering Bill Crothers' winning time of 154.4 at St. Lambert. Keith Ranney of Guelph was one full second behind Bailey to take second and Mike McCann of Hamilton was third in 1:54.5.

Gray Tucker, 18, Canadian junior record holder at 1:51.7 and a pre-race favorite, has been plagued by a stomach disorder and finished last in the nine-man field.

Twins Up Lead; Dodger Margin Cut

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

A dip here and a wiggle there and everybody starts pointing gingers. It's getting so that an innocent little baseball can't have any fun anymore.

In San Francisco Giant's 4-2 National League loss to Milwaukee Braves Monday night, for example, a Gaylord Perry pitch dipped under Ken Johnson's bat and Braves' manager Bobby Bragan, who's becoming an expert on the subject, screamed spitter.

Detroit Tiger's Denny McLain didn't believe team-mates Dave Wickersham and Hank Aguiree who complained after Sunday's American League doubleheader in Chicago that the balls were cold and heavy. Then McLain pitched Monday night in a 2-0 White Sox victory and announced solemly afterwards, "the balls were cold and heavy."

Bragan accused Perry of throwing a super-spitter. Perry denied the charge.

Johnson, who pitched a six-hitter for his 12th victory and was at bat when White picked up the ball, was convinced that Perry was using a super-illegal pitch.

"It wasn't just spit," said Johnson. "It might have gotten on the ball from the ground or chalk line but it was on the ball and it was more than just saliva."

Pinch-hitter Jesse Gonder delivered a bases-loaded double, driving in three runs as Milwaukee scored all its runs in the fourth inning. Willie Mays hit his 25th home run for the Giants.

American League president Joe Cronin dispatched his umpire-in-chief, Cal Hubbard, on an inspection tour to determine at what temperatures baseballs were being stored following complaints from several Tiger players that the White Sox were providing frozen baseballs in Sunday's doubleheader.

Umpire Ed Hurley admitted the baseballs were cold but said they might have been stored near an air conditioner.

Pete Ward's two-run single in the first inning produced both Chicago runs against McLain and Hoyt Wilhelm protected the victory for Gary Peters with two innings of airtight relief.

Minnesota lengthened its American League lead to six games with a 6-5 victory over Baltimore on Jimmie Hall's pinch homer in the ninth.

It was a costly victory though. Twins' slugger Harmon Killebrew suffered a dislocated left elbow in a baseline collision and will be sidelined at least for 10 days.

Relief pitcher Don Dennis worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the ninth as St. Louis Cardinals edged Los Angeles 6-5. The defeat trimmed the Dodgers' National League lead to one game over idle Cincinnati. Ted Savage's seventh-inning double triggered the Cardinals' winning rally.

In the National League Sunday, the Giants dropped a pair to the Braves 4-2 and 6-3 while the Dodgers edged the Cards 3-2 and Cincinnati Reds split with Houston Astros, winning 6-4 and losing 7-6. In other games Sunday, Philadelphia Phillies won 3-2 from New York Mets and Pittsburgh Pirates beat Chicago Cubs 8-2 and 3-1.

In the American League, the White Sox and the Tigers split, the Sox winning 1-0 before losing 2-1, Baltimore got by Minnesota 7-6, Los Angeles Angels edged Boston Red Sox 5-4, Washington Senators defeated Kansas City Athletics 3-2 before losing by the same score and New York Yankees blasted Cleveland Indians 10-6 before dropping a 4-1 nightcap.

Driving Club Meet

Set Daily Double Mark

The tightest racing of the season and record daily double featured the Quinte Driving and Riding Club meet Saturday.

Ben Etawa and Miss Cheer Grattan combined in the second and third heats to pay a daily double of $334.60. The Etawa horse paid the top won price of $50.30.

Photo finish cameras decided the issue in five of the nine heats, all five horses being in the picture in the eighth.

George Dolley drove Lint to victory in the featured fifth and nineth heats throwing back the challenge of Direct Dillard and Leo Duff. Lint paid $3.70 and $3.60.

Ken Weeks had a double winner with Ben Etawa taking the second and sixth while W. DeMille piloted Little Miss Grattan home in the third and seventh heats.

Mr. Spudkey was the camera winner in the eighth with the entire field coming under the wire in closely-bunched formation.

Mr. Spudkey barely missed a double win being beaten at the wire by a whisker in the fourth race by Little Joe Grattan. This, too was a photo finish. He paid $10.90.

The quinellas hit a new low paying $5.40 and $6.00.

Crowd attendance held close to the seasonal normal, 789 paying admission and pushing $10.938 through the pari-mutuel windows.

Nicklaus Takes Thunderbird

The mighty belter from Ohio edged South Africa's Gary Player in their down-to-the-wire duel Sunday for $20,000 top money in the Thunderbird Golf Classic, clinching the victory with a pair of precise shots that led to birdies on the final two holes.

Nicklaus fired his fourth successive sub-70 round—a four-under-par 68—over the Westchester Country Club's compact west course. That, along with earlier rounds of 67, 66 and 69, gave him a 72-hole total of 270 and a two-stroke margin over Player, who posted a 71.

Tied with his rival at 16-under-par going into the last two holes, Nicklaus began his climactic windup. He drove 275 yards on the 17th deftly pitched 70 yards to the green then calmly smacked in a 25-foot birdie putt.

Nicklaus' second shot on the 518-yard 18th, a four-iron, landed in a trap to the right, 40 yards from the pin.

PRESSURE ON

In the sand, with the pressure full on, Nicklaus crisply blasted to within four feet of the cup—for the shot that iced it—and holed out for another birdie.

Player started the day one stroke ahead of Nicklaus but the lead shifted back and forth and there were several ties heading into the stretch.

Nicklaus, who repeatedly drove the greens with his explosive tee shots and whipped his long irons for phenomenal yardage, boosted his leading money-winning total for the year to $89,700. He has been in the first five in 12 of his 15 tourneys this year.

Player earned $12,000 for second, while Gardner Dickinson, who zoomed into third at 275 with a 67 over the 6,573-yard layout, won $6,000. Next came Bobby Nichols with a 68 for 276.

Billy Casper soared to a 74 after being in prime contention and finished at 277. Arnold Palmer improved to a 69, tying for 11th at 280, and Tony Lema, who won $20,000 as Thunderbird champion last year, managed a $511 paycheck with a 285.

The nosedive of the tournament was taken by Pat Schwab, the pudgy club pro from West Orange, N.J., who was the first-round leader with a 66. He blew to a last-round 81 and received $25 for a 288 finish.

Lightfoots Defeat Warners

Lightfoot Construction climbed into second place at the expense of Stewart Warner in the Commercial Softball League with a 4-1 victory last night. The win put Lightfoots two points ahead of Stewart Warner and the RCAF Cosmos.

The winners potted two runs in the first frame and added one in the third and fourth to gain the victory. Warners collected their single tally in the sixth.

Don Smith hurled a four-hitter on the Lightfoot mound. He struck out two and walked four, and was aided by errorless team support.

Joe Clapp led the construction-men with a double and two singles. Don Smith slammed a homer in the two-run first inning, and Ken Brooks had a two-bagger. With base hits were Don Dolan, Jack Gilbey and Rusty Garvin.

All of Warner's hits were singles, and Rod Turner stroked two of them. Len Masters and Harry Powers added one each.

Read Wins Over Planes

Ted Abrams pitched Read to a 3-0 win over Planes Concrete last night in a South Hastings Baseball contest. Abrams allowed the losers only three hits in a game shortened to five innings because of rain.

Bradshaw was the loser, allowing five singles while whiffing three and walking one.

Abrams also led the team in the hitting department with a pair of singles. Carmen Milligan, Frank Farrell and Leo Enright slammed singletons.

Pointers Thump Ter-Haars

Point Anne tallied for a total of 11 runs in the first three innings and coasted the rest of the way to chalk up the win.

D. Maher, Summers and Rosebush stroked two safeties each, while Whalen, E. Maher and Fraser each hit one for the winners.

For Ter Haar's, Glancey and Kyan contributed two base hits, and Duggan, Donaldson and Pringle had one each.

Cornwall's Dean Top Festival Pro

Shoots Record 31

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Bob Dean, a freckled round-faced pro out of Cornwall threw back the challenge of 51 top Ontario professionals here Monday.

Dean carded a spectacular first-nine 31 to win the Bay of Quinte Country Club's second annual Festival of Golf pro title with a three-under par 68.

Dean edged the favorite Moe Norman of Golf Haven by a stroke. Murray Tucker of Toronto, Gord. DeLaat of Weston and Bob Young finished in a tie for third with 72's.

THAT BACK NINE

Dean's sensational first-nine 31 set an alltime course record. He had five pars and four birdies but the stiff challenge of the "back nine" held him to a 37.

The rain-splattered course held to its reputation of being "deceivingly tough." The back nine was no respecter of golfers. Time and again it tossed back the challenge of pro and amateur alike. As one pro put it, "It was just plain murder coming home."

It held the record field of 360 golfers to two under par scores, although not a few parred the first nine.

Top flight pros like Leon DeCaire, Oakdale; Doug Bruton, Toronto; Gus Maue, Bolton; John Davis, Burlington, and Alvie Thompson of Whitevale had to be satisfied with two-over par 73's.

George Balazs, the club pro, shot a 37 going out and came up with a creditable 76.

The weather man was in a fickle mood. He drenched the course with early Saturday sunshine, changed his mind and soaked the greens and fairways with sporadic showers over the rest of the three-day festival.

At that several records went into the club's archives. The largest gallery ever to attend a golf tournament was on hand on Monday. Cars lined the highway off the club two and three deep. It was estimated some 1,200 people watched the pros and amateurs play.

According to club veterans the scores were exceptionally good. But as was noted the back nine refused to "say uncle" and "murdered" the chances of both pro and amateur.

CLOSE SCORES

Close scores featured all four tournaments with champions being in doubt until the last score came in.

One of the better amateur scores turned in was the 73 gross carded by Wayne Barton of Islington who won the "B" Flight honors. Close behind was Bob Melbourne of Quinte. Bill Salter of Quinte took low net with a 66 with Hal Emerson a stroke behind.

Val Smith and Betty Ingram who repeated their 1965 victory in the "Mixed" were chased to the wire by Alex Ingram and Mildred Robinson four strokes behind. Mary and Al McCreary won the low net with a 71 with Laura and Charles Batt a stroke back.

It was nip and tuck again in "A" Flight with the record field of 61 top amateurs. Behind winner Bruce Brewer was L. Young, Glen Lawrence with 75; C. Charleton, Pine Valley 76; R. Acerna, Port Hope 78 and Quinte's Roger Ling beaten by the back nine with a 78.

B. Aylesworth of Glen Lawrence won low net with a 71 followed by B. Little, Uplands and Sonny MacDonald Quinte with a 71 and 72.

The Festival was exceptionally well - handled with credit due to the general chairman, George Balazs the club pro and the various committees. Dan Cowley, Bill Gregory, Val Smith, Joe Valchar, Ane Tobe, Doug Bennett, Bob Strahan, Bob Melbourne, Jim Little and others did a splendid job.

Socially the Festival was a success. The Saturday night dance was well attended with Frank Howard's combo providing the rhythms. Mr. Dempsters entertainment was also outstanding.

President Everett Fairman and his committees, the course and club hospitality evoked laudatory comment from many out-of-town golfers and visitors.

The prizes were excellent and expensive. The highlight of course was the presentation to the top ten pros with their cheques by president Fairman.

Among the busiest people of the three-day festival were the club stewards Mr. and Mrs. Lon Caul and an augmented staff. They catered to the inner wants of hundreds of golfers and guests and received many well-deserved compliments.

The course-clubhouse communications were excellently handled by Captain J. A. Allan and staff of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's signal platoon.

Committee: Doug Bennett, Bob Strahan, Ned Melbourne.

Card's Manager Given Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals rehired Red Schoendienst as manager of the baseball club Monday, ending rumors that he would be replaced.

Schoendienst, who had been working under a one-year contract, was given another one-year pact at a salary estimated at $30,000, the same as the 42-year-old manager is thought to be receiving this year.

Other Teams Lose, Split

EOBA Bantams Win Pair

In the E.O.B.A. playdowns, only one Belleville team emerged from the weekend action undefeated, the Richard Ellis Bantams. The Belleville Midgets dropped their second in as many games to Kingston, while the Booth T.V. Tykes and Peewee Merchants split their series with Kingston teams at one victory each.

Ted Shaw's pitching performance over the weekend was the key to the Bantam's success. In the two games, won by Belleville 10-0 and 15-0, Shaw allowed no runs while giving up a scant four hits, walking seven and striking out 34. Ron Jury caught both games.

On Saturday, at Park Dale, Steve Moore led the winners with two singles and a triple. Ron Jury slammed a homer and safety, and Barry Burnette hit a triple and base-hit. Joe Lumsdon slammed a homer.

In the return match at Kingston on Monday, Mike Healey smashed a brace of doubles, and Ted Shaw hit a round-tripper to lead Belleville to its 15-0 win.

Belleville Midgets face elimination as a result of their 11-5 defeat. They trail in the best-of-five series 2-0. The third game is in Kingston tonight.

10 walks and many wild pitches and passed balls by Belleville provided Kingston with an easy victory, in spite of getting only six hits.

Kingston's pitchers gave up seven hits but their control was much better.

Rodger Hunter's double and single were tops for Belleville. Paul Goodfellow stroked a pair of singles, and Dale Duvall and Jim Parks added doubles.

In the Leaside tournament on Saturday, Belleville was whipped 11-3 by a superior Niagara Falls team. Belleville managed only three hits off Niagara Falls pitching.

Belleville Peewee Merchants dropped a Saturday contest 5-3 to Kingston in a game played at Park Dale, but caem back to nab a 6-5 win yesterday to tie the series.

In the Park Dale contest the game was deadlocked at the end of the regulation seven innings but Kingston won it with two in the eighth.

Yesterday, at Kingston, Glen Carleton and Rick Meagher shared the spotlight. Carleton pitched scoreless ball in relief and Meagher drove in the tying run to bring Belleville to life.

Carleton, Barry Culkin and Terry Meagher led Belleville with two singles each. Barry Brooks had two safeties for Kingston.

In the first Tyke contest at Park Dale, Kingston tallied a run in the seventh inning to squeeze out a 7-6 win.

Kingston's pitcher's gave up six hits to gain the victory.

Ron McTaggart pitched the victory. He gave up only five hits and had errorless team support.

Royal Henley

St. Kitts Wins Trophy

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—St. Catharines Rowing Club rallied for three victories and four second-place finishes at the 83rd annual Royal Canadian Henley Regatta to capture the Maple Leaf Trophy for the fifth consecutive year.

St. Catharines crews scored victories in the senior 135-pound eights, the senior 145-pound cox fours and the senior 145-pound fours and placed second in three eight-man events and the senior 135-pound fours, in the Henley, which ended Saturday.

Detroit Boat Club and Toronto Argonauts placed second and third respectively in over-all standings.

Detroit pulled into second place with four victories for 232½ total points, 22½ behind St. Catharines.

SCORES UPSET

In the championship singles event, Bill Maher, a 19-year-old Detroit sculler, scored the major upset of the day defeating association singles winner Dave Robinson of the Philadelphia Fairmont Rowing Association by 1½ lengths.

Robinson, defending United States singles champion, had beaten Maher in the association singles Friday by less than a length.

Detroit also picked up firsts in the senior 145- and 165-pound eights as well as the senior 145-pound doubles.

Jamieson Wins Kawartha

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Bobby Jamieson of Peterborough captured the Kawartha Invitation golf tournament here Monday with a 54-hole score of 220.

He finished one stroke ahead of Bob Bradley of Oshawa. Tied for third spot were Bruce Jardine of Waterloo, Jim Neale of Richview and Tommy Woodall of Toronto. All had scores of 223.

Jamieson was two strokes behind the leaders as he started Monday's play and shot a one-under par 70 to win the three-day tournament for the second time in four years.

Track Team Crushed

Americans Blame Russ 'Tactics'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Was the United States track and field effort sabotaged by subtle delaying and harassing tactics on the part of the Russians before the jolting American defeat last weekend in Kiev?

One of the team managers, Pete Bowen of Lyndon, Ky., made the charge Monday as the 70-member U.S. squad stopped in Moscow en route to a meet next Saturday and Sunday with Poland.

"I suspected it when we first arrived here and now I am convinced of it," the former Pittsburgh and New York Athletic Club quarter-miler said.

"The convincer was our return trip from Kiev to Moscow. When we arrived in Moscow Tuesday—the team tired and without sleep—everything possible was done to nettle them and fray their nerves.

"It's odd to me that going from Moscow to Kiev it took us nearly two hours by air, another 1½ hours to get to our hotel in the middle of the night and, coming back, it was 40 minutes to the Kiev airport and one hour by plane to Moscow."

SEES NO REASON

But, veteran coach Brutus Hamilton sees no reason for Americans to press the panic button because their track and field team finally was whipped by the Russians.

"Why should we start talking about changing methods and procedures and overhauling our way of doing things?" the University of California coach who headed the U.S. team said Monday.

"The only reason we scheduled the Russians in the first place is that we regarded them as a worthy opponent a strong team capable of beating us."

The Russians scored a sweep, winning both the men's and women's competition for the first time since the series was started in 1958. It marked the first time American men track and field stars had ever lost a meet of this kind.

Scoring upsets in such American specialties as the pole vault and sprint relay and winning the 5,000- and 10,000-metre runs, in which the United States had Olympic champions, the Soviet team beat out the U.S. men 118-112 and won for the seventh time from the women, as expected, 65½-45½.

WYOMIA FAST

Wyomia Tyus of Griffin, Ga., established herself as the fastest woman runner in the world by winning the 100 metres in world record-tying time of 11.1 seconds, coming from far behind to spearhead a victory in the 400-metre relay and then finishing second Sunday in the 200 metres behind Edith McGuire.

The U.S. 10,000 metre champion, Billy Mills, caught a bad cold and could not run. Bob Schul, 5,000-metre champ, lost to Russia's Pyotr Bolotnikov. Gerry Lindgren, 19, was just a shadow of himself in the 10,000.

Ollan Gassell of Nutley, N.J., emerged as a giant by winning the 400 metres and then stealing the 1,600-metre relay out from under the noses of the Russians with a come-from-behind anchor leg. Big Randy Matson of Pampa, Tex., awed the Russians with a 66 foot, 6½ inch shot put; six-foot-seven Dave Weill captured the discus with 192 feet, five inches and Jim Grelle, who won the 1,500 metre run in the first meet in 1958, did it again with a meet record of 3:39.2.

Duggan Wins At Timmins

TIMMINS (CP)—Ken Duggan of Toronto Sunday won the Northern Ontario Professional Golf Association title at the Timmins Golf Club with a 36 hole total of 139.

His final 18 holes were played in driving rain but he finished with a two under par 68 and had the only sub-par card in the two day tournament.

Finishing in second place was Murray Tucker of Toronto with 144. Thel Scheifele of Sault Ste. Marie was third with 145, followed by Wilson Patterson of the Thunderbird Golf Club with a 146 Sunday.

Duggan received $250 as the winner while Scheifele pocketed $300, half as the top northern pro and the other half for his third place finish in the open event.

Football Television

Problems Block Settlement

TORONTO (CP) — Two obstacles are blocking settlement of the wrangle over televising of Canadian pro football games this season, says John Burke-Gaffney.

Mr. Burke-Gaffney, director of public relations and advertising for John Labatt Ltd., says the brewery has been negotiating directly with the networks in the last week to get the games on the air.

The obstacles are the desire of the two networks—CBC and the privately-owned CTV — to televise both Eastern and Western conference games of the Canadian Football League, and finding a second sponsor.

Mr. Burke-Gaffney and other officials of Labatt's, which acquired an option on the rights to 1965 Eastern games, met here Friday with top representatives of both networks without reaching a settlement.

"However, we found the door wasn't closed," Mr. Burke-Gaffney said Sunday. "Where there was a complete deadlock a week ago, there is none now."

"During the next few days, the networks have to reconcile their national obligations with the alternatives that are available to them," he said. He said network officials will meet here Wednesday with Bouchard, Champagne and Pellelier Ltd., the Montreal advertising agency which relinquished its 1965 EFC and Grey Cup game rights to Labatt's for $400,000. The amount, $300,000 less than what they paid for them, is redeemable only if Labatt's can exercise the rights and get the games televised. One advertiser cannot sponsor full games throughout the season because they would exceed the total number of commercial minutes alloted them by regulation.

Labatt's haven't been invited to attend Wednesday's meeting.

"Now that the networks know the extent to which we are willing to go, it's their responsibility to sort out the other elements," Mr. Burke-Gaffney said.

"We have little doubt that a second sponsor will be forthcoming. Certainly such a sponsor will find the package more attractive now than when it originally appeared," he said.

Labatt's has offered to sponsor all of the games at the start of the season to give a second sponsor time to prepare their schedules.

The impasse over football telecasts developed when the Bouchard agency announced it was unable to guarantee both sponsors and financing for program changes estimated at some $1,500,000.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—even cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Bilko's Famous Patsy Unique Star Himself

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Paul Ford, the screen's master of perplexity, is a unique star.

He's also one of the few who thinks a hit play on Broadway is the easiest job of all.

"I didn't become an actor until I was past 40," says Sgt. Bilko's most famous patsy. "But when I got into the business, it was because I liked the hours.

"You show up at the theatre at 8 p.m. and you're through by 11. It's not even bad on Wednesdays with the matinees.

"People are always asking me: 'How can you stand saying the same words night after night?'

"I just tell them that it's easy once you get a play under your belt. It's like stealing the money."

But television is something different.

"Last year when I did The Baileys of Balboa, I never worked so hard in my life. I' was 6 a.m. until 8 p.m. every day.

DOING MOVIE

Paul and Maureen O'Sullivan did 18 months on Broadway in Never Too Late and the two are repeating the roles for the movie version—one of the few times an original Broadway cast gets that chance.

Ford has had a life that not even a movie scriptwriter could cook up. He was a failure in everything he tried—except fatherhood—until age 40.

With five children to feed, Ford turned actor for $3 a week in a Long Island summer playhour.

"I told my wife not to get discouraged at my low salary—some day I might earn as much as $100 a week acting. She shook her head and looked at me as if I had blown my top."

That decision touched off an amazing theatrical career, in which Ford usually played the rich boss.

"My age was one advantage," he recalls. "No one ever believed that a guy 40 was just starting out. My potbelly helped too. Producers all feel that the role of authority calls for this special physical attribute."

His job as Bilko's colonel—the role that made him famous—he considers all part of his casting.

"I was just Bilko's boss in uniform."

DENOUNCE NEW LIGHTS

LONDON (CP) — Antique dealers in Camden Passage in the north London district of Islington are up in arms about the electric street lights installed in place of the old gas lamps. The street's 30 shopkeepers say they destroy the character the old lamps gave the narrow road.

Two Stratford Directors Little Disturbed by Storm They Raised Among Critics

Julius Caesar and Mahagonny shook up the critics at Stratford, Ont., this season, but not the producers. William Glover, New York-based drama writer for The Associated Press, interviewed Douglas Campbell and Jean Gascon and found them both indivdualists, and rugged.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP)—Aside from that rare theatrical ecstasy—a set of unanimous raves—there's nothing like brisk dispute over artistic merit to stir the interest of show fans.

Two specimens of such provocative entertainment are prominent this summer in Stratford's 13th annual festival.

The other is North America's first production of the Kurt Weill - Bertolt Brecht Musical Mahagonny, staged by Jean Gascon, a brawny French-Canadian.

Both roused press reviewers to extremes of jubilant and irate comment. Being parables of basic human flaws, their relevancy to present-day existence is made unmistakably clear. The emphasis augments audience involvement—and argument—far into the night.

"I don't mind part of any audience being against a production," Gascon says, expressing his working philosophy, "as long as they know something is happening up there to stir them up—and that's what occurs with this Mahagonny."

SHUNS TRICKERY

"I didn't try to stand Caesar on end with all kinds of theatrical trickery, which I well know, just to get attention," he asserts. "Instead I emphasized the human relationships in order to increase the sense of spectator participation."

In view of the sharply divided journalistic verdict, it isn't surprising that the two directors, interviewed separately, express small regard for the value of such guidance.

Says Campbell, whose work was the more strenuously cudgelled:

"Many of the attacks seem to have been by writers who have just seen too much Shakespeare and just want to go home to bed.

"The critical tendency is to be smart, because that's why people read them. Much of the writing is forced by circumstances, so I pay little attention. One's tolerance grows as one grows older."

"I used to pay a lot of attention to them because I thought I might learn something. But I now feel that they contradict each other on practically everything and cancel out. It doesn't make sense to pay attention."

SUCCEEDS GUTHRIE

Campbell, a veteran of 11 seasons of Stratford dramatics, is artistic director in the Shakespeare theatre this season while Michael Langham is on sabbatical. Come autumn, Campbell takes over as boss of the Minnesota Repertory Company in Minneapolis from Sir Tyrone Guthrie.

"I try for the moment not to think about it all," he says. "I agreed to pinch hit for Langham several years ago and that accounts for how I'm more or less in two places temporarily.

"How do I manage? Well, I happen to be endowed with a lot of energy and you don't find many people like that around. I'm not boasting—it's a matter of fact."

Precisely what program he intends for Minneapolis won't be decided until he completes the Stratford season—which besides Caesar includes overseeing the two parts of Henry IV and performing in Chekhov's The Cherry Orchard.

He intends, however, to create in Minneapolis "an atmosphere where ordinary people can be a part of the audience without a feeling of social barrier."

LOT OF TALKING

"I feel such an attitude is needed for such a theatre, compared to such a place as Stratford, where the mood is festival and people visit from many areas. In a big city there is greater tendency for a theatre venture to be linked to high society."

To increase and broaden the audience in Minneapolis, Campbell plans to do a lot of speaking before trade and civic groups.

As for Broadway, which he has visited several times as a player and director, "the performer has a tendency to vacillate. There have been bids in waves for my services.

"It is a waste of an actor's life to stay in something there for two years. In a theatre like Stratford or Minneapolis you are serving art and the community a bit more.

"In New York, you're there to make a lot of money and people are out to make a lot of money out of you. There is little talk of art."

Gascon, in his second season as director of musical productions at the festival's Avon Theatre, regards his job as an opportunity for "development of a marvellous, experimental theatrical centre."

STRESS ON ACTING

In the Shakespeare playhouse, much larger than the Avon, Gascon concedes there is a need for greater adherence to theatrical custom.

"The Avon should be a very exciting place—the place of creation. We can't afford to have the big prima donnas here, so acting should be the mark of this opera house."

Trying offbeat shows has been Gascon's abiding enthusiasm since he launched Montreal's Theatre du Noveau Monde in 1951, but there commercial reality has been a rein on experimentation.

Besides Mahagonny, Stratford's singers are appearing in Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro, which Gascon first staged last season. Reaching all the way to the other end of the spectrum for Mahagonny, a savage, modern satire about greed, seemed the reasonable thing to do.

"I wanted," says Gascon, "to avoid getting a stamp of too much 18th century on what we are doing."

Women's Golf

Harvey, Post Champions

KITCHENER (CP) — Gail Harvey locked up the Canadian Women's Close golf championship a day early, but you wouldn't have known it during the final round of the 54-hole event Saturday.

Miss Harvey carried an eight-stroke margin into the final day of play, shot a four-over-par 79 and finished with a total of 228 to capture her second consecutive close title.

Yet, she was worried over the final 18 holes even though everyone else had conceded the crown to the 22-year-old brunette who starts teaching high school physical education in Toronto in September.

"I was watching the scores of the other players on the boards they carry around the course," Miss Harvey said afterwards.

She felt her play didn't warrant a 79 score, said her driving wasn't as good as she wanted it, but was happy with her finish.

She didn't have to worry. She ended up nine strokes ahead of runner-up Mary Gay of Kitchener, who shot an 80 Saturday for a total of 237.

The Canadian junior women's title went to Sandra Post of Milton, Ont., who finished with a 54-hole total of 238. Second was Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops, B.C., with 242 while Helene Gagnon of Arvida, Que., was third with 247.

The Batting Order!

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland Indian fans have good reason to be whooping it up for Rocky Colavito. The veteran outfielder has moved into a tie for the American League home run lead while taking over first place in the runs batted in competition.

Colavito, re-acquired by the Indians last Jan. 20 in a three-way trade with Kansas City and Chicago White Sox, drove in six runs last week. This gave him 71 for the season and enabled him to move past Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota and Willie Horton of Detroit.

The three sluggers are deadlocked for the home run lead with 22. Horton, the undisputed pace-setter a week ago, failed to connect in last week's action. Killebrew slammed a pair while Colavito hit one.

Colavito never has led the American League in RBI although he has driven in 100 or more runs five times during nine-year big league career. The Indians' star deadlocked Killebrew for the home run title with 42 in 1959.

Yastrzemski leads the American League by 28 points while Clemente is 17 points ahead in the National. Yastrzemski slumped three points to .338 last week, collecting nine hits in 29 tries.

Felix Mantilla, also of Boston, held second place in the American League despite a five point drop to .310. He had seven safeties in 27 times at bat. Minnesota's Tony Oliva, the 1964 titleholder, moved into a third place tie with Vic Davalillo of Cleveland at .303. Oliva collected 10 hits in 25 at bats and climbed five points. Davalillo lost one point.

Clemente's average remained at .341. He had 10 hits in 29 trips. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee remained in the runner-up position at .324. He is followed by Donn Clendenon of Pittsburgh, with .319, and Willie Mays of San Francisco, .316. The figures do not include Monday's games.

Johnny Callison of Philadelphia tied Mays for the National home run lead. Each has 24. Callison hit two homers and Mays one last week.

Eight Rookies

Riders Loom On Offence

By BILL NEVILLE

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders, who figured to be the stand-pat club of the Eastern Football Conference, head into the 1965 season with coach Frank Clair worried primarily about inexperience.

Clair, who thought before training camp opened that he would have only two or three new faces this year, will take his team to Toronto for Friday night's EFC opener with eight rookies in the lineup.

"That has to be our biggest worry," said Clair in an interview Monday. "We think very highly of these new boys but it takes a while to learn and they may cause us some problems in crucial situations."

The lineup changes, a result of what Clair considers the best winter recruiting of his 15 coaching seasons in Canada, have not shaken the veteran coach's optimism over the Riders' chances in 1965.

"I said before that if we can keep free of injuries we have a good chance to finish first," he said. "I still feel that way."

"But Hamilton is still No. 1," said Clair. "They're the champions and they still have a lot of very good kids."

The Riders again loom as a powerful offensive threat with even more versatility than last season. The question mark remains on defence, particularly along the line.

Three established Canadian stars—quarterback Russ Jackson, halfback Ron Stewart and flanker Whit Tucker—remain in the offensive backfield. To them Clair has added two new imports, both of whom represent a bit of a gamble.

The most exciting new Rider so far is Bo Scott, a 205-pound Ohio State grad who Clair says is "a bit green but with really great potential." The 21-year-old back was the talk of Ottawa's four pre-season games—two wins and two losses—with his breakaway speed and running power.

The other new face is Jim Dillard, a 215-pound halfback-fullback acquired from Calgary in a trade for all-star tackle Roger Kramer. Although he sat out most of 1964 with a leg injury, Dillard is rated so highly by Clair that he dropped veteran fullback Dave Thelen after seven fine seasons here.

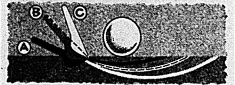
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

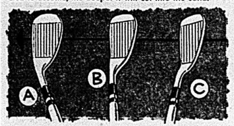
POSITION OF HANDS REGULATES DEPTH OF DIVOT

The illustrations in today's lesson demonstrate a valuable lesson for playing out of sand traps.

First, let me point out that the deeper your ball rests in the sand, the deeper your club must cut into the bunker.



Second, let me add that the less loft you allow your club to assume, the deeper it will cut into the sand.



Combining these two points, we can logically conclude that less loft is best for buried lies; additional loft is best when the ball is sitting up in the sand.

The amount of loft your club assumes is determined by the position of your hands. If you wish a club to assume more loft than normal, you address the shot with your hands behind the ball. If you wish less loft, merely position your hands farther forward, well ahead of the ball.

To help you remember the proper hand position for various sand shots, I suggest you memorize the word HABS (Hands Ahead on Buried Shots). 8-3

Sue Hilton Leads Open Pack

KITCHENER (CP)—Sue Hilton, a 21-year-old student from London, Ont., had a red-hot round in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying test for the Canadian Women's Open golf championship Monday.

Miss Hilton shot a one-under par 74 at the Westmount Golf and Country Club in spite of heavy rains which hindered the field of 128, including seven from the United States.

The second 18 holes of the qualifying test were to be played today with the low 32 going into match play in the championship flight. The rest of the field will compete in consolation rounds.

Mrs. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, wife of the touring pro, shot an 81 and tied with Helen Reynolds of Manchester, Conn., to lead the U.S. players.

Two other British Columbia girls, Barbara Renwick of Vancouver and Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops were in contention. Miss Renwick shot an 82 and Miss Palmer an 83. Rae Milligan of Calgary and Gail Harvey of Toronto had 82. Mary Gay of Kitchener and Key Helleur of Toronto 83 each and Betty Stanhope Cole of Toronto an 85.

MANY ARE YOUNG

In some underdeveloped countries with high birth and death rates, half the population is aged under 25.

Clark World Champ

ADENAU, Germany (AP)—Jim Clark of Scotland, winner of the Indianapolis 500 last spring, has clinched the world automobile race driving championship by winning the Grand Prix of Germany in record time.

The championship season consists of 10 events but a driver may count only his best six results in point scoring for the championship. Clark missed the Monaco Grand Prix this year in order to drive at Indianapolis, but he won every title race he entered. It was his second world title, the first coming in 1963.

Clark set a course record when he completed the first lap in 8:36.1, and he bettered this several times during the 15-lap race as he led from start to finish.

Clark was timed in two hours, seven minutes, 52 seconds for an average of 99.79 miles an hour.

Graham Hill of England, a former world champion, finished second in 2:08:08 for an average of 99.6 miles an hour. Dan Gurney of Riverside, Calif. was third in 2:08.13.

SHOWS AIR RECORD

OSHAWA (CP) — People ask Jan Falkowski why his small private aircraft has "10½" painted on the nose. That is his war record, shooting down 10 German aircraft and having a hand in an eleventh. Holder of the Virtuti Militari, Poland's highest decoration, Falkowski was a squadron commander with the RAF.

Swimming Championship

Canadian Team Named

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Seven newcomers and 13 veterans are included on the swimming team representing Canada on a three-week European tour and at the British championships later this month.

The team—10 men and 10 women—was named by a selection committee after the 1965 Canadian swimming and diving championships ended here Saturday.

Eight individual open and native records and five relay standards were cracked during the week-long meet.

Divers Cathy McDonald of Saskatoon, Terry Fitzpatrick of Vancouver and Judy Stewart, Beverly Boys and John Eisel, all of Toronto, will make the European trip.

Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Dan Sherry of Hamilton led the men's selections for the international swimming team.

Others on the men's team are Ron Jacks and Don Dunfee of Vancouver; Jim Shaw and Gaye Stratten of Toronto; Marvin Chase and Tommy Arusoo of Montreal; and Ralph Hutton and Jack Kelso of Ocean Falls.

ANCHORS TEAM

Gilchrist anchored the Ocean Falls team which set a men's open 400-metre freestyle relay record as the championships drew to a close. Kelso and Hutton also were members and Rudi Ingenhorst the fourth.

The team shaved four-tenths of a second from the former standard of 3:54.8 established by the same club last year.

The women's 400-metre freestyle relay mark also was shattered Saturday by the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club team which included Shirley Cazelet, a newcomer named to the women's swimming team.

Also on the women's teams are Marion Lay and Barbara Hounsell, Canadians who live at Covina, Calif., but are eligible to join the Canadian contingent.

Other members are: Jane Hughes and Elaine Tanner, Vancouver; Patty Thompson, Hamilton; Louise Kennedy, London, Ont.; Marjon Wilmink, New Westminster, B.C.; Joey Weir and Marianne Humenuik, Toronto.

FARMERS TAKE WING

WINKLER, Man. (CP)—Manitoba's newest airfield is Froebe Field, 13 miles south of here, the headquarters of Manitoba Flying Farmers. It takes its name from the farmer who founded the organization but was later killed while crop-spraying.

National Soccer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Ukraina moved within one point of first-place Toronto Hakoah with a 2-1 victory over Kitchener Kickers in weekend National Soccer League action.

The Ukes dominated play in the first half at Kitchener but had to settle for a one-goal half-time lead. Joe Rae scored at 12 minutes. The Toronto team missed a chance to score an insurance goal before half time when Jackie O'Neill shot wide from the penalty spot.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

FOR AUGUST 4

Aries (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19)—Encouragement due from friends, associates. Realize you receive what you earn. Means work is involved—but so is Reward. Be aware of possessions, financial position. Plan ahead!

Taurus (Apr. 20 - May 20)—Best to avoid completely materialistic view. Any alliance that involves schemes, secrets is apt to backfire. Know this—act accordingly. Public reaction to your efforts could hold pleasant surprise!

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)—Put forth extra effort for employment benefits. Day which features appreciation. Obtain hint from Taurus message. You are going places!

Cancer (June 21 - July 22)—Favorable time for outdoor trips, hobbies, sports activities. Be aggressive. Assert point of view. No day to hang back. You can move all the way to the front row.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22)—Be aware of what is happening at close quarters. People may seem to act in eccentric manner. Keep guard up! When one close to you expresses grievances, listen and offer encouragement.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)—No time to be afraid to request assistance. Be aware of changing condition. Means toss pride out of window. Check correspondence. Be aware of changing conditions. Highlight awareness, versatility.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)—Be willing to study all aspects of situation. Avoid trying to force issues. You gain most through diplomatic attitude. Realize family member is sincere.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)—Don't be sidetracked from goal. Know where you are going—get there. Put full force of personality behind convictions. Expect changes. Be ready for unusual reactions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21)—Avoid any action which does not meet your highest standards. Family members, others look to you as example. Keep promises made to associates. Follow golden rule.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)—Emphasize co-operative attitude. Day when you can make new friends. Shake off emotional lethargy. Come out of shell. Potential for happiness is great—give it a chance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)—Stress patience, goodwill. The more you rush—the more time you waste. Know this—act accordingly. Live up to responsibilities. You can now impress higher-up.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20)—Good lunar aspect encourages travel, higher education, gain through written word. Legal decisions tend to work in your favor. Finish projects. Help one who confides in you.

If Today is Your Birthday—you are steadfast, capable of overcoming tremendous odds to achieve your goal. Key to success is resourcefulness.

General Tendencies — Cycle high for Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn. Special work to Libra. If you are fair, result of current effort will be favorable. Live up to health resolutions.

were cheered when they offered their continued support to the Montrealers' but there also were shouted suggestions from the packed floor that the Toronto employees renew their walkout.

At one point Mr. Brown, a postman in suburban Scarborough and a member of the strike committee in Toronto, brought a two-minute roar from the hall by saying: "If one Montreal employee is fired because of this strike, the rest of the country goes out and stays out."

Is it that nagging backache again?

If it's backache that's bothering you, it could be due to urinary irritation and bladder discomfort. If so, Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring you relief. Dodd's Pills stimulate the kidneys to help relieve the condition causing the backache. Then you feel better and rest better. You can depend on Dodd's Kidney Pills. New large size saves money.

Town Council Is Facing Busy Session

PICTON — The regular meeting of Picton town council will be held tonight. A by-law in connection with annexation proceedings is expected to be among the items of business before council.

Another is filling the vacancy left by the resignation of fire chief Nelson Bell, which takes effect September 1. The fire committee has already advertised the position with applications to be in by this past Saturday.

Representatives from the Prince Edward District High School Board may also appear before council to review the still smouldering issue of high school bus contracts.

PUC Members Request New Treatment Plant

PICTON — One of this town's biggest growing pains is its increasing consumption of water. Having pushed its water facilities to the limit at times during the past two or three summers, the Public Utilities Commission is now preparing to launch a one - quarter million dollar program to expand its water treatment and storage facilities. At the regular meeting, held last week, PUC members discussed the project and decided to present the details to town council.

The bulk of the estimated $250,000 program is a second reservoir, this one to be covered and preferably located in the same vicinity as the present one on top of the hill near Camp Picton. Another pumping station is also part of the overall project. Complete details regarding the expansion program as prepared by a consultant engineering firm will be presented to town council tonight.

Conspiracy

places in the United States. It says the heroin was smuggled, concealed and transported "in accordance with the instructions of Lucien Rivard."

The first count of the indictment lists 54 overt acts involving meetings, hotel room rentals, shipment of automobiles, passport applications, trips by ship, and movement between countries, including the United States, Canada, Mexico and Holland.

Count two charges Chauvet, Mondoloni and Rivard "did unlawfully, fraudulently, and knowingly bring and cause to be brought into the United States about 76 pounds of heroin hydrochloride on or about Oct. 10, 1963."

SERVING 10 YEARS

Caron is serving a 10-year U.S. prison sentence for the 1963 offence. His wife, Ida Marie Caron, was with him but was not charged.

U.S. marshal M. M. Hale of Houston refused to say where Rivard will be held until his early September trial.

Rivard was held in a cell in the U.S. marshal's office after the hearing Monday.

Bail for Rivard originally was set at $150,000 but was raised to $500,000 by Judge Connally when Rivard was extradited from Canada.

A Montreal newspaper had reported Friday plans were under way to post the bail money Monday, but officials here said they were unaware of any such action.

The hearing required only 18 minutes, most of it consumed by reading of the indictment.

Rivard stood with his hands clasped in front of him, his head to one side, listening to the charges, which had been kept secret until the hearing.

REFUGEE GETS M.A.

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP)—Marianne Barta escaped from Communist Hungary eight years ago and went to the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont., where Professor and Mrs. Murdo McKinnon became "my second parents." Miss Barta now has her B.A. and M.A. degrees and proposes to teach English in France.

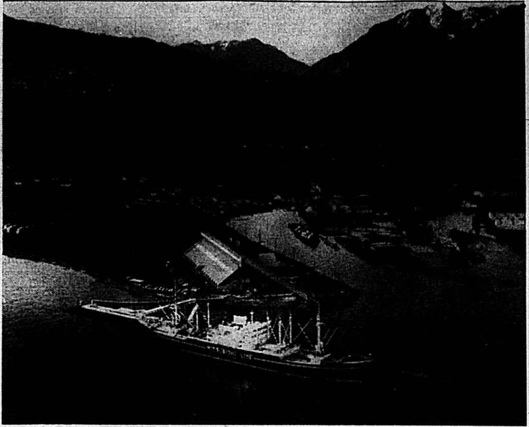
Pacific Bridge Between B.C., Far East - - Bennett

By TOM CARNEY



JAPAN BOUND — Japanese freighters such as this one loading at Vancouver wharves leave the Port of Vancouver with potash, ore concentrates and forest products and return with finished products, including autos, electronic equipment and even prefabricated building products. Exports to Japan through B.C. ports have doubled in four years — from $137,900,000 in 1960 to $272,000,000 in 1964. Government officials are confident they will be nearly $300,000,000 this yaar. (CP Photo)

VANCOUVER (CP)—In trade circles here you occasionally hear someone talking about British Columbia becoming a 'New Manchuria" or even "nippon Columbia."

Although uttered in jest, the remarks serve to underline the fact that this province is linking its economy increasingly to the Far East, notably Japan.

Traffic over the bridge is increasing at a phenomenal rate. Exports to Japan through B.C. ports have doubled in four years —from $137,900,000 in 1960 to $272,000,000 in 1964. Government officials are confident they will be nearly $300,000,000 this year.

Japan is, of course, an old customer for British Columbia's raw materials. But the relatively new element is Japanese investment in Canadian firms. one that is taking on gigantic proportions.

Pressured by the growing demands of their manufacturing empires, the Japanese seem increasingly eager to step in where cautious Canadian capitalists hesitate.

And they have met with active encouragement from B.C.'s industrial and business community. Premier Bennett has said it would be politically and economically unwise to permit the province to remain a mere supplier of raw materials, adding that joint Canadian - Japanese investment would develop B.C.'s secondary industry and result in mutual benefits.

COMBATS INFLATION

"The Japanese have had an enormous rise in gross national product and full employment and now they're having rising wages and other costs as well.

"We pointed out to them that because of our resources and hydro power, it would pay them to fabricate more things in B.C. to help fight their own inflationary pressures.

"We're anxious to have investors in B.C. who are also customers of ours. We must invest with a (built-in) market because otherwise in a time of glut they would keep our stuff on the shelves. But they're not going to turn away from us because they would be turning away from their own investors—so it's a partnership."

Initially Japanese investors confined themselves to development of mineral resources with the objecting of guaranteeing supplies of raw materials for established manufacturing plants in Japan. The B.C. department of industry lists 19 mines "reported to have received financial assistance from Japan or those that have been or are planning to ship to Japan."

But recently Japanese interests have turned from primary mineral deposits to secondary investments. Japanese money is behind two proposed B.C. pulp mills, a whaling operation and a wire rope factory being built near Vancouver.

COMMUTE FROM TOKYO

A decade ago there was only one Vancouver office operated by a Japanese company. Today there are a couple of dozen. Some executives commute weekly between Tokyo and Vancouver.

Government officials frankly admit they don't know just how much money Japanese investors have poured into B.C. But there is general agreement that the total could reach a billion dollars within the next 10 years.

The impact is being felt far beyond the Rockies. Japanese firms make huge purchases of Prairie grain which is resold to other Asian peoples. A Japanese company is involved in the big Pine Point lead development in the Northwest Territories.

In Nova Scotia, W. D. Samuels, president of the Canadian Motor Industries, has announced plans for construction of a $4,000 000 auto manufacturing and assembly plant near Sydney, the first built by a Japanese company in North America.

Russ Patrick, Alberta's minister of industry, has said "several partnerships" between Canadian and Japanese firms are in the offing. Some 16 trade missions from Japan have visited Edmonton in the last year to discuss Alberta business opportunities.

THREE GIANTS

Behind the corporate facade of a multitude of B.C. projects lie three economic giants—Mitsubishi Trading Co. Ltd., Mitsui and Co. Ltd. and Sumitomo Trading Co. Ltd.

Mitsubishi interests range from heavy industry, shipbuilding and engineering to oils, metals, chemicals, paper, glass, cement, a brewing firm, warehousing, auto manufacturing, a bank, an insurance company and a trust. It employs 80,000 workers in heavy industries alone.

Eiichi Kodama, manager of the Vancouver office of Mitsubishi International Corp., a wholly-owned subsiduary incorpporated in New York, says it is involved in the export of Canadian flax, wheat and other agricultural produce.

It has guaranteed sales contracts for ore concentrates from Canadian mines of "well over $300,000,000," Mr. Kodama says, adding that one contract, for iron ore from the Falconbridge mine at Tasu in the Queen Charlotte Islands, calls for annual shipments worth $10,000,000 a year for 10 years.

The $22,000,000 lead mine at Pine Point is a joint venture of Mitsubishi and the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, and it built a lead smelter in Japan specifically for smelting Pine Point ore.

SELLS BUSES

It sold five big hydro-electric turbines worth $5,000,000 to B.C. Hydro and Power Authority for use on the Peace River dam project. And 15 buses were recently sold to the City of Winnipeg.

Mitsubishi also plans to produce kraft pulp from a B.C. mill "in the near future." The mill, with a daily capacity of 1,115 tons of sulphate pulp, would cost an estimated $85,000,000. However, Mr. Kodama was unable to say how much Mitsubishi money would be involved.

Sumitomo of Osaka, which has assets of about $625,000,000 and employs 187,000 workers, has set up a Canadian subsiduary with head offices here.

The parent firm is primarily interested in trading, manufacturing, mining, finance and insurance, warehousing, real estate, atomic and electric energy, forestry and construction.

Kimihiko Hoshina, president of the Canadian subsidiary, says Sumitomo has a current commitment to B.C. mining operations totalling $12,000,000.

Mitsui, which has its head office in Tokyo, opened an office here 10 years ago. Takeshi Sakurahi, Vancouver general manager, says the office handled more than $17,500,000 in export and import goods in April alone, including $2,000,000 worth of iron and steel shipped to Japan.

The B.C. government is not alone in encouraging these firms to participate in development of the province's resources and industry. Japanese companies are part of a closely-controlled national economy. Such investment would be foolish if company officers had any reason to fear they would be subject to restrictions imposed by the Japanese government in future.

Reported Temperatures Show It Was Coolest July on Record

"The coolest July on record" was the way which officials at the city pumphouse today described temperatures for the month just passed.

Actually the temperatures did get up to a high of 83 degrees, but over - all "cool" was the word for July as the mercury also dropped to a low of 46 degrees.

July was also a month of contrast insofar as rainfall was concerned.

Earlier in the year rain was almost non - existent with severe drought conditions prevailing throughout most of Hastings county and particularly in Prince Edward.

But the latter part of June saw a change for the better and during July the rainfall totalled 3.31 inches, or almost double the rainfall of July 1964. The rainfall in June totalled 2.25 inches.

Queen Mother Elizabeth Will Likely Go Salmon Fishing On Her 65th Birthday

LONDON (AP)—Her Majesty Elizabeth Angela Marguerite, Lady of the Garter and Lady of the Thistle, but just plain Queen Mum to millions of Britons, is 65 today.

At an age when most men and women are retiring, the charming mother of Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Margaret is as busy as a beaver in her native Scotland, with no thought of fading away.

"What's she doing on her birthday?" said a close friend in response to a question. "Why, she'll probably go fishing."

"Fishing?"

"Yes, salmon fishing. There are few things she likes better and few people who are better at it."

On her birthday the widow of King George VI was at her Castle of Mey, located on the wild and windy northern tip of Scotland hard by John O'Groats. But gun salutes will be fired in London's Hyde Park and by naval ships and shore batteries.

At Clarence House, her London home, an informant said there will be a small birthday cake, a glass or two of champagne, telephone calls and telegrams from her family and friends, calls from some of her neighbors and, of course, presents.

As extremely energetic and friendly woman, the Queen Mother already this year has visited Jamaica, Canada, France and West Germany, and fulfilled 61 public engagements in Britain.

Few members of royalty anywhere can have led a more exemplary life or one more dedicated to duty.

In 42 crowded years of constantly being in the public eye, there has never been any criticism of her actions or activities and never so much as a whisper of scandal. For someone in her high position, this must be unique.

By being herself—which in her case means friendly, courteous, considerate, wise and witty—she has endeared herself to many people in many places.

There was the time down in South Africa when an ultranationalist with the Boer War in mind told her: "We find it difficult to forget what the English did to us."

With a smile upon her face, she replied: "I do so sympathize with you. You see, I'm Scots."

Viet Nam War Turning Point Believed Close

HONOLULU (AP) — American military officials say they believe the introduction of more U.S. ground forces coupled with continuous air strikes on North Viet Nam may eventually prevent a Communist takeover of South Viet Nam.

While total victory may never be achieved, they suspect a milestone will have been passed once the monsoon season, which favors guerrilla operations, ends about the middle of next month.

An expected Viet Cong monsoon offensive more or less fizzled out. And more American soldiers will be in South Viet Nam and ready to take the offensive about the time the rainy season ends.

Officials believe Viet Cong momentum has been broken because of high casualty rates in recent months.

This veiled U.S. optimism follows a high-level Viet Nam conference in Honolulu, where military officers tackled details of the logistic problems involved in building up U.S. ground forces in the country.

NOT CONCERNED

American officials aren't particularly concerned over the ratio of guerrillas to non-Communist forces. There are about three times as many Viet Nam soldiers as there are Viet Cong. An American ground force of 125,000 would lift the ratio to nearly 4-to-1.

In Malaya it took the British eight years, with a ratio of 12-to-1, to defeat the Communists. But officials say the ratio in question is somewhat meaningless because of American air power and mobility of ground forces.

While the Viet Cong controls 60 per cent of South Viet Nam much of this is wasteland and mountains. More important is the Communist control of about [illegible]5 per cent of the country's people.

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. B-52 bombers today made their second raid in three days on the mountainous Do Xa area 350 miles northeast of Saigon, a U.S. spokesman announced.

The spokesman said "a number" of the Strategic Air Command jets from Guam made the strike on a suspected Viet Cong base area. It was the eighth B-52 raid on the Viet Nam war to be announced.

On the ground, troops of the 101st Airborne Division came under Viet Cong fier for the first time early today, only six days after about 3,700 of the paratroopers landed at Cam Ranh Bay 180 miles northeast of Saigon last Tuesday.

A U.S. spokesman said American casualties were "very light."

The Viet Cong inflicted "moderate" to "heavy" casualties on government forces in three other scattered actions, a military spokesman said.

ESCAPE TRAP

It was the second day in a row that Viet Cong forces in the Da Nang area have evaded marine search-and-destroy operations.

Meanwhile, reports in Saigon of political discontent and of a possible resignation by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky continued as the ruling military directory members gathered for a meeting.

Among the topics the meeting was expected to thrash out was whether the young pilot-premier would continue as commander of the air force as well as of the government.

Industrial Employment Shows Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Industrial employment, measured as an index with 1949 employment equalling 100, rose in May to 136.6 from 132.1 in April with seasonal increases in outdoor work, the bureau of statistics reported today.

There were increase of nearly 50 per cent in forestry and 12 per cent in construction.

But the bureau said its index for May, when adjusted to take account of seasonal variations, remained virtually unchanged from April at 137.0. There were scattered increases in some industries, offset by declines in others.

Employment in manufacturing rose fractionally to 126.8 in May with the gain mainly in non-durable goods production.

Tshombe Frees Canucks

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Prime Minister Moise Tshombe has ordered the immediate release of two Canadian youths being held in a hospital here. foreign ministry official said today.

The foreign ministry official told Canadian charge d'affaires Arthur J. Hicks that Tshombe, who also is foreign affairs minister, expressed anger at the news the Canadians were arrested after crossing the border from The Congo (Brazzaville) and allegedly beaten by Congolese police Monday.

Tshombe also ordered that the pair, Geoffrey Laundy, 20, and Brian Tracy, 21, both of Vancouver, be granted six-month visas for The Congo.

Hicks, of Ottawa, said it was expected Tshombe's order would be carried out later in the day.

Meantime a police guard outside the Danish Red Cross hospital room where the two youths were resting was reduced to two today. Tuesday as many as 16 armed police were stationed outside the hospital grounds.

CONDITION IMPROVES

Hicks said the condition of the two powerfully-built, husky youths continued to improve. However he said a second set of x-rays would be taken as a precaution.

Hicks said earlier x-rays showed the pair suffered no fractures in a beating and kicking allegedly administered in Leopoldville's Lufungula police camp.

Hicks Tuesday demanded the immediate release of the students in a strong protest to the foreign ministry.

He said then the foreign ministry promised the matter would be settled by this morning and if not he said he would take the case as high as President Joseph Kasavubu if necessary.

The Canadian students said Tuesday they decided to enter The Congo after waiting more than a month in Lagos, Nigeria, for the Leopoldville government to answer their requests for visas.

40-hour Week Being Sought By Carpenters

SARNIA (CP) — Ontario carpenters Tuesday called upon the provincial government to provide a 40-hour work week in their trade and amend legislation dealing with vacation benefits.

The resolutions were among 29 considered by the provincial council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America CLC at its three-day convention.

Cabinet Hopes To Get Today First Report By Anderson

HOULE SPEAKS — William Houle, Montreal President of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, urges postal strikers at a Montreal meeting to stick with their walkout. The workers shouted their approval of his words. (CP Wirephoto)

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the cabinet hopes to receive this afternoon a first report on postal pay increases from Judge J. C. Anderson and expects to announce government action afterwards.

The prime minister told a press conference that Judge Anderson, the government-appointed commissioner investigating the wage dispute, has asked for a meeting with Revenue Minister Benson.

Mr. Pearson said that Mr. Benson believes that by the end of the afternoon the judge will make a report and that the cabinet will then meet to take action on its recommendations.

Mr. Pearson also issued a detailed statement of steps taken during the past 24 hours to move some of the mail in Montreal, the only city still affected by a wildcat strike that at one point paralyzed postal services in three provinces.

Mr. Benson and his two fellow members of the cabinet committee handling the strike flew to Muskoka Tuesday to confer with the prime minister. They returned to Ottawa late Tuesday.

Postmaster General Tremblay and Solicitor-General Pennell are the other committee members.

The cabinet met under a flood of demands from Montreal businessmen for emergency action to restore postal service that has been disrupted in Canada's largest city for nearly two weeks.

The 4,100 strikers, who walked off their jobs July 22 seeking an annual wage increase of $660, stood fast Tuesday, with no sign of giving in and returning to work.

Roger Decarie, local president of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, said the strike will last "at least a few more days."

Mr. Decarie was unhappy about a report that came in from Ottawa. The report quoted a federal spokesman as saying Judge J. C. Anderson, the specially-appointed commissioner who is investigating the pay dispute, might no longer feel obliged to submit recommendations on a wage increase within a previously-stated deadline of two weeks.

The deadline now is "self-imposed" rather than a matter of commitment, said the spokesman, but the judge is working hard to produce his recommendations within the two-week period.

"This has no effect on Montreal," Mr. Decarie said, "except to make our guys angrier against the government, and they'll be willing to stay out longer."

CITIZENS PROTEST

With the strike continuing, Montreal radio stations and newspapers reported that they are receiving calls from indignent citizens. One station, CJAD, said it had 300 signatures to a telegram of protest

Insurance Firms Outbid PSI for Medicare Plan

TORONTO (CP) — A syndicate of 10 insurance companies will administer the medical care plan the Ontario government is establishing for its 40,000 employees, it was announced Tuesday.

The plan which includes life insurance goes into effect Oct. 1. Only brief details have been announced.

The syndicate outbid Physicians Services Incorporated in tenders called by the Ontario joint council, representing both the government and employees. A non-profit company, PSI operated a medical-surgical plan for provincial employees for several years.

Harold Bowen, general-manager of the provincial Civil Service Association, said PSI's bid was confined to the medical-surgical aspects of the plan. He said the syndicate offered a basic life insurance policy that guarantees employees $1,000 on retirement.

"It is a big loss," said Dr. J. O. Lickhart of Hamilton, president of Physicians Incorporated.

The syndicate, headed by the London Life Insurance Co. which will administer the plan from its London, Ont. headquarters, stands to collect more than $1,000,000 annually in life insurance premiums.

About $510,000 in premiums are guaranteed under a basic, compulsory life policy. The remainder would come in supplementary life policies which are optional.

James Allen, provincial treasurer, estimated the government's annual costs would be about $3,500,000. the government will pay 65 per cent of the basic medical-surgical premiums, and 75 per cent of the basic life premiums. The employees will pay all the premiums for supplementary plans.

Laborites Battle To Save Pound

LONDON (AP) — A serious new drain on Britain's gold and foreign currency reserves was announced Tuesday as the Labor government disclosed it is prepared to throw its dollar reserves in the United States into the battle to save the pound.

The treasury said its reserves had fallen in July by £50,000,000 ($140,000,000 U.S.), leaving £947,000,000 $2,651,600,000 at the end of the month. Some of the drain was covered by special payments and loans from foreign countries.

Government financial authorities were busy on all fronts.

The Bank of England, stepped into the foreign exchange market to support the pound, which fell to $2.79 1-32 (U.S.) and then moved up to close at $2.79

Premiers Discuss Pensions

By RON MacDONALD

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Canadian family moving to a different province a few years from now may have a smoother arrival as a result of discussions at the sixth premiers conference here.

As things stand now, the breadwinner in the family could lose his pension benefits in the move and the school-age children be set back in school.

To cut down on this sort of disruption, the premiers, who wrapped up two days of business sessions Tuesday, focused their discussions on portability for private pensions and on more uniformity among provincial education systems.

Although more discussions are needed, the premiers said after their conference that good progress is being made.

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, chairman of the conference, said Tuesday the provinces are close to agreement on uniform standards for University entrance.

Mr. Roblin said uniform university entrance standards will be a top item on the agenda of a September meeting of education ministers in Fredericton.

Quebec Education Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie said the provinces also working on a standard student record that could be used across Canada to grade school children. He said the project is near completion and also will be discussed at Fredericton.

Uniform university entrance standards, for example, would make it easier for a student to tailor his high school program to be eligible for any Canadian university.

And standard student records would make it easier for schools to evaluate the progress of students coming from other provinces and place the students at the best level in their new schools.

On the subject of private pensions, there was general agreement among the premiers that the provinces should work for cross-Canada portability.

Private pensions are distinct

Synopsis—Variable skies and a few scattered showers and thundershowers are forecast to continue in southwestern areas today and again on Thursday. Elsewhere in the province mainly sunny conditions will prevail. Temperatures will begin edging upward today as warmer air spreads slowly into the Great Lakes area.

Congress Wonders Whether Billion Or Two Enough To Finance Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for $1,700,000,000 of "additional funds to increase our military strength in Viet Nam."

The president sent the request to the Senate as Defence Secretary McNamara testified at a closed session of the Senate defence appropriations subcommittee on the needs.

Johnson listed the additional $1,700,000,000 as an "emergency fund, Southeast Asia."

Under the request, the money would be made available to the defence secretary "upon determination by the president that such action is necessary in connection with military activities in Southeast Asia."

Except for the amount, the request was a duplicate of e $700,000,000 emergency fund asked by the president May 7 and rushed through Congress in two days.

Senator John Stennis, (Dem. Miss.), has said that extra funds for Viet Nam should be included in the massive annual defence money bill, now pending in the Senate committee. This bill included slightly over $45,000,000,000 as approved by the house.

Even before the formal request arrived there were indications that some senators favor a still larger total.

"I think the Congress wants to be certain they have enough money," Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, the senior Republican member of the Senate armed services and appropriations committee, said in an interview.

Viet Nam meanwhile occupied official Washington on several other fronts:

—Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, who returned Tuesday night from a tour of Moscow and some Western European capitals, had an appointment to discuss his impressions with president Johnson and State Secretary Rusk. Harriman said on arrival he is quite sure the Soviets want a peaceful solution but "it's in the hands of North Viet Nam." And the North Vietnamese, he went on, still believe they can take over South Viet Nam by force."

—The navy, preparing to draft men for the first time in a decade, also was considering the possibility of extending the enlistments of some skilled specialists. The defence department issued draft calls for 27,400 men in September, up from 17,000 the previous month, and 33,500 for October, the biggest monthly total since Korean war times. The October call includes 4,600 for the navy.

—The defence department denied any plan to divert troops from Europe to Viet Nam and said specifically reports of a shift of 7th Army units after the West German elections are not true.

Johnson said Tuesday "America wins the wars that she undertakes" and added the U.S. has declared war, not only on domestic problems like ignorance and poverty, but also "on tyranny and aggression."

But he also promised to continue to work for a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam, adding, "if we do that we'll come home tomorrow."

The president spoke on the White House lawn to members of the International platform Association, a group describing itself as a trade association for lecturers.

Canada's Press Discussed At Couchiching Conference

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP) Two Canadian newspaper men one English and the other French — differed Tuesday on how the debate on Confederation is being handled by Canada's press.

"The press has not been doing a very impressive job," Gerald Pelletier, former editor of the Montreal French - language daily La Presse and now a writer for Montreal Le Devoir, told the annual Couchiching Conference here.

"But, he added, "the press has not failed any more than the politicians or the educators."

Peter McLintock, associate editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, said, however: "The press, especially the larger papers, are doing a reasonable job, although many of you (the delegates) will disagree."

Mr. McLintock was referring to last year's conference in which the press — particularly the job done by the Parliamentary Press Gallery—was criticized. This year's conference is discussing The Concepts of Federalism.

The Winnipeg editor added: "If the press were perfect, the picture of the great debate in Canada would be changed very little. The answer lies far deeper than in any reform of the press. The ultimate answer is education."

PROBLEM ACUTE

The average Canadian newspaper is better than its counterpart in the United States, Mr. Pelletier said, but the problem is made acute by the emergency he said Canada faces.

More co - operation between French- and English-Canadian editors and newspapers is needed, he said.

Many English-Canadian editors knew nothing about French-Canadian newspapers because they could not read them.

Mr. Pelletier added that a proposal two years ago for a joint English- and French - language national weekly had fallen through. He blamed bad public relations for this and said the idea should be revived.

Mr. McLintock said bad news stories were not usually the result of some deep, dark plot, but of human failings on the part of the reporter or copy editor.

English - speaking journalists should know French, he said, and there should be more criticism of the press in Canada.

Laborites Battle

3-32 after the bank started buying pounds. Par is $2.80.

In the House of Commons, Herbert Bowden, the government's manager of the parliamentary schedule, said the Labor government would bring the House back from its summer recess any time the economic situation is grave enough to demand it. The recess begins Thursday and lasts until Oct. 26.

MAKE ASSETS LIQUID

The chancellor of the exchequer, James Callaghan, announced that more than half of Britain's U.S. investments have been made liquid. This means they have been turned into U.S. treasury bills or straight bank deposits so they can be brought back to Britain if needed.

These dollar reserves go back to the Second World War. The government bought U.S. stocks from private British investors and used them as collateral for a war loan. They remained invested in the U.S. stock market during the post-war years, grew with the Wall Street boom and now are estimated to be worth about $1,300,000,000.

Premiers Leave Handprints For Posterity

The premiers, in Winnipeg for the annual conference of provincial government heads were asked to put their right hand prints in wet cement contained in wooden boxes.

The prints—those of the three premiers not in attendance at the ceremony may be obtained later—are to be placed around the foot of a piece of sculpture at the centennial centre.

"Say, that's cool," said Premier John Robarts of Ontario as he gingerly made contact with the cement.

Old Highway Number 41 Becomes 49

Highway signs along this route now read Hifhway 49, formerly Highway 41.

The Ontario Department of Highways district office at Kingston said the highway route from Marysville south to Picton over the new Quinte Skyway at Deseronto would be known as 49 highway. There will be no change in the number of 41 highway from Napanee north to Pembroke.

Work on the new Quinte Skyway at Deseronto is progressing with erection of piers in mid - bay going ahead. Earth fill for both the north and south approaches to the high level bridge is in place.

The new bridge between Hastings and Prince Edward counties will have sufficient elevation to allow passage of lake boats proceeding up and down the Bay of Quinte.

MARKSMEN COME COSTLY

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Young local marksmen have been sharpening up their sharpshooting by aiming at hydro pole installations. The Galt public utilities commission complained of the cost of replacing insulators and street lights shot down by teenagers with .22 rifles and BB guns.

Wants Biracial Committee To Settle Strife in Americus

AMERICUS (AP) — County Attorney Warren Fortson says a biracial committee must work out differences that have brought bloodshed and death to this southwest Georgia town.

Fortson called for creation of such a committee Tuesday, a short time after a grand jury indicted two Negroes on charges of murder in the slaying of a young white man.

The county attorney has been under fire from segregationists for moderate racial views and a petition calling for his ouster has been circulated.

Negro leaders promised Tuesday to continue demonstrations and one threatened to bring in reinforcements he called "white folk straighteners."

Meanwhile, a Negro legislator, State Senator Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, conferred with local Negro leaders, apparently in an effort to ease tension. He declined comment on the meeting.

About 300 demonstrators marched to the county courthouse Tuesday night where an appearance by Hosea Williams of the Southern Christian Leadership conference had been promised. Williams was not there, but Willie Bolden, an SCLC field worker, warned white residents:

"If it takes making another Selma, Ala., another St. Augustine, Fla., before you white folks wake up and stop sniggering we'll have it."

INDICT IN SLAYING

Earlier, the Sumter County grand jury—22 white men and a Negro—returned murder indictments against Negroes Eddie Will Lamar and Charles Lee Hopkins, both 21.

They are charged with slaying Andrew Whatley, a 21-year-old white man, a week ago as he stood at a service station three blocks from a civil rights demonstration.

If convicted, they could receive the death penalty. No trial date was set, but the next term of superior court is in November.

Pickets formed a short time later at the courthouse as the county commission met. Twenty-three other pickets, arrested Monday at a grocery store, were released when store officials dropped trespass charges.

CPR Increases Fares on Many Short Trips

OTTAWA (CP) — A spokesman for the board of transport commissioners said Tuesday there is no possibility of the board interfering with passenger fare increases put into effect Sunday by the CPR.

The increases took effect on a wide range of short-haul trips in various sections of the country, some gaining as much as 50 per cent.

None of the new rates is above the maximum passenger tariff approved by the board, however, and the increases thus did not require board approval. The CPR was obliged only to give three days notice of its new fares.

The publicly - owned CNR has said it does not intend to match the CPR move. This means that in the areas affected CNR passenger fares will be lower — in some cases substantially lower — than those of the CPR.

As an example, the CPR's one-way fare between Ottawa and North Bay has been raised to $12.40 from $8.65. The CNR charges $6.20 except for Friday and Sunday when it is $7.20.

That CPR rate, like many of the others involved, is just about at the maximum of five cents a mile allowed by board regulations.

A CPR spokesman in Montreal said the increases are aimed at making short-haul passenger trips pay.

"Our freight services pay well," he said. "Long-haul passenger trips such as Montreal-Vancouver pay reasonably well. But short-haul trips lose money, so we aim to improve the financial results of these services."

It is the CPR's third set of passenger fare increases in 11 months. Other took effect on different lines in September and May.

Union Charges Plot to End Vancouver Grain Shipments

VANCOUVER (CP) — Threat of a complete shutdown of grain shipments hung over the port of Vancouver today.

Three of the five grain elevator companies here are closed and another threatened to close Thursday leaving only a trickle of grain moving out of port from Pacific Terminal's three elevators in North Vancouver.

The International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Distillery Workers (CLC) has been on strike against the Alberta Wheat Pool since June 2 over wages.

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and United Grain Growers recently suspended all their workers for refusing to handle what the union calls "hot grain" — grain the union claims was intended for Alberta Wheat Pool but was diverted to the other companies.

Burrard terminals gave 20 grain handlers 48-hour layoff notices Tuesday. J. E. Gage, company general manager, said a lack of grain cars assigned to the elevator made the employee cutback necessary.

UNION PROTESTS

The union Tuesday sent a telegram to federal Labor Minister Allan MacEachen asking him to force the railways to make immediate deliveries to Burrard Terminals and to urge United Grain Growers and Saskatchewan wheat Pool to accept grain from their own farmer members.

The union charged that the "railways or someone" is drying up deliveries to Burrard in an obvious plot to completely close grain shipments here.

A Canadian Pacific Railway spokesman Tuesday night denied the union charges. He said CPR has 2,100 carloads of grain —about 4,000,000 bushels — sitting in sidings between Vancouver and the Prairies.

"This grain is the property of the Canadian wheat board and awaits orders which can come only from the wheat board," he said.

MONTREAL (CP)—A city policeman was struck with a club and another officer was hit in the face by a flying egg during a waterfront march by some 400 striking grain - handlers Tuesday.

The grain handlers, off their jobs since June 16, were staging their second march in a week.

160 Teachers Visit Home At Plainfield

Some 160 Ontario teachers attending the current summer course in teaching at Moira Secondary School took time out yesterday to visit the Ontario Home for Mentally Retarded Infants at Plainfield.

They were welcomed and escorted through the home by the executive director Mr. L. Velman and Mrs. Lenora Vellman the home's nursing superintendent.

They visited wards where they observed a variety of clinically - marked retarded children, and saw others at play in the solarium an integral part of developmental training for some 65 retarded infants.

The tour was concluded with a general discussion and question and answer period on the board room of the home.

The teachers are here from all parts of the province and are under the supervision of G. E. Jorgenson, principal of the Ontario Department of Education's five - weeks summer course which concludes on Friday.

Try! Try! Try!

Most people like to try something that is strange to them before they will buy it. We think that this applies to sporting goods especially, such as golf clubs, tents, and camper trailers.

We, at Canadian Tire, have every size and type of these items to rent by the hour, day, weekend, or month. It makes sense that people who are not sure if they like this sport, would prefer to rent equipment rather than to buy it.

This applies to other rental lines of ours, such as mechanics' tools, household equipment, such as Hoover Rug Shampooers, floor polishers, scrubbers, etc . . . recreation equipment, sporting goods, painting equipment, and plumbing tools.

Our motto is, "Try Before You Buy." We rent what we sell, and we sell what we rent. Call us at 968-6701, or visit our store at the corner of Coleman and Harriet Street.

'Not as Fragile as We Think' Canada Will Not Fall Apart Says Miss Pauline Jewett

The Canadian government will be putting much more emphasis on education and cultural matters during the next 10 or 15 years than it has in the past.

These sentiments were expressed by Miss Pauline Jewett, M. P., for Northumberland, at the regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club yesterday.

"Every nation has to revive its national policies every generation, to form a new set of policies and goals for the needs of that time," she said. "We have seen the government becoming more and more involved in the daily life of every Canadian over the past few years.

"I think we will be spending much more money on education and cultural values in an effort to improve the quality of Canadian life. This quality will certainly help to link Canadians east and west and provide a new national objective for us all."

Miss Jewett continued, "We're not as fragile as we sometimes think. Canada is not going to split at the seams tomorrow. The voices of the radicals are not as well supported as the voices of the moderates.

CAN ALTER VIEWS

"We often get the impression that original stands, such as those from Quebec, are irrevocable, but this is not true. Quebec legislators and others, tend to take very strong stands at first, but they are willing to negotiate and come to reasonable settlements."

The speaker told of her experiences on the parliamentary procedure committee, a small committee composed of 15 persons which met almost daily for one and one - half years and covered the whole gamut of parliamentary procedure. Members were selected from all parties in the House.

"There was very little partisanship on this committee," she said, "and because of it we accomplished a lot. Acute partisanship isn't necessarily the way to solve all our problems.

"I'm naturally in favor of the party system. It is absolutely essential to a functioning democracy, but an excessive amount of partisanship isn't necessary. For political parties to take strong points of view is good, but to look at everything in terms of narrow partisan politics impedes rather than aids the administration of parliament."

Miss Jewett told the audience which was composed of Kiwanians and their wives, of her work on the consumer credit committee, a committee that is still in operation and has not yet issued its report.

"Perhaps the most interesting example of co-operative federalism occurred when our committee met with the Ontario select committee on consumer credit and ironed out many of the problems we are facing.

"This was a unique experiment in that in most cases where co-operative federalism is practiced, it is done so on the political executive level, such as Prime Minister meeting Premier, and the legislative level of parliament is not invited.

"These federal - provincial meetings have come to be private meetings between political executives, with the press excluded. As a consequence, the public is not kept well informed on what transpires in the meetings. Even the legislators, such as myself, are not fully informed. At the end of the meetings we receive a bulletin on what was agreed upon and that's all.

"I don't think it is necessary to hold all these meetings in private. There are occasions when it is not in the public interest to have the press present, but generally speaking, Canada has reached a point of maturity whereby we could throw most of these meetings out into the open.

"Our leaders do not have anything to fear from airing differences, any more than from airing agreements.

SHOULD KNOW TERMS

"The big problem being faced by our committee on consumer credit," she said, "is the need to help the consumer become aware of what he is actually paying when buying on time. Many big companies do give the consumer a good idea of how much he is paying, but many financial houses and businesses do not provide full disclosure of terms.

"I think the consumer should know exactly, in terms of percentage, how much interest he is expected to pay and I am sure that after our committee submits its report, the consumer will be more protected in this field than ever before.

"I also feel the coming year will see much more control over near-banks, such as trust companies. They are operating like banks and should therefore operate under the rules of banks. We don't want the kind of thing that happened to Atlantic Acceptance Corporation to happen again." (That company was declared bankrupt last week.)

On the redistribution of political boundaries, Miss Jewett commented: "It's high time we've had a non-political redistribution so that ridings are formed on sensible grounds rather than by the individual needs of the particular party in power."

Indiana May Seek to Fine Ku Klux Klan

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—State Secretary John D. Bottorff of Indiana says the state should seek penalties including a $10,000 fine against the Ku Klux Klan for failing to register with his office as an out-of-state corporation.

Bottorff cited evidence the Klan has a post office box in nearby Greenfield and said a resident of the area is acting as an agent for the organization. His remarks Tuesday followed a visit to the state by the head of the United Klans of America, Robert M. Shelton Jr. of Tuscaloosa, Ala., who boasted the Ku Klux Klan will have enough Indiana strength in a year to take over the governor's chair.

Shelton made a one-day visit Monday to inquire about charges against five men arrested in Greenfield for distributing anti-Negro literature. Arrested after the distribution to post office box holders of the Klan newspaper, Fiery Cross, they were charged with violating a 1947 state law prohibiting "racketeering in hate."

Bottorff asked state Attorney-General John J. Dillon to institute action against the Klan for functioning at a state headquarters in Greenfield without filing with his corporation division.

Dillon, who is empowered to file a civil suit or an injunction, said the matter must be studied carefully because it involves constitutional issues.

Many Teachers Unqualified Says Report

TORONTO (CP) — A report issued by the Ontario College of Education research department finds many of the province's secondary school teachers are inexperienced or unqualified.

One out of every 15 secondary school teachers in 1963 held only a temporary permit indicating they did not have basic qualifications for teaching on this level, the report says.

"In addition, one-fifth of all secondary school teachers in Ontario were inexperienced, having taken initial courses of training immediately proceeding their work in the schools in 1963, most of them in the short summer schools."

The report also found that bright male university graduates shun secondary school teaching. Those who do choose the classroom tend to be mediocre or average students who couldn't compete with their classmates in other professions.

The report, partially financed by the Atkinson Charitable Foundation, is the result of studies which followed 3,800 men and women from the time they left Grade 13 in 1956 to when they began teaching about 1961.

Liner's Captain Dies on Bridge

ABOARD THE BREMEN (AP) — Capt. Guenther Roessing, master of the West German ocean liner Bremen, died Tuesday on the bridge of his vessel in mid-Atlantic. He was 63.

Roessing apparently suffered a heart attack.

The captain was a veteran of more than 40 years with the North German Lloyd Line. He had sailed the North Atlantic for 35 years, 30 of them in big passenger liners.

In the Second World War he was skipper of a German merchant ship off Norway and in the Mediterranean.

Before taking over the flagship of the north German Lloyd Line, Captain Roessing commanded its second largest passenger liner, the 19,000-ton Berlin, which is also in North Atlantic service.

Kinsmen Pool Swimming Classes For July Conclude With Tests

"Tadpoles," children who have received instruction in the basics of swimming, accommodation to water, opening eyes, jelly-fish float, front float and flutter kick, were examined by Miss Barbara McPherson, Red Cross instructor.

Advance beginners had had instruction in the front crawl, 20 yards; back stroke, 20 yards, jump in and treading in deep water. These youngsters progress into the first stage swimmer category and junior Red Cross swimmer level. The advance groups was examined by Mr. Jerry Muldoon, Red Cross instructor.

Twelve juniors, five intermediates and three seniors all passed their respective Red Cross tests.

Tuesday morning 140 youngsters registered for the free August beginners' instruction, and 40 registered for the advanced August swimming course. The August exams will take place August 31, and the Water Show and Awards Night will be August 31. All awards for the swimming classes will be presented on August 31st.

Battery-driven Car Tested by British Firm

ADELAIDE, Australia (Reuters)—The head of one of Britain's largest electrical manufacturing firms said today his company was experimenting with a battery-driven car which may eventually be re - charged from electric plugs at parking meters.

Charles Wheeler, chairman of Associated Electrical Industries, said his company took a British "mini" car, removed the engine and installed an electric motor with large batteries.

It had a range of up to 40 miles, cost about ¼ cent a mile to run and was rechargeable overnight, he said.

Advantages were silent operation, freedom from fumes, better acceleration and simplicity, Wheeler said. Against it at present were a lower top speed and the need for large batteries.

Wheeler said work was going on to install lighter, more powerful batteries.

True Function Of Probation Officer Given

TRENTON — Guest speaker at this week's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club was Trenton's probation officer, Dennis Atkins.

Mr. Atkins said that the true function of a probation officer was largely that of a "social case worker," and not a "big stick" for the enforcement of punishment.

The probation officer tries to counsel and guide those people referred to him by the courts, schools, friends or relatives. Some go voluntarily to him to seek aid. Backgrounds must be carefully examined and diagnosed. Problems may be physical or psychological.

The case worker must try to create a feeling of confidence and trust between him and his client. In many cases, counselling and material assistance are both required and every effort must be made to start the client off in the right direction.

Calf Club Meets

The Hastings 4-H Senior Calf Club held its regular monthly meeting on July 26, at the Department of Agriculture board room in Stirling. Mr. E. W. Henderson of the dairy branch supervised while members did resazurin tests on samples of milk. The samples were also treated for butterfat content.

Mr. Lyall MacLachlan discussed the 1964 progress reports.

Brock Beatty Wins Junior Golf Tourney

TRENTON — The fourth annual Golden Hawks' junior golf tournament was held at the RCAF Trenton - 6 RD golf course on Saturday. The tournament was open to junior golfers from 12 to 18 years of age. Fifty-five golfers turned out from various clubs in the Trenton area.

Winner of the tournament was Brock Beatty, 17, of Trenton who toured the par 72 course in 73.

"A" division winners — handicap 0 to 10: low gross — Brock Beatty, 73; second gross — Neil McMillan, 76; low net — Brian "Zeke" Chambers, 72; second low net — Greg Bodnar, 76.

"C" division — handicap 21 to 36: low gross — Peter Lefebvre, 90; low net — Tom Gibson, 61.

Zeke Chambers won the trophy for low gross score posted by a member of the RCAF Club and Tom Gibson won the 6RD Commanding Officer's Trophy for low net for the tournament.

RCAF Bands Will Be Heard At Cobourg

TRENTON — The RCAF Trenton-6RD Brass and Reed Band will present a concert at the Bandshell in the Park at Cobourg, Ontario, on Sunday, August 8th, at 8.00 p.m. o'clock. Sergeant Howard Kelly will be conducting.

The concert is sponsored by the Cobourg Kiltie Band and the 6RD Band appears by kind permission of Group Captain C. R. Thompson, C.D., Commanding Officer, 6 Repair Depot. The public is invited to attend and enjoy the varied program.

Exam Results Expected About Aug. 11

TRENTON — High school principal John Garrett said on Tuesday that Grade 13 June examination results should be known locally by Aug. 11, 12 or 13. This is approximately the same time as last year's results were made public.

Mr. Garrett said he did not think the school would have any Ontario Scholarship winners this year. Joseph Ricciardi was the lone winner of an Ontario scholarship at Trenton last year.

Attack That Never Came

Some weeks ago Canadian industrialist Cyrus Eaton returned from a trip to Moscow and declared that the world was on the brink of disaster. He said he had never seen Mr. Kosygin, the Soviet premier, in such a grim mood, and hinted darkly that Russia and its fair-weather friend China would "attack with all they had got" in about four weeks' time.

And all because of those awful Americans and the terrible things they were doing to the friendly Viet Cong rebels in Vietnam.

Well those four weeks have long since passed and what do we find? Russia still pushing its way towards its own great society, building giant dams in Siberia, apartment homes for its people and delighting Canadian and other world audiences with such groups as the Moiseyev ballet company. And China? Well, China for the most part is minding its own business. Having failed at the recent Algiers conference to gain any substantial Afro-Asian support for its anti-American postures China has retired, for the time being at least, into its big, inscrutable shell.

As for Mr. Kosygin he is the most undemonstrative leader the Soviet Union has known for a long time.

The American decision to boost its forces in Vietnam will "only aggravate" the situation there, he told a group of Canadian parliamentarians last week. The Soviet premier said he was "very unhappy" about the world situation which was of "great concern to us all."

These are scarcely the words of a man who is preparing to lead his nation into battle. Certainly they are not the words that would have been spoken by his predecessor, Mr. Khrushchev, in similar circumstances. While no one can predict with assurance that Russia and China will not be drawn into the war in Vietnam it is fairly clear at this point that they are in no hurry to take precipitate action in this regard.

Student Exchanges

Last weekend some 600 Quebec students passed through Toronto on their way home from visits to the homes of their English-speaking counterparts in Ontario and other provinces.

Students taking part in these exchanges have benefited greatly from the friendships made and a new understanding has been fostered between the young people that augurs well for the future of this country.

These exchanges also inspire ideas on the wider application that might be made of them. What is to stop exchanges between Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders—the senior members of the Commonwealth—and with Americans.

Wouldn't a high school student from Montreal like to stay in the home of an Australian in Melbourne and an Aucklander learn something about life in Albuquerque? Do teenagers in Calgary ever stop to think what it would be like in Canberra or Christchurch? Perhaps a 17-year-old from Belleville might like to see Brisbane.

Distance and cost of course are the big considerations in any such enterprise, but the exchanges might be made say every other year.

Shortwave Program

Shortwave radio in our opinion has always been one of the most interesting of listening pleasures. Stations in remote parts of the globe as well as shipping and aircraft movements may be heard on short wave.

Mention shortwave in Canada and many will think immediately of the program Northern Messenger, broadcast Monday to Friday from 9.15 to 9.30 p.m. EDT by the CBC Northern Service. Previously heard only during the winter, the program is now heard all year round

The origins of Northern Messenger are intereseting. According to The Montreal Gazette it is the CBC's oldest continuous program. Since it was started some 33 years ago it has relayed thousands of messages from people "outside" to their families and friends at isolated points in the far north.

The program was started at the suggestion of the commander of a British naval expedition based at Nain on the Labrador coast. The commander thought his men would be cheered by radio messages from families and friends.

Mounties, missionaries, scientists, civil servants and teachers are among the people making use of the program, helping them to endure the long winter isolation and to keep in touch with loved ones when mail deliveries are few and far between.

Premier Lesage Takes 'Fiscal' Equivalent of 'Cuppa' Coffee

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Notes off the Parliamentary reportorial cuff . . .

OPTING OUT:

You know that famed coffee break at the recent Federal Provincial Conference which cost you, the taxpayer, $410, and which Prime Minister Pearson said was a magnificent bargain since every time he got the delegates away from the bargaining table it saved the Federal Treasury something like $1,000,000.

Well, the Prime Minister was out in his calculations—based on an average delegate salary of $12,000 and a working schedule of a week of five six-hour days—by precisely $21.50.

The coffee breaks — there were two a day, morning and afternoon, Monday through Thursday — cost not the $3,280 the Prime Minister figured, but $3,451.20.

Difference was the cost of the coffee, $21.40 per brew, or $171.20 for eight rounds.

Could have cost another 80 cents, but didn't. Instead, just one additional dime.

Happened this way: Quebec's Premier Jean Lesage, practising the art of "Opting Out" of Federal affairs, as it is known in La Belle Province, for laughs at one coffee break, took not the usual "cuppa," but as he cracked, grinning, "the fiscal equivalent." Which, of course, was the 10 cents. That made the cost of that break $21.50 plus basic $410, or $431.50.

DRINK CANADIAN

Slipping back into the Summer - quiet Capital the other day, our ebullient Agriculture Minister allowed that if he were Prime Minister Harry Hays "instead of just a little ol' barefoot boy from Calgary," he might be making more of an impact on the imperturbably External Affairs Minister.

Wistfully noting the recent directive from President Lyndon Johnson that only American domestic wines are to be served on diplomatic occasions both at home and abroad, the Hon. Harry discloses that he has been working on the Hon. Paul. to issue a similar "drink Canadian" edict to his people in the External Affairs Department.

"He smiles, nods, then does nothing," says Mr. Hays.

The Agriculture Minister did a swing a few weeks ago through the French champagne country on a flip to Paris and came home proudly proclaiming that "some of our Southern Ontario and Okanagan Valley wines and our Maritime ciders can stand up to anything they've got over there."

So it beats him, he says, "why Paul won't order our excellent Canadian vintages served at all state dinners here at home and in the diplomatic establishments abroad."

From the people in External comes the unofficial answer that when President Johnson issued his "drink American" ukase, the dons in the State Department replied with the limerick:

Said a U.S. dip in Bordeaux,
Lyndon Johnson is causing me woe.
When they ask me to dine,
Shall I bring my own wine
Or tell him he knows where to go?

FEELS GREAT

How good have Federal Civil Servants got it?

Well, the National Capital is one of those truly one-industry towns with everything revolving around the Government and the Federal payroll.

In income, reports the National Revenue Department, the Capital stands fifth in the 65 cities listed.

And the majority of those 117,-393 will be Federal Civil Servants.

But they have it better than merely the nation's fifth rated income.

For as Revenue Minister Benson noted the other day, atop the Federal payroll the Treasury must stack another 26 percent of the total.

The 26 percent covers such fringe benefits as the nation's most generous pension: seven-tenths of the average of the best 10 earning years in a Civil Servant's career.

And, of course, there are other equally acceptable "extras" that go with the Government job.

So how does it feel, after working all your adult life for private business or industry, to join the Civil Service?

Well, a leading Canadian newspaperman who recently left the payroll of a big city daily for an invitingly rewarding Government post has put it as deep-feelingly as any one ever has.

Says he:

"It gives you a nice, warm, comfortable feeling all over to wake up in the morning and realize that for the rest of your life, the good, generous, kindly, all-providing taxpayer is going to be taking care of you."

Education in Far North

Victoria Times

The University of Alaska, with a grant from the Ford Foundation, is training 50 teaching candidates who, on graduation, will take modern teaching methods to the Aleuts and Eskimos of the far north.

Any effort to assist these peoples, close cousins of Canada's northern natives, merits approval. But it might be wise if the American authorities confer with Canadians who have done a considerable amount of work in the field. From the Canadians they could find that giving an education in modern white man's terms to the natives is not the complete answer to providing a better living for them.

The problem is to find means of integrating them into societies where such educations are valuable — a problem with which Canadians are still struggling and for which the glimmer of a solution has as yet barely been seen.

Strictly Personal

Pro Sport 'Loyalty' Is Cheap

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One glaringly obvious reason professional big-league baseball has never appealed to me is illustrated by the imminent removal of the Milwaukee Braves club to Atlanta.

I can understand and admire loyalty to a genuine "home town" team; but how cheap and synthetic and commercial is the loyalty to a group of mercenaries who have been hired merely to wear the name of a strange town across their chests.

If a city like Milwaukee, for instance, carefully developed its own high school players and grew a big-league team out of its native soil, there would be occasion for esteem and civic support—just as the ancient cities of Greece took huge pride in the accomplishments of their athletes.

But the modern baseball player is a Hessian of the sports arena, playing anywhere for anybody who will pay him a larger salary, transferred every couple of years, and having no real interest or roots in the town he represents. Money, not community endeavor, is the determining factor for a winning team.

I recall a pertinent article in the Christian Science Monitor some years ago, in which the British author pointed up the difference between our artificial baseball "loyalty" and the true regional character of cricket in England.

What would happen in England, he asked, if someone decided to move the Yorkshire team to Buckinghamshire? In the first place, there would be nowhere to take it: "Every man who plays cricket for Yorkshire has to be a Yorkshireman, born and bred. Obviously, you could not transfer Yorks to Bucks because the team would remain Yorks, however hard anyone pretended."

Furthermore, even if members of the team were transported to Bucks, they would have to wait five years in order to become naturalized Buckinghamshiremen and qualify for the privilege of playing for Bucks. It just wouldn't be cricket otherwise, in any sense of the word.

The big-league baseball teams represent nobody but the owners, who are in the business—and let's not call it a sport—for personal vanity, or promotion, or pecuniary gain, whenever possible. These are all tenable motives, but let them not be confused with communitas.

Likewise, what merit is there in a university going out and buying high-school football players who represent nothing but their own desire for the best financial deal they can make? The infantile alumni who raucously support such shoddy commercial transactions may know sports, but are oblivious of the basic meaning of sportsmanship.

Emphysema Comes Slowly And Then Cannot Be Cured

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope and 10c in coin for your booklet, "How To Cure Emphysema," but here is my special question:

We lived in Illinois until retirement, and then moved to the Pacific Coast. Nearly a year ago my husband gave up smoking. Three weeks ago he developed emphysema. Some doctors say the dampness caused the trouble. Some say it is from smoking. Another says allergy. All think we should move inland away from the ocean. I would appreciate your comment. — MRS. H. F. B.

You've talked to that many doctors in three weeks? It seems like a lot. However, let's see what I can tell you that will help.

Emphysema is lack of ability of the lungs to inhale and then exhale a sufficient volume of air with each breath. The lungs have lost some of their elasticity – the booklet will explain all that.

Now if the lungs have difficulty in breathing in and out, such interferences as asthma or bronchitis will make the problem worse.

I don't for a moment think that your husband "developed emphysema three weeks ago." It doesn't develop quickly. So let's say, instead, that three weeks ago he finally discovered that his shortness of breath was from emphysema.

There's no doubt that his smoking, over the years, contributed to it. I doubt that either allergy or the dampness at seaside has anything to do with causing the emphysema. But either or both may be causing some added difficulty in breathing.

Perhaps you should move inland, perhaps not. Your husband won't get over the emphysema by doing so, because the disease isn't something you "get over." It is a slow, permanent change in the elasticity of the lung tissues. You don't hunt for a cure because none is known. Rather, your goal is to prevent it from getting worse, and to keep it from being too bothersome.

My advice is not to pick up and move inland on the spur of the moment. Rather, can't you arrange to take a trip, or visit friends, or find some way of spending enough time away from the sea, so you can tell by experience whether your husband breathes more easily? That's the true test of whether a change of climate will be helpful.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could the amount of lead used to solder a broken tea-kettle affect boiling water inside enough to be harmful to a human adult or foetus?? Someone told me a young human foetus absorbs lead readily. — MRS. S.

Goodness! The amount of trouble caused by "someone." Never mind. If you want to know, keep asking me, and I'll answer to the best of my ability.

For this one: The water in a soldered teakettle doesn't absorb enough lead to be toxic. Lead poisoning is dangerous for anyone of any age, but the lead has to get into the system before it can do any damage. For practical purposes, nearly all cases of lead poisoning, these days, result from small children chewing on (and swallowing) particles of lead paint. Outside paint, used indoors where a baby can gnaw on a window ledge or something like that, is the big danger. Soldered teakettle? No danger if you don't eat the teakettle.

NOTE TO MRS. A. K.: Yes, diabetes, if not treated over a considerable time, decidely has an effect on causing cataracts.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 4, 1965 . . .

Peter Zenger, a New York printer, was tried for libel 230 years ago today—in 1735—after publishing scathing attacks on the governor of the colony in his weekly newspaper. The judge, following the law of the time, ordered the jury merely to establish whether the statements had been printed by Zenger. However Andrew Hamilton, the defence attorney, urged the jury to take on as well the task of deciding whether the statements were libellous or not. Zenger was acquitted. Though the legal point was not established as a precedent for some years, the trial was an important blow for the freedom of the press.

1814—An American attack on Fort Mackinaw was repulsed.

1952 — Uranium City, Sask., was opened to prospectors.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — German troops attacked French positions in the Argonne Forest; the French navy continued its bombardment of the Anatolian coast of Turkey.

Canada Day

Winnipeg Tribune

Without joining the army of carping critics of the CBC it surely is in order to suggest that the management of that publicly financed enterprise should explain by what right it decided to rename Dominion Day, Canada Day. It may be thought by those who perpetrated this deed, that a name is not important, but even those who entertain this notion should be required to respect the nation's institutions.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 4, 1945

23 million tennis balls—the United Kingdom's wartime output—were used by British industry in a brilliant plan to defeat the German magnetic mine. Early in the war experts were asked to solve a major problem which was the success of Britain's new mine-sweeping technique. This technique involved the use of mine-sweepers each of which towed about 500 yards of electric cable. Powerful electric current generated inside the ships was to be passed through the cables into the sea, and thus explode all mines in the area by the electric discharge. But the cables had to be made to float. This was the stumbling block which the scientists had to overcome. They soon hit upon a simple solution: it was to carry the electric wires on a cable made of tennis balls, pressed and packed tightly, one after the other to form one long self-buoyant cable. The plan was entirely successful, involving over one million yards of cable.

30 YEARS AGO

August 4, 1935

The Bateman family held their seventh annual picnic and reunion on Wednesday with 250 members and guests present, at the "Cedars" at Cannifton. It was an all day celebration and was highly enjoyable. Games of all kinds were entered into with enthusiasm and a good time was had by all. The dinner served by the ladies was most excellent and in abundance. The election of officers resulted in Mr. Ross Bateman of Belleville being named president and Mr. Lyons Bateman of Springbrook, named secretary-treasurer. The reunion next year will be held at Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Taylor of Cleveland, Ohio, are visiting friends here. Mrs. Taylor was the former Margaret Sheenan of this city.

40 YEARS AGO

August 4, 1925

In the presence of many visitors and former residents from Canada and the United States, His Worship Mayor W. C. Mikel and His Honor J. F. Wills, the president of the reunion, officially opened the Old Boys' Reunion and Peace Celebration on the court house lawn this morning at ten o'clock. Speeches welcoming the old boys and girls were made by Judge Wills, Lieut.-Col. S. S. Lazier and Mayor Mikel, the latter declaring the city to belong to the visitors and hoped all would have a happy reunion with old friends.

Mr. Fred Elvins of Windsor, Ont., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Elvins, North Front St.

Mr. Howard Chown of Toronto is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bertrim Docter.

Mr. R. D. Arnott is home from Toronto to spend his vacation and to enjoy the Old Boys' Reunion.

Mr. E. R. Chown of Toronto is here for the reunion.

50 YEARS AGO

August 4, 1915

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. MacDiarmid of Toronto, formerly of Belleville are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Moorman have returned home after a trip of six weeks' duration to Edmonton, Saskatoon and other places.

Work on the Catherine Street sewer was commenced yesterday morning at the junction of Catherine and Coleman Sts.

A very enjoyable concert was given by the band of the 15th Regiment at Victoria Park yesterday afternoon. Instrumental solos were given in an excellent manner by Max Denmark and Walter Aselstine. The concert reflected much credit upon Bandmaster Reg Hinchey and his talented musicians.

Who's Who

Miami Journal

The editors of Who's Who in America have come to a momentous decision. Biographies of the Beatles will be included in their edition. The Beatles, being British, will be brought in under the editor's guidelines which qualify those "so identified with American affairs as to be subject to wide inquiry or discussion."

Trading in western oils was slow and although the prices turned up slightly to close at 94.41, oils stilled showed a loss of 4.73 for the month. Golds showed a gain of 9.22 for the month closing at 167.48. (CP Newsmap).

Playground Activities

STANLEY PARK

A very successful Neighborhood Night was held on Tuesday, August 3, at Stanley Park playground with about 100 children and parents participating.

All present were welcomed by the mistress of ceremonies Barb Glover who informed the crowd of all coming events which make up Playground Week. A talent show was held and the participants were:

TV commercial (satire) Brian Glover, Robbie Howes, Paul Fraser; songs by Shelley Hartt, Debbie Bacon; pantomime by the "Beastles," Keith Pearce, Allan Pearce, Brian MacDonald, Peter Atkin; a song by Jimmy Hartt. Then a draw was held for a big, delicious cake which was won by Janet McCabe.

The event all were waiting for, the Miss Stanley Park contest, was held. The contestants were Shelley Brodie, Karen Jones, Tanis Barlow, Paula Hunt, Beverley Bridge, Mary Jane McCabe, Lynne Cochran. The pretty winner was Beverley Bridge, who will represent Stanley Park in the Miss Penny Carnival contest.

The evening came to a happy close with a candy scramble and a marshmallow roast, which everyone enjoyed.

HARRY J. CLARKE

A very successful neighborhood night was held at Harry J. Clarke School on Tuesday. At one point in the evening the supervisor, Karen Allan, managed to count a little over 100 parents and children on the playground.

The program began with a welcome speech from the supervisor, Karen Allan. This was followed by a talent show which consisted of a song by Christine Bone. A singing group, consisting of Diane McQuaid, Marcelle Ouellete and Lene Ouellette as the angels, all dressed in white and Cynthia McQuaid, Beverly Young and Luanne DeLong as devils, all dressed in red.

Janice Green did a routine in baton; Cynthia Clarke and Wendy Russell entertained with a tap dance. Marcelle Line and Anne Ouellette sang a lovely French song and Stephen Bone, Christine Bone, Luanne DeLong, Beverly Young and Diane McQuaid sang their version of Henry VIII with Stephen Bone as Herman and the others as his Hermits. A skit "I Believe" was done by Jim Stather, Diane McQuaid, Cynthia McQuaid, Luanne deLong and Beverly Young.

Next the Miss Harry J. Clarke contest was held and Cathy Bone, Miss Harry J. Clarke last year, crowned this year's winner, 4-year-old Lynn Winsper. Lynn was presented with a tiny bracelet and necklace set; her crown was silver with colored sparkles, and the banner was a white satin ribbon covered with sequins.

Lynn will go to the East Hill on Thursday to compete in the Miss Penny Carnival contest. The judges for this contest were: Mrs. Green, Mrs. D. Bone and Mrs. Charles DeLong.

The other contestants in the contest were: Anne Ouellette, Carolyn Harris, Cathy Forgy, Margaret Stather, Allison Soaft, Diane Winsper and Joanne Kirby.

Following this was an Arts and Crafts display where the parents had an opportunity to see some examples of the work done on the playground.

Next were the refreshments, freshie and cookies, followed by a big marshmallow roast. At the end a clean up was held and all the scrap was put in the fire while the remaining children and parents watched it burn away.

The evening went along smoothly with no rowdiness and no major accidents.

The supervisor, Karen Allan, would like to take the opportunity to thank everyone who made this evening such a great success. Thanks.

REPORT IS READY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz of the British Columbia Supreme Court said Tuesday his report on alleged federal voting irregularities in British Columbia in the 1963 federal election is en route to Ottawa. His royal commission was set up after charges were made by Ormond Turner, a Vancouver Province columnist.

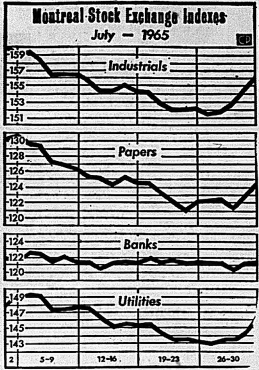
Poland expects at least 30,000 foreign tourists in 1966 for celebrations of the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in Poland.



MONTREAL MARKET UP —The Montreal Stock Exchange followed the general trend up at the end of July. Industrials turned up sharply to close at 156.2. Papers closed at 124.6. Banks were steady, declining fractionaly to 121.6. Utilities gained almost enough in one week to offset a month's losses, closing at 146.7. (CP Newsmap).

Many District Hotels Will Close for Supper Hour

The law, effective last Monday, allows hotels to remain open from noon and does away with the traditional 6.30-8 p.m. closing.

However, hotel keepers in Belleville have decided to carry on tradition. At a recent meeting they agreed to observe the ninety-minute dry spell which for years guaranteed errant husbands' homecoming at suppertime.

In Trenton, the reverse holds true. Hotelkeepers there decided to take advantage of the new regulations and will remain open through the supper hour.

At Shannonville and Marysvill, beverage rooms still remain closed.

In Deseronto, the town's single hotel serving a wide and fairly - populous area, now stays open.

"You've got to cater to the people," said one of the operators who decided to abolish supper-hour closing. "It's their privilege and I figure it should be held open."

However, at least one hotel keeper preferred the law as it was.

"I think it was one good law the liquor board had," he said today. "They get home for supper — and they don't get in wrong with the women".

BONN (AP) — Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, making his second bid to head West Germany's government, has welcomed American determination to stay in Viet Nam as strengthening the guarantee for his divided city.

"President Johnson has said that an American withdrawal from Viet Nam would mean to all its friends that its security guarantees were not to be taken seriously," Brandt said Tuesday. ". . . . I have faith in the statements of American presidents.

"The federal republic and above all West Berlin are dependent for their free existence on the commitment of the United States."

Brandt expressed his views in an interview with The Associated Press.

Brandt spoke optimistically about his Social Democratic party's chances in the Sept. 19 election. He said he expects it would make considerable gains and that "the goal of becoming the strongest party in Germany lies within its reach."

United Appeal Objective Set at $127,902 by Board

The largest objective in the eight-year history of the Belleville United Appeal has been approved by the Appeal's Board of Directors. An objective of $127,902 was set for the October campaign as the result of a report presented by V. L. Lewis, chairman of Appeal's Budget Committee.

Belleville Minor Sports Association $5,000.
Boys Scouts of Canada 2,300.
Cdn. Arthritic and Rheumatism Society, 3,500.
Cdn. National Institute for the Blind, 11,912.
Cdn. Red Cross Society 19,214.
Children's Aid Soceity 10,000.
Civic Action Committee 3,000.
Family Counselling Service of Belleville 2,000.
Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada 500.
Navy League of Canada (Quinte) 2,100.
Rehabilitation Foundation for Disabled (March of Dimes) 5,228.
St. John Ambulance 5,500.
Victorian Order of Nurses 16,000.
YMCA 27,500.
Total $113,754.
Year-round administration expenses, United Appeal Campaign Expenses including Canadian Welfare Council 9,672.
Allowance for uncollected pledges 4,476.
Campaign Goal $127,902.

MORE

$86,000 RAISED LAST YEAR

In setting the record objective, the Belleville United Appel will seek more than $40,000 more than was received in last year's fund raising campaign. With an objective last year of $106,000, the Appeal raised almost $86,000. While it was some 20 per cent short of its goal, it was still the highest amount ever attained in a Belleville United Fund drive.

V. L. Lewis, budget chairman, in setting the final goal for the campaign pointed out that all but four of the 12 member agencies in last year's campaign had requested increases in their budgets this year and many of these are substantial increases. In addition, the number of member agencies has risen to 14 this year with the addition of the Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled (March of Dimes) and Belleville's newest welfare agency, the Family Counselling Service of Belleville.

Members of the Appeal have extended warm welcomes to both new agencies joining the United Appeal for the first time this year.

"The United Appeal," said Mr. Lewis, "was formed for the express purpose of reducing the number of community financial appeals and so we welcome two more agencies. The appeal has each year, invited all organizations seeking money from the public, to join the once-a-year campaign," he said. "These organizations that are anxious to reduce the number of appeals for funds, should enthusiastically receive the public's support through the United Way of giving."

V. L. LEWIS
Chairman of Budget Committee for United Appeal.

Mr. Lewis, in presenting the report of the Budget Committee had high praise for the members of his committee and the representatives of each of the member agencies.

"This report is the result of hours and hours of hard work given freely by everyone concerned," he said. "Our meetings began early in May and have continued throughout June and into July. Believe me, this is hard work, but it is all made worthwhile by the co-operation extended to us by the agencies."

Members of the budget committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Lewis are: J. R. Sisson, D. G. Burr, J. A. Hutchinson, T. Rhenius and K F. Wormald.

Dief Wants Byelections Called Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons vacancies should be filled as soon as possible, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday.

He said at a press conference that Prime Minister Pearson has said again and again that Commons vacancies should be filled quickly.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he thinks it may be difficult to call byelections to fill the four vacancies before Parliament's scheduled Sept. 27 resumption.

"I would like to see byelections called. I'd be the last one not to support everything that would accelerate calling byelections at the earliest moment."

The four vacancies are Digby-Annapolis-Kings in Nova Scotia, Montreal Dollard, Victoria, Ont., and Kenora-Rainy River in Ontario.

Premiers

from the Canada Pension Plan. They are those pensions provided by companies or labor unions for employees, with both the employees and the unions contributing to the pension pool.

When an employee retires, he may draw his benefits from the pool built up by contributions.

With cross-Canada portability the employee moving to a new job would be able to withdraw all or part of his contributions at his former place of employment and apply them at the new place of employment.

Portability already is in effect in Quebec and Ontario and across the border between the two provinces.

DISCUSS LAWS

The premiers discussed many other matters, including Indian, Metis and Eskimo problems; cultural exchanges among provinces and development of uniform legislation among the provinces in administrative areas such as company law and statutes of limitations.

Attending the conference were Mr. Roblin, Premier John Robarts of Ontario—in whose province the 1966 premiers' meeting will be held—and Premiers Jean Lesage of Quebec, W. A. C. Bennett of B.C., E. C. Manning of Alberta, Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan, Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick and Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia.

Premiers Smallwood of Newfoundland and Shaw of Prince Edward Island did not attend and Mr. Lesage missed the second day of the two-day conference because he had to return for the Quebec legislature session.

On problems of Indians, Eskimos and Metis, the premiers agreed that present attempts to improve these peoples' standard of living, education and employability are inadequate.

Premiers of the English-speaking provinces accepted an offer from Quebec to produce a memorandum on what Quebec wants in the field of cultural exchanges.

Civil Servants Given Demands In New Bill

QUEBEC (CP) — While more than 6,000 Quebec civil servants held a mass meeting at a lower-town recreation centre Tuesday to back up demands for industry-like union status, in the legislature Premier Jean Lesage introduced several amendments to a bill granting recognition of their union and a conditional right to strike.

The amendments were apparently a result of criticism by the Confederation of National Trade Unions, to which most of the province's 26,000 civil servants will become affiliated if the bill is passed.

The CNTU accused the government in a brief released earlier Tuesday of "taking away with one hand what it grants with the other."

The premier told the legislative assembly as he introduced the changes: "I bring this amendment so that no one can say I'm taking away with one hand what I grant with the other."

One of the premier's amendments provided that the labor relations board be granted the right to determine the civil servants who would be considered in essential jobs and therefore without the right to strike.

Another amendment would give an employee who had been dismissed from the service the right to appeal the matter to the lieutenant-governor.

Another would allow a civil servant to stand as a candidate in a federal or provincial election without pay. The civil servant could return to his post within eight days after the election if he lost.

HOT AND COLD — Above and much-above-normal temperatures are expected in August for Western Canada while the east can expect just the reverse according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau.

Other normal temperatures for the period are: New York, 65; New Orleans, 81; San Francisco, 63. Other precipitation figures for the period are: New York, 5.1; New Orleans, 5.4; San Francisco, 0. (CP Newsmap).

to Prime Minister Pearson.

Another telegram came from H. F. Hoerig, chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who said the strike "is having a serious impact on all segments of the local and national communities."

Mr. Hoerig, in his wire to Mr. Pearson, said the government should declare the strike illegal and should act in whatever way might be necessary if the strikers do not return to work within 24 hours.

In a separate telegram, the Montreal Board of Trade said the postal system must be made operative immediately.

In all, some 300 telegrams have arrived at the prime minister's office in Ottawa in the past three or four days.

To deal with some of the backlog of mail in Montreal, the main post office asked some 300 non-union women employees to report for work Tuesday night. By 10 p.m. 208 had reported for duty.

MAIL PILES UP

One estimate was that the total number of letters, parcels and packages piled up at Montreal post offices and in the various transportation agencies might be as many as 20,000,000 with another 1,000,000 arriving daily.

A spokesman for the Canadian National Railways said the CNR has 39 carloads of mail—both letters and parcels on premises in Montreal, along with 8,000 to 9,000 bags of mail outside cars.

A CPR spokesman said Canadian Pacific has seven cars full of mail in Montreal.

With no sign of an end to the walkout, the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) has decided to give financial support to the postal workers for the duration of the strike, the QFL announced Tuesday.

Freer Use Of Alcohol Seen in Bill

QUEBEC (CP)—A bill to allow drinking of alcohol beverages without meals in restaurants and cabarets on Sundays and holidays in parts of Quebec was given first reading in the legislature Tuesday.

In supporting the bill, Claude Wagner, minister of justice, said it would alter the Quebec Liquor Act "to conform with the adult society of 1965."

But the new law applies only to the Island of Montreal, neighboring Ile Jesus, and Quebec City.

The bill also lengthens hours of sale for bars on Sundays and holidays in Montreal and Quebec City and in cities of more than 50,000 population. Formerly from 4 to 8 p.m., these hours will now be from noon to midnight.

Two new categories of liquor permits were also introduced in the bill—Theatre and Expo 67. The latter will be available only to those who obtain concessions from the Montreal World's Fair Corp.

In cities of less than 50,000 persons, bars in restaurants may open from noon to 2:30 p.m. and from 5:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays and holidays. Until now liquor has been served in restaurants and dining rooms with liquor licences from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The bill also grants permission for the production of soft and hard apple cider. Soft cider would contain seven per cent alcohol and hard cider, more than seven per cent but not more than 13 per cent.

Soft cider may be sold in licensed groceries and taverns.

In Quebec City, the Quebec Provincial Hotelkeepers' Association objected to changes in the Liquor Act because they do not apply to the whole province.

In a statement the association said the amendments are unfair to hotelkeepers in cities of less than 50,000 persons.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY G. PYEAR

Pyear – Warren

On Saturday, at 4.00 p.m., Mary Ellen Dickson Warren, Toronto, and Larry Gerald Pyear, Brampton, were united in marriage by Rev. J. F. Lane of Oakwood, in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwin Warren, Stirling, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pyear, Frankford. The Reverend Lane was the officiating minister at the marriage of both parents.

Mrs. Harry Brown at the organ, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Walter Warren in two selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of rich textured pure silk organza over taffeta with appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace, scoop neckline, lily point sleeves and an empire waist. Her regal train of matching organiza was caught at the shoulders and neckline and outlined with Alencon lace appliques. Her three tiered silk illusion veil fell from a headdress of a white rose and nylon petals. She carried a round bouquet of white gardenias and stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gerard Ryan, Toronto, dressed in green, and the bridesmaids, Miss Marian Warren, Stirling, in yellow; Miss Fairlie Warren, Kingston, in blue and Miss Marilyn Anderson, Toronto, in pink, wore floor length dresses of similar style of embossed daisy on dacron over faille with scoop necklines, short sleeves, and Empire waistlines. The waistlines were emphasized by velvet ribbons matching their dresses and ending in flat bows and streamers at the back. They wore large crownless hats of the same material as their gowns and carried white baskets of Shasta daisies.

Mr. Earl Cranfield, Hamilton, attended the bridegroom and Mr. Ray Nelson, Hamilton; Mr. Gerard Ryan, Toronto, and Mr. Bob Neal, Stirling, were the ushers.

At the reception held in St. Paul's United Church hall, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a two-piece suit of pure silk shantung in powder blue with a bodice of blue and white silk braid in scroll effect. She wore a blue hat, white accessories, and a corsage of double white gardenias. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a sheath style pink silk dress with a shell of pink lace over the bodice, a pink hat, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations centred with pink Sweetheart roses.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Pyear will live in Toronto.

Susanna's Family Fare

SO WHAT ELSE IS NEW?

Dear Susanna: Everyone knows how beautifully pine cones lend themselves to tinsel and glitter for Christmas decor, but did you ever try painting them in pastel shades for an all year round artificial bouquet? If you are living or vacationing in the country this is the ideal time to gather and prepare them - you may even have a pine tree right in your own neighborhood. It is also a good way to use up leftover bits of oil base paint.

As only the bottom rows of "petals" at the stem end are used, you will need to cut out more than half the cone. Fasten a short length of fairly fine wire to the base, then add a heavier piece for the stem and wind the two together with green crepe paper of florist's tape. The few inches of fine wire at the top of the stem will allow the flowers to sway naturally. For that professional touch try arching the stems slightly.

Paint the bottom row of "petals" green for the calyx, the flower itself in your favorite colors, and the centres yellow or black. Hang up to dry. Arrange them in a lovely vase with artificial leaves, dried ferns, or other foliage.

A few very tiny cones are sweet treated in the same way and then wired together to form a corsage or a decoration for tying onto a gift. The cones themselves are completely washable and can be nicely freshened by swishing through soapy water.

You may even find the lovely results rewarding enough to donate a few bouquets to the artificial flower booth at that fall fair or bazaar coming up.

Mrs. M. Taylor

SUSANNA

Dear Susanna: The idea of placing a pot that has boiled dry in cold water to loosen the contents is a good one, but once the vegetables that are edible are removed, I have a better suggestion for getting the burnt pot ready for cleaning.

Cook it well with a quantity of hot, hot water to which a tablespoon or so of washing soda has been added. Most of the time this will eliminate the necessity for any serious scrubbing.

MR. AND MRS. DWAYNE CECIL CARTER

Carter – Aide

FRANKFORD — St. Andrew's United Church, Maynooth, was the scene of a lovely summer wedding on Saturday evening, July 31st at 7 p.m. when Marjorie Joan Elsie Aide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Aide of Hartsmere, Ontario and Dwayne Cecil Carter, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carter of Frankford, were united in marriage by Rev. Schammerhorn of Maynooth, in a double ring ceremony.

Wedding music was provided by the church organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor length bridal gown of white nylon, trimmed with sequins and seed pearls, with lace appliqued full skirt over hoop. Her shoulder length veil was caught up to a headpiece of pearl and stone crown. She wore elbow length white gloves, and carried a bouquet of red roses encircled with white 'mums and daisies caught up in a semi-cascade with red rosebuds at the end of white ribbon streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Katharine Loney of Oshawa, who wore a full length gown of blue taffeta with "V" shaped skirt, with embroidered trim, and a train caught up in a bow. She wore a wedding ring band with short veil and carried a cascade of pink roses encircled with white 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. Robert Kunkel of Oshawa and ushers were Mr. Jack Aide and Mr. Tony Aide, both brothers of the bride.

The reception was held at McArthur's Mills hall where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a street length deep pink dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a street length dress and beige hat with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow and white carnations.

Previous to the marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. K. Loney in Oshawa.

40th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

MARMORA — A family dinner was held Saturday, July 31st at Marble Point Lodge, Crowe Lake for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lajoie, on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Home for the celebration were their seven children: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Packer (Marion) Douro; Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCarthy (Rita), Scarborough; Mr. and Mrs. James Brownson (Margaret), Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Thompson (Teresa), Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Garrison (Frances), Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Brownson (Anne), Toronto, and Albert at home and 27 grandchildren.

Married at Flinton at St. John's Roman Catholic Church by Rev. Edgar Piches, they lived at Niagara Falls, N.Y. for a year and since then on their farm at R.R. 2, Marmora. Members of Sacred Heart Parish, Mr. and Mrs. Lajoie have served on the executives of the C.W.L. and Holy Name Society. A Thanksgiving Mass is being offered during the week for their intentions in Sacred Heart Church.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Lajoie received a host of friends at Marble Point Lodge. Refreshments were served by their daughters and guests enjoyed round and square dancing to music by "The Wanderers." Gordon Jones was master of ceremonies and made the presentation of a chair from their family, a telephone bench and table, footstool and well filled purse from neighbors. There were numerous individual gifts and personal gifts from the C.W.L. "Charlie" and "Hilda" expressed thanks to all their friends and a social evening continued.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ashton are pictured following their recent marriage in the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, Belleville. The bride is the former Alice Brenay, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brenay of Belleville. The bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ashton of Trenton. Mr. and Mrs. Ashton will reside in Brighton.

WEDDING

MACDONALD — PETTERSEN

Loretta Diane Pettersen, Downsview, and Harold Matthew MacDonald, Toronto, were united in marriage in a ceremony performed in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 31, 1965, by Rev. W. P. Walsh.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. A. Pettersen of Flin Flon, Manitoba, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. MacDonald of Belleville.

Mr. C. Templer played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gerald Pettersen of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, wore an Empire style street length dress of white Terylene batiste over taffeta. Her shoulder length veil was held by a circlet made of the same material as the dress and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Lois Lang of Brantford, the bride's attendant, wore a blue shantung princess style sheath with short sleeves and a sweetheart neckline accented with a small ruffle. She carried a nosegay of white shasta 'mums and pink carnations.

Mr. David Smith of Toronto was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Terry Willmott of Kingston and Mr. David McMurray of Toronto.

The reception was held at Holloway Street Church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald will live at 124 Anthony Road, Downsview.

MORE SEE BRITAIN

More than 300,000 tourists visited Britain in the first five months of 1965, an increase of 11 per cent over the previous year.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. We cannot publish wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Accounts of showers and entertainments in honor of the bride do not belong with the wedding write-up, but should be sent in immediately after they are held, for publication separately.

Successful Living

Teen Searches for God But Can't Find Belief

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — My family is Protestant, I am nothing. I cannot accept the belief in a god. I can't understand how intelligent people can believe in this, it's so absurd. I have studied Zen and Mahayana Buddhism, Jainism, and Shintoism carefully and find the Buddhist principles so much more sane than those of Christianity. Even so, it all seems to be a figment, a creation of man's imagination.

I think a god is good for a person. By praying he finds within himself strength he didn't know he possessed. His god is his crutch. Where I have no god, I can't depend on him for guidance and I feel so alone sometimes. I have tried to believe but my common sense won't let me.

I tried only once to tell Mom about how I feel. She got worked up into such a state about it and hollered so much, I walked out leaving her disgusted at me and my ideas. She didn't speak to me for three days; I was sorry I tried to tell her. I'm of the opinion adults can be more immature and undependable than we can be (as teens.)

My minister isn't much help. We're good friends but he says I'm so deep, inconsistent, and am a natural philosopher; thus he has great difficulty figuring me out. For my part I believe I'm psychologically abnormal. — BADLY MIXED UP.

DEAR BADLY — It's far from abnormal to question things spiritual in your teens. Now is the time when you begin thinking for yourself; and in our scientific, materialistic society it is the most natural thing in the world for youthful reasoning to accept nothing but the evidence of the five senses.

Keep thinking, and discussing, and living. It may take a while for it to dawn on you that a Higher Power simply has to be in charge. But — "Seek, and you shall find."

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I would like to know how many calories would a woman need per day, a housewife with five small children.

Would it make a difference if a person took in so many calories in three meals rather than taking the same but eating less at mealtimes and the rest between meals? I can never wait for another meal to come around, I get so hungry at times.

I'm a very nervous type. I don't expect you to be a doctor but will appreciate suggestions. — EASY GAINER.

DEAR GAINER — Nor am I a doctor. But my dietetic consultants are well up on the latest findings about nutrition and diets, and your question is a common one.

One person's caloric needs differ from another's; but a busy housewife usually needs something like 2,000 to 2,2000 calories daily. For reducing purposes it is better to spread this evenly over three meals — and to make the maximum 1,200 (as long as your doctor agrees!)

Go ahead and eat between meals — but make it things like carrot strips, celery, apples or other fruit. Drink water, or a non-caloric soft drink; or clear tea with lemon (like I do.)

I'm sending you a Simple Reducing Diet that has helped hundreds to lose weight and keep it down. Yet all the right things are in it, nutrition-wise. (Other readers: You may have this diet by writing in for it, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

* * *

Confidential to MARY LOU — No use going with him on the sly; the dates won't be much fun, and they'll find out anyway.

I'd need to know why your parents object to Bill. Does he have a bad reputation or is it just that he doesn't go to church? Unless he is hopelessly unsuitable, I'd say discussion beats prohibition. At 17 your opinion ought to count.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am a 14-year-old girl, fairly attractive. My mother will not let me do anything. I am not allowed to join any social groups such as A.Y.P.A. because boys are in it. I am forbidden to go to school parties or otherwise because boys go. As far as I know I have done nothing to lose their trust in me.

Is it asking too much if I ask to go to a friend's party? It hurts me so very much when I have to refuse all parties to which I am invited. — FORBIDDEN.

DEAR FORBIDDEN — From where I sit, the best way for you to start socializing with boys is at supervised affairs such as a school or an A.Y.P.A. would put on. But what Mom says goes, for a while yet.

Sooner or later she is going to have to let you become acquainted with the opposite sex.

* * *

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Mothers, by the very fact that they are with baby all day long, sometime get a priority on the little one's affection. That's why it's a good idea to encourage dad to share in the fun and fanfare of baby care. By feeding, bathing and playing with his heir or heiress, dad's bound to get his quota of love. You might even tell him that baby will thrive on the attention; won't care a whit if he fumbles a bit.

•

Flavour surprises supreme: Gerber Strained Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and Rice Cereal, all with Applesauce and Bananas. The cereal is cooked with the fruit for subtle flavours and the smoothest texture that ever made a baby summon up a smile. All four have added B-vitamins, thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2) and niacin. In jars, ready to serve.

Other happy combination dishes: Gerber Strained Dinners . . . wonderful mixtures of vegetables, cereal and meat. Has baby tried Vegetable with Beef, lately? Delightful.

Marketing plan. If you have to take baby marketing with you, try to schedule your shopping tours after he's had a nap. A baby refreshed from sleep is less likely to be fussy . . . more apt to enjoy the outing.

•

Dietary plan. A good many babies accept fruits more readily than vegetables. But fruits should not consistently be substituted for vegetables because vegetables, generally speaking, have higher nutritive values. However, with eight Gerber vegetable varieties, you will find that baby will enjoy several or all.

•

Accepted with pleasure. Most babies take naturally to the natural goodness of Gerber Strained Vegetables. "Custom-cooking" is the thing that helps make them so appealing. You see, Gerber Vegetables, like all Gerber Baby Foods, are "custom-cooked" (each according to its own requirements) to preserve true colours and garden-good flavours. From carrots to peas, squash to beans, each variety is specially prepared to bring out the best for your baby. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

U.C.W. Meetings

RAWDON — On Wednesday afternoon, 68 people gathered at Mount Pleasant - Rawdon church hall when the United Church Women entertained the Messenger Group.

Mrs. Harry Mcadem, president of the U.C.W., welcomed the children and their leaders.

Plans were made for a tea at Rawdon manse in honor of the new bride, Mrs. W. C. Cox and the Rev. Cox. The manse board was given a donation.

Judy Mcadem presided over the Messengers' program and she thanked the U.C.W. for the afternoon in their honor.

Vocal duets were sung by Isabel Hoard and Kimmy Graff and by Debbie Graff and Jeannette Hoard. Selections were read by Frank Hubble, Kenneth Sharp and Kathy Sharpe. Randy Scott played a harmonica solo. Piano selections were contributed by Margaret Hoard and Janet Scott. A vocal selection was given by Gail Merrick. A special item was in charge of David Graff, Douglas Couch and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen. Judy Mcadem and Linda Potts played a piano duet, and Jane Scott and Janet Spencer gave a humorous playette. Mrs. David Potts conducted a fish pond and the children received small parcels.

City Boasts Lone Woman Barber

Women, say male jesters, have been clipping men since the days of Eve. Now a local woman has made it official. She's Mrs. Alex Ricard, Belleville's only licensed woman barber.

Mrs. Ricard began wielding clippers, scissors, and comb at Robert Guthrie's barber shop, 396 Front Street, last Saturday morning. Her first masculine customers were enthusiastic. "Boy, is she ever good! Gave me one of the best haircuts I've ever had," confided an astonished client.

She should be good. No newcomer to the trade, Mrs. Ricard has practised barbering for 18 years, ever since she completed a D.V.A. sponsored course in Winnipeg after the war. She says she chose barbering because, "I had five children to look after and I thought I needed a man's job to do it."

She doesn't regret her choice. "Barbering is interesting, broadening in a way. You meet so many different people and their conversation is varied. A barber never gets bored."

D.V.A. officials tried to persuade her to go into hairdressing, but Mrs. Ricard held out for barbering. "I never had any desire to work with women's hair," she says. Women wear their hair long and you can do almost anything with it. Styling a man's short hair so it's flattering to the shape of his face and head is more of a challenge to me."

Mrs. Ricard's husband is a union representative whose job requires frequent moves. Mrs. Ricard has worked in Winnipeg, Timmins, North Bay, Fort William and Ottawa. Before coming to Belleville last December, she worked in an Air Force shop at Rockcliffe Station in Ottawa.

FIRST HAIRCUTS

"The only objection the commanding officer had to my presence was that so many servicemen's wives brought their children to me for their first haircuts. I love children, perhaps because I have six of my own. I don't mind taking the time to win a youngster's confidence and fussing to get the cut just right for doting mothers," Mrs. Ricard says.

Mrs. Ricard is the former Dorothy McCommachie of Tweed and grew up in that village. A doctor's aide in the C.W.A.C. during the war she served overseas for three years. "I went back and forth across the Atlantic on hospital ships so many times," she says, "that I hardly knew which country I belonged to."

Women barbers are as rare in England as in Canada, according to Mrs. Ricard, but common in Europe and Japan. Five women barbers worked in Ottawa when she was there. Most them are married to barbers, and served their apprenticeships in their husbands' shops.

Mrs. Ricard says she has encountered no prejudice against women barbers on the part of the men entering the shops where she has worked. "Most of them climb into my chair to try the novelty of a shave or haircut at the hands of a woman," she says. "They come back when they find I'm as capable as a male barber. They all ask me how I came to take up the trade. Then they discuss the same things with me as they do with a male barber. Men expect to talk about sports in a barber shop. You have to keep up on teams and scores in this business."

BETTER THAN MEN

Psychologists suggest women make better barbers than men do because they have greater manual dexterity and control over the small muscles of hands and fingers. Mrs. Ricard is too diplomatic to agree, but she says, "We have a lighter touch, I think, especially with razors and clippers. Men often comment that they never feel the razor when I give them a shave. But some of them look mighty apprehensive when they first see me strop the straight razor."

Mrs. Ricard revealed one secret of her trade. You cut a man's hair to please his wife," she says, "or his mother, if he isn't married." Most men respect women's advice about haircut styles and relay their wives' instructions to the barber. Women often bring their husbands to Mrs. Riard and have woman-to-woman chats about how to spruce them up.

Perhaps that's a point to keep in mind the next time hubby complains about what the hairdresser does to your hair.

Ann Landers

Husband Left With Tramp, Now He Gets Promotion

DEAR ANN LANDERS — You asked me to let you know how things are going so here I am.

Remember when my husband moved that trampy girl into our house and told the kids "Cousin Ginger" was going to stay with us until she found a job. Well, that's when I thought I was having a heart attack and the doctor said it was just a muscle spasm brought on by nerves. You advised me to pack the girl's things — and my husband's things, too — and leave them on the porch.

My husband said I was forcing him to make a choice and he was choosing Ginger. I told him it was all right with me but I would not give him a divorce. He then said, "It sounds like you've been getting advice from that nutty Ann Landers."

ANN LANDERS

The children and I have been much happier since he left. My blood pressure is down 40 points and the kids have stopped having nightmares.

My husband phoned yesterday to say he just got a promotion and was moving out of the state. He is taking Ginger with him. What shall I tell him? — LOTTIE.

DEAR LOTTIE — Tell him to be sure and write every month — even if it's a cheque. And see a lawyer before he scrams.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Please overlook the misspelled words and the coffee I just spilled on the letter. I am going to dry it out and send it. If I start over I'll never mail it. Our oldest son is 33, unmarried and in the Army. We've been hoping Everett would find a nice girl and settle down.

Everett telephoned last night from Texas. He said, "I've met her at last. She's the loveliest girl in the world. We are getting married this weekend." I was thrilled. Then he said, "I think I ought to tell you she is pregnant and that the baby isn't mine. But I want to marry her anyway."

I thought I was hearing things, Ann, like maybe someone else's conversation was hooked into our line. I said, "Please son, repeat that." Well, he said it again, the very same thing.

Both my husband and I are in a daze. Do you think this girl loves Everett or is she trying to trap him? What should we tell our friends about the baby? Please help us. — STATE OF SHOCK.

DEAR STATE — If Everett is 33, he's old enough to know what he's doing. Hope for the best, give them your blessings and wish him luck. (He'll need it.) In the meantime, the fewer details to family and friends, the better.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I went over to my girl's house last night (Tina is 16 and I am 17) and their hi-fi is in the basement so that's where we were.

When I sat down on the sofa I heard a terrible crunching sound. Tina screamed "My gosh, you've sat on Herman and the Hermits. And especially my favorite one — Mrs. Brown You Have a Lovely Daughter." With that she gave me a sock on the head. My ears rang for fifteen minutes.

I tried to apologize but she wouldn't listen. Finally I said, "Look, records don't belong on chairs to begin with." She kicked me in the ankle and ordered me to leave.

I phoned Tina this morning but she hung up on me. What should I do now? I really dig this chick. — AL.

DEAR AL — This chick has a nasty temper and no self-control. This is a dangerous combination. With a little luck you might lose her altogether.

* * *

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

By KENNETH L. WHITING

LAGOS (AP) — Tourists who think they've seen everything might consider a 13-day drive across the Sahara Desert, spending Christmas in Timbuktu.

Those interested should acquire a sleeping bag and other camping gear, plus a foam rubber cushion for use with camel saddles, and then contact Dr. Eugenie Thomas.

She is a 52-year-old Dutch-born physician who relishes being called a "desert rat" and has been motoring around the Sahara long enough to have earned the title.

She first visited the desert in 1938. Several years ago hardy tourists began paying for the privilege of accompanying her and her hobby now has been formalized. Her headquarters is in Kano, Nigeria.

Dr. Thomas says the best desert travellers are "those ruffians who have been all over the place. Office types usually don't fit in."

Americans, Britons, Dutch, French, Swiss, Poles, Germans, Belgians, Norwegians and Kenyans have made desert crossings in her Land Rover named Saharien.

Dr. Thomas is waved across frontiers without red tape.

"I have more than 20 years worth of friendships to help me along."

She knows most trans-Sahara truck drivers and many occupants of the Beau Geste-style forts originally built for the French Foreign Legion.

CHRISTMAS TOUR

The Christmas-in-Timbuktu tour leaves Tangier Dec. 16 and makes stops at Fez, Ouzda, Colomb-Bechar, Adrar and Bourem before arriving at Timbuktu. Stops are then made at Goa, Niamey and Maradi before journey's end at Kano.

Dr. Thomas doesn't worry about competition.

"I don't think any other fool does what I do. Driving through the desert is relaxation for me. Everything else is strain. Some people like the sea. I hate it. I just like the desert."

Dr. Thomas worked in a clinic at Toulon, France, before the Second World War and was in the French underground during the war. Since then most of her time has been spent in or on the fringes of the Sahara.

Motoring through drifting desert sand requires "experience and very fast decision making," she says.

"I unload the passengers and let them walk when the track gets particularly bad. A slow, even speed is usually best because the wheels dig in if you accelerate."

The stretch between Agadez, in Niger, and Tamanrasset, Algeria, is the most difficult, she believes.

"Many men look at me and say 'If a woman can do it so can I,'" she says. "Many of them don't take enough water, or try to drive across in unsuitable vehicles.

"Some panic when the water runs low or the car breaks down. They start walking by day instead of night. If they are lucky they catch a ride on a truck or walk to a village. They sell their clothes and cameras for a pittance to get the fare home."

QUICK REFRIGERATOR DESSERT

In our house we have run into a series of guest meals. For two days in a row we had carloads of friends arrive for both lunch and dinner. This meant, the refrigerator was bulging and well-nigh running over.

I made this dessert "just in case . . ." and sure enough was glad to be able to produce it like magic for a late dinner one evening after working overtime in the office.

PINEAPPLE PARTY LOAF (serves 8):

One 10-oz. can crushed pineapple, one package vanilla pudding and pie filling (not instant), 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) plain gelatine, 1 pt. vanilla or strawberry ice cream, 12 lady fingers (split lengthwise to make 24 halves).

Drain the canned pineapple and measure the syrup. Add enough water to make it up to 1 2/3 cups liquid.

In a large saucepan combine the pudding mix, dry gelatine and the diluted pineapple syrup. When mixed, stir over medium heat constantly until pudding comes to a hard boil Remove from heat and cool 5 minutes, stirring once or twice.

Now add the ice cream and stir until it is melted and blended in. The ice cream speeds up the chilling process so it begins to thicken fairly quickly. At this stage stir in the drained pineapple.

Line an 8½ x 4½ x 2½" loaf pan with double wax paper, having it extend 1" over each end of pan to facilitate removal. Neatly line bottom and sides with the split lady fingers. Spoon in the pudding. Shake gently to make it flow between cracks.

Chill at least 3 hours. Cover it if it is to be chilled overnight.

Carefully lift from pan onto oblong serving dish. Cautiously peel and tear off wax paper from ends and sides. The wax paper underneath should be left in place for it is too difficult to remove.

Make permanent shelf edgings from thin plywood. Tack on, and point to match closet or cupboard.

No lures at Food City

How come?

We figure there are enough practical people around who would rather save up to 15% every week on their food bill than play games or collect stamps. There's nothing terribly wrong with supermarket games and stamp plans. Except that they have a habit of distracting people from the real purpose of a shopping trip . . . which is how to buy the best quality foods for the least money. Another thing, games and stamp plans cost a supermarket a tidy sum to operate. Frankly we decided to spend that money directly on our customers by lowering prices on over 6000 items every day of the week . . . Monday thru Saturday. Don't let anyone tell you that Food City sacrifices quality for price. Take a look at our grocery shelves. All the leading quality brands are there. Even our meat department people are fuss-pots about quality. They handle only Red Brand Beef, Canada's finest grade. Like we said in the beginning, the only lures we use are honest-to-goodness discount prices every day of the week. Kind of makes sense doesn't it?

Fifteen hundred enthusiasts, young and old, defied the Weatherman, Sunday when the annual children's picnic of the ANAF Unit No. 201 was held at Cedardale Beach. Two buses, leaving from the Market Square, helped to provide transportation.

The picnickers enjoyed a varied program. There were the usual races for the younger set, from five to twelve, with appropriate prizes, and all children below the age of five received gifts. A feature of the day was a baseball game between Army, Navy and Air Force veteran members and associate members of the unit. The ANAF Pipe Band was in attendance.

Despite the inclement weather even the steak barbecue did well and there were refreshments for all, ice cream and "pop" galore for the kiddies, peanut scrambles, bubble gum and other treats.

Following are the results of the races:

RACES

Girls 5 to 6—1 Belinda Blaind, 2 Bennie Locke, 3 Dianne Douglas.

Boys 5 to 6—1 Steven Deline, 2 Frank Davidson, 3 Paul Stewart.

Girls 7 to 8—1 Celeste Baragar, 2 Sharon Purdy 3 Jane Rodding.

Boys 7 to 8—1 and 2 John Douglas, Terry Huis, 3 Earl Rosebush.

Girls 9 to 10—1 Bonnie Douglas, 2 Linda Pruss, 3 Vickie Drumm.

Boys 9 to 10—1 Michael Burley, 2 Peter Molaski, 3 Maurice Young.

Ottawa Will Build Civic Sports Centre

OTTAWA (CP)—City council early today approved a $5,000,000 multi-purpose civic sports centre for Lansdowne Park that will boost seating capacity at football games to 27,000 from 22,000 in 1966.

Approval came after months of wrangling over the site of the project, its design and cost. Some hurdles still remain.

The 10,000-seat grandstand at Lansdowne - home of the Eastern Footfall Conference Rough Riders - will be demolished and a 15,000 - seat stand erected. With the other existing 12,000 seats this will leave the park with 27,000 seats.

A 10,000-seat covered hockey arena will be attached to the new stand, with an eye to possibly obtaining a professional franchise.

The entire project is to be completed by Jan 1, 1967.

Charge Three Defraud Bank Of $220,000

VANCOUVER (CP)— Three Vancouver businessmen were charged Tuesday night with conspiring to defraud and defrauding the Bank of Nova Scotia of $220,000.

Scheduled to appear in court today are William Alexander Kerr, 52, a former branch manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia; Donald A. Charles, 58, self-employed in the motion picture business; and contractor Emanual David Blake, 45.

The charges followed police investigation of sudden and unexplained fluctations in the price of shares in Dundee Mines Ltd. on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

Boys Attempt To Burn School

TORONTO (CP) — Two boys were charged Tuesday with arson after four gallons of gasoline stolen from a parked truck were poured on the roof of Charles G. Fraser public school and set afire.

Damage to the school has not been estimated.

Youngsters Start 'Copter, Flee in Alarm

TERRACE, B.C. (CP)—Two youngsters, aged nine and five, climbed into an unattended helicopter here Tuesday and managed to get the engine started.

But, RCMP said, the blade was feathered and the helicopter did not leave the ground.

The frightened youngsters leaped from the craft as the rotor blade spun at about 4,000 revolutions a minute.

The boys told RCMP they were pretending they were pilots.

New Phase in Viet Nam War One Year Old and Big Dangers Seem Nearer

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

Just a year ago, on Aug. 4, the United States for the first time bombed North Viet Nam and began what the defence department would call an escalation process — the new phase."

What has been the result thus far? Big dangers seem nearer, the frustrations even greater. The path to solution appears as agonizingly elusive as it was before North Viet Nam tested the U.S. "paper tiger" and found it had sharp teeth.

A year ago, the United States had 16,300 troops in South Viet Nam, technically advisers. Now there are 75,000 there, many in active combat. The conflict, in President Johnson's words, has become a real war.

This is the anniversary of U.S. retaliation against North Vietnamese mainland bases after their torpedo boats attacked U.S. warships in the Tonkin Gulf. That began the gradual process by which the United States became deeply committed to war on the Asian mainland.

The year of the "new phase" has brought changes which have frayed world nerves. Red China exploded its way into the atomic weapons club. The Soviet Union lost its rambunctious leader, Nikita S. Khrushchev. South Viet Nam's generals turned on their strongman, Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, and evicted him in another of their innumerable coups. And the elusive Viet Cong sharply changed tactics and tempo.

Informed opinion has speculated that Peking masterminded the events which led to the turn in the Viet Nam crisis, that Red China prodded Hanoi into the torpedo boat attacks.

If Red China had a hand in the test of the U.S. "paper tiger," it could have been regarded as just as much a challenge to Moscow and Khrushchev as it was to the United States. Indeed, it may have been a factor in Khrushchev's fall two months later.

But Red China was itself doing more talking than acting. It was reported strengthening garrisons on the Vietnamese border and souping up the training of its 30,000,000 or so militia. But still it did nothing directly.

Red China's big contribution throughout the year was to block efforts at negotiations and to accuse the Soviet Union of "co-operating with the U.S. imperialists in a peace talks swindle."

Evidently, for all their ominous talk of a new Korea, the Chinese felt that while the United States expended riches and men in a frustrating jungle war, Peking could afford to wait.

Believe Fire Along Riviera Is Burned Out

LE LAVANDOU (Reuters) — The wind blew gently from the east today over a blackened 25-mile strip of the French Riviera, bringing hope to an army of firefighters exhausted by three days of non-stop battle against the flames.

The blaze — which has claimed two lives, injured 16 persons, destroyed luxury villas and wiped out tourist camps — changed direction Tuesday night and now is licking over already scorched ground.

Some villas and hotels beside the Mediterranean were still threatened. But naval firetugs stood by offshore in case the flames got too close.

Families have been evacuated from threatened buildings overlooking the sea, and thousands of campers spent the night on the roadside or the beaches.

"This is going to be the end of it — unless the wind changes direction. Before the end of the day, if things go on like this, we will have put out the three centres of the fire which are still burning."

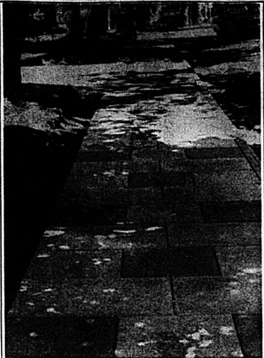
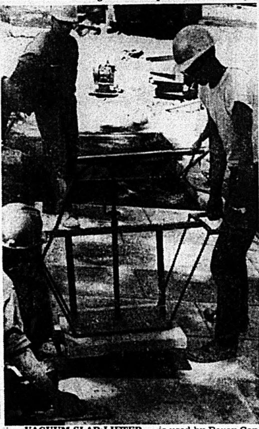
Haircuts $1.75

TORONTO (CP) — Haircut prices have increased to $1.75 in the four Toronto suburbs of North York, York Township, Scarborough and Etobicoke, it was announced Tuesday night.

Previous union prices ranged from $1.25 to $1.50.



PATIO SIDEWALK — is being tried in Belleville this year as a variation from conventional walk replacement. The patio type is being installed on Church Street between Bridge and Campbell.



VACUUM SLAB LIFTER — is used by Revoy Construction workers for easy handling of heavy concrete slabs. About 25 per cent of walk area slabs are charcoal colored.

Pre-cast Patio-type Slabs Are Used in Test Sidewalk

With the sidewalk on the west side of Church Street from Bridge to Campbell badly deteriorated and in need of replacement, the city works department this year decided to try an experiment which has proven successful in several other centres.

So, instead of pouring new concrete in the conventional manner, a patio type walk of precast concrete slabs is being tried. About 25 per cent of the walk area is of charcoal colored slabs, the remainder in natural concrete color.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said the patio type slab walk had proven successful in residential areas in Toronto. Vehicle crossovers and driveway entrances must be of poured concrete at the weight of vehicles would break the slabs.

The two-inch thick slabs are of different sizes allowing various pattern designs. They are laid on a gravel and sand base, the same as backyard patios.

No Division of Opinion In Cabinet on Viet Nam Statement From Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — Conflicting statements on Viet Nam by Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin are giving rise to speculation of a cabinet split.

However, after hearing about the speculation, Mr. Martin issued a one - sentence denial. "There is no division of opinion in the cabinet on this matter," he said through a spokesman.

The spokesman said he was not authorized to comment on government policy toward Canadian involvement in the Vietnamese conflict.

For more than 48 hours previously, no official explanation had been forthcoming from either the prime minister or Mr. Martin about the letter of President Johnson about Viet Nam.

The result has been political jabs from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and an apparent lining up behind Mr. Pearson or Mr. Martin among officials here.

PM QUESTIONED

It all started when Mr. Pearson was asked at a press conference last Friday whether President Johnson had asked Canada, as well as other U.S. allies, for "token measures of military support" in Viet Nam.

Yes, replied the prime minister. He hadn't replied to the president's letter at that time but the government was studying the matter.

He added that Canada isn't in the same position as other nations. This country is a member of the international truce supervisory commissions in Southeast Asia.

The implication was that Canada can't be a referee and a participant in the Viet Nam war.

Mr. Martin fired off a sharp no from his Windsor, Ont., home a few hours later. Canada hadn't been asked for troops or other armed forces. There hadn't been any suggestion of aid "of a kind that Canada is not now providing."

Canada's aid now consists of medical help, flour and educational and scientific assistance.

Mr. Martin, recuperating from a spinal injury, hopped a plane to the capital during the weekend. But Mr. Pearson was still out of the capital after a weekend holiday.

KEEPS SUBJECT ALIVE

Mr. Diefenbaker kept the subject alive by saying in an interview that Canadians deserve more than "equivocation and directly contrary statements" as the Viet Nam crisis worsens.

He accused the two government members of uncertainty and equivocation and "inability to interpret simple works."

Meanwhile, inquiries about the presidential letter and the two statements brought varying explanations.

One official suggested Mr. Martin talked too soon and without even knowing what letter Mr. Pearson was referring to. He maintained the letter did in fact ask for a token military commitment from Canada.

On the other side, Martin supporters suggested that Mr. Pearson misunderstood the question about the president's letter, that the prime minister missed the words "token measures of military support."

Alternatively, it was suggested that Mr. Johnson had sent along more than one letter, a copy of a letter referring to military support intended for other allies than Canada and a second letter, intended for Canada, referring to something else.

Maybe Mr. Pearson got the two confused, it was suggested.

Economic Situation in Dominican Republic Said Serious, All Want Peace

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) Negotiations for a settlement of the Dominican Republic's political crisis between the Organization of American States mission and the two opposing governments in this divided country are continuing slowly, OAS sources said Tuesday.

The sources said the country's economic situation is serious and all sectors of life, from the chambers of commerce to the unions, desperately want peace and the settlement of the stalemated civil war.

Msgr. Hugo Polanco Brito, Roman Catholic Bishop of Santiago, the Dominican Republic's second - largest diocese, said: "The situation is very serious. People are not starving, but they are hungry and money is not circulating."

He said he has just returned from the village of Mazail, to the west of Santiago, where he described the situation as bad. The worst hunger area was from Santiago westward to the Haitian border. However, this was due mainly to a bad drought and was not solely due to the political situation, he said.

In the north, police and soldiers complained they have not been paid their July salaries.

Residents in several towns in the north said that since the soldiers have not been paid, movement is freer and there are fewer searches at checkpoints.

In spite of the black economic picture painted in the capital, the situation in the provinces does not look so serious on the surface. building work continues in Santiago and other towns, and farmers can be seen working in the rice fields in the Cibao Valley and cutting cane in the cane-growing areas.

Freshly painted slogans indicated support for ex-president Joaquin Balaguer, who has returned here from exile in New York, and for ex-president Juan Bosch, deposed in a 1963 coup. Few people mentioned the names of either Gen. Antonio Imbert, president of the "national reconstruction" government or Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, president of the "constitutionalist" government.

In Santiago, a businessman said the two local tobacco companies have started buying tobacco and foreign companies were expected to start buying any day. Owing to the world fall in the price of cocoa, many farmers in the Cibao area were seriously affected economically he said, and a lack of credit facilities was affecting business.

However, after more than three months of strife in the capital, there was an almost complete lack of tension in the countryside.

Japan Investing in B.C., Not Interested in Control

By TOM CARNEY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Investment yes, control no.

For the present, this seems to sum up the attitude of Japanese business interests toward British Columbia.

"We think it is better for us and for B.C. that we supply the needed capital and, where required, the technical know-how," says Andrew Ho, representing the giant Mitsui trading company here.

"That way, as 50-50 partners or minority shareholders, we can progress hand-in-hand with B.C. producers."

Kimihiko Hoshina, president of Sumitomo Shoji Canada Ltd., says his firm has "never thought it advisable even to try to control a Canadian company; we felt it would be wrong for us to do so."

"We are interested in copper, iron, nickel and other raw materials and the best way for us to ensure long-term supplies is to have money invested in the companies mining those raw materials. But we do not seek control; neither would we want control. In Canada we think Cana dians run their own business best."

Walter Wilson, mining statistician for the B.C. bureau of economics and statistics, says the major stimulus provided by the Japanese is "their willingness to sign contracts even if they didn't supply capital."

Long-term contracts enabled many embryonic mining companies to become a reality and helped keep existing mines in operation.

BUY COAL

At Fernie, in eastern B.C., Japanese consumption helps keep 500 coal miners working. Across the Alberta boundary at Canmore and Coleman, similar contracts provide other jobs. Last year the Japanese bought 60 per cent of the output of these mines. In Fernie's case that amounted to 400,000 tons of coal worth $5,000,000.

While existing coal contracts expire in 1967, mine officials are optimistic that further long-term agreements will be negotiated.

The port of Vancouver also feels the impact. More than 900,000 long tons of coal went into the holds of Japanese freighters in 1964, along with 400,000 tons of potash, 800,000 tons of sulphur and 155,000 tons of copper.

So far the B.C. government has given little more than moral support to Japanese businessmen. There is no central agency offering financial help and Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark says it's not likely one will be set up.

In any case, Japanese firms are already deeply commited and there appears to be no reason to think they will lose interest in B.C. Government officials estimate the Japanese supply about 20 per cent of the available capital in the B.C. mining industry.

PUT UP $350,000

Sumitomo learned about it and in return for 300,000 shares of Bethlehem stock it provided $350,000 in U.S. currency in 1960 to complete an exploration program in two of three mineral zones. The following year it bought 400,000 Bethlehem shares at $1.25 a share and also agreed to buy the mine's entire production of copper concentrate for a 10-year period.

Bethlehem President H. H. Huestis says $5,500,000 advanced by Sumitomo in 1961 enabled the property to start production in 1963. The Japanese group holds 700,000 shares —30.2 per cent—and this year is expected to buy $10,400,000 worth of concentrate.

Japanese interests also combined to help Granisle Copper Ltd. develop 51 claims on Copper Island in Babine Lake 400 miles northwest of Vancouver. Open-pit mining is scheduled to start next year.

Granisle raised $3,000,000 from a Canadian bank, then Sumitomo and Mitsubishi came up with another $7,012,000 and agreed to purchase all copper concentrate from the mine for 10 years.

One case where the Japanese exercise secondary control is the Yreka mine on Vancouver Island with proven copper and silver reserves of $4,000,000.

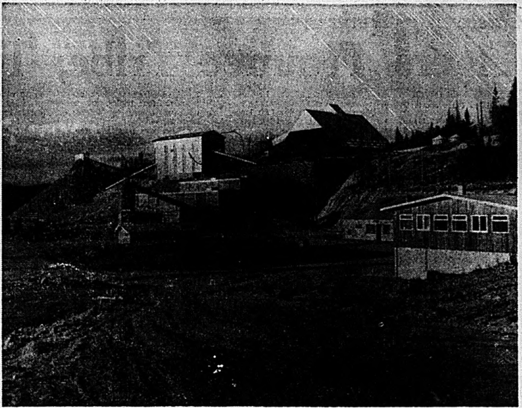
Noranda Mines Ltd. of Canada owns 76 per cent of Yreka but it has 49 per cent of the shares in Minoca Mines Ltd., new firm it set up in partnership with Mitsubishi Metal Mining Co. to operate the property on Quatsino Sound. Mitsubishi has 51 per cent and is spending $950,000 to equip the mine, scheduled to start producing this summer.

Titan Steel Wire Co. Ltd. is a result of a joint venture inte secondary industry. With an initial investment of $1,000,000, Titan Steel now is building a plant in Surrey near Vancouver. The plant is scheduled to go into production next year.

Hercules Steel, a Vancouver warehousing firm, will hold 30 per cent of its stock and will manage the plant. Kobe Steel (30 per cent) and Mitsui (40 per cent) will be the other share holders. The two Japanese firms will also supply machinery and technical advice.

Japanese technical skill has saved at least one B.C. industry. B.C. Packers Ltd. had beached its whaling fleet as uneconomic, when Taiyi Gyogo Ltd. of Tokyo suggested a joint operation. On a 50-50 basis they formed Western Canada Whaling Ltd. Japanese sailors skilled in the art of whaling arrived to teach B.C. fishermen their cost-saving methods and use of new devices.

Last year they produced 7,000,000 pounds of whale meat for use as fertilizer as well as dog and human food. Half the catch was shipped to Japan. The company now has five ships sailing out of Coal Harbor on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island.



JAPANESE INVESTMENT IN B.C. — This is the multi-million dollar mine owned by Bethlehem Copper Corporation Ltd. in British Columbia. H. H. Huestis, Bethlehem president, says Japanese technical help and a $5,500,000 advance by a Japanese company helped make the project a success and enabled it to start production in 1963. (CP Photo)

There may be a lot more of this sort of thing. Premier Bennett, during his Tokyo talks with Japanese government leaders, discussed such possibilities as:

—Construction of a pulp mill near Stewart, B.C., 550 miles northwest of Vancouver on the Alaska border, by the Honshu paper manufacturing interests.

—Establishment of an iron and steel smelter.

—Establishment of a copper smelter.

—Further B.C. power development as well as equipment needed for current Peace and Columbia River development.

—Establishment of a chemical fertilizer plant costing more than $100,000,000 and capable of producing more than 500,000 tons annually.

The provincial trade mission also signed a contract to ship 12,000 tons of liquefied petroleum, shipments to begin in October. The gas would be bottled in Tokyo for industrial and home-heating use as well as fuel for taxicabs.

Colonel, Major, Sergeant, Businessman and Reporter Differ on Viet Nam War

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG (AP)—How long will the war in South Viet Nam last?

The prospect is that victory still is an indefinite number of rice crops away and probably an indefinite number of billions of dollars.

That is, if it is fought to a military conclusion.

Some optimists think that a military verdict ran be achieved in at most a few years by cutting off the Viet Cong from their supply sources and destroying their strength in the field by the attrition of many battles.

All agree, more or less, however, that military victory will be delayed or rendered impossible if the south vietnamese fail to maintain a strong central government in Saigon which the people can respect and support.

VIEWS VARY

I'd like to present the views of some of these I've discussed the war with.

An American colonel:

"I thought it was hopeless. But now I have hope. I think our air power has enabled us to turn the corner. It boosted the morale of the people. I don't know how long it will take but I believe now we can win."

A French businessman:

"You can't win with airpower and you can't win by running up and down the roads in armored cars. The French tried that and lost. You can't win except with masses of infantry. Until you do that we are all prisoners here."

A veteran newspaper man:

"The Viet Cong aren't getting weaker, they're stronger. They used to fight as squads platoons or, at the most, as companies. Now they're organized at the battalion and even regiment level They hold the countryside. We hold cities. Our airpower is hurting them but where are we going to get the manpower to whip them?"

An American major:

"They can't defeat us but to whip them we need a full division roughly for each of the 47 Vietnamese provinces. That means we'll need a lot more troops from other countries."

An American sergeant:

"If they can't win with their own guts we can't do it with dollars. This whole country to me isn't worth one drop of American blood. I get out of here in three months and I'll be glad to go."

"Surely," said the man, "during that drab, dusty, and dismal existence you have put in since you led the Light Brigade at Balaclava, there have been some exciting moments.

"I hear you've been shot at by Germans, rode on of the Trafalgar Square lions bareback as dawn silvered a heavy London fog; mistaken for a gangster; chased by an heiress, arrested for masquerading as a porpoise, and acted as a color guard for a Bohemian at a golf soiree."

"I also heard," the man went on, "that one night while on a hockey junket with a city squad something happened that scared you so much you sweated ice cubes, promised yourself you would never lie again, help old ladies across the street, return all borrowed equipment, go to church regularly, never hold out on the pay cheque and go back to college for a degree in theology.

I was scared out of my snuggies for a few minutes that seemed like three birthdays in a row. The first fright I had lasted three years. That was when I was one of the targets for duck-shooting Heinie snipers. And anyone who tells you he wasn't scared rates a halo from Ananias.

We were westward-bound in a creaking bus jalopy headed, for, I think, Sarnia. We took off about 4.45 on a dismal, foggy, rain-misted afternoon. Jack McNab was the pilot.

We reached the western outskirts of Cobourg when the jolting jalopy ground to a halt. Darkness had set in.

He skipped out the door with an armful of assorted wrenches while the boys passed the time away playing "Old Maid" and studying the fundamentals of a game called "craps."

The bus windows were fogged with mist and rain drizzle. Being of a curious nature I rubbed a spot of glass clean and peered through.

I froze in my seat.

"Below me stretched two ribbons of steel. I looked again. They were railroad tracks. We were squarely astride a railroad crossing.

I told the boys. They looked—and laughed. "So what, Carver? There are no railroads down this way."

Then it came—out of the evening air.

A long whistle. It sounded like a locomotive drooling for the kill.

The boys heard it. It was their turn to "freeze." No one moved.

We waited for something, we knew not what.

The seconds turned into weeks. No one panicked but suddenly there was a quick motion to the exit.

McNab was tinkering with the motor as unconcerned as an elephant faced by a murderous mouse.

I remembered I had not paid the city editor the two bucks I borrowed two weeks previous. My insurance premium was past due.

Still nothing happened. McNab finally climbed aboard and the motor roared into life.

"What's wrong with you guys?" he sang out, "you look as if you had seen a ghost."

"That whistle—the railroad tracks?" asked the first to regain control of his tonsils.

McNab threw back his head and laughed.

"The whistle was a Cobourg industry tooting the six o'clock quitting time."

Dominion Rifle Meet

Fires Perfect 50 Score

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—The tuneups are over and competitors at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches are set to fight it out for spots on the team which will represent Canada at the Commonwealth shooting championships at Bisley, England, next summer.

The four remaining days in the week - long championships are packed with crucial matches in which a stray shot could cost an eager shooter a coveted spot on the Bisley team.

First of the approaching matches counting toward the Bisley aggregate were to be fired today.

Only one match in the first three days of competition counted toward the Bisley total. It was the Bankers' Match, fired from 300 and 600 yards Tuesday.

Five marksmen overcame stiff winds and low temperatures to score 98 of a possible 100 points in the match.

Tpr. Arne Sorensen of Calgary won the ensuing shoot-off Tuesday night under much better weather conditions. Sorensen,a veteran competitor at the DCRA matches and a member of the Bisley team in 1964, had a perfect score of 25 in the shoot-off. Arnold Park of Winnipeg was awarded second on the basis of better finishing shots in the original match, followed by Lt. - Col. Don Brereton of Winnipeg, Tpr. Earl Brown of Calgary and Capt. Bill Molnar of Camp Gagetown, N.B.

Norm Moseley of Dartmouth, N.S., accomplished a rare feat in the Gatineau match, fired through a stiff wind Tuesday afternoon.

Although he had never fired in a match from 1,000 yards, the 60-year-old electrician with the naval research establishment fired his .303 rifle into the heart of the bullseye 10 straight times for a perfect score of 50.

Only one other competitor, Lt. Cmdr Ed Ryan of Kingston, was able to come within a point of Moseley, as the shooters were forced to buck a steady wing which, over 1,000 yards, can send a .30 bul3let as much as 15 feet off the target.

Tigers Trounce Tribe; Twins Beaten

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Knock an ordinary man down and he'll get up rubbing his chin, but Don Zimmer will bounce up and hit you with it.

Washington Senators' Zimmer, who has had plenty of ups and downs in his 12 years as a major leaguer, shrugged off goat horns Tuesday night and led the Senators to a 4-2 victory over Minnesota Twins in the second game of a doubleheader.

The American League-leading Twins, playing without injured star Harmon Killebrew, took the opener 4-3, scoring the deciding run on third baseman Zimmer's double error in the seventh inning. He made amends with a tie-breaking two-run double in the fifth inning of the nightcap and left hander Mike McCormick made the margin stand up with a six-hitter.

The doubleheader split, coupled with Baltimore Orioles' 5-2 victory over Los Angeles Angels, trimmed Minnesota's league lead over the second-place Orioles to 5½ games.

WHITE SOX WIN

Elsewhere, Chicago White Sox edged New York Yankees 3-2 on Ron Hansen's bases-loaded triple; Detroit Tigers struck for nine runs in the fifth inning and buried Cleveland Indians 12-7, and Boston Red Sox routed Kansas City Athletics 10-5 with an extra base attack that included four triples, and a three-run homer by Pitcher Earl Wilson.

Zimmer was nursing a fractured fielding average after committing three errors in the opener, including the costly bobbles in the seventh when he booted Zoilo Versalles' grounder and then threw wildly as pitcher Jim Grant raced home from first with the Twins' fourth run.

The first of Frank Howard's two homers in the Twin bill pulled the Senators within one run in the eighth but Grant got his 13th victory, tops in the league, with relief help from Bill Pleis and Al Wrothington.

Versalles evened the nightcap at 2-2 with a two-run homer in the third inning but Zimmer's double broke the tie after singles by Willie Kirkland and Dick Nen in the fifth.

Curt Blefary drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and his 15th homer and Norm Siebern delivered a pair with a double and single, leading the Orioles past Los Angeles. Steve Barber picked up the victory, his 10th, in relief of Wally Bunker, forced out in the sixth with a blister on his pitching hand.

BUZHARDT WINS

Hansen's three-run double off Mel Stottlemyre with two out in the fourth inning erased a 2-0 New York lead and knuckleballer Eddie Fisher wrapped it up for the White Sox with 2 2-3 scoreless relief innings. John Buzhardt was the winner, boosting his career record against the Yankees to 6-0.

The Tigers strafed rookie Steve Hargan and two successors for eight hits—two by Bill Freehan—in the fifth inning explosion after Cleveland had broken to a 7-2 early lead.

Wilson accounted for Boston's last three runs with his fourth homer of the season in the seventh inning. Triples by Lennie Green, Russ Nixon, Rico Petrocelli and Carl Yastrzemski helped the Red Sox build a 10-0 lead before the Athletics finally got to Wilson, now 8-8, for three runs in the eighth and a two-run homer by Bill Bryan in the ninth.

Women's Open Golf

Marlene Streit Solid Favorite

By JIM CRERAR

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Wind and wasps took their toll as the 36-hole qualifying test in the Canadian Women's Open golf championship ended here Tuesday.

The tournament swung into match play today with the low 32 in the field of 122 qualifying for the championship flight. The rest dropped into consolation flights.

Competitors Tuesday had to put up with gusts winds and one of them, Mary Gay of Kitchener, was stung by wasps on both ankles on the 13th hole.

Marlene Streit of Fonthill, Ont., eight-time winner of the open title and seven-time Canadian Women's Close champion, established herself as a solid favorite by leading the qualifyers with a two - round total of 165. Mrs. Streit shot a two-over-par 77 despite the winds.

"I feel as if I'm driving well. On this course position is important and I'm hitting for position well so far this week," she said.

Sandra Post of Milton, Ont., a 17-year-old high school student who last week won her second consecutive Canadian junior championship here, shot a 78 for 156. She needed only 29 putts over the 18 holes, one-putting nine greens.

Gail Harvey, 22-year-old Torontonian who last week captured her second Canadian Women's Close championship in a row, was third low qualifier in the open with a 157. Her 75 was the low score of the day.

Miss Harvey fired the par round despite pulled tendons in her left thumb. She said she pulled them two days ago but has been able to work out the stiffness in practice. She was sure she would be able to continue.

Miss Gay had 86 for the round and qualified with 169.

Other qualifiers included Sue Hilton of London, Ont., who led after the first 18 holes Monday with a 74 but ballooned to an 89 in the wind and wound up at 163, Rae Milligan of Calgary at 165, Mrs. Judy Darling Evans of Montreal at 170 and Betty Stanhope Cole of Toronto at 172.

Lead Series 2-1

Juniors Whip Lombanks

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

The Belleville Ellis Juniors, behind the four hit pitching of Bob Ethier and good clutch hitting by his team - mates, defeated Tweed Lombanks 5-1 in the third game of the B. and D. Softball League semi - final playdowns. The victory last night gave the Juniors a 2-1 edge in the best-of-five set, which continues in Madoc Thursday night.

In the other half of the semi-finals, Bloomfield could wrap things up with a win tomorrow night over Trudeau Motors.

Tweed started the scoring with a run in the first frame, as they collected two hits off Ethier. They were unable to go any further, however as Ethier allowed only two singles in the final eight innings. He struck out 13 and walked three.

Belleville replied with three in the second, added two more in the seventh off Lombank pitcher Joe Barrons. For the first three tallies, Ethier singled, Don Gardiner walked, Wayne Wood safetied and Bob Moon drove them in with a single that was bobbled by a Tweed outfielder.

Barrons toiled the entire game for the losers, and gave up eight hits, struck out six and walked three.

Bob Moon and Ethier led the winners in the hitting department with a pair of singles each. Mike Chatland, Don Gardner, Wayne Wood and Larry Soule all contributed base-hits.

Marichal Nudges Koufax

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Juan Marichal, San Francisco's ace right-hander, is threatening to end Sandy Koufax's three-year reign as National League earned run champion, the latest averages revealed Tuesday.

Figures do not include Tuesday's games.

Marichal paces the National League with a 1.60 earned run average followed by Vernon Law of Pittsburgh with 1.89. Koufax, the Dodgers' star southpaw, is third at 2.07.

Mairchal, the major league leader in shutouts with eight, has given up only 35 earned runs in 197 innings while posting a 16-8 record. He has blanked New York Mets three times and Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia and Houston once each.

Law, who has an 11-9 record, has yielded 33 earned runs in 157 innings. The veteran right-hander has three shutouts.

Koufax, 18-4, has worked 213 innings and given up 49 earned runs. He has three shutouts and leads the league in strikeouts with 241. Koufax was the era title-holder in 1962 with 2.54, in 1963 with 1.88 and last season with 1.74.

Cubs' Faul Hypnotizes Self, Batters

Retires Last 19

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago Cubs pitcher Bill Faul has the whole National League spooked.

Faul is the Detroit Tiger discard who has evil-eyed his way into the Cubs' starting rotation with a string of shutout pitching that would frighten any hitter.

The young right-hander, who claims his secret is hypnosis, blanked Philadelphia Phillies on just two hits Tuesday night and drove in a run with a single in the Cubs' 2-0 victory.

"I hypnotize myself before the game, and I'm then able to hypnotize the hitters," Faul said later. "I was really concentrating in my subconscious state on the mound."

It certainly looked like Faul had the Phillies under some kind of spell. After Wes Covington's double in the second and Tony Gonzale's sindle in the third, Faul did not permit another baserunner, retiring the last 19 batters he faced.

Other strange things seem to happen while Faul's on the mound. He was the pitcher on both occasions when the Cubs pulled off two triple plays inside of 11 days last month.

Tuesday night's shutout gave Faul a string of 26 innings in which be has allowed just one run.

Pittsburgh Pirates' Vern Law turned in his third shutout of the season against New york Mets Tuesday night as the Pirates romped to a 7-0 victory.

Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants topped Cincinnati Reds 6-3 in 11 innings and Houston Astros split a doubleheader with St. Louis Cardinals, winning 10-7 before losing 7-0. Los Angeles Angels' game at Milwaukee against the Braves was rained out.

Law alowed just three singles and got all the hitting support he needed from Roberto Clemente, Willie Stargell and Gene Alley. Clemente drove in two runs with a triple and a single, Stargell had three hits including two doubles and Alley hit the game's only homer.

Leo Cardenas' throwing error allowed two runs to score in the 11th as the Giants broke a 2-2 tie with a four-run burst. Willie McCovey homered for San Francisco and Pete Rose had a two-run shot for the Reds.

Cincinnati scored a run and had the bases loaded in the bottom of the 11th but Masanori Murakami fanned Vada Pinson, and Bob Bolin struck out Frank Robinson, ending the threat.

Ray Washburn pitched a six-hitter and Ken Boyer drove in four runs with a single, double and homer as St. Louis gained the split against Houston. Jim Wynn and Bob Aspromonte drove in three runs apiece as the Astros won the first game.

City Hotel Defeats Cosmos 6-1

City Hotel continued their domination of the Commercial Softball league with a 6-1 drubbing of the R.C.A.F. Cosmos last night. The loss left the Cosmos in third place.

The Hotelmen notched one in the first and second frames, and added two in the third. The losers scored their first and last in the fifth, and City potted two in the next frame to win going away.

The Cosmos left men on in every inning except the fourth, as they lacked timely hits.

Dave Feeney hurled the entire game on the winners' mound, and gave up only one run, five hits, three free passes and had a lone strikeout.

Campbell allowed six runs in taking the loss. He was tagged with seven hits, walked three and struck out four.

Tom Coolen led the Hotelmen with a triple and double. Hull, Moreau, Feeney and Murray contributed doubles while Martin stroked a safety.

Mackie slammed a two basehit, Rainbath smashed two singles, and Ennis and Arkell had one hit each.

HAS FINGER FOR THUMB

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — A tall intruder from Versailles, Ky., made it look easy at Fort Erie Raceway here as two of his "runners" ran away with first money on Tuesday's card.

Doug Davis Jr., who appeared here four years ago and has been back every season since, entered Canadian Request and Spy Davelle Tuesday.

Canadian Request was 13½ lengths ahead of the closest competitors when she finished. Spy Davelle won by 5¾ lengths in the featured Buffalo Canoe Club Purse.

The two wins for Davis gave him a total of four this season and puts him in a fourth-place tie in the trainer's competition.

The daily double of Contest Man and Roman Dipper paid $40.60, while the quinella of Peter Picker and Daring Bull returned $15.70 in the fifth.

TROTTER DIES

HANOVER, Pa. (AP)—Hoot Mon, noted sire of trotters and pacers and a top competitor in his harness racing years, died Monday night at the Hanover Shoe Farms. He was 21 years old. Hoot Mon won the 1947 Hambletonian and other three-year-old stakes. He sired four Hambletonian winners—the filly Helicopter in 1953, Scot Frost in 1955, Blaze Hanover in 1960 and A.C.'s Viking in 1962.

THIESEN CUT

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers Tuesday cut import halfback Dave Thiesen and replaced him with Allen Miller, a guard and linebacker picked up from Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Thiesen had played in the defensive backfield and kicked placements. Miller, from Washington Redskins of the National League, joined the Ticats last season.

Baseball Business Or Sport

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The question whether baseball should be considered a business or a sport went before the court Tuesday with the filing of Milwaukee County's anti-trust suit against Milwaukee Braves, the nine other National League teams and the league itself.

The county asked that the defendants be found guilty of violating the Sherman Act and similar Wisconsin statutes by acting to move the Braves' franchise from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

The county asked the federal court to require the defendants either to grant a new franchise to Milwaukee, or to permit purchase of the Braves by interests which would keep the club here, and to restrain the Braves from playing home games anywhere other than county Stadium until one of the alternatives has been complied with.

County corporation counsel Robert Russell said his next move probably would be to ask the court for a temporary injunction barring the Braves from further implementing their move until the case can be tried.

However, the Braves may elect to move first and ask the court to dismiss the action.

If the court should grant a request for dismissal, baseball would be out of court free, the Braves would be in Atlanta, and Milwaukee would be out of the major leagues.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method
by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

A CRUCIAL STAGE OF THE SWING

I think that one of the most crucial points in the golf swing occurs when the player begins returning the club to the ball. If you will look at the illustrations, which show this stage of the swing from different angles, I will point out key features that will help any golfer.

In No. 1, note that though the downswing has just started, already my left heel is firmly planted and my lower body has uncoiled to my left. This quick shifting of weight to my left foot eventually results in additional clubhead speed.

In No. 2, you will see that my right elbow has returned to my right side. This not only helps insure a delayed uncocking of my wrists, but it also helps keep the clubhead on its proper path.

Illustration No. 3 shows that my right shoulder has started to lower, thus keeping the clubhead well inside the target line, and that my left hand and straight left arm are pulling the club downward to the ball with my wrists still cocked.

Replaces Johnson

Bombers Will Use Gray

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg coach Bud Grant did the expected Tuesday and announced that 10-year veteran Herb Gray will be back in a Blue Bomber uniform for tonight's Western Football Conference game with British Columbia Lions.

Grant says he'll play his 30-year-old defensive star in the offensive guard position usually filled by Charlie Johnson. Johnson will sit out the contest against last year's Grey Cup champions.

Gray, top lineman in Canada in 1960, was waived through the Canadian Football League last week. There was speculation that Grant made the move to give him time to recover from a kidney ailment.

Tuesday's move was expected to strengthen the Winnipeg offence which has already earned some healthy respect on the basis of its performance in Edmonton Friday when the Bombers downed the Eskimos 21-14 in the league opener.

Coach Dave Skrien of B.C., who watched the game, says: "The bombers offensive was sharp, especially on the sweep. Their over-all precision and execution was impressive."

He wasn't quite as impressed with his own offensive—"we've made five offensive changes from last year"—and says his team isn't as good as it was when it won the Western Conference final and Gray Cup last year.

City Midgets Eliminated By Kingston

Kingston Midgets scored six unearned runs and went on to defeat Belleville 9-7 to take the E.O.B.A. best-of-five series between the two teams three games to none. Six Bellevill miscues handed the hometowners thir win last night.

The winners chore was shared by John Westlake and Rick Smith, with the latter winning. They gave up nine hits, struck out seven and walked two. Rodger Hunter pitched a strong game in defeat, allowing nine hits, whiffing seven and walking six. Howie Wark caught.

Terry Wellesley stroked three singles and a triple for Belleville. Dale Duvall hit a triple and single, as did Rodger Hunter. Paul Howe slammed a double.

WELSH WINS OUT

BLAENAU FESTINIOG Wales (CP)—A ban on speaking Welsh during working hours, imposed by the English owners of an engineering firm in this Merionethshire town, has been lifted because of public protest. The managers believed that bilingualism would lead to confusion, but at least two workers left when the ban was imposed.

Question Thelen Choice

Argonauts Add Four Ottawa Castoffs

Will Stage 500-mile Canoe Race

EDMONTON (CP)—Two six-man teams have been selected to represent Alberta in a 500-mile canoe race from North Bay to Kingston Aug. 8 to 28.

The race will serve as a test for a planned 3,500-mile cross-Canada race in 1967.

"The race will be sort of a test this year, but it will be a full-fledged race in 1966." John Nickle of Edmonton said Tuesday in announcing the team members.

The Alberta Paddlers' Association said it will send two teams this year and in 1966, but will select only one team from the top candidates for the 1967 race. Each team travelling east will be allowed one spare.

Selected for the 1965 race were:

Dale Hodge, Karel Vanderkley, Terry Ford, Ted Bentley, Leslie and Sid Webb, all of Edmonton; Robert Poluck, George and Albert Abel, Calgary; Adam Borys and Lance Mayer, Medicine Hat; Maxwell and Bryan Thomas, Rocky Mountain House; and Dave Maclure of Drayton Valley.

MAY TAKE CANOE RACES

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal's Cartierville Boating Club will defend the Canadian Canoe Association championship next weekend and on past performances they probably will take the major share of trophies back to Montreal. The Montreal squad has won the title for the last eight years and their main competition this year is expected to be the Mississauga Canoe Club of Port Credit, Ont., runners-up last year.

Coach Bob Shaw has added four Ottawa castoffs to the Argonaut lineup in the last few days—halfback George Reed, fullback Dave Thelen, and Len Sparks and tackle Dave Still.

Thelen worked out with the Argonauts Tuesday night, but his right to perform in Toronto is under question since he was also claimed on waivers Tuesday by Montreal Alouettes.

Under the waiver rules, the Argos, as the last - place team in the Eastern Football Conference last season, have first call on his services. An official ruling was expected to be made today by G. Sydney Halter, Canadian Football League commissioner.

Shaw said Tuesday there is a "strong possibility" all four will see action Friday when the Argos meet the Riders in the opening game of the 1965 Eastern Conference season in Toronto. Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes unveil their rosters Saturday night in Hamilton.

BEFORE DEADLINE

Shaw acquired the Ottawa players on waivers for $350 a player. He got Reed last Saturday, and picked up the others Tuesday, a half-hour before the waiver deadline of 6 p.m. EDT.

The big catch as far as Argos are concerned is Thelen, 28, the polished performer of seven years with the riders, twice winner of the eastern rushing title and a conference all-star four times.

To make room for Thelen and the two other players acquired Tuesday, Shaw had to release Canadian rookies Ted Aldridge and Pete Warren, and import linebacker Jim Wacker, also a rookie.

"We're taking a calculated risk," said Shaw. "But you do that any time you let a player go and pick up another one. Thelen is a proven player in the league. Sparks and Still have the experience to help us where we need it."

Sparks, 25, a three-year veteran, can play offensive end or defensive halfback. Still is a two - way player with good speed.

BASEBALLER DIES

MONTREAL (CP) — Marcel Dufresne, 51, road manager of the Montreal Royals baseball team from 1944-1955, died of heart failure at his suburban Beloeil home Monday. Following his period with the now-defunct International League club he worked in the public relations department of Molson Breweries.

Suns Split With Leafs, Chiefs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bob Sadowski proved he was worth keeping Tuesday night.

The Toronto Maple Leaf second baseman scored the winning run in the opening game of an International League doubleheader with Jacksonville Suns and drove in two runs in the nightcap.

The second - place Leafs scored five times in the sixth inning to whip the Suns 6-1 in the first game but Jacksonville came back to gain a split with an 11-7 win in the second game.

Sadowski is the only member of last season's Maple Leafs who was retained after Boston Red Sox of the American League took over the club early this year.

In other action league - leading Columbus Jets dropped a 4-3 decision to Syracuse Chiefs before a home crowd of 14,859, Atlanta Crackers dumped last-place Buffalo Bisons 7-3 and Toledo Mud Hens edged Rochester Red Wings 4-3 in 12 innings.

REVERSE RESULT

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The result of a July 18 International League baseball game between Jacksonville Suns and Toledo Mudhens was ordered reversed Tuesday by league president Tommy Richardson. Jacksonville won the first game of a twin bill 6-4 but Richardson ordered the forfeit because the Suns used infielder Joe Morgan, ineligible until July 19 because he was removed from the active list on July 9.

Pat McKinnon Following Sister Catherine's Career

Patricia, a 17-year-old grade 12 student, says her sister's success can serve as a guide-line for her. But Tress (she doesn't like to be called Pat) broke into network television on her own.

"I was singing at a high school show when a CBC producer heard me and later called me to ask if I would like to audition," the pretty blue-eyed brunette reflected.

The audition got her on Singalong Jubilee, the summer replacement for Don Messer's Jubilee. Catherine is a soloist on both shows.

Last fall Patricia landed a regular slot on Frank's Bandstand, CBC Halifax's contribution to the network show Music Hop.

This summer she's back with the Singalong chorus and is also doing a once-a-week CBC network radio show, The Young Folk, with Catherine and The Don Burke Four, a local singing group.

The girls first appeared together on television about nine years ago in London, Ont. Patricia, then 8, and Catherine, 12, sang Sisters on a young talent show.

They still do an occasional duet and team up for a number on Catherine's high-selling album, Voice of an Angel.

Patricia's ambition is to study music and art at Michigan State College and then ultimately "if I'm good enough"—to sing in a Broadway musical.

She was born in Shilo, Man., where her father, now a Halifax druggist, was stationed with the army's medical corps. The family also lived at Saint John, N.B., and London, Ont.

Mrs. McKinnon says while Catherine loved music, Patricia at the beginning found singing and piano lessons somewhat distasteful. But with seven years of voice lessons behind her and a little niche already established, her attitude has changed sharply.

Actually, Patricia started out with more of an ambition to become an artist than a singer. The drawing talent she displayed at school won her two scholarships in the Nova Scotia College of Art. She completed one year of the course.

Walt Disney's Cinderella Delights The Young at Heart of all Ages

Combining all the elements of fine family entertainment, comedy, pathos, suspense, color and music, Walt Disney's enchanting animated cartoon feature, "Cinderella", showing Tonight, and Tomorow, Thursday, for the last times, at the Belle Theatre, to delight the young in heart of all ages.

From its "Once upon a time" opening to the "and they lived happily ever after" ending, the screen is filled with sheer movie magic. The Disney artists have created fabulous sets and colorful costumes to dazzle the eye: awe-inspiring photographic and special effects to match the wildest of imaginations: Lilting music to set the heart singing, plus a cast of cartoon characters that is completely captivating.

The Disney conception of the beloved fairy tale, based on the popular French version by Charles Perrault, is an elaborate filmization of the legend of the fireside waif who not only goes from rags to riches but captures the heart of a handsome prince. Jointly directed by Wilfred Jackson, Hamilton Luske and Clyde Geronimi, the musical fantasy is enhanced by six original songs, by Mack David, Jerry Livingston and Al Hoffman - songs that range from romantic ballads to brilliant novelty tunes.

Performances begin daily at 2.00, 7.00 and 9.00, children 35c, matron in attendance, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

At the Park

"GENGHIS KHAN"

Columbia Pictures and producer Irving Allen, with the capable directorial hand of Henry Levin, Monday brought a spectacular and highly dramatic motion picture to the screen at the Park Theatre. The film is "Genghis Khan," in Panavision and Technicolor, with Omar Sharif in the title role, "Genghis Khan" is a stirring picturization of the life of that mighty warrior-emperor.

It is a lavish production, fascinating and action-filled. The outdoor locales are breathtakingly beautiful, especially those mountains through which Genghis Khan leads his legions during their trek from barbaric Mongolia to civilized China, some eight centuries ago. The sets and settings are equally lush in their grandeur, and the glowing costumes and armor add graphically to the splendor of Genghis Khan's mighty armies.

A cast of internationally-famous players contributes effectively to the very professional screenplay written by Clarke Reynolds and Beverly Cross, based on an original story by Berkely Mather. Stephen Boyd, remembered for his performances in "Ben Hur" and "The Fall of the Roman Empire," is the Mongol chieftain who is Genghis Khan's lifelong foe. Other reputable players are James Mason, Eli Wallach, Telly Savalas, Robert Morley and lovely French actress Francoise Dorleac in her first American-made film, as the wife of Genghis Khan.

Omar Sharif, who first came to the American screen as the dashing Shiekh Ali of "Lawrence of Arabia," deservedly merits renewed plaudits for his brilliant portrayal of Genghis Khan. However commendable the performances of his co-stars, Sharif's intensely exciting interpretation of the Prince of Conquerors stands out as a personal triumph.

Complete shows are at 7.00 - 9.15 p.m.

European Teams To Play Here

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—European teams will play 24 games in Canada next season, Gordon Juckes of Melville, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced Tuesday.

Juckes said Russian, Swedish, Czechoslovakian and Finnish national teams will play in this country. Russia won the 1965 world hockey championship at Tampere, Finland.

Dates were not announced. Juckes said the Russian team will arrive Dec. 12 for five games before going to Colorado Springs, Colo., for an international tournament.

European federations have confirmed plans for two Canadian teams to tour Europe next season. the teams have not been named, but Sherbrooke Beavers, Woodstock Athletics and Kingston Aces are under consideration.

PHILIP, ANNE LOSE

COWES, England (AP) — Prince Philip took the helm and his daughter, Princess Anne, stood in the cockpit Tuesday as he skippered the royal racing yacht Bloodhound in the Britannia Challenge Cup contest. The Bloodhound failed to finish with the leaders. First place was taken by an Australian sloop.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Charlton Heston (left), Ava Gardner and David Niven star in Samuel Bronston's multi-million dollar production of "55 Days At Peking," played against the backdrop of the Boxer Uprising in China. Heston portrays a United States Marine Corps major, Miss Gardner a glamorous Russian noblewoman and Niven a British diplomat. "55 Days At Peking" opens tonight (Buck Night) at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd action-packed feature, also in color "The Human Duplicators" stars George Nader, Barbara Nichols and George Macready.

John Larch Hopes to Solve Career Problem With Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — John Larch hopes to solve a career problem with a regular starring part in a weekly television series.

A strong, talented actor, Larch has found plenty of guest star roles as a free lance performer, moving from Dr. Kildare to Ben Casey, from Bonanza to The Fugitive.

Next season he will play a second world war merchant marine captain in NBC's new adventure series, Convoy.

"You know how it works in this business," he said. "They spot a kid in some station pumping gas, like his looks and the next thing you know they are announcing that he'll star in a new television series. I'm not knocking it, you understand, but you'll admit that this kind of instant stardom can bother the trained professionals."

"I decided that it was time for me to have a series—I really didn't care what kind of a show it was as long as it had some quality. The main thing was to enhance my name value and the way to do that now is to get your own series."

Larch with refreshing frankness declared that he was not interested in the financial aspects of a series.

"If you get the parts, you get money," he said. "Don't let them kid you. You can make a lot of money acting in television if you can act. Hell, you can even make plenty of money if you can't act."

Perry Como's seven musical specials next season will serve to give NBC's Andy Williams an occasional week off, as did the Jonathan Winters shows last season.

Les Crane, who has become so lovable since his return to ABC's Nightlife, hopes to be even more lovable now with a weekly panel of cute children spouting cute opinions—a sort of after-hours Art Linkletter. Next thing we know he'll probably acquire a darling dog.

Wind, Women, Wasps

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Mary Gay of Kitchener, runner-up in ast week's Canadian Women's Close championship, found out Tuesday the 13th hole can be unlucky, even on her home course.

Miss Gay, competing in the second 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round of the Canadian Women's Open championship at the Westmount Golf and Country Club here, was stung by wasps on both ankles on the 13th.

"I hit my drive into the rough and I must have stepped on a wasp's nest," she said.

To top it off, Miss Gay discovered after being stung that the ball was in an unplayable lie and had to be lifted.

She finished the hole, a par-five, 507-yard layout, in eight.

Movie Column

Clara Bow Unquestioned Queen of Early '20 Movies

Movies long have been blasted as being sinful and oversexed. In a five - part series, AP columnist Bob Thomas traces the changing patterns of Hollywood's sex revolution from decade to decade. This first article deals with the roaring twenties and Clara Bow.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It started with a kiss.

Back in the gay '90s, May Irwin and John C. Rice were the hit of Broadway in The Widow Jones. The biggest laughs came from a prolonged kiss between the two stars.

The kiss seemed like an ideal subject for Thomas A. Edison's new invention, the moving picture, and it was photographed on 50 feet of film atop a Manhattan building.

The Kiss quickly became the greatest success of the movies' brief history. But it was excoriated by moralists as a "lyric of the stockyards" and "emphasized vulgarity."

Fade in on 1965.

The new hit of the summer season is What's New Pussycat, in which Peter O'Toole, once the ascetic Lawrence of Arabia, employs a parade of nubile females as bed-warmers.

POSES ALMOST NUDE

In The Sandpiper Elizabeth Taylor as a Bohemian artist poses almost nude for a statue before the eyes of an episcopal minister, portrayed by Richard Burton.

Still the voices of protest are heard.

The Roman Catholic bishops' committee for motion pictures, radio and television has warned against two trends: The efforts of "powerful factions in Hollywood" to revive an anything-goes policy on film making and the "growing tendency" among some producers to "challenge the Judaeo-Christian vision of man."

Although concern over movie morals began with The Kiss, organized protest did not appear until the 1920s. Before, the ultimate of sex was considered to be the exotic femme fatale of the school of Theda Bara (Kiss Me, You Fool.) Post-war moviegoers wanted something closer to life, and they found it in films about the jazz age.

Cecil B. de Mille paraded Gloria Swanson through a succession of glittering bedrooms and baths. Joan Crawford kicked up her heels in a furious Charleston for Our Dancing Daughters, Our Modern Maidens, Etc.

AT THE PARK — Lovely Francoise Dorleac stars as the wife of "Genghis Khan" in the new Columbia Pictures release in Panavision and Technicolor now on its third day at the Park Theatre. Also starred are Omar Sharif in the title role, Stephen Boyd, James Mason, Eli Wallach, Telly Savalas, Robert Morley and Yvonne Mitchell. Complete shows at 7.00 and 9.15 p.m.

UNQUESTIONED QUEEN

But the unquestioned queen of the hip-flask era was Clara Bow.

"I've always played sexy roles," she once said in a rare analytical moment. "My voice always has been low and what they call 'fetching.' I've always put my hands on my hips and rolled my eyes."

Her mascara - shaded eyes rolling, the fringe of her short skirt twirling, her auburn spit-curls flying, she frolicked through movie after movie about wild, wild youth. She was the It Girl. The originator of the term, Elinor Glynn, explained: "You can't measure it; a girl either has it or she does not."

Miss Bow's career ended with the era, and she retired to Nevada as the wife of the late rancher - politician Red Bell. Plagued by chronic insomnia, she now lives in seclusion in Los Angeles.

Premier Smallwood Fresh After Hectic Labrador Tour

By DAVE BUTLER

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — It was shortly after 1 a.m. and the 40 persons disembarking from the chartered plane at nearby Torbay Airport looked haggard and worn after a whirlwind tour of various centres in Labrador. That is, all except one man.

Premier Smallwood, 64 last Dec. 24, had made three flights totalling more than 2,000 miles during those 48 hours, opened a large industrial development, appeared at a high school graduation, opened a hospital, shook hundreds of hands and delivered five major speeches.

He still looked fresh, while the cabinet ministers and newspaper men who had followed him around appeared near exhaustion. Perhaps hardest pressed by the rigorous routine was Edward Roberts, the premier's 26-year-old executive assistant who was responsible for all arrangements. A joke making the rounds was that "you can tell how tired Joey is by looking at Ed Roberts."

The recent Labrador tour was not an exception. The same hectic pace is maintained on Mr. Smallwood's land trips. One reporter, who accompanied the premier's party on a road-opening journey several years ago, said: "He took off, driving himself, in a cloud of dust. Once in a while we would see a glimpse of him as he rounded a faraway turn. When we would arrive at one of the small communities where he was opening a new road, we would be just in time to see the people waving goodbye to him."

FIRST ABOARD

Mr. Smallwood, who does not smoke or drink, is always the first to board a plane and sometimes chides latecomers by saying: "It was good of you to come." While others in his party are trying to settle down for a short flight to another community, Mr. Smallwood drops quickly off to sleep and awakens after a half hour, ready to go again.

Last fall, after holding a press conference, he told newspaper men he was getting a bit tired and then, seeming almost apologetic, told them he was going to take a 10-day vacation.

His travels, including several trips to Europe, take him thousands of miles annually.

Although rumors of his retirement spring up at least once a year, Mr. Smallwood shows few signs of retiring or slowing down. He lives at Roache's Line about 50 miles from the Confederation Building here and commutes to the city daily, driving his own car.

He reads everything in sight and even after days at his office or in the legislature, poring over papers, he spends his leisure hours at home, buried in books. His private library is one of the finest in Newfoundland.

TWO AIMS ACHIEVED

He rises early by design and often retires late by necessity. He grants interviews at 9 o'clock Sunday mornings and doesn't seem to mind being called about something trivial late at night.

He has said publicly that he would consider retirement after he has achieved several aims, including a start on the Bay d'Espoir power project, establishment of a third pulp mill in Newfoundland and the big Churchill Falls power development in Labrador. Two have been achieved and he says the third, the Churchill Falls project, will be under way "sometime this year."

Two possible successors as premier have been mentioned—Finance Minister F. W. Rowe, 52, and Richard Cashin, 28, member of Parliament for St. John's West. Mr. Rowe has made the rounds of several cabinet posts and Mr. Smallwood said this is to prepare him to take "an even greater part" in the affairs of Newfoundland. He has said Mr. Cashin might become premier, but not immediately after him.

Nominating conventions as such are not held in Newfoundland.

Meanwhile, just in case he runs out of aims to achieve which might force him to consider retirement, Mr. Smallwood during the last year has announced proposals to start a fourth mill in Newfoundland, more power projects in Labrador and numerous smaller ventures on insular Newfoundland.

Too Much Air Can Strangle Car Engine

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When you're ready to sell what you think is a lemon because of stalling, missing, overheating, loss of pep or hard starting troubles, you may be doing your car a grave injustice.

Intake manifold leakage could be the only ailment. In fact, the choke, carburetor, points plugs and even the fuel pump are sometimes replaced before this condition is ever checked.

In brief, air leaks into the manifold and leans out the fuel mixture, upsetting it and causing a variety of possible ills to develop. Faulty manifold gaskets and loose bolts are probably the most likely causes, although a manifold crack is always possible.

A quick check of the manifold joints can be made by coating them with a light engine oil. If the oil is pulled in by suction when the engine is running, air leakage is definitely indicated.

Instead of transmitting power to the rear wheel with the least traction, such as the standard differential does, the non-slip type directs power to the rear wheel with the best grip or traction.

N. R. asks: "What causes the outside of my carburetor to be covered with a gummy film?"

This gum is really something to worry about when it forms on the inside of the carburetor . . . as it often does. It's the normal result of heat acting on the fuel.

P. F. writes: "I just had a good tuneup on my '62 sedan, and now the engine is worse than ever. It seems to cough and pop like a muffled backfiring action."

From G. L. "Tire heat rises with speed, doesn't it."

Right. Flexing of the tire body and tread increases with car speed, and this flexing creates the friction which produces heat. High speed can also build up tire heat faster than it can be dissipated.

Giles Has Dim View Protests

CINCINNATI (AP) — National League President Warren C. Giles took a dim view Tuesday of protests over the alleged use of the illegal spitball in baseball games.

He said complaining managers should make their objections to him and the league in writing and not just in public statements. He added he has received no such written complaints.

"I don't think the pitches (spitters) are as numerous as the batters claim," Giles said in an interview.

Giles said he has heard nothing officially from Bobby Bragan, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, who said a few days ago he was telling his pitchers to use the spitball in retaliation against San Francisco Giant hurlers, particularly Bob Shaw.

"I asked Bragan to substantiate his charges or tell me he could not substantiate them," Giles said. "I have heard nothing."

WOMAN SEES NO DOOM

MONTREAL (CP) — The calamity-howlers who term this the "post-Christian era" and maintain that "God is dead" simply lack historical perspective, an American theology professor said here. Dr. Georgia Harkness of California said, "The majority of people may be indifferent today to the challenge of Christianity, but it has always been kept alive by minorities."

Refreshments and birthday cake were served by her daughter, Mrs. Grenville Meiklejohn, Marmora, her four granddaughters and Mrs. Cyril McKeown. Mrs Hiriam Mumby gave a short address and Mrs. McKeown was presented with a necklace and earrings to match.

The "muskie" season is on in the Bay of Quinte. First catch to be recorded locally was a 22-pound muskie, shown above, hooked Tuesday morning in Baggott's Bay by Dr. George Newman of Cleveland, Ohio. The huge fish put up a 45-minute battle and smashed the orange flatfish used as bait. Dr. Newman was accompanied in the boat by his father, Mr. Peter Newman. Both are staying at Mrs. M. Miller's Waupoos resort "Wander-Inn" where they have vacationed every summer for the past 20 years. Muskies are also being caught in the Adolphustown area a short distance away and near the Glenora Ferry crossing.

No Tenders for Bus Routes Opened Prior to Meeting Of Board Council Told

PICTON (Staff) — Last night's heavy agenda for Town Council kept councillors on the edges of their seats as tempers flared over some of the issues presented. Two of the Town Council representatives for the high school board, Herbert Colliver and Dr. E. Fyfee, were present to address council on the school board issue. Councillor Walmsley questioned Mr. Colliver and wanted to know if in Colliver's opinion the transactions carried out between the school board and the bus drivers had been done fairly. Mr. Colliver replied that he thought, in his opinion that it was handled fairly and he denied any rumors that tenders for the bus route contracts had been opened prior to a board meeting.

Mr. Colliver called for a special meeting of council as Mr. G. Platt, school administrator was presently away on course. Council, however, set no date at last night's meeting. Mayor H. J. McFarland was of the opinion the school bus question was not a matter for town council but rather one for county council. The town is not directly involved in the issue he said except for the 27% of the school tax they are obliged to pay.

FIRE CHIEF HIRED

Fire Chief Nelson Bell who recently handed in his resignation in order to follow other business pursuits has left a vacancy to be filled for this position. At last night's meeting Wilfred Courtney of Maitland Street, Picton, was selected, from only two applicants, for an interview with the fire comimttee. This interview if it proved satisfactory, would allow Courtney to act in the capacity of chief for the balance of the term in a probationary sense. The Mayor stated that he would personally like to interview the applicant.

A bylaw was passed which will initiate the proposed annexation proceedings of lands adjacent to the Corporation of the Town of Picton. This will allow annexation proceedings to commence; however opposition may be expected from Hallowell Township. Council was advised by town solicitor R. Nourse that the town should engage the services of J. R. Bowsfield, a Toronto lawyer and a specialist in annexation proceedings.

BYLAW APPROVED

A motion was passed in council that the Municipal Recreation Committee and the Parks Committee be amalgamated into one committee which would be thereafter be known as the Municipal Recreation and Parks Committee. It was brought out in the discussion of the need for a Community Centres Board that if such a board existed the Town could claim 25% of all capital expenditures for the improvement and upkeep of Benson Park and Benson Hall over the past three years. It further came to light that such a grant could be claimed on any other expenditure which could be classified as expenditures on Community Centres up to a total of $5,000 per individual project. Mr. Ring, the town's new recreation director pointed out, however, that council must first pass a bylaw appointing a Community Centres Board before the town can proceed to collect grants as outlined. This matter was held over for the September meeting of Council.

Council passed a motion to allow P.U.C. to go ahead with preliminary planning for the new addition to the water works system. This will allow only surveys to begin. Council was advised by a Toronto firm of consulting engineers that there is a definite need for a new covered high level storage reservoir and that a new clear water reservoir should be built at the water works site. It was further advised that a booster pumping unit will provide the most economical means of refilling the high level reservoir along with a booster station on the supply mains leading up to the resvoir. Estimated costs for the entire program would be near $250,000. Mayor McFarland has set us a committee to negotiate with DND regarding the increased water costs to suply Camp Picton.

The Rural Scene

PICTON — Mr. Gordon Tobey, agricultural engineering specialist will be in the Department of Agriculture office on Tuesday, August 10th. Farmers wishing an appointment with Mr. Tobey are advised to call the office before 10 o'clock on August 10th.

SHEEP CLUB

Some interest has been shown in the organization of a Sheep Club in Prince Edward County. Sheep Club members are required to care for five ewes and their lambs throughout the club year. The club year begins in the fall, so organization will be sometime in September. A date will be announced. All farm young people who are interested in joining are asked to call the Ontario Department of Agriculture in Picton and leave their names and addresses.

All 4-H members of Prince Edward County are requested to attend a practice judging meeting on Thursday evening, Aug 5th. This meeting has been arranged to acquaint members with judging agricultural products other than those associated with individual clubs. The meeting will start at the home of Mr. Ken Wood, Allisonville, at 7.15 p.m. and later move to the farm of Messrs Robert and Morley Williams, Bloomfield.

Late blight has been found in potatoes and tomatoes in Prince Edward County. This is the season when late blight usually makes its appearance and when cool nights and dews and fog favor the production of spores that infect plants. Late blight often appears first in fields that are sheltered by woodlots and windbreaks and in low parts of a field. Weeds help keep the foliage wet longer and interfere with good covering when spraying. It would be well to check crops carefully for symptoms. On the leaves look for dark-brown to black dead areas, often near the margin or tip of a leaflet. If a diseased leaf is held up against the light, a water-soaked margin may be seen about the dark area. The dead areas are surrounded by a pale-green zone. During wet weather a sparse whitish mould growth develops on the underside of the diseased areas. This often can be seen in the morning while the leaves are still wet with dew. During warm, humid weather, the brown areas may increase in size very rapidly until the whole leaf is blighted. Growers are urged to continue with their regular fungicide program for late blight and other diseases.

Youth Injured As Car Rolls And Hits Tree

PICTON (Staff) — An 18-year-old Picton area youth is in Belleville General Hospital in fair condition following an accident a short distance from his home at 1:45 Tuesday afternoon. Arthur Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Knight of R.R. 8 Picton was driving alone toward home after taking his brother Leland to work at a neighborhood farm. The exact cause of the accident is not known. However, O.P.P. say the car left long skidmarks on the road and it travelled some 25 ft. after leaving the road and rolled 3 times before it crashed into a tree. The vehicle was a total loss. The accident occurred 2 miles north of Elmbrook cheese factory, on a long straight stretch of dirt road. Knight was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and transferred immediately by Bond's ambulance to Belleville General, where he was reported in fair condition. He is in intensive care ward. He sustained multiple lacerations, an arm injury and possible other undetermined injuries. The youth was in an unconcious state when removed from the scene of the accident to hospital.

Westminster Abbey Preparing For Anniversary Celebrations

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — In a quiet ivy - covered building adjoining Westminster Abbey, preparations are under way for an anniversary celebration that in length and scope will dwarf all others in a year packed with landmarks of English history.

On Dec. 28 it will be 900 years since Edward the Confessor founded the Abbey where every English sovereign from William the Conqueror to Elizabeth II has been crowned.

No church in the land is so entwined with England's history. Not only have kings and queens been crowned, married and buried there but the Abbey's chapter house, a vaulted octagonal chamber with a 700-year-old floor of worn russet-colored tiles, is where the Commons met in the earliest parliaments.

Anniversary celebrations will go on for a full year, until Dec. 28, 1966. The Dean of Westminster, Dr. Eric S. Abbott, has chosen a theme of One People to convey the idea of the Abbey as a symbol of the unity of mankind. Outlining his plans at a recent dinner, the dean said the idea was to make the heritage of the past a living thing in the present, and he talked of "building for the next 100 years."

This main theme will be divided into sections, each marked by special services and exhibitions in the chapter house. These will include a service for members of Parliament, one on the theme of the two cultures—science and the arts—one for stage entertainers and one for the 21st anniversary of the United Nations.

HONOR POETS

Distinguished actors will give readings from the works of poets buried in the Abbey's famed Poets' Corner and there will be a week's Homage to Music during next May. A specially commissioned drama may also be performed in the nave.

The post office is to issue a commemorative stamp and 900 specially designed and numbered Spode plates will be on sale in the Abbey.

The Queen and Royal Family are expected to attend some of the services during the year. Westminster Abbey has a special relationship with the Crown because it is a Royal Peculiar a church that comes under the jurisdiction of the Queen, not the Archbishop of Canterbury. The Abbey shares this distinction only with St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle, where all sovereigns since George II have been buried.

The site of the twin-towered Abbey, just across Parliament Square from the Victorian Gothic pinnacles of the Houses of Parliament, has been occupied by a succession of churches since Roman times. The name Westminster comes from West Monastery, a Benedictine establishment of the year 750.

Edward the Confessor, who lies in a great stone and marble tomb behind the high altar, built his church in the Norman style, but only a few traces of it remain. In honor of Edward, canonized in 1163, King Henry II had the Abbey entirely rebuilt in the mid-13th century in the style of the great French Gothic cathedrals.

ABBEY CHANGED

Over the centuries bits have been added and restored until today the famous building, its 18th-century west towers just emerging in pale splendor from the London soot, is nothing like Henry's medieval design.

Restoration of the outside stonework, a never-ending business, has been going on since Sir Christopher Wren began the job in 1688.

For the last 10 years, carpenters and masons have been working continuously, inside and out, replacing worn stones —in mason's language stones that have "gone to sleep"—regilding the carved woodwork and scrubbing the walls, roof and pillars of the nave with blocks of pumice. The works is expected to be finished by Dec. 28.

Abbey officials recall that a year after the 1953 coronation a huge piece of plaster fell from the roof above the very spot where the Queen was crowned.

The intricately carved and brilliantly gilded choir screen was restored in time for Princess Margaret's wedding in 1960. Today, the carpenters are busily regilding the choir stalls, one of which, surmounted by the Canadian coat of arms, is reserved for the high commissioner when he attends Abbey services.

From the high altar, with its antique mosaic pavement of dark blue and crimson that undulates like the floor of St. Mark's in Venice, the view of the Abbey roof now is a shimmering vista of white picked out with gold.

ROYAL SEATS

On the south side of the altar stand two polished teak chairs with pink brocade seats and carved lions' heads on the arms, reserved for the Queen and Prince Philip or other members of the Royal Family attending the Abbey. They were presented by the Canada Club in 1949 and are decorated in front with carved gilt maple leaf emblems.

Burial in Westminster Abbey has always been the ultimate mark of national esteem. Plaques and busts also commemorate scores of distinguished men and women buried elsewhere. Abbey officials can only guess at the number of people buried under the Abbey pavements. They estimate it must be between 2,000 and 3,000.

Since 1900 it has been the rule that only the ashes of cremated persons can be accorded Abbey burial, for reasons of space.

Among the prime ministers buried here is Andrew Bomar Law, Britain's only Canadian-born premier, who led the country briefly in 1922-23, when he was already a dying man. He lies next to Neville Chamberlain in the nave. Nearby is the grave of the Marquess of Willingdon, governor - general of Canada from 1926 to 1931.

Rumor has it that the late Sir Winston Churchill was once asked if he would like to be buried in Westminster Abbey and he replied: "No, there are too many people there I don't like."

CROWNING CHAIR

Behind the altar is the high-backed oak coronation chair, made in 1300 with a special base to accommodate the Stone of Scone, ancient coronation seat of the Scottish kings. It had been captured three years earlier by Edward I and brought to London as a token of Scotland's defeat.

On Christmas night, 1952, the stone was stolen by Scottish students with nationalist sympathies. With the crowning of the new queen less than six months ahead, superstitious Britains were aghast. But the stone was recovered by police in time for the June 2, 1953, coronation, and ever since the chair and its rough granite block have been surrounded by high iron railings.

In the deep recesses of the church glimmer alabaster and gilt effigies of long-dead kings and queens. The ornate tomb of Elizabeth I makes a dramatic contrast with the pathetically small stone urn containing the remains of the little princess murdered in the Tower. High on a rail, ghostly in the half-light, hangs the rusted armor Henry V wore at Agincourt.

At the far end of the Abbey, in the Henry VII chapel, blazes a splendid color symphony of stained glass — the Battle of Britain window. The Queen will place a wreath here Sept. 19, Battle of Britain Day.

900 YEARS OLD — A year's celebration is planned to mark the 900th anniversary of Westminster Abbey. On Dec. 28 it will be 900 years since Edward The Confessor founded the abbey where every English sovereign from William The Conqueror to Elizabeth II has been crowned. The dean of Westminster, Dr. Eric S. Abbott, has chosen a theme of "one people" to convey the idea of the abbey as a symbol of the unity of mankind for the celebration. (CP Photo)

Mother, Four Children Die In Axe-slaying

LA GUADELOUPE, Que. (CP) — Provincial police are holding a La Guadeloupe man in connection with the axe-slaying of a woman and four of her six children in this community 130 miles east of Montreal Wednesday night.

Dead in the slaying are Mrs. Paul-Emile Roy, 43, her sons Gaston, 13, Claude, 12, and Mario, 9, and her daughter Francea, 6.

The slaying in the Roys' bungalow home apparently happened at about 11:30 p.m. when the woman and four children were in their beds, police said today.

"A telephone operator phoned me at 11:40 p.m.," said Constable Patrice Jacques of the Guadeloupe police. "She told me that a man had just called and said he had killed a woman and some children. She said the man told her she had better get the police before the older two children returned home."

The policeman said he went to the Roys' home.

"In the ground floor bedroom Mrs. Roy was dead in her bed. There was an axe in the room. In the basement, I found the four children dead in their beds," Constable Jacques added.

The other two children, Roger, 19, and Andree, 17, were out when the slaying occurred, police said.

Greek Premier Ousted

ATHENS (AP) — Premier George Athanasiadis Novas resigned today following his defeat in a stormy parliamentary vote of confidence. In an unexpected move King Constantine asked him to remain in office pending a solution of Greece's grave political crisis.

Most observers had thought the 25-year-old king would accept the resignation immediately and name a new premier. His request to Athanasiadis Novas to remain in office temporarily indicated the king was undecided on his next step.

Before his overthrow in parliament early today, Athanasiadis Novas [illegible]ested that Constanti[illegible] the leaders of all [illegible] parties together to discuss the crisis.

Stephanos Stephanopoulos, deputy premier under George Papandreou, was considered a strong possibility to be asked to form a government. The king fired Papandreou three weeks ago in a dispute over who should control the armed forces.

There were fears that if a lasting solution is not found, Greece would revert to the political instability of 1950-52, when there were nine changes of government.

The Athanasiadis Novas government was voted down 167-to-31 in a stormy eight-hour session of parliament that lasted long after midnight. Deputies traded punches, catcalls and threats, and the proceedings were suspended briefly.

The fighting started when the rightist National Radical Union challenged Papandreou's presence in parliament. The 77-year-old former premier had stayed out for three nights of debate and entered only to vote.

Grain Flow At Virtual Standstill

VANCOUVER (CP) — The flow of grain through the port of Vancouver—with one of Canada's biggest Prairie harvests in prospect—has come to a virtual stop.

The prime minister said in Ottawa Wednesday he was optimistic that a meeting here today would provide a breakthrough. But Dr. G. Neil Perry, federal mediator in the dispute, said in Vancouver he was not scheduled to meet with grain-handlers or officials of the five elevator companies.

The three Prairie premiers sent a joint telegram to the prime minister Wednesday calling for immediate federal intervention. But Mr. Pearson expressed the optimistic hope that Ottawa would not have to force a solution.

The strike, which began June 2 as a 120-man walkout against Alberta Wheat Pool, has since engulfed almost all elevator facilities on the Vancouver waterfront with enforced closures and layoffs.

BOX CARS SNARL

The snarl of loaded boxcars caught up this week with Burrard Terminals and Pacific Elevators, companies not affected through July when lockouts and suspensions plagued both Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and United Grain Growers elevators. On Tuesday, Burrard Terminals gave 20 men 48-hour layoffs notices and on Wednesday about one-third of Pacific Elevator's 165 grain handlers were served with similar notices.

Union and companies pledged silence during negotiations, but both sides have been quoted about the issues in dispute.

High on the list has been a lawsuit launched by the Alberta Pool against the union—the International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Distillery Workers (CLC).

The suit claims a week-long

Viet Cong Raid Wrecks 2 Fuel Tanks At Air Base

SAIGON (AP)—A Viet Cong attack on a big aviation fuel dump near the Da Nang air base will not seriously affect U.S. air strikes, an American military spokesman said today.

Military authorities said he hit-and-run guerrillas destroyed two of the nine storage tanks in the complex early today and heavily damaged two others with an estimated loss of 1,000,000 gallons of fuel.

All fuel for jets and propeller-driven planes operating from the big Da Nang base comes in by ocean-going tanker and is transferred to the harbor-side storage complex operated by Esso Standard East. It is stored there until railway cars transfer it to the base 10 miles to the southwest.

Large fuel dumps are located at the air base, however, and the spokesman said it was believed they contain enough to fulfill immediate fuel needs.

An eyewitness said Viet Cong commandos opened their attack about 1 a.m., inflicting heavy casualties with mortar fire on a government outpost protecting the storage complex.

Overrunning the outpost, the guerrillas blasted through the main gate of the dump and set the tanks afire with plastic charges and phosphorous rocket shells.

There was no report of Viet Cong casualties.

The complex lies about two miles from positions held by several hundred U.S. marines. The marines were not sent to aid the post, which lies outside their defence zone. But U.S. marine artillery and gunfire from an American destroyer off Da Nang harbor were called on to shell suspected Viet Cong positions, military sources said.

An informant said fire from one destroyer fell short and hit a Vietnamese force sent to help the beleaguered post. Vietnamese casualties from this were described as moderate.

It was the boldest attack in the Da Nang area since Communist squads hit the base itself a little more than a month ago and destroyed three planes.

U.S. warships shelled the hills surrounding the storage complex two nights ago after a report was received that the Viet Cong was preparing an attack on the Esso facility.

Food, Shelter Costs Push Price Index to New Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Higher food and housing prices pushed he consumer price index to another new high in July, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The bureau set the July index, the nation's main cost-of-living gauge, at 139.5 compared with 139.0 in June.

The bureau attributed the June-to-July increase — ninth consecutive month-to-month boost in living costs—mainly o higher food prices, although housing costs also were up. Most other components held steady during the period, while the recreation and reading index showed a small decline.

Montreal Workers Reject Offer By Belleville Judge

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking Montreal postal workers today rejected a government offer of salary increases and voted to continue their strike.

The great majority of strikers at a packed and noisy general meeting voted on a show of hands in favor of the rejection resolution recommended to them by their executive.

It was made clear that this amounted to a vote to continue the strike, now in its 15th day.

The executive had urged the 2,500 men present in the hall and others outside the hall to turn down the government's proposals, made Wednesday night, because the offer was too small, made no provision for parity of salaries and was not retroactive to October, 1964, in its entirety.

All but less than 100 of those present voted in favor of the executive recommendations after hearing impassioned exhortations from William Houle and Roger Decarie, strike leaders, and Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC).

WOULD HOLD OUT

Mr. Houle told the cheering audience in the smoke-filled, crowded east-end hall "others may accept this government offer but not Montreal."

The increases approved by the cabinet ranged from $510 to $550 annually, which would put postal salaries in a $4,470 to $5,830 range. The strikers had demanded a $660 boost.

Mr. Houle said the government offer is a basis for negotiations but "it is only one offer and in itself it is unacceptable."

He and Mr. Decarie both urged the government to begin negotiations with the strikers. Mr. Decarie had preceded the presentation of the executive's unanimous recommendation with a sometimes angry restatement of his reservations

Local Carriers Happy Over New Pay Offer

Belleville mail carriers today expressed satisfaction over the recommendations by Judge J. C. Anderson for pay increases to postal workers.

The mailmen members of Local 45 Federated Association of Letter Carriers, staged a two-day sympathy strike last week, part of a nation-wide wildcat walkout.

"It sounds pretty good to us," said association secretary-treasurer Jim Campbell this morning. "We're pretty happy about it."

He said no meeting of city carriers was planned immediately, although results of meetings in Toronto and Montreal were being closely watched.

Maudling Deputy Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet Wednesday night gave swift approval to a report that will mean an additional $4,500,000 in pay increases for 22,000 postal workers.

Prime Minister Pearson said he hoped the offer of increases ranging from $510 to $550 a year would induce 4,100 striking Montreal employees, out for their 15th day now, to return to work

The Postal Workers Brotherhood had threatened a national strike vote if the government offer was unsatisfactory. Initial reaction was cool across the country Wednesday night.

The figures were recommended by Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, appointed by the government two weeks ago after Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia workers had joined in a wildcat strike. All but the Montrealers returned after his appointment.

The Anderson recommendation was short of the $660 the workers demanded but well above the $300-$360 range the Civil Service Commission announced July 16.

ADVISES INCREASES

Judge Anderson's first move as commissioner was to recommend a flat $360 boost retroactive to Oct. 1, 1964, for all 22,000 postal workers. The government agreed.

The judge said the present system of reviewing civil service salaries leaves them two years behind those comparable jobs in industry.

The lag was excessive and created an "unrealistic situation."—Thus he recommended the Aug. 1 additional increases.

The judge also suggested that civil service salaries be review-

Thousands of Pilgrims Gather For Hiroshima Anniversary

HIROSHIMA (Reuters)—Thousands of pilgrims poured into Hiroshima tonight for the observance of Friday's 20th anniversary of the atomic holocaust.

Many of the visitors are Japanese representing organized anti-atom bomb movements. Two hundred of the pilgrims are anti-bomb campaigners from 50 countries.

Early Friday an estimated 50,000 people will gather in Hiroshima's vast Peace Park in a rally marking the event Aug. 6, 1945.

At 8:15 a.m., the time when the first atomic bomb used against humans exploded 1,800 feet above Hiroshima, flocks of pigeons will be released, to fan out over the new Hiroshima as symbols of peace and hope. Japan will then observe a minute of silence.

The memorial ceremonies will end 12 hours later when small paper "spirit boats" float down the city's rivers in honor of Hiroshima's 200,000 dead.

Some 6,000 persons, including Premier Eisaku Sato, will place wreaths at the Hiroshima cenotaph. A concrete tomb inside it contains the names of 78,150 identified victims of the bomb. About 200 new names are added each year.

The Communist-dominated 11th world conference against atomic and hydrogen bombs will open a convention Friday, and the congress against atomic and hydrogen bombs, led by Japan's Socialist party, will hold a similar meeting during the day.

On Saturday a world friendship centre will be opened in Hiroshima by Mrs. Barbara Reynolds, 50, an American Quaker who has lived in Hiroshima since 1960.

Wind Of War Scatters Burdens And Bonuses Across U.S.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP — The buildup of U.S. military forces for the Viet Nam war is already having some economic effect in increased production and pay rolls, an Associated Press survey of industrial areas and defence buying policies showed today.

A Hartford, Conn., firm plans to hire as many as 500 additional workers to handle helicopter contracts . . . aerospace employment is up in the Los Angeles area . . . a Rochester, N.Y., firm reports sales to government and defence contractors "in strong vein."

These are a few of the effects reported.

But the evidence still is too fragmentary to show what overall impact the war — already costing the United States $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 a day—will have on the American economy.

Certainly some of the production increase disclosed by checks is the result of the U.S. effort in Viet Nam, as well as a general military buildup. And Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara said Wednesday his department is "preparing to gear up the production machine."

In Viet Nam, ammunition is being expended in increasing quantities. Aircraft, automotive equipment, communications sets, clothing and other items wear out and must be replaced. But the defence department and many manufacturers are unable or unwilling to say what portion of the daily spending rate is attributable to production needs for Viet Nam.

McNamara, presenting the administration's request to Congress Wednesday for a $1,700,000,000 increase in the fiscal 1966 budget, gave that indication.

The Associated Press survey brought a variety of responses from manufacturing centres, none of them showing heavy impact, but a number showing moderate results of the military's buying.

Among them were these:

Philadelphia — Officials at Boeing-Vertol recalled McNamara's announcement last month that there would be a 100-per-cent increase in helicopter production and remarked "we already are feeling this acceleration, requiring a 10-per-cent increase in the number of employees."

Baltimore, Md. — The Bata Shoe Co. received a $2,000,000 contract last week for 250,000 pairs of combat boots, possibly intended for use by forces in Viet Nam.

Los Angeles—Aerospace employment in the area increased 2,000 in May from the 274,000 total for March. Douglas Aircraft employment moved up to 55,000 from 42,000 eight months before.

Dallas, Tex.—Jake L. Hamon, chairman of the National Petroleum Council, said oil companies will have to increase the flow and attributed to a military official a statement that there has been a 300-per-cent increase in oil use in the Asian area within four months.

Hamon said this meant oil companies were being told they should be ready to supply 300 per cent more oil in the next few months.

New High School May Be Built Without Auditorium Due to Increasing Costs

Rapidly rising school construction costs may force deletion of the 800 seat auditorium for the new high school in West Belleville planned by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Meeting this week to re-consider tenders which were opened about ten days ago, board members Tuesday evening instructed their architect to obtain firm prices from the three bidders on school costs on the basis completely eliminating the auditorium.

When the bids were opened ten days ago prices quoted were found to be considerably higher than original estimates and no action was taken on awarding the contract.

Since then prices have been checked closely with the Ontario Department of Education but it is found that construction costs have risen considerably in the past two months and in order to keep school costs close to the estimate board members are considering deletion of the auditorium and other minor items from specifications.

STEADILY GOING UP

A Belleville school board official said today that for the past several years school construction costs have been rising approximately five per cent each year with an additional 10 per cent raise in the past two months.

Originally the local high school board had hopes of their new school being completed by the opening of the fall term in September 1966, but with delays in awarding the contract the possibility of achieving this goal is admittedly dimmer.

As a stopgap measure until the new accommodation is ready, staggered classes will be introduced in the high school system when school re-opens next month.

The elimination of the auditorium in the new high school would be a big disappointment to many in the city.

Earlier this year before school plans were finalized there was strong pressure to have the school auditorium size increased to 1200 seats.

BIDS COMPARABLE

Rural municipalities in the Bay of Quinte High School District were not in favor of the larger auditorium with its additional costs. When it was found the larger auditorium would materially increase school costs the idea was dropped by the city.

A windowless type of construction has been planned for parts of the new high school, but board members claim the unconventional type of construction had no bearing on the higher than expected bids received from contractors.

A board official said that bids received on the Belleville school compared favorably with bids on conventional type construction in other parts of the province.

Cabin Cruiser Explodes, Burns At Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Seven persons escaped injury Wednesday when a 40-foot cabin cruiser exploded and burned at this village 25 miles east of Peterborough.

The yacht, owned by Ralph S. Misener of St. Catharines, co-owner of Scott Misener Steamship Lines, was approaching a swing bridge in the Trent River when an explosion occurred below the rear deck. The craft drifted to the river bank as she began to burn and the passengers and crew jumped ashore.

District Man Dismissed in Wounding Case

Albert Fair, resident on the Kingston Road, earlier last month pleaded not guilty to causing injury to cattle owned by a neighbor which had strayed on the Fair property.

Magistrate Wills noted while the cattle had been wounded, Mr. Fair said he had fired his shotgun in the air. Shooting also had been heard in the vicinity earlier and it was an area used by hunters.

"The charge, therefore, had not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt," he said.

"I could make some comments in dismissing it," added the magistrate, "but I thought better of it."

Playgrounds' Penny Carnival Is on Tonight

The penny will come into its own once again this evening as the city's playgrounds combine to hold their annual Penny Carnival.

The East Hill Playground at the corner of Bleecker Avenue and Bridge Street East will be invaded by youngsters, pockets bulging with pennies, at 6.30 tonight when the event, at which the penny will buy admission to most activities, gets under way.

Highlight of the evening will be the choosing of Miss Penny Carnival 1965 from among twenty contestants, one representative from each playground. The crowning is expected to take place at 7.30.

Playground Activities

CHURCHILL HEIGHTS

"Neighborhood Night" at Churchill Heights was a great success. Pretty little girls, dressed in bathing suits walked individually across the stage, made previously in the afternoon by the children, as entrants for the "Miss Churchill Heights" contest. Helen MacDonald is the little princess for 1965 and will be at East Hill playgrounds Thursday evening for the "Miss Penny Carnival" contest. A talent show followed.

The audience enjoyed many performances of which were: songs by Elizabeth Rice and Louise Elmy, Laura Gustafson and Betty Wilson, Kim and Virginia Irwin, Louise Elmy and Janet Dall, and Janice Clements; jazz dancers Carol Percy and Jane Swoffer, tap dance by Cheryl Chambers, ballet by Rosemary Thompson, twisters, who were Janice and Kim Clements and Rhonda Archer.

Thanks go to all those who helped to make Neighborhood Night a memorable evening.

Wednesday afternoon mothers came to Churchill Heights for a tea party.

For one week the members of Churchill Heights will proudly hang up the banner for "The Best Playground of the Week" on our playgrounds.

C.N.R. PLAYGROUND

On Wednesday, August 4th, at C.N.R. playground, a Mothers' Tea was held . There were six mothers and 65 children present.

The program began at 2.00 o'clock with a singsong. The mothers were given a sample of an afternoon program.The mothers joined in the singsong and games. After the games the mothers all took part in an Arts and Crafts lesson in which they made miniature masks with construction paper and paper cups.

Following the art lesson every one was treated to cookies and freshie. Servers were: Carolyn Wood, Brock Barlowe, Janet Begley, Vincent Penny, Anne Fraser and Nancy McKenna.

The supervisor would like to thank all those who served and donated the refreshments. Remember C.N.R.'s Age Guesser booth at the Penny Carnival on Thursday night.

Mark Tripp Honored on 80th Birthday

TRENTON — Trenton Rotarians took note of the 80th birthday of one of its hardest working members at this week's meeting. Mark Tripp, a former councillor, and a long-time Trenton businessman, as his father was before him, marked the day by a full day of work at the Tripp Cigar Store.

Married to the late Gladys Miron, Mr. Tripp fathered two sons, who have carried on the family tradition of community service by sitting on various town bodies through the years. John,who "helps" his father in the retail store, has been a member of the Trenton Parking Commission and is a "fellow Rotarian." Paul, who handles the wholesale part of the business, has served on the Board of Education and is now a councillor.

DRIVER SUFFERS BUMP

Mrs. Alica Helen Clements of 108 Mobile Village, R.R. 2, Trenton, suffered a bump to her head and a minor hand injury when the car she was driving struck a hydro pole on Dundas Street East as she left the Loblaw's parking lot around 5.50 p.m. yesterday. Mrs. Clements did not require hospital treatment. Damage to the car was set at $150.

Wings Given To Officer By Father

TRENTON — Flying Officer Gerald R. Hunter, the son of Flt. Sgt. and Mrs. Rex Hunter of 4 Johnson Drive, Middleton Park, graduated from the Air Navigation School at RCAF Station Winnipeg with the specialty of radio officer, recently and was last week commissioned to the rank of Flying Officer. His radio navigator's wings were presented to him by his father in the formal graduation parade at Winnipeg. Flt. Sgt. Hunter, who is stationed at Air Transport Command Headquarters at Trenton, attended the ceremony in company with Mrs. Hunter.

Flying Officer Hunter, a graduate of Trenton High School, was also awarded a special plaque as the student attaining the highest average in his course.

"Jerry" entered the RCAF as an officer cadet in Aug., 1963, and attended Queen's University for one year. He is presently attending the operational training unit at RCAF Station, Trenton.

Council Will Advertise For Clerk

TRENTON — Reeve Raymond Moran of Frankford said yesterday the village council had voted to re-advertise for a clerk-treasurer, as the members felt they had not been given enough opportunity to choose from among those who had applied for the position, which became vacant when Glenn Mitts, clerk for the past four years, resigned last month over a disagreement with some members of the council. Mr. Moran said applications which had already been received would be considered along with any new ones. Council meets again August 18.

PLENTY OF ACTIVITY

Trenton playground activity this week includes a wiener roast at College St. school, this afternoon; a talent show at St. Peter's school, also today, and a bicycle rodeo tomorrow at North Trenton school.

Activity will come to an end Wednesday afternoon, August 18, with a parade through the downtown streets, starting from the municipal parking lot on Front Street, proceeding down Dundas Street West, up King, down Dufferin to Hanna Park. The parade, in which children from the town's six playgrounds will take part, starts at 2.00 p.m Judges will be stationed along the route.

Outboards To Race at North Bay

TRENTON — Ontario boat racing championships will be run off at North Bay near Consecon, Sunday afternoon, August 15, starting at 1 p.m. The sponsoring body, the Picton Outboard Racing Club, has rented the beach for the afternoon and will charge adults to enter. Children under 12 will be admitted free, but non-paying adults may not use the beach that afternoon.

The races are sanctioned by the Canadian Boating Federation and the American Power Boat Federation and nine classes will be competing, A, B, C, D, hydroplanes, 36 and D utility and A, B, C, racing hydros, which go at speeds up to 85 mph.

Employment Picture Good In Last Month

TRENTON — J. K. White, the manager at the Trenton area employment office, said yesterday employment had taken a definite upswing in July in this area. Mr. White said he expected the trend for the next few months would be for improvement in the employment picture, with the harvesting of crops, canning factory activity and construction work continuing.

By the end of July, 330 unplaced males and 300 unplaced females were registered for work. This compares with 664 males and 566 females registered at the end of June.

Mr. White said many of the students registered had been placed in berry picking jobs or other farm work. With the advent of autumn, and the student body back at school or university, he said he expected employment to remain at a good pitch as the canning factories and contractors would still have need for labor.

Cabinet

ed once a year rather than every two years, with those doing the reviewing looking ahead instead of backward.

This approach wasn't apparent in the Civil Service Commission's recommendations, he said.

WILL HIRE ADVISER

Prime Minister Pearson told reporters the government has accepted a recommendation by Postmaster - General Tremblay to hire an outside consultant to study the postal department's working conditions and rules, subject to stiff criticism by the strikers.

Legislation will be introduced as soon as possible after Parliament reconvenes to set up a system of collective bargaining for civil servants. Salaries for some 150,000 are now recommended by the Civil Service Commission to the cabinet.

Mr. Pearson said the legislation should make situations like the postal dispute "impossible in the future."

The government has been under heavy pressure to settle the strike as mail piled up in the country's largest city.

A cavalcade of Montreal businessmen drove here Wednesday to urge Revenue Minister Benson, to whom the Civil Service Commission is responsible and who received the Anderson report later, to end the strike.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association also urged action in a telegram from Toronto.

The Anderson report brings maximum pay scales to between $4,470 and $5,830, compared with $3,960 to $5,280 at present.

Total increases for each postal category: $550 for postal officers 2; $545 postal officers 1 and railway mail clerks 4 and 5; $540 railway mail clerks 1 to 3 and supervisory letter carriers; $535 postal clerks 2; $530 supervisory mail handlers; $525 postal clerks 1 and letter carriers; $510 mail handlers.

The Anderson report said these recommendations might or mightn't affect pay recommendations in a final report for the remaining 35,000 employees in the civil service D group.

These are customs and immigration workers, technicians, draftsmen, semi-skilled workers and tradesmen, foremen and supervisors.

However, a staff association source said the Anderson report had broad implications for the whole civil service because of its assertion that the review system has left salaries two years behind those in industry.

This was expected to be an excellent tool for collective bargaining once legislation is passed.

—Alice and Ila.

BROWN — In loving memory of our twin grandchildren, Jeffrey Allan and Jennifer Anne Brown who passed away August 1 and 5, 1964.
"Ever in memory."
—Grandma and Grandpa Miller.

BROWN — In loving remembrance of our twin son, Jeffrey Allan and daughter, Jennifer Anne, who passed away August 1st and 5th, 1964.

Four little hands are resting,
Two little hearts are still,
The little ones we loved are waiting,
For us just over the hill.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad.

SUMMERS — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Verna Cecil Summers, who passed away August 5, 1964.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Always remembered by Art, Lillian, Kip and family.

GARBUTT — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James, who departed one year ago, August 5th, 1964.

I do not need a special day,
To bring you to my mind,
The days I do not think of you,
Are very hard to find,
God alone knows how I miss you,
Never shall your memory fade,
My thoughts are always wandering,
To the spot where you are laid.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife Jennie and son Keith and grandson Bob.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks to friends and relatives for their cards, flowers, gifts and visits during my stay in Belleville General Hospital. A special thanks to Dr. Henry Bateman and the nurses and staff of 2nd West for their wonderful care. I wish also to thank Rev. Father Kelly of St. Michael's Parish for his kind prayers and visits. My thanks also to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harrison in assisting me to and from the hospital.

RIPLEY SHOULD HAVE SAID IT

"Spending is Saving." He didn't say it, but we are, and we believe it to be true. Seven out of ten automobiles on the road, today, are out of alignment! The impact of an automobile travelling at sixty miles an hour, hitting a pot-hole, railway track, or anything uneven, can throw the wheels out of alignment. Only a fraction of an inch can cut down the potential wear on your tires to half. It also distorts your steering. We, at Canadian Tire, have the answer. We have the best equipment available, in the John Bean Visualiner, and a top front-end technician in Mr. Bud Fox. For just $2.00 we'll give your car a thorough front-end check, and if it requires further work, this can be applied on our low price of $6.95, for most cars. If anything needs replacing, this is where we can really save you money. We use guaranteed new-car quality replacement parts, at prices that save you up to fifty percent. Yes, you can charge it, too! No service charges on 30-day accounts, or if it's something major, you might spread it over many months, with payments as low as $2.00 per month.

Montreal

about the government proposal.

The meeting was delayed in starting as the strikers' executive huddled backstage in what Mr. Houle described as final consideration of its recommendation.

Proposals had been made for a secret vote if necessary but such a vote was rejected by the strikers in a preliminary show of hands.

The reading of the recommendation was received with raucous enthusiasm by many of the shirt-sleeved audience.

Some however, sat still in their seats through the general cheering. The numbers of these apparent dissidents decreased sharply as they were deluged with oratory by the strike leaders.

The men walked off their jobs July 22 and were soon joined by other postal workers in Vancouver, Toronto and various centres across the country.

ALL OTHERS BACK

All but the 4,100 workers in the Montreal area returned to their jobs last week.

Mr. Houle said the Montreal strikers consider that the strike is rooted in a "question of principle rather than one of simply money or pride."

The Montreal postal workers and another 1,000 from more than 19 post-offices in the area have remained on strike since July 22 when Montreal and Vancouver announced strike action to back up demands for a $660 across-the-board increase in annual salary. The strike quickly spread to 75 centres in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia and involved more than 70 per cent of the country's postal workers.

When the government appointed Judge Anderson to study the situation a back-to-work movement began and by July 29 only the Montreal and area postal workers remained on strike.

Wednesday night Mr. Houle said the leaders in Montreal were taking no chances on misunderstandings as to intention of their colleagues in other centres. He said contact was being made with Toronto, Hamilton and Vancouver to gauge reaction in those cities to the government offer. "We'll make no final decision until we know what's on their minds," he said.

Both Mr. Decarie and Mr. Houle were cautious in their initial reaction to the financial aspect of Judge Anderson's report which recommended an increase that would result in maximum salaries, effective Aug. 1, ranging from $4,470 to $5,830.

The strike leaders said the offer could not be greeted with much enthusiasm because it fell down on two major points: First, the fact that the demand had been for a $660 increase in annual salary and second, but no less important, the strikers had demanded wage parity—an equal across-the-board increase for all workers.

MAIL PILES UP

The post office and defence departments arrived at an agreement whereby 39 freight cars stuffed with mail were moved to sidings at an army ordinance depot in east-end Montreal.

The mail in the cars is being sorted by supervisory and non-union regular casual help—about 30 to 35 men—according to bag destination. The mail in the cars arrived from outside points and will be channeled to outside point destinations.

BABY GIRAFFE BORN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cecily and Oscar are the proud parents of a six-foot, 100-pound baby girl—a giraffe. The latest addition to the Philadelphia zoo, not yet named, was the first giraffe born there in the zoo's 91-year history. "She's as cute as a button," said Fred Ulmer, curator of mammals.

PC Chief Says Govt. Failed to Act

WINNIPEG (CP)—Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker Wednesday accused the Canadian government of playing politics with the grain handlers' strike on the West Coast.

He told a Winnipeg press conference there had been "plenty" of warning that the strike was pending but the government failed to act and is still hesitating.

"The government is playing politics, they are afraid to call parliament together," Mr. Diefenbaker said during a stopover in Winnipeg en route to Saskatoon from Ottawa.

He said it was an example of how the Liberal party ignores the western provinces.

"They've forgotten our existence. They regard us as an unnecessary adjunct with canine ancestry."

Mr. Diefenbaker also criticized the government for encouraging U.S. investment in Canada and for putting a brake on the construction industry.

He said much of Canada's economic policy is being formulated in the United States.

INDEX EASES

The wholesale price index eased fractionally in July, mainly on the strength of lower vegetable costs, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday. The July index was estimated at 251.8 compared with 252.0 in June. The index, which uses 1935-39 prices as a base of 100, stood at 245.0 in July, 1964.

Ottawa Course Attracts Many Science Students

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Twenty students from as many high schools in the Ottawa-Hull area are getting a preview of scientific research this summer in a program the University of Ottawa hopes will attract more science students.

The 13 boys and seven girls, all of whom completed Grade 12 last spring, are spending four to six weeks in various science faculties and earning $25 a week helping professors, graduate and undergraduate students on research projects.

"It's a combined guidance and publicity operation," says Don Paskovich, a 30-year-old assistant professor in the chemistry department. Dr. Paskovich and Dr. Peter Moran, another assistant professor, are co-chairmen of the project which has been running for several years.

"The work and the chance to meet people help a lot of the kids make up their minds as to which university course they eventually will take," Dr. Paskovich said in an interview.

"And when they go back to their respective high schools for Grade 13 we hope they will spread the word about the University of Ottawa.

"A lot of science students don't even consider studying here because of misconceptions. They think this is strictly a French-language and Roman Catholic institution.

SELECTION DIFFICULT

The Roman Catholic Oblate order founded the university in 1848. Under reincorporation July 1 this year control of the university was handed over to a secular board of governors. The Oblates retain eight of the 32 board seats and operate the theological and canon law faculties separately in St. Paul University.

Selection of the students each year is a big problem. Initial screening is done by high school teachers but even then there are about 200 applications.

"Then we examine the forms and interview the students," Dr. Moran said.

"Cutting them down to 20 gets difficult, especially when you have about 30 outstanding students to choose from."

Restricting the number to about 20 gives a ratio of about eight graduate students to each summer helper. This gives the young assistants a wide variety of duties.

"It's really interesting, helping set things up and then recording results," said 17-year-old Barry Kiggins, Ottawa St. Joseph's high school representative who plans a career in chemistry.

SET UNUSUAL RECORD

Margaret Simpson, 16, of Ottawa's Neapean high school, is undecided about her future—"it will be either physics or languages"—but finds her duties in the physics department interesting "and a lot of fun too."

Some, like 16-year-old Frank Griffin of Ottawa's Woodroffe high school, are going a step further and taking summer school lectures at the university. Frank attends a two-hour lecture in pre-science chemistry each morning.

He hasn't decided yet which field of science to pursue, "but even if this doesn't help me make up my mind it will be a big help in Grade 13 chemistry when school starts in September."

The high school students participating in the program have an unusual record, Dr. Moran says.

"Everyone we have picked in the past has gone on to university. Not all have come here but we like to think we helped increase their awareness of science."

LBJ Briefed On Viet Nam War by Taylor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Combining hope for the future with acknowledgment of "serious problems" in Viet Nam, Maxwell D. Taylor turns in his final ambassadorial accounting today at the White House.

And on Capitol Hill the administration moved to the House of Representatives defence appropriations subcommittee with its plea for $1,700,000,000 more plus a 340,000-man military manpower boost for the Southeast Asian war.

President Johnson got a two-hour briefing from Taylor late Wednesday. Johnson said he was so impressed by the retiring ambassador's knowledge from his year in Saigon that he called a whole array of administration policy-makers to this afternoon's session. Included is Henry Cabot Lodge, Taylor's successor in Saigon.

The president also announced he has asked Taylor, 63, to be a senior adviser to the president on military and diplomatic matters and has named him to the intelligence board which supervises U.S. intelligence activities.

"The future," Taylor told reporters after seeing Johnson, "is certainly far more hopeful than it was a year ago."

CHINA MAY STAY OUT

Meanwhile, William P. Bundy, assistant state secretary for Far Eastern affairs, voiced doubt in a television interview that Red China would enter the Viet Nam conflict any time soon.

Bundy figured Peking might get into the war quickly if the United States sought to overthrow the Communist Hanoi regime.

But he noted this is not Washington's aim, so the Chinese will "hesitate a long while" about involvement because "they're fully aware of their own vulnerability."

Johnson also got a report Wednesday from his roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, just back from a trip to various European capitals after conferring in Moscow with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Funeral

MRS. EDWARD SCHREIDER

Funeral service for Mrs. Violet Schreider was held from the O'Brien - Rutledge Funeral Residence this Thursday morning.

Requiem Mass was celebrated in Holy Rosary church by Rev. R. Sweeney, while prayers at the graveside in St. James' cemetery were conducted by Rev. R. Debono.

Maximum Fine Levelled by Magistrate

A Brighton mortician, hailed before Magistrate T. Y. Wills for allegedly forcing a police car off the road, today was warned of contempt of court before being assessed a maximum fine.

OPP constable E. G. MacDonnell said he was forced to swerve into the parking lot of a roadside diner as the car bore down on his cruiser. Traffic halted to allow the officer to turn and pursue the automobile which he halted near the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

When he gave Mr. Snider a ticket, the man protested the road was clear at the time. Afterward, he drove off spattering the cruiser with gravel, claimed the officer.

Mr. Snider, who pleaded not guilty, said he had nothing to say since "I was told my word wouldn't be worth anything against the officer."

The magistrate retorted. Mr. Snider was inferring the bench was prejudiced.

"If you tell that sort of thing to me I'm going to lock you up for contempt of court," he warned.

"Fined $50 — which is the maximum," added Magistrate Wills.

Burns Sees No Indication Russia Ready to Negotiate Pact to Stop A-bomb Spread

GENEVA (Reuters) — Canada's chief delegate to the 17-power disarmament conference said today there was so far nothing to encourage the belief that the Soviet Union was prepared to negotiate seriously on a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Gen. E. L. M. Burns, in his first policy speech to the resumed conference, said it also appeared the Soviet Union had not returned to Geneva prepared to negotiate seriously on an extension of the 1963 partial nuclear test ban treaty to cover underground blasts.

Prevention of the spread of nuclear weapons and extension of the test ban were given priority by the United Nations disarmament commission at its meeting in New York in April and the two nuclear Western powers at the Geneva conference—Britain and the United States — indicated they were prepared to give urgent consideration to these problems, Burns noted.

2 Byelections Announced By Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts announced today that provincial byelections will be held Wednesday, Sept. 15 in the Ontario ridings of Nipissing and Toronto Bracondale.

The seats, both won by Liberals in the 1963 election, were left vacant by the deaths earlier this year of Leo Troy, member for Nipissing, and Joseph Gould, member for the Toronto riding.

There are no other vacancies in the 108-seat legislature. The Progressive Conservatives hold 77 seats, Liberals 21 and New Democratic Party eight.

Quebec Opposition Leader Says Canada's Constitution Needs Complete Overhaul

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Canada needs a completely new constitution based on the fundamental reality of the co-existence of two nations, each having equal right to its life and to the free determination of its own destiny, Daniel Johnson, Quebec Opposition leader, said today.

"We need a constitution which should include a charter of national or cultural rights granting exactly the same guarantees to the English-speaking minority in Quebec and the French - speaking minority in the other provinces," he told the 34th Couchiching Conference on public affairs.

Mr. Johnson described Canada as two nations with common interests and said it is possible to create common structures for the management of these common interests.

He said however that bilingualism in itself is not the answer to Canada's problems, and to think so is "an exercise in wishful thinking."

"A language is not merely a way of expressing yourself. . . It is a way of thinking, of feeling, and of reacting—a manner of being.

"That is why, for the French Canadians of today it is not enough to have control of their language, their schools and their civil code—they must be able to create the economic and social institutions that are the reflection of their soul."

WARNS OF DANGER

Mr. Johnson said English Canada must realize this and help formulate a new constitution based on the respect of national liberties.

'The refusal of English Canada to take part in such a dialogue would be a fertile seed for separatism," he warned the audience.

"For my part, I have always considered the complete independence of Quebec as a last resort, but nevertheless as a solution that we must not reject off-hand because it could easily become the only possible one if the dialogue between our two communities were to end in failure."

Mr. Johnson said French Canadians do not want to direct the rest of the country, "but neither do they want constantly to have to plead for the right to be what they are in this country where their roots go back more than three centuries."

British Trust Shareholders Will Get Facts

TORONTO (CP) — British Mortgage and Trust Co., which ran into financial difficulties after Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd. was placed in receivership June 17, plans to send a letter to shareholders disclosing the general nature of the company's investments, Harold R. Lawson announced Wednesday.

Mr. Lawson, president of National Life Assurance Co. of Canada, was appointed president of British Mortgage July 27 following the resignation of Wilfrid P. Gregory.

He said the letter to British Mortgage shareholders is being prepared as quickly as possible and will be mailed by the end of this week.

British Mortgage holds notes of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd. for an undisclosed amount. Atlantic went into receivership after failing to meet about $115,000,000 in short-term notes.

Mr. Lawson also confirmed British Mortgage holds a common share position in Atlantic, but said the amount "is less than five per cent."

British Mortgage, which had been trading around $30 on the Toronto Stock Exchange, slipped to a low of $2.75 after Atlantic's default. The stock was quoted at $4 bid, $4.50 asked Wednesday.

Mr. Lawson said it has not been necessary yet for the Ontario government to act as a depositor for British Mortgage to provide the company with liquidity. The provincial government had promised to do this if necessary.

He confirmed that Denison Mines Ltd. of Toronto has a firm option to purchase controlling interest in the company up to Aug. 20. The total amount that would be provided under the option plan for the purchase of treasury stock at prices ranging from $10 to $20 a share would be approximately $6,000,000.

If Denison should decide to exercise its option, the proposal under which Victoria and Grey Trust Co. of Lindsay, Ont., would merge with British Mortgage would be wiped out, Mr. Lawson said. Shareholders of both companies are to vote on the proposal at a special meeting Sept. 14.

Mr. Lawson said he had no information as to whether Denison intends to exercise its option.

Crime in the U.S.

Crimes against the person in American cities have reached such proportions that the magazine U.S. News and World Report felt constrained to write in a recent issue: "Isn't there any place in the United States where it is still safe to live, where life isn't so uncertain?"

"In city after city," the article said, "people fear to walk the streets after dark, even in 'good' neighborhoods. Public parks, supposed to be for recreation, often are deserted . . . . Almost everywhere in big cities and their suburbs juvenile delinquency is a major and growing problem . . . not only in 'deprived' families but in well-to-do families as well."

The magazine then listed a number of cities it considered safe places in which to live. They included Hartford, Conn., and Princeton, N.J.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Madison, Wis.; Boulder, Colorado; Palo Alto, Calif; Austin, Texas; Lexington, Kentucky, and Orlando, Fla. These are communities with populations running from 25,000 to 200,000 and the article said they were not free from crime but had little in the way of what it called "big" crime.

Well, since the article appeared some weeks ago at least one of the communities listed as "safe" has blotted its copybook. Only last week two University of Texas sorority sisters, one aged 18 and the oher 21, who had disappeared 12 days before, were found dead in long grass on a vacant lot near a new housing development in Austin. They had been murdered.

And at Chapel Hill, N.C., a University of Carolina coed was stabbed to death in broad daylight in a botanical garden near the centre of the university campus. Police were seeking a Negro suspect.

Canadians may count themselves lucky that, by and large, law and order prevail in this country. In the United States it is a different story and one that is causing law enforcement authorities and public alike a great deal of anxiety.

Death in the Night

Details of an accident in which three Kingston teenagers and a young American were killed make depressing reading.

It was one of those classic accidents involving young people that makes one wonder why some are allowed out in cars at all. It occurred last Friday night on the highway between Clayton and Watertown, N.Y. Witnesses said the Kingston car was descending a hill and passing a line of cars when it collided head-on with a car driven by a 22-year-old Carthage, N.Y., man.

The father of the Kingston driver (who was 19 and died along with his two 18-year-old companions in the car, one of them a girl) was quoted as saying his son took the family car without permission for the trip to Watertown.

Recklessness born of defiance and immaturity and the urge to show-off were almost certainly the basic ingredients of this accident. And unfortunately (if the witnesses' word is to be taken) an innocent party—the driver of the American car—also went to his death.

Perhaps the only answer to teenage recklessness is for trained Highway Department speakers to augment what the police already are doing, going to the schools and telling teenage drivers in no uncertain terms what their responsibilities are in relation to cars.

School principals might also take it upon themselves to lay emphasis on this problem. One thing is certain, kid-glove treatment is useless.

Irish Welcome

Ireland is one country where family vacations are no problem, as at least one North American visitor has discovered to his advantage. In some countries, writes E. C. Farrell in The Globe and Mail, children are regarded as a necessary evil . . . but in Ireland they are welcomed and made to feel it is the parents who are accompanying the children, not the other way around.

"In Courttown, County Wexford, my wife and I could go swimming or for a walk along the beach or take a ride, secure in the knowledge that the children would be well looked after by the maids and cook. In the evening we could go to a dance with the maids disputing as to who might have the privilege of baby-sitting.

"And one can go into a snug little pub with several men there and have a beer or sherry with the children sitting alongside sipping their orange or lemon and never hear a word out of place, though you can hear some racy stories when children are not present.

"No other country I know restores one's faith in human nature as does Ireland. It is a civilized country. It is a welcoming land."

Ottawa Offbeat

Realist Claude Wagner Took Separatists at Their Word

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Remember Claude Wagner?

The clear-eyed, hard-headed man whose Provincial Police wearing white crash helmets and phosphorescent orange greatcoats, waded, swinging stout nightsticks, into the untidy ranks of assorted hooligans, Separatists, beatnicks and Terrorists who rioted, screaming obscenities at the Queen in Quebec City last Fall?

You'll recall how the Terrorists had made no secret — in fact, they arrogantly advertised — their plans to kill the Queen, and in spectacularly law-defying fashion had mounted arms raids on Federal Army barracks to collect the weapons for what they boasted would be the assassination.

Claude Wagner took them at their word, directed his Provincial Police to lay on with the truncheons, and to back them up, called on the RCMP and even the Armed Forces for reinforcements.

For this firm, sense-making stand in the face of hooligan terrorism, Attorney General Wagner took what for a time threatened to be a politically destructive beating from the Bleeding Hearts and the Cry-Babies.

But not enough, thankfully, it now turns out, to soften him up.

For he is back on the same solid stand publicly proclaiming that the law must be upheld with a firmer hand than ever.

LEAGUE-ITIS

Replying to the Separatists, the far-left politicians and the self-styled intellectuals, Claude Wagner the other day bluntly declared that the well-ordered state and society itself can be well protected only when the forces of law and order know how to quickly and firmly squash demonstrations that inevitably lead to disorders and riots well-planned in advance by "bird-brained anarchists who often make fools and tools of well-intentioned young people."

The Quebec Attorney General said he was "fed up to here" with self-proclaimed leagues for do-gooding.

He saw the nation just a bit sick with what he called "League-itis — this plague of leagues for the defence of so-and-so, for the saving of such-and-such, for the abolition of this and for the elimination of that, for the let's-be-soft attitude, and for the who-cares posture."

The same do-gooders were in them all, he has noted.

And he has wondered why those who aren't soft, who do care, who have some concern and who want to preserve some of the moralities, don't form a league of their own.

He suggests, for example, a league for the preservation of public order, a league for the respect of authority and the upholding of the law, a league for putting the common interest first, a league against sit-downs and sit-ins and extremists' demonstrations in general, a league for the disciplining of anarchists and revolutionaries and a league for the control of pseudo-intellectuals.

Most urgent of all, suggests the young Attorney General, is the need for organization of a League to Place the Interest and Welfare of the Offended Ahead of that of the Offender.

PRIOR RIGHT

In saying these things, the Quebec Attorney General is joining company with RCMP Commissioner George Brinton McClellan (yes, he's related to the Union Armies Commander-in-Chief of the same name in the U.S. Civil War), who for more than a year, has been making a series of speeches on much the same theme.

Interesting that the Chief Mountie and the senior Quebec law officer see the situation in exactly the same focus regardless of the Federal-Provincial differences of their political superiors.

The way Commissioner McClellan sees it — but doesn't put it quite so graphically as Attorney General Wagner — is that the Weepers and Bleeders, as he calls the Do-Gooders, those exponents of soft police, courts, prisons and parole boards, have been too concerned with the rights and special privileges of those who break or undermine the law by their cynical disregard of its rule.

There are other more important, or at least equal rights to be considered.

And the right which concerns the Commissioner as it does the Attorney General is "the more fundamental one of protection of society from society's enemies."

Hoping like Claude Wagner to get the World-Savers, Do-Gooders and Intellectual Busy-bodies off his back, the Commissioner says: "I hold that the prior right in any society which professes to live by the rule of law belongs to the decent citizen who expects to walk the streets of our cities and the lanes of our countryside with reasonable — and I emphasize reasonable — assurance of doing so without fear of robbery, assault, rape, insult or obscenity."

And that prior right, he warns is being eroded.

But not in Quebec, if young, crusading Claude Wagner has his way.

What's Ahead For Eskimos?

Orillia Packet and Times

Behind all the charges and counter-charges regarding the replacement of federal jurisdiction over a large number of Eskimos by that of Quebec provincial authorities, lies the real unmentioned issue. Is it fair and just that an English-speaking, Anglican faith community be administered by a French-speaking Roman Catholic department?

Mr. Pearson protests, of course, that native rights will be consulted before any definite step is taken, but these assurances are all deliberately couched in such vague and general terms as to be obviously worthless as statements of policy. The fact is, of course, that the Eskimos cut no political ice, whereas the French-Canadian politicians of Quebec hold Mr. Pearson in the hollow of their hand. When the interests of the two run counter to one another, as they would presently seem to do, there can be no doubt at all that the Quebec view will prevail. The Eskimos of northern Quebec are about to become wards of that province, whether they like it or not, and in a generation they will be French-speaking Catholics if they know what side their bread's buttered on.

Yet for all the monstrous injustices implied in delivering a virtually helpless community to an unwanted master, the Eskimo transfer is merely a part of a far graver disaster to the future of this nation. For Canada is being dismembered, little by little, and converted as an act of policy from a viable, cohesive nation into a loose federacy of semi-sovereign states. For the Pearson plan of "co-operative federalism" means simply a strengthening of provincial rights and powers and a corresponding weakening of federal responsibilities. Mr. Pearson seems to envisage a nation styled along the lines of Switzerland, with a group of cantonments ,often with differing languages and racial backgrounds, clubbing together in a few fields to cope with problems of mutual interest.

However admirable such a system may be for a nation so peculiarly situated as Switzerland, it is a far cry from the concept of a nation as traditionally envisaged in Canada. For nearly a century now, the citizens of this country have thought of themselves as Canadians, not merely Albertans or Ontarians or New Brunswickers. Yet the Pearson government seems committed, on the eve of this country's centennial, to emphasize rather than diminish the regional differences which still mar the national image of a vibrant and unified nation. Under the pressure of his Quebec wing, Mr. Pearson is quietly cutting up Canada into a collection of autonomous states, each to be, as the Quebecois proclaim, "masters in their own house." The wretched Eskimos have had the misfortune to find themselves in the Quebec house, and they are shortly to be taught just who is master there.

Daughter Proves Allergic To Milk, Fowl, Eggs, Beef

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about food allergies?

My 13-year-old daughter has sniffles and sneezes and to ascertain the cause the doctor made tests which showed she has a tendency to be allergic to the following: Milk (she loves it), corn oil, beef, eggs and chicken. — Mrs. M.P.

It can be a sensitivity to something you breathe, (hay fever), or touch, (contact dermatitis, detergent hands, etc.), something you eat, or even such things as sun, cold, etc.

The best solution is to avoid whatever allergen affects you, if possible. This applies to food allergies, too.

Allergic reactions have a tendency to add up. You may be able to stand a little of something, but a lot of it touches off the allergy. Or you may be allergic to a number of things. If you encounter several of them at the same time, trouble may result even though, singly, the same things do not offend.

Eggs and milk are frequent foods involving allergy. While milk is valuable, if it proves to bother your daughter, you can, of course, find other ways of getting its nutrients into her system.

One way to study such a case is to withdraw all of the suspected foods. If the sniffles and sneezes stop, then you can cautiously begin adding the foods, one at a time and for a week or two, until you form a workable knowledge of which ones she can eat in moderation, and which ones she had better avoid entirely.

In this case, beef, chicken and eggs cut rather deeply into the sources of protein, and growing youngsters especially need plenty of it.

Once you have an idea of the severity of sensitivity to various things, you can begin to find out which ones may be eaten if care is taken not to get too much.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a navel hernia? Is the mother to blame? I am asking this for a woman whose child is very resentful. — F. A. L.

It is never the mother's fault. It is one of the many accidents that people have to contend with — and if that were the worst problem, Utopia would be here now. It's about like a child complaining because he has a big nose, and it's his mother's fault because she has a big nose. So where did she get her big nose?

There's something very wrong with the child's attitude. Is the mother making an issue of this? If the hernia is bothersome, it can be corrected by surgery.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that a person can have diabetes and yet not have it show in the urine although it shows in the blood? — Mrs. R. D.

Yes, this is quite common in persons over 40. That is why the blood sugar test is a more accurate means of detecting diabetes than the urine test. Of course, when diabetes is under control with diet and insulin or other medication, the urine can be kept reasonably free of sugar.

Today in History

Aug. 5, 1965 . . .

Nurse Edith Cavell, the English matron of a Red Cross hospital in Brussels, was arrested 50 years ago today — in 1915 — by the German occupation forces. She admitted helping about 200 Allied soldiers escape to neutral Holland, and she and her chief courier, Philippe Baucq, were shot Oct. 12. Before the execution she remarked, "Patriotism is not enough," which became one of the rallying cries of the First World War.

1886—The first parcel post service from Canada to Britain began.

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — Warsaw fell to the Austro-German armies and the Russians blew up all bridges over the Vistula; Italian troops bombarded Goritz and seized trenches near Polazzo.

Crime Curbed

Milwaukee Journal

When New York City was beset with a rash of crime in its subways this spring, it faced up to the problem and assigned 800 uniformed policemen to ride the underground trains and patrol the stations late at night.

In the two and a half months thereafter, there was a 62.2% decline in felonies—murders, rapes, assaults and other serious crimes—during the hours of 8 p.m. and 4 a.m.

There is still no substitute for adequate policing to bring "crime in the streets" under effective control.

Strictly Personal

Bad Motive Pollutes Good Works

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The hardest person to advise, restrain or correct are those who are doing the right thing for the wrong reason — it is impossible to make them see that bad motives pollute good works.

Labor-saving devices are downright dangerous to society, unless the labor that is saved is utilized in some creative and growing way, and not just dispersed in torpitude and triviality.

A letter which begins, "I don't quite know how to say this . . ." is always unpleasant and usually dishonest.

We all know about the people who "can't stand success"; less widely recognized, but equally prevalent, are those who can't stand the closeness of love — no sooner do they achieve it than they must do all they can to jeopardize it.

No food is "good for" a child unless the child can be motivated to want it; food has a psychological as well as a bodily effect upon us, and the psychological harm often lasts longer than the bodily good.

Whenever I see a conceited entertainer, it reminds me of George Eliot's prescient remark: "It has always seemed to me a sort of clever stupidity only to have one sort of talent like a carrier pigeon."

It's lucky for literature that censors are generally the most ignorant members of the community; for if they understood the extent of Shakespeare's bawdiness, they would work relentlessly to have him banned from every library in the land.

"Ethical standards" are what we expect our competitors to adhere to; "workable practices" are what we ask of ourselves.

With the windows open in summer time, I recall Logan Pearsall Smith's observation: "What music is more enchanting than the voices of young people when you can't hear what they say?"

The paradox of a city like New York is that while it is the most sophisticated city in the nation, its very awareness of its sophistication makes it provincial.

Few people are "doubters" throughout; their skepticism in one area is balanced by their blind belief in another — the man who doubts such a thing as "providence" has an abiding faith in "progress," which has no more basis in reason.

(As a prime example, Einstein rejected the cosmologies of all orthodox religions, yet died clinging passionately to his "unified field theory" of the cosmos, for which no scientific evidence had been found.)

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Aug. 5th, 1945

At the Rehabilitation Conference of delegates of Regional Community Committees of a large part of Ontario held here last week under the sponsorship of the Department of Veterans' Affairs of the Dominion and the Department of Planning and Development of the Province of Ontario, the object was to impress upon the public and the delegates that rehabilitation of the returned men is the important problem. For instance, if a man has an objective, the aim is to help him to achieve that goal.

Belleville was honored in having this three-day conference here and it served to indicate to the people of Belleville and district on rehabilitation a very complete body well organized to meet the problems that will be brought to its attention with the ever increasing flow of returning men into this section of the Province.

30 YEARS AGO

Aug. 5th, 1935

Mrs. B. Andrews has returned home from Kingston where she visited her brother, Mr. P. H. Gill.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Parry and Billie, Station Street, and Mr. and Mrs. George Beare of Bleecker Avenue have returned to the city after spending a vacation at the Parry Cottage at Consecon Lake.

Miss Lena Brown, Dufferin Avenue, is spending her vacation at Brockville and Ottawa.

Mr. Ernest McMullen, a former resident of Belleville, is renewing acquaintances in town and is stopping at Hotel Quinte. Mr. McMullen retired from the services of the Bank of Montreal while manager at Vancouver, B. C., and he is now living retired in Victoria, B.C. When residing here his home was on Commercial Street, now Highland Avenue.

40 YEARS AGO

Mr. Leonard S. Armstrong of New York City is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Gunn at her summer cottage, Trent Road.

Mrs. R. Duncan and Mrs. C. W. Hubbard of Hamilton will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Clark, College Street, during the Old Boys' Reunion.

Mrs. Fred Cook and children have returned home from Winnipeg where they spent a month with her sister, Mrs. F. K. Storts.

50 YEARS AGO

Aug. 5th, 1915

Mr. Thomas Corbett of Calgary, Alta., an old Belleville boy who is home on a visit, rescued from drowning a lad named Boyle yesterday afternoon just east of the government dock. The lad became entangled with weeds and was unable to swim. Mr. Corbett heard his cries for help and went to his assistance and brought him safely to shore. This is by no means the first time that "Tom" as he is known to many friends, has rescued persons from drowning.

The greatest picnic in the history of the Belleville Club of Winnipeg was held recently. It was a regular old fashioned basket picnic which brought back memories of picnics at Massassaga Park, Twelve O'Clock Point, Glen Island, Glenora and other picnic grounds. About 200 former Bellevillians were present. The success of the picnic was due to the energetic committee which was composed of Bert Wallace, Deb. Snider, Will Lennox, Walter Dobbs and Ed. Coulson.

Pirates

Ottawa Journal

Ottawa is justified in seeking a judicial opinion on offshore rights but failed in diplomatic relations with the provinces, always touchy about control of natural resources. The consequence of this awkward handiwork is an angry debate, more becoming to pirates arguing over hidden treasure than to Canadian leaders who all serve taxpayers who are interested chiefly in national development and unity.

POTENTIAL DANGER of spiralling prices in Canada is indicated by the recent rapid rise in wholesale prices, as charted by the Bank of Montreal in its July Business Review. Consumer prices and most other prices also rose.

Bank of Montreal Review Warns of Uncertainty in Future of External Trade

MONTREAL — Although Canada's economic conditions are continuing buoyant and future prospects are good, some warning signs can already be seen in the business outlook, according to the Bank of Montreal in its Business Review for July, just issued.

The B of M notes that in both Canada and the United States the strength of last year's business activity has "continued at a good pace" into this year and industrial production, already 35 per cent higher than in 1961, is still expanding.

But the bank warns of uncertainty in the future of external trade, a major source of strength during the current business expansion, with the gap between imports and exports widening unfavorably.

PRICES RISE

"Further uncertainty, both for Canada's external trade and for general economic conditions in this country, could arise from a continuation of price increases such as have taken place in wholesale prices recently," the B of M states.

The first signs of "strong upward pressure on prices" appeared in late 1964 and, between October, 1964, and June, 1965, wholesale prices in Canada rose by over 3 per cent.

"Certainly these increases as yet indicate only mild inflationary pressure compared with the record in most countries," the bank says.

"However, they do pose, especially for Canada, a somewhat greater danger of spiralling prices than has been experienced in recent years since they come at a time when the economy is operating much closer to capacity, when substantial wage increases are being gained and when there is an increasing incidence of labor disputes resulting in work stoppages."

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The warning on prices was one of several raised by the B of M in a review of the current business outlook.

However, it notes that Canada's economic conditions are continuing buoyant and that future prospects are good, with the strength of last year's business activity continuing "at a good pace" in this year.

In addition, plans for capital expenditure this year which already call for a substantial increase appear to have been revised upwards in recent months.

FURTHER EXPANSION

However, the B of M says "there is a real question whether any further sizable expansion in capital spending....could be achieved without causing considerable distortion." It points out that additional demands would be placed on already short supplies of certain categories of labor and materials, intensifying existing pressure on prices and costs, and that imports could rise strongly to meet heavy demand for machinery and equipment.

But the bank says that official forecasts of growth for 1965 will be easily achieved in current dollar terms, even without taking into account the possibility of a bumper grain harvest in the West. "However, the various uncertainties .... suggest that some slowing down in real terms of the current rather heady rate of advance may be inevitable before too long, especially if overheating becomes clear enough to require a more positive degree of monetary restraint."

Nevertheless, there are many favorable elements in the present situation. "With longer run prospects so good, the adjustments that may be required in the months ahead should be easier to make, particularly if due attention is paid to the warning signs already in evidence.

"For the danger remains that what should be merely a pause for breath could turn into a major readjustment if excessive demands are put on the economy at this stage," the B of M Review concludes.

Grain Flow

walkout by employees last September was illegal.

The union has demanded the suit be dropped as a condition of further negotiations. It claims support of the majority report of a conciliation board recommending disposal of the suit and granting of a 30-cent wage increase on top of a basic wage of $2.48 an hour.

After the union's strike vote May 16—90 per cent in favor of a walkout—a spokesman for the companies said they were prepared to offer a better deal than any other grain workers in Canada have.

SETS CONDITIONS

No details were disclosed, but two conditions were announced: A no-strike clause in the new contract and payment by the union of $1 in token damages for the September walkout, along with the signing of a statement admitting the union acted illegally.

Government sources in Ottawa described Trade Minister Sharp as "extremely angry" at the Alberta Pool for its stand on the strike clause. The issue was described as the key to the impasse.

The union's decision to declare Alberta Pool grain as "hot," led to extension of the tieup.

The union claimed that destination cards on railway boxcars had been switched to camouflage grain headed for the Alberta Pool in order to move it through other terminals.

This was denied both by the companies and the railways.

As the elevators here became idle, the companies cut off farmers' deliveries to Prairie elevators. By Wednesday the CPR alone had more than 4,000,000 bushels of grain sitting in sidings between here and the Prairies, possibly in danger of deterioration.

Facing Viet Cong Easy Compared With Task of Facing Nuoc Mam

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG (AP)—Some Americans in South Viet Nam say they'd rather face the Communist Viet Cong for a week than spend an hour in the presence of nuoc mam.

Nuoc mam isn't the name of an enemy organization. Aside from rice, it is the most highly prized item in the South Vietnamese diet.

A pungent sauce eaten at most meals, nuoc mam is made by pressing alternate layers of fish and salt that have been left standing for a period of weeks or months. What drips through, friends, is an oily, odoriferous mixture that assaults the nose as does the ripest of ripe French cheese. Compared with it, garlic smells like magnolias.

There are three squeezings of nuoc mam, but the first squeezing is most highly prized. Heaven help the man who gets the third.

The South Vietnamese douses it liberally on rice, meat, fish, poultry and most vegetables. After considerable urging, I sampled it at a Vietnamese dinner recently and wound up eating a saucer of it.

It is flavorful, but like olives or raw oysters it's an acquired taste. You don't notice the odor yourself. But after I returned to the press camp, my friends insisted I stand downwind from them for the rest of the evening.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD G. STEPHANSON

Stephanson – Robson

Judith Elaine Robson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton H. Robson and Edward Garfield (Garry) Stephanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Stephanson, all of Belleville, were married in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on Saturday, July 31, at 12 noon by Rev. Gordon Woodcock, minister of the church, assisted by Rev. Nial Eastman, Edmonton, Alberta, cousin of the bride. Organist Mr. William Connor played the traditional music and Miss Elizabeth Woodcock sang two selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length white organza over taffeta gown with round neck, lily point sleeves and Empire waistline outlined with Alencon lace, with the same lace used to enhance the A-line skirt and detachable chapel train. She wore a four-tiered silk illusion veil caught up by a cluster of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a sunburst bouquet with garlands of Frenched pink carnations and ivy radiating from a centre of full sized pink carnations.

Miss Patricia Chambers of Toronto, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaid was Miss Gayle Stephanson of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom. They were dressed alike in aqua nylon organza over taffeta, featuring a floating panel of matching lace edged with organza, caught at the back of the neckline by a bow and extending to the hem. The junior bridesmaids, Miss Darlene Robson and Miss Susan Robson, both of Halloway, cousins of the bride, wore dresses of white Terylene batiste with full skirts and aqua organza cummerbunds. All attendants wore aqua pillbox headdresses with matching veil. The maid of honor carried a white lace basket of pink carnations and ivy and the bridesmaids carried white lace fans as a background for pink carnations and ivy.

Mr. Garth Stephanson, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Donald Robson and Mr. Owen Stephanson, all of Belleville.

The reception was held at the Pinnacle Room of the Quinte Hotel with Rev. Woodcock as master of ceremonies. To receive the guests, the bride's mother wore a navy sheer dress with lace bodice and sleeves, a flowered hat in raspberry shade with a corsage of roses to match. The bridegroom's mother wore a turquoise crepe dress trimmed with bead embroidery, white accessories and a corsage of coral roses.

For her wedding trip to the Muskoka district the bride chose a three piece yellow linen suit, white accessories and a corsage of roses and baby's breath.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Stephanson will live at 33A Burton Street, Belleville.

Mossman – Cleaver

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT MOSSMAN

Gray – Cleaver

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT GRAY

Rev. A. W. Lauder assistant curate at Christ Church, Belleville performed the ceremony for a double wedding on Saturday, July 31, 1965, when Ruth Geraldine and Barbara Ann Cleaver, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Cleaver were united in marriage. The former became the bride of Robert Roy Mossman, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Mossman, Belleville, while the latter was united in marriage to Robert Wayne Gray, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Sharpe, Belleville.

Mr. John Withers, church organist played appropriate nuptial music and accompanied the six choir boys in several selections.

Both brides, given in marriage by their father wore identical floor-length wedding gowns of peau de soie featuring all lace bodices with scalloped necklines and long lily-point sleeves, and enhanced with bell skirts. Their shoulder-length veils flowed from crowns of lily-of-the-valley centred with pearls. Each carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and white 'mums with trailing ivy.

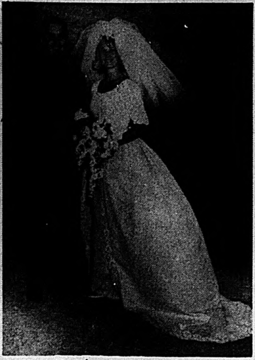
Mrs. Mossman's attendants were sisters, Mrs. Pat Brummel, as matron of honor and Mrs. Doreen Hyde-Whipp, while Mrs. Gray's attendants were Mrs. Sarah Lock and another sister Mrs. Donna Hyde-Whipp. All attendants were identically attired in floor-length gowns of aqua pure silk organza over taffeta dresses featuring Chantilly lace bodices with short sleeves. The sheath skirts were accented at the back with bows. All wore wedding ring headdresses with matching short veils and each carried a bouquet of yellow and white 'mums centred with a solitaire yellow rose. There were two little flower girls, nieces of the brides with Miss Jacqueline Sharpe of Toronto for Ruth's wedding and Miss Penny Coon for Barbara's. Both wore street-length dresses of white batiste silk organza enhanced with large bow at back and matching headbands.

Mr. Don Cox, Point Anne, was groomsman for Robert Mossman with Mr. Gerald Forestell the usher, while Robert Gray was attended by Mr. Gary Locke, Belleville, and Mr. Pete Hyde-Whipp the usher. Ringbearer for the former was Master Morris Cleaver and for the latter Master Randy Brummell, both dressed in knee length grey flannels with navy blue blazers.

The reception for both couples was held at Club Canara where the brides' table was centred with a four-tier wedding cake topped with miniature bride and bridegroom. The brides' mother received the guests wearing a two-piece ensemble consisting of blue sheath dress and three-quarter length coat of Chantilly lace over silk taffeta, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Assisting was Mrs. R. C. Mossman dressed in royal blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and Mr. Gray's grandmother wearing a two-piece silk printed dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Both couples left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls with Mrs. Mossman wearing a yellow three piece ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations, while Mrs. Gray chose a two piece pink suit, white accessories and a rose corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Mossman will reside at 40A Burton Street, Belleville, while Mr. and Mrs. Gray will reside at Belleville R.R.2.



Brydon – Vermilyea

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST M. BRYDON

A lovely summer wedding was solemnized in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville on Saturday, July 31, 1965, when Judith Patricia Vermilyea, daughter of Mrs. S. E. Vermilyea, Belleville and the late Mr. S. E. Vermilyea was united in marriage to Ernest Montgomery Brydon, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Brydon, North Surrey, British Columbia. Rev. H. M. Davis officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was provided by Mr. Clifford Templer who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Verna Gray.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Jack Matthews of Belleville wore a floor length bridal gown of nylon sheer over taffeta in sheath style with an Empire waistline and featuring a Guipure lace bodice with elbow length sleeves. The back of the dress was highlighted with a sweeping cathedral train outlined with Guipure lace. A tiered shoulder length veil of silk illusion flowed from a headdress of organza roses dotted with seed pearls. She carried a cascade crescent of white gardenias and white carnations surrounded by red feathered carnations and ivy.

Mrs. Jack Matthews, Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and the bridesmaids Mrs. John McCaskin of Barrie, sister of the bride, Miss Linda Grebb, Toronto and Miss Marilyn Brydon, sister of the bridegroom were identically attired in floor length aqua silk organza over taffeta with matching lace jackets. They wore wedding ring band headdresses with circular veils. The little flower girls were Denise and Peggy Matthews, nieces of the bride who wore aqua silk organza over taffeta short dresses with white lace jackets. All attendants carried bouquets of white gladioli tinted to match the color of their dresses.

Mr. Ken Cornforth of Toronto was groomsman, while the ushers were Mr. Hal Borle of Belleville, and Mr. Jim Frederick and Mr. Pete Couves, Toronto.

For the wedding reception in the Masonic Temple, Belleville the bride's table was centred with a traditional wedding cake and topped with a miniature bride and miniature bridegroom dressed in R.C.M.P. uniform. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a petal pink crepe sheath dress with scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves and draped at midriff and back. The fitted bodice was accented at the front with a flower design of bugle beads, seed pearls and sequins. She wore a matching hat of flowers with draped tulle with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore an aqua colored dress of silk shantung in sheath style with matching coat and stand-up collar, flowered hat with matching tulle, white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Brydon will reside in Scarborough.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. PARM

Parm – Yome

Pamela Ilene Yome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yome, Belleville, and William Charles Parm, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Parm, Belleville, were united in marriage by Rev. R. Vessey in Eastminster United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 31, at 2.00 p.m.

The church organist, Mrs. Rennie, played the wedding music and Mrs. Bev Shaw was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sheath gown of nylon organza over taffeta with a scoop neckline and long lily point sleeves. The bodice was enhanced with Chantilly lace inserts which were repeated on the bottom of the skirt. The detachable train flowed from the waistline in bouffant style with bustle effect. Her shoulder length bouffant veil was held by a chapel cap of Chantilly lace with seed pearls interspersed around the crown. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and feathered 'mums.

Miss Diane Alexander, as maid of honor, wore a full length gown in yellow with nylon organza and white cotton cut-out lace on the bodice, elbow length sleeves, Empire waistline and long detachable train falling from the neckline. Her headpiece was of small rosettes with seed pearls and veiling. Miss Ruth Fraser, and Miss Jane Parm, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. All attendants carried cascade bouquets of white and yellow poms.

Mr. Jim Irwin of Belleville attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Tom Boyle, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Bob Yome, brother of the bride. Tony Yome, brother of the bride, acted as ringbearer.

The reception was held in the Four Seasons Room at the Tops Motor Motel. To receive the guests, Mrs. Yome wore an ice blue crepe sheath dress with lace bodice and matching accessories, and a corsage of pale blue carnations. Mrs. Parm wore a pink sheath with lace overlay and matching jacket, pink and white accessories and a corsage of pale pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to western points the bride chose a three piece melon colored linen suit with white lace under blouse, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and white carnations.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Parm will live in Belleville.

Old Goat Has Sweet Dream, So Ann Plans Nightmare

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm 17 and working as a check-out girl in a neighborhood supermarket. I enjoy the work but I'm having a problem. The manager of fruits and vegetables has a fresh mouth. This old goat has children who are older than I am and he makes me so mad I want to paste him in the teeth.

He always has something personal to say. All week long he's been following me around whispering, "I had a wonderful dream about you last night. Would you like to hear about it?" I walk away from him but he tags along and keeps talking.

I wish I had a real sharp answer to put him in his place. Please, Ann, help me. — INEXPERIENCED.

DEAR IN — The next time the old geezer asks if you want to hear about his dream say, "No, — but I'll bet my father would like to hear about it. Shall I ask him to call you?"

If this doesn't wilt his lettuce speak to the store manager.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — You usually come right out and let the meddlers, scoundrels, pests, nags and cheapskates have it right between the eyes. But there's one group you haven't hit very hard and I'd like to do it for you. I'm talking about grown kids who don't want their fathers to remarry — for selfish reasons.

I never saw it to fail. If Dad has no money the kids are always pushing the old man to marry some nice woman who will take care of him in his old age so they won't get stuck.

If Dad has money they don't want him to get married because it cuts down their share. I've seen this happen many times among my older friends and it's a shame. My brother listened to his selfish kids. They got him to ask the woman he was going with to settle for $10,000 if he should die first. The woman told him to forget he ever knew her.

Funny thing, Ann, she died two years later and left a big estate. Please print this. It could open a few ayes. — OLD SALTY.

DEAR SALT — A father who would allow selfish children to talk him out of a second marriage for financial reasons deserves a lonely old age — which is usually what he gets.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 60. My husband is 68. I've worked at a steady job for 40 years because we never had any children. I wanted to adopt but my husband refused to take "a stranger's child" into the house. I realize now I was foolish to let him have his way about this.

Now that we are able to go on trips and do some of the things I've always wanted to do, my husband won't budge. Every time we talk about a vacation he develops a new ache or pain.

My sister is going west to visit her son in a few weeks and has asked me to accompany her. We would be gone only six days. My husband is putting on such a campaign of abuse that I'm a nervous wreck. He calls me a "gadabout" and says a woman's place is at home with her husband. He says if I leave him to go on this trip he will get sick and it will be my fault.

What shall I do? — SHUT IN.

DEAR IN — You've catered to this selfish man for so long he is like a spoiled child. Of course, it won't be easy to bust out after 40 years of imprisonment but I urge you to try.

Tell your sister you are going on the trip. Prepare plenty of nourishing food so your husband will be well fed in your absence. Let him know that if he gets sick the doctor can do him more good than you can. Enjoy yourself and send me a postcard.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SUMMER SALMON SUPPER

The weather was hot and we expected a carload of guests from New York.

I wanted to take our evening meal out of the refrigerator whenever they arrived. So during the evening before I boiled half of a Gaspe salmon and some well-scrubbed new potatoes for a salad and marinated some button mushrooms and green pepper. For dessert we had a cheesecake topped with glazed berries. Details for salmon and marinated vegetables follow.

Once per year we splurge and have a feast of this incomparable Canadian fish. I want to remind our readers that this fish is filling, because it is rich and goes a long way. I always plan to have some leftover for sandwiches and salad plates on the following day or two.

Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Savory Meat Loaf; Tomato Sauce; Scalloped Potatoes; New Green Peas; Tossed Greens; Blueberries and Cream; Cheese and Crackers; Coffee.

SUNDAY
(Guests)

Baked Thick Ham Slice; Spiced Apple Halves; Sweet 'n Sour Corn (see Saturday); Buttered Broccoli; Tomato and Lettuce Wedge Salad; French Dressing; Red Fruit Sauce (see Friday) over Ice Cream; Maple Buds (see Tuesday); Tea.

CHILLED GASPE SALMON

(use same method for New Brunswick Restigouche or British Columbia Cohoe). .. ....

Moisten a large sheet of parchment paper. Sprinkle inside of a 5-lb. piece of Gaspe salmon with 1 tablespoon salt. Sprinkle outside with salt too (about 1 tablespoon) and wrap in parchment paper (or a large strong tea towel). I used my roasting pan in which to boil this for I did not want to curve fish. Place wrapped fish in vessel which will hold it without crowding, pour boiling water over to barely cover, put on lid, and simmer 40 minutes. Carefully remove from liquid and open one end of wrapping and let enclosed salty liquid drain off. Leave wrapping on salmon and let cool at room temperature. Chill, still wrapped, in refrigerator. At serving time peel off wrapping and scaly skin carefully and neatly. Try not to mar the sculptured striae of the surface under the skin. Carefully transfer to long platter. I garnished the top of ours with jellied mayonnaise in diamond shapes, points touching, down entire length of salmon. In the indentations I placed sliced stuffed olives.

I sieved two hard-cooked egg yolks and sprinkled this in a narrow border flanking the mayonnaise diamonds and then sprinkled the sieved egg yolks delicately with paprika. Partially tucked under fish were liberal amounts of parsley on which were wedges of lemon and cucumber.

Our tired and hungry guests watched me make these finishing touches, and followed me and it to the dining-table like the children followed the Pied Piper.

MARINATED BUTTON MUSHROOMS AND GREEN PEPPER
(repeated from March 1963.)

½ lb. button or medium-small raw mushrooms, 1 large green pepper, about ½ to ¾ cup onion or garlic French dressing.

Scrub mushrooms thoroughly. If medium-small cut in halves lengthwise. Wash and seed pepper and cut into 1" squares. Turn mushroom and green pepper pieces in a bowl, pour over French dressing and gently stir to coat all pieces of vegetables with marinade. Cover and chill in refrigerator for at least 3 or 4 hours, mixing and turning over in marinade 2 or 3 times during this period. When you turn these into a serving dish, pour a little of the marinade over them.

Club Activities

MILLTOWN BIRTHDAY CLUB

The Milltown Birthday Club met at the home of Olive Vance. Prizes went to Ruby Kilpatrick, first; Olive Vance, second; lone hand, Leona Hinchey; consolation, Lillian Bennett.

A presentation of a set of dishes was made to Beverly Kilpatrick a member of the club who will be married soon.

Next meeting will be at Grace Merry's.

MOTHERS WON'T HELP

MONTREAL (CP) — A common fault today is the refusal to be committed, says Mrs. John Connor, school commissioner for one of the city's boards. Too many parents are ready to make complaints, she said, but the same people refuse to get involved by joining home and school associations.

UCW Holds Summer Tea

WELLINGTON — A gala event was enjoyed when Wellington United Church Women held their annual summer tea and bazaar.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. C. Hicks and Miss Viola Valleau. Conveners of the tea room in the centennial parlor were Mrs. J. Dick and Mrs. C. Cleave. Refreshments were served from small tables with floral centres. A large bowl of red roses and baby's breath centred the serving table flanked by triple candelabrums arranged by Mrs. H. East.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. C. Campbell, Mrs. C. Burr, Mrs. C. Cleave and Mrs. H. Pierson.

The servers included Mrs. C. Young, Mrs. T. Everall, Mrs. H. Haydon, Mrs. G. Gibson and Mrs. Sharpe, each wearing a corsage. Mrs. P. Elliott and Mrs. Ed. Marshall were tea hostesses.

On the lawn surrounding the parsonage, the sale tables were arranged and drew many customers. The popular bake table was convened by Mrs. Mac Greer, assisted by Mrs. E. Bond, Mrs. H. Stewart and Miss Gladys Pettingell. In charge of the large candy table was Mrs. C. Burr, Mrs. A. Foster and Mrs. J. McNeil. The sale of recipe books compiled by Unit III was attended by Mrs. H. Pierson, Readily disposed of were the aprons at the table by Mrs. W. Adams and Mrs. W. Jackson while the fancy work and miscellaneous table was a hive of activity with Mrs. B. Bishop, Mrs. L. Bryand, Mrs. K. Conley and Miss Louise Pettingell in charge.

Mrs. G. Parks was treasurer for the occasion and a generous sum was realized.

Determined June Marks Ignites Slum Question

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—A slight, attractive housewife whose home is a few blocks from downtown Toronto's slums has managed to keep city council at an almost constant boil during recent months.

June Marks, a freshman alderman who rejects the traditional view that you merely sit and listen during your first term on council, was in office only a short time before she grabbed hold of the slum housing issue.

Despite some initial resistance from council veterans, she refused to let go. Her persistence has resulted in the adoption of a new bylaw and the establishment of a judicial inquiry.

Editorials, front-page stories and horror pictures in Toronto's three daily newspapers have all focused attention on slum conditions and on Mrs. Marks, an earnest, intelligent woman in her early 40s.

Speaking with a trace of shyness that disappears when she gets warmed up on her favorite topic, the dark - haired Mrs. Marks admits a chance decision made 20 years ago has much to do with her present prominence.

It was then that she and husband Nicholas decided to make their home downtown. Mrs. Marks says that if they had decided to live anywhere else she would probably have been content to stay home and tend to her church work and community chest canvassing.

A good many people wish they had.

DISTRICT DECAYS

The Marks family has seen its own neighborhood crumble. Mrs. Marks says it wasn't necessary; that slums wouldn't exist if there weren't people willing at best to ignore them, at worst to encourage them.

She criticized slum conditions so vociferously that city council asked her to produce evidence to back up her complaints or be quiet. With the help of university students, she undertook a survey that resulted in a 324-page report based on interviews with people living in slum housing.

Some of the statements say the city welfare department sends families on relief to live in dwellings not fit for human habitation. They claim bylaws setting standards of maintenance are enforced against private home owners but not against absentee landlords.

The report charges that without the ignorance or connivance of responsible officials, developer-speculators would not be able to despoil neighborhoods and set them up for rezoning as apartment sites.

City officials took the view that the documents substantiate the fact that Toronto has a major slum problem. But they doubted the report supported her allegation that the city buildings department was soft on absentee landlords.

ORDERED INQUIRY

Some aldermen had reservations about the value of the reports, and Toronto Star columnist Ron Haggart called them "street corner gossip," adding that an inquiry into the charges would draw off energy that should be used in attacking the slum problem itself.

Nevertheless, county court judge Robert Forsyth was ordered to inquire into the allegations and is expected to begin holding hearings about mid-August.

And council has passed a bylaw that increases the fine for failing to maintain dwellings properly for $200 from $50.

Mrs. Marks says with a wry smile that since the report was presented, sod has appeared in her neighborhood where there hasn't been sod in years, and paint on fences and houses.

She also says she knows the publicity will stop and that new bylaws in themselves won't cure anything.

"I want to see policies set up and administered so people are not put into these rotten living conditions. If there is a shortage of housing, then build the houses. I want to see a tightening up so welfare reports are filed and something happens because of them.

"I want to see modernization of housing and welfare. I never said I wanted anybody fired."

MOVED DOWNTOWN

The seeds of Mrs. Marks' crusade were probably sown 25 years ago when she was 17 and her family moved from North Toronto to an old, tree-shaded area a few blocks northeast of the city's heart.

"I was very innocent, but instinct tells you to walk faster than some of the other girls."

When Nicholas Marks came home from overseas at the end of the war he and his young wife thought it over and decided to buy her mother's house and stay.

He went to work as a die maker and Mrs. Marks did her church work and fund-raising and worked with the auxiliary of a Salvation Army shelter. Shortly after that she took her first unwitting step toward public office.

"It was about 15 years ago. Two kiddies were killed by cars in our neighborhood. That was the first time I became aware of city hall, the first time I ever did anything about anything."

She pestered officials until traffic regulations were changed. A bit later she did the same thing until a school crossing guard was assigned to a nearby corner.

"They were two small things but because of these, people started to come to me."

Ten years ago she became president of the local ratepayers' association — most of the houses in her area were still privately owned.

About the same time there was a fire in a rooming house in the neighborhood and a process began which Mrs. Marks says she is convinced happens regularly and helps to create slum housing profits for speculators.

FIRE ESCAPES ORDERED

"The city wanted fire escapes put on houses and major alterations made. So many home owners couldn't afford them.

"They wouldn't have minded complying if other home owners had had to do these things, but it seemed to be only one section of Ward 2. It seemed to pick on people who rented out one or two rooms to keep going.

"In many cases it would have cost $3,000 and made the homes look ugly. People sold. The home owners moved and absentee owners took over.

"That was just speculation. Even if a fire escape went up, other standards went down. From then on deterioration started."

Mrs. Marks began thinking of running for office. She tried in 1962 and lost. Last fall she tried again and won, but not so much with the votes of the slum area as with support from a prosperous residential area to the north.

June and Nicholas Marks and their four children—Linda, 18, Ronald, 16, Douglas, 13, and Robert, 5—still live in their old home, a modest dwelling that has recently undergone some interior redecoration, and the parents believe the children have gained more than they have lost from being raised downtown.

"Both of us come from families where there is no prejudice. The children have met all races and backgrounds. They have asked us why there are so many elderly men in a park near us, and we have explained what kind of rooms those men live in and why they stay in the park. We have tried to teach them not to ridicule people.

"People ask us if we had to teach them earlier than usual not to go off with strangers. We taught them no earlier or later. I feel they are as safe in downtown Toronto as any place because there are always so many people, and many of them are tremendous people.

"I think our children have grown to be rather interesting children."

"It's got to be a country where my husband can read the National League standings in the newspapers."

Susanna's Family Fare

HE WANTS WHAT HE WANTS

Dear Susanna: When a man wants his favorite shirt to wear he wants it! In fact one would think it was the only article of clothing he had to his name. On Saturday morning at a quarter to five my husband woke me up in great anxiety asking me where his favorite navy blue jersey sport shirt was. His fishing pals were calling for him in 15 minutes and he had to have it right away. "O.K. O.K."

I wended my way down to the pile of clothing in the laundry where I knew I had tossed it to be washed, and picked it out. It wasn't really dirty. I remember that I had decided to put it through the wash cycle to freshen it up. Now however, it really needed sweetening and de-wrinkling.

Since lots of time I didn't have I turned the dial of my dryer to hot and threw in his shirt. Right along with it went a thoroughly dampened hand towel with a highly scented bar of lavender soap tied into the middle. In less than ten minutes his sartorial masterpiece was sweetened, smoothed, freshened, fluffed and even tenderly warm for him to put on over his bare skin at such a cool early hour of the morning. Some wife, hmmm? — Millie

I know, and at this point you were both able to manage a big smile. His friends were just pulling up and he was all set to leave right on time . . . and you were all set too . . . to get right back into bed! — SUSANNA

WHO NEEDS AN OVEN

Dear Susanna: Electricity and a two burner stove are about the only conveniences we have so far at the summer lodge we are building as a joint family effort. When I came to prepare the evening meal this past weekend I felt I just couldn't serve another boiled or fried potato. Since I did have my electric frying pan there I decided to experiment.

I wrapped the whole potatoes in metal foil — having first patted each one with a little butter — and placed them in the pan. They were a fairly uniform size so that the lid fit on snuggly. I cooked them at medium heat for an hour and a half. They were delicious and simply "made" the meal. — Mrs. C. Sanky

Doris Hits .500 in Advice Given to Two Readers

DEAR DORIS — Do you ever wonder how your advice works for folks?

Several months ago you advised a lady to just get ready and go out leaving her thoughtless hubby to baby sit.

DORIS CLARK

Two friends of mine tried this on their hubbies' half day. They had dinner ready and were all dressed for town. When hubby arrived they simply walked out and didn't return till 8 p.m.

In one case, the youngsters and Daddy pitched in, cleaned, mopped floors; bathed the baby and had the little ones in bed; a shiny house and everything neat for Mom's return. Then hubby and wife had a long talk in which hubby agreed to give a hand and see Mom got a rest or day off once in a while.

In the second home hubby walked out and upon his return late that night accused Mom of being a rotten wife and lousy mother and, also, if she ever tried the same stunt he would have her declared unfit; have the children placed in a home and throw her out.

This argument has rubbed off on the kids who now think Mom doesn't love them and every time she leaves the house they kick up a terrible row. This girl is beginning to act as if she will have a nervous breakdown.

So you see, Doris, your advice doesn't always work as you would like. — A STEADY READER.

DEAR STEADY — If Hubby No. 2 walked out on small children when he was left in sole charge of them, he's the one who could be brought into court. And the mother who left for a long-wanted evening out would have a good case against him.

Did I neglect to say that Mom should state what she is doing and ask for co-operation? Perhaps I should add that a too-far-gone situation won't respond to mild rebellion! Case No. 2 calls for personal counselling about a marriage which must have shown many symptoms of breakdown ahead of said night.

Your true life stories are food for thought for our readers.

Hubble Family Holds Reunion

STIRLING — Fifty-five descendants of the pioneer Nehemiah Hubble of Hubble Hill, and Mount Pleasant-Rawdon, a United Empire Loyalist, gathered on Sunday in Frankford community hall for the 16th annual Hubble reunion.

Relatives were in attendance from Toronto, Collins Bay, Marmora, Stirling, Harold, Carmel, Frankford, Wooler, Glen Ross, Stockdale, Foxboro, Norwood and Hastings.

Before the dinner, the president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, gave the invocation and extended a welcome to all. Following the meal, the 25 children in attendance enjoyed games on the lawn. They were in charge of Sid Demorest and Burton Hubble. Each child received a gift of candy and balloons.

PRIZES GIVEN

Mrs. Sid Demorest, Marmora, purchased and wrapped the gifts. They were distributed by the president as follows:

Largest family present, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hubble, Belleville, with seven children; family who travelled the farthest, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Houde, Coe Hill Drive, Toronto, over 100 miles; youngest child, Roseanne Hubel, born in June 1965, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hubel, Stirling, R.R. 3; youngest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. T. Aide, Stirling, married May, 1965; oldest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hubble, Wooler, married 53 years; most grandchildren in attendance, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hubble, Glen Ross, ten grandchildren.

A period of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Lorne Hubble, Stockdale, wife of the founder of the reunions; Mr. Sandford Hubble, Belleville, and all other deceased members of the clan.

Mrs. MacMullen extended thanks to Mrs. Arthur Pyear for her part in mailing 100 invitations. She reported that Mrs. Stanley Irvin of River Valley had telephoned greetings and that Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Chatterson of Brighton, R.R. 4, had visited Hubble Hill pioneer cemetery on May 24. Mrs. Chatterson was the former Christine Hubble, daughter of Richard Hubble and granddaughter of James Hubble.

Mrs. Cecil Hubble, Foxboro, read the minutes as prepared by Mrs. Russell Pyear, Belleville, and gave the financial report.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Stirling R.R. 3; vice-president, Clinton Hubble, Collins Bay R.R. 3; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Russell Pyear, 19 Strathcona Drive, Belleville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Pyear, Frankford R.R. 3; sports committee, Burton Hubble, R.R. 5, Belleville, and Tony Aide, Stirling.

The 1966 reunion will be held in Frankford community hall on the fourth Sunday in July. Cards of greeting will be forwarded to Edward Montgomery at Hastings Manor and Sandford Hubble, Belleville, as they attended the reunions when health permitted.

HISTORY OF CLAN

The historian, Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a brief history of the clan. She said Nehemiah Hubble and a brother or cousin, who had previously lived in Ballston, New York, arrived at Adolphustown on June 16, 1784, with Major Peter VanAlstine's company. They travelled to the wilderness at Hubble Hill in Rawdon township, now called Mount Pleasant. That autumn Nehemiah returned to the United States and brought his wife, the former Lucinda Welton, and has family to Hubble Hill.

In 1870, Hubble Hill pioneer cemetery was dedicated to the memory of the United Empire Loyalists and their survivors.

Nehemiah's second son, Elijah Allan, married Fanny Chard and the sixth, seventh, and eighth generations of his family attended the reunions annually Huldah Hubble married James Wescott. Great-grandparents of the historian, they are buried in Hubble Hill cemetery.

Playground Activities

C.N.R. PLAYGROUND

On Tuesday night, August 3, the annual playground Neighborhood Night was held. It was a big success, with over 70 in attendance. The program started at 7.00 o'clock with a talent show. The first act was "I Can't Eat My Soup," with Vincent Penny, Rose Anne Coughlin, Billy Barlow, David Hannah, George Bunnett. The second number "How's the Fishing-" was presented by Nancy McKenna and David Hannah. A song and dance routine called "The Belleville Girls" with Audrey Henderson, Carolyn Wood, Janet Begley, Debby Bush and Rose-Anne Coughlin, was followed by a playlet, "Salami," with Brock Barlow and Vincent Penny. The last act was Maurice Woods playing two selections on his accordion.

Keitha Little did an excellent job as M.C.

Following the Talent Show the Miss C.N.R. contest was held. Entrants were 3 to 6 years of age and had to wear bathing suits. The voting was close. Miss C.N.R. for 1965 is Miss Cheryl Wood. She will represent the CNR playground at the East Hill playground Penny Carnival on Thursday.

Following the Miss CNR contest a wiener roast was held. The supervisor of the playground is Pam Murray.

Clare Family Reunion Held

Nearly one hundred descendants of Thomas Clare, who came to Hungerford Township from Ireland in 1815, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Clare, 307 Dundas Street West, Belleville, on Saturday, July 31, for a family reunion. On the spacious grounds of the Clare home old friendships were renewed and new acquaintances made.

The publication of "The Clare Family History" last fall promoted sufficient interest among the descendants of Thomas Clare that guests were present from Briercrest, Saskatchewan; Elm Creek, Manitoba; Chicago, Illinois; Sault Ste. Marie, Sarnia, Hamilton, Toronto, Lindsay, Ottawa, and Pointe Claire, Quebec, and from many points in Hastings County.

The host welcomed the guests and asked for expressions of opinion regarding the holding of a future reunion. It was decided to hold another gathering next year on the Saturday prior to Civic Holiday.

Jap Goods Become Byword On British Columbia Market

By TOM CARNEY

VANCOUVER (CP) — From motorist to engineer, housewife to architect, more and more British Columbia residents are feeling the effects of the province's economic ties with Japan.

As increasing amounts of Japanese products find their way into B.C. homes, trade names such as Sony, Datsun, Toyota and Isuzu are becoming part of the vocabulary.

In nearby Coquitlam, a suburban contractor features made-in-Japan doors and shutters on his $16,000 homes. In West Vancouver, posh $40,000 homes boast the prestige and utility of sliding Japanese screens as bedroom walls.

The University of British Columbia, whose campus includes a Japanese garden, had 57 students studying Japanese language and literature in the 1964-65 school year.

Five Vancouver youngsters are spending summer visiting YMCA camps in Japan as part of an exchange program that brought Japanese youngsters to B.C. last year.

Five years ago the Honda line of Japanese-made motorcycles was practically unknown in this area. Fred Deeley, Honda distributor here, estimates there now are more than 4,000 in Vancouver.

Some Vancouver garages advertise themselves as specialists in selling and maintaining certain types of Japanese cars, including Datsuns, Isuzus and Toyotas.

SELL HYDRO EQUIPMENT

Japanese firms submit bids in the race to meet the needs of the province's growing industrial expansion, providing everything from multi-million-dollar hydro-electric turbines to $30 office and home communications systems.

Thousands of B.C. youngsters carry made-in Japan transistor radios with Sony and other brand names.

Skilled Japanese technicians have crossed the Pacific to work in B.C. and indications are more will follow.

Immigration Minister Nicholson said here recently a survey found a shortage of more than 10,000 skilled men in B.C. He predicted it would reach 21,000 by the end of the year.

Canada recently named a special officer to Japan to encourage those with needed skills to emigrate.

Takeshi Sakurauchi, Vancouver manager for Mitsui and Co., one of the Japanese giants, told the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C.:

"With humility, I firmly believe in constructive participation in the economic development of this province. We have nearly 100,000,000 people, intelligent and hard - working. This population . . . means both a rich consuming market for B.C. products and promises of future supply sources of skilled labor and technicians which this province badly needs for development of its natural resources."

ANSWERS CRITICS

But the Japanese penetration is not without its critics and Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi found it necessary to defend the government's actions.

"You hear very disturbing things about British Columbia," he told the chartered accountants. "One is that the premier is selling all our resources and our heritage to Japan. That is not true.

"The Japanese are a very industrious people. Once it was said they were guilty of plagiarism and were copying the Western world. But today the Western world is copying, in many instances, what Japan is doing.

"Many of B.C.'s industries are due to aid from Japan. We have the resources and they have the facilities to develop these. Until our population is at such a stage we can maintain plants, it will be necessary for us to sell these raw materials.

"We are not selling our resources to any country, but we are interested in doing business with Japan and always will be."

One businessman who is publicly critical of Japanese investment in B.C. is Oswood G. MacDonald, president of Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd., which operates the Sunro mine on the Jordan River on southern Vancouver Island.

"We had the first contract in North America with non-ferrous concentrates to Japan. M. Daiichi (now Mitsui and Co.) and Sumitomo Shoji loaned us $260,000 to build a wharf to ship these concentrates to them."

The first contract's terms were fulfilled and the loan repaid over a three-year period ending in 1960, Mr. MacDonald says. Cowichan then signed a second contract, [illegible] only, starting in 1962. Under this contract Mitsui lent Cowichan $800,000.

Cowichan cancelled the contract, Mr. MacDonald says, after the agreement foundered when the mine was flooded by the Jordan River last year. "We paid $500,000 back."

He says the Japanese "loaned us money to put this thing into production but it was 'way short of what was required."

Mr. MacDonald says the Japanese investment picture in B.C. "has been blown out of all proportion."

"All kinds of other people have invested in B.C. The Japanese are interested in getting concentrates because they can't produce it. They're not doing it for our benefit. . . . We're their only logical source."

He says Canadians are quite prepared to develop their own resources but the problem is "the government here gives no support in mining." He accuses Premier Bennett of "holding the door open to any wildcat investor or international con-man."

"We have no alternative market, which is dangerous for B.C. producers. We should look to other markets in Europe and the U.S., and personally that's what I'm doing. And we should build our own smelters."

South Seas Mining Co., which also terminated a contract with Mitsui, nevertheless has praise for the Japanese. Mitsui spent $235,000 in a one-year period of diamond drilling on South Seas' Trojan property near Bethlehem's Highland Valley copper claims 120 miles northeast of Vancouver.

A South Seas spokesman says the Japanese provided "invaluable" help in the initial stage of development and the contract was terminated early this year only because Mitsui was looking for bigger and higher-grade property.

"They did everything they said they were going to do and I know the principals of this company, given the opportunity to do business with them again, would certainly do so."

Ed Chisholm, manager of Chisholm Industries in Port Moody, near Vancouver is one businessmen who is bucking the general trend.

After 35 years in manufacturing and selling electronic equipment, including radios and television sets, his business was one of the first to feel the effects of Japanese imports, so he turned around and bought shares of a company manufacturing electronic equipment in Japan.

Food, Shelter

reau figures showed that industrial wages and salaries held steady in April. The May 1 index in this category was unchanged from the previous month at 210.8 and up from 202.0 in May, 1964.

The food component of the consumer price index rose to 139.0 July 1 from the previous month's 137.6.

Further price increases were reported for beef, pork and potatoes, while a variety of other items, including lamb, veal, celery, onions, turnips, tomatoes, grapefruit, bananas, apples, tea, eggs, margarine and butter, also contributed to the increase. Prices were lower during the month for lettuce, cabbage, strawberries, grapes, sugar, oranges, orange juice, and ice cream.

Increases were recorded in both the shelter and household operations sections as the housing index climbed to 141.1 from 140.6. Rent costs were up, as were mortgages and house repairs, while in the household operation section higher prices were reported for household help, furniture, textiles and utensils and equipment.

The clothing index held steady at 121.1 as price cuts for footwear balanced higher costs for children's clothing.

CHURCH DOWN UNDER

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — The Roman Catholic Church plans to go underground—literally—at Coober Pedy, an opal field in south Australia. It plans to build a church underground at the mining centre to escape the summer's heat, winter's cold and the outback's dust.

the leadership, Reginald Maudling, as deputy leader.

2. Gave his predecessor, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, a sort of elder-statesman role with interests in the whole field of foreign affairs.

The whole list of 21 names is identical with the shadow cabinet that operated under Douglas-Home. Only the positions have changed.

BID TO UNITE

Political observers described the shuffle as a bid to unite the party and disarm any opposition among Tory members of Parliament after Heath's victory in voting last week to replace Douglas-Home as party leader.

Heath got 150 votes from the Conservative members of Parliament, Maudling drew 133, and 15 voted for Powell.

Maudling will be the first formally named deputy leader the Conservative party has ever had, and becomes heir-apparent to Heath. Under Douglas-Home he had been foreign affairs spokesman.

Both Macleod and Powell had refused to serve in Douglas-Home's cabinet when he succeeded Harold Macmillan as prime minister two years ago, although they were minor members of his shadow cabinet in opposition after Labor's victory last October.

The 51-year-old Macleod is regarded as one of the keenest minds and sharpest debaters on the Tory benches and a leader of the left-of-centre element in the party. Powell, 53, who rose from the rank of private to brigadier in the army during the war, is expected to have a right-winger's sharp eye on government spending in his shadow defence role.

Douglas-Home, in his newly created roving commission in external affairs, can tell on experience as both Commonwealth secretary and foreign secretary in former Tory governments.

Heath also raised Christopher Soames from defence to foreign affairs. Soames, 44, son-in-law of the late Sir Winston Churchill, is regarded as one of the "inner circle" that formerly had a strong influence in the party.

DEMOTES TWO

But two others in the same group were demoted. Quinton Hogg and Duncan Sandys, both 57, were named to the cabinet but without departmental duties. Hogg who renounced his title as Lord Hailsham to contest the Tory leadership two years ago, had been a front-bench stalward under Douglas-Home, while Sandys had held the shadow post of Commonwealth secretary, now taken over by party stalwart Selwyn Lloyd.

Only seven of Douglas-Home's shadow cabinet kept their former positions.

Heath indicated in releasing the list that he would name his junior shadow ministers in the fall. Parliament is due to recess today until October.

CAN'T CARRY TUNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson can't carry a tune, a completely informed source says. The source is Johnson. He told a choir from Bakersfield Calif. College in the White House rose garden Wednesday: "While I yield to no one in my enjoyment of harmony—you can take that any way you like—I yield to anyone in my ability to carry a tune."

Yemen's Form of Medicine Blood, Fire, Black Magic

These practices, popular among the masses, go back to ancient times and are considered more effective than anything in the new hospitals and clinics recently built by the government.

The average Yemeni never would think of taking a pill for a headache. There is a more radical cure. You go to the cattle market, where there is a line of barbershops on one side of the square. Barbers double as doctors in Yemen. For a small fee, the barber opens a nick in the back of the head, and sucks out up to a litre of blood through a curved animal horn.

Sick children are treated with less gore, but just as drastically. In the town of Amran, 50 miles from San'a, there is a deep, ice-cold pool with a stone arch built across it. A sick child is thrown in the water and told to swim under the arch and out the other side. If he survives the bone-chilling plunge, he is cured.

CHANGE NAME

Those who can't make it to Amran treat measles or double pneumonia by changing a child's name. They believe the feverish Ahmed, if called Mohammed or Sultan, will get better.

Yemenis don't hold much store with tranquillizers, sedatives or such. Someone badly frightened or suffering from shock is cauterized over the heart with a red-hot branding iron. Those who have lived through this say the remedy is effective.

Black magic is the basic cure for the mentally ill. A "sheikha"—she would be called a witch by most people—collects a sheep especially selected for his color, certain feathers from a cock's tail, and a supply of a mild leafy narcotic called qat. The patient also is present.

After hours of frenzied dancing to the beat of goat-skin drums, which leaves everyone present in a trance, the sick person's sanity is tested. If he still is not normal, he is taken to the grave of an unknown person outside the town walls and made to walk around it three times. Then he is washed with water from a well exactly three kilometres away from the grave.

If he is still not sane, the popular belief goes, then he is not fit for life. In one way or another, he quietly disappears.

'Sell-out' Claim of Four Allegedly Involved in Assisting to Run Refugees

BERLIN (AP) — The unexpected release by East Germany of four West Berliners allegedly involved in aiding escapes to the West has focused public attention here on the business of running refugees strictly for cash.

The four said they were "sold out" by the ring that had hired them.

Deputy Mayor Henrich Albertz of West Berlin said Wednesday night the city government will launch an investigation of the charges made by the quartet, released Monday. The four are Guenter Muecke, 30, Klaus Landeck, 25, Hans-Dieter Hofman, 22, and Wolfgang Kreft 28.

Muecke and Landeck were sentenced to 21 months' imprisonment each, Hofman got 18 months and Kreft was let off without sentence in an East Berlin trial that ended Monday. They all were allowed to go free on the alleged grounds they were pawns of "human slavers" in West Berlin.

TO MAKE MONEY

A highly informed source in West Berlin said it is known that there are in West Berlin "unscrupulous, ruthless, and strictly commercial organizations operating for the sole purpose of making money from the plight of refugees."

The released men said they had been promised between 400 and 700 marks $110-$192.50, the bulk of it payable on their return to West Berlin.

They said they were told by ring members their jobs would be very simple: Cross into East Berlin with falsified West German papers. Turn these papers over to refugees who would flee with them. Drink heavily in a bar and then tell the border guards they had lost their papers.

They said they were told that such cases were routine and that after a couple of hours they would be freed.

But they were not.

The four men who claimed they were duped said the ring they dealt with made between 5,000 and 6,000 marks on every successful delivery and always demanded a 4,500-mark, nonrefundable down payment.

They said the Communists told them there are at least 150 West Germans now in East German jails because of the ill-advised schemes they had agreed to take part in. As for themselves, they said they agreed to go along because each needed money.

Queen Mother Quietly Marks 65th Birthday

JOHN O'GROATS, Scotland (Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth quietly marked her 65th birthday Wednesday while in London, 600 miles to the south, military guns boomed out a salute to her.

Birthday greetings for the wife of the late King George VI flowed to her at remote Castle Mey near this northernmost tip of Scotland—her native land.

In London, flags flew from public buildings and the King's Troop of the Royal Horse Artillery turned out for a 41-gun salute. Naval ships and shore batteries marked the occasion with 21-gun volleys.

In Cardiff, Wales, the roar of guns stopped a championship cricket match between Glamorgan and Northamptonshire.

Wednesday also saw the publication of a biography of the Queen Mother by David Huff, which establishes her as one of the closest living relatives of George Washington, the first American president.

Her relationship to Washington—second cousin six times removed—derives from the marriage of a Bowes-Lyon (her family name) to a member of the house of Abel Smith, a royalist relative of the Queen Mother's paternal grandmother who fled to America to escape Oliver Cromwell. Cromwell ruled England in the 17th century.

Believe U.S. Gangland Boss Was Murdered by Sicilians

PALERMO, Sicily (Reuters) The unidentified assassins of American gangland boss Albert Anastasia in a New York barber's chair eight years ago may have been Sicilians sent from this island, the Italian news agency Ansa said Wednesday.

The report came in the wake of Monday's lightning police roundup of 10 alleged Mafia and Cosa Nostra gangland bosses in one of the biggest coups ever staged against organized crime on either side of the Atlantic.

The Italian news agency said Sicilians may have been sent from the island to assassinate Anastasia, who had a reputation as "lord high executioner" of Murder, Inc., in the United States, although he was never convicted of any killings.

The agency said Sicilians may have been sent to New York in 1957, after a meeting in a Palermo Hotel pronounced sentence of death on Anastasia during a power struggle for control of an American crime syndicate.

Sicilian gangsters have played a leading role in the international organization of smuggling, extortion and prostitution since the gangland Apalachin congress of 1957 in New York, Ansa said.

The news agency said Italian authorities are likely to pass on important information soon to North American police forces for future investigations in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

An examining magistrate Wednesday began questioning the 10 alleged Mafia and Cosa Nostra bosses arrested Monday He was to decide whether the arrested men would stand trial on the general charge of conspiring together for criminal purposes.

BURNS MONEY

ARMA DI TAGGIA (Reuters) A 51-year-old Italian set fire to a pile of 10,000-lire ($16) notes and shouted, "I won't be a slave to money any more."

Stamps Will Commenorate Second War

LONDON (Reuters) — The government stood its ground Wednesday amid continuing criticism of an issure of stamps to commemorate the Second World War Battle of Britain.

The stamps, to be issued Sept. 13, show British and German airfract and feature Nazi swastikas as well as a portrait of Queen Elizabeth.

Conservative Lord Braye said in the House of Lords there is widespread public dissatisfaction over the Nazi emblem appearing on the stamps. His speech followed criticism in newspaper letter. columns.

A Labor government spokesman, Lord Hobson, said the public is under no obligation to buy the stamps.

The stamps depict various aspects of the historic air battle. On one a broken swastika, half-covered by the sea, is on the shattered tail of a German bomber. Another design shows a German cross on a fighter plane overlaid by the wing tip of a British Spitfire fighter.

Hobson added: "Since this is what the Battle of Britain was all about, we do not propose to withdraw the stamps."

An official of the board of deputies of British Jews said in a letter to Postmaster-General Anthony Wedgwood Benn:

"We are aware that the purpose of this stamp is to demonstrate the defeat of the evil forces which used this symbol. But we feel strongly that the illustration does not convey this impression."

Atheists Will Not Be Asked To Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Vanderpols of Victoria, B.C., probably won't have to appeal a judge's rejection of their application for Canadian citizenship, Citizenship Minister Nicholson said Wednesday night.

He would study a full report on the case of Martin Vanderpol and his wife, professed atheists, today but said "no appeal should be necessary."

They might only have to go before another judge.

The Ontario Court of Appeal had spelled out clearly in the Bergsma case that an affirmation of allegiance to the Queen rather than a religious oath was allowed.

Mr. Nicholson was commenting on the Vanderpol case after returning from a European tour.

The minister said he heard about the Vanderpol case through a news report in Europe and telephoned Ottawa to obtain details.

Citizenship department officials have said many non-Christians are allowed to affirm rather than swear allegiance each year.

Charge Heroin Worth Millions Was Imported

MONTREAL (CP) — Property bail of $15,000 was set Wednesday for one of five men charged with importing some $40,000,000 worth of heroin into Canada.

Mr. Justice Robert Lafleur set the bond in the case of Philippe Borel, 26, a former Air France employee who has been in jail since April 3.

The five are charged with conspiring to import 60 pounds of heroin into Canada aboard a jetliner.

Price of Gold Jumps in London

LONDON (AP) — The dollar price of gold jumped 1.875 cents an ounce on the bullion exchange today to $35.19125—the highest since November, 1961.

Dealers said there was "a very good demand" from speculators who appeared to be gambling once again that the pound sterling will be devalued.

Much of the demand came from European financial centres.

Rivard's Inaccessibility Hinders Defence - - Lawyer

By BOB M. GASSAWAY

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — The lawyer for Montrealer Lucien Rivard, accused of directing a dope-smuggling ring that operated in at least four countries, said Wednesday his client is being held in a manner that could deprive him of his constitutional rights.

Lawyer William C. Wright said Rivard was whisked several hundred miles from Laredo after his arraignment Monday.

"Keeping the man several hundred miles from here partially or completely deprives him of his constitutional rights to counsel," Wright said. "I will file a motion in federal court if he is not returned.

"Federal officials told me where Rivard is being kept, and asked me not to disclose that," the lawyer said. "I shall honor that request."

"They told me I can see him where he is being kept, but that is very difficult and impractical. It is going to be difficult to prepare his defence while he is being held several hundred miles away."

CITES RIGHT

Wright said the defence has a right to object in court to Rivard's inaccessibility, and said that if Rivard is convicted, the complaint can be reviewed in appeals courts,. "especially the Supreme Court of the United States."

He said the indication is that U.S. federal authorities are going to try to call Rivard's case to trial the week beginning Sept. 6, or the week beginning Sept. 13.

The 50-year-old Rivard, a resort-owner in Quebec, was deported from Canada July 22 amid charges from opposition political parties that he was being hustled out of the country to end a controversy that arose last year and had repercussions in the ranks of the ruling Liberal party.

In one of his motions, Wright alleges Rivard is a political prisoner and was deported as part of a political conspiracy.

A charge of offering a bribe to obtain Rivard's release on bail in Canada has been laid against Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Rene Tremblay.

SECURITY TIGHT

The five-foot-two Rivard has been held under tight security and secrecy since he was brought to the United States.

He was arraigned in Laredo Monday on charges of directing a group of men who conspired to bring heroin or have it brought into the United States. The indictment alleges the conspiracy was carried out through trips and meetings in Canada the United States, Mexico and Holland.

Joseph Raymond Jones, Julien Gagnon, and Charles Emile Groleau, all from Montreal, are in Webb County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond each on the same charges. Another man charged along with Rivard, Frank James Cappola of Bridgeport Conn., is free under $100,000 bond.

Jones, Gagnon and Groleau were furnished French interpreters for their preliminary hearings and arraignments.

Wright said federal District Judge Ben C. Connally gave him 10 days to file additional motions in the case. Wright said he is considering filing a motion for a separate trial for Rivard, being held in lieu of $500,000 bond.

Joseph Michel Caron of Montreal is under a 10-year U.S. prison sentence for bringing 75 pounds, two ounces of almost pure heroin, valued at $33,000,000 to $56,000,000 on the underworld market, into the United States Oct. 10, 1963, as he and his wife returned from Mexico City. Mrs. Caron was not charged.

The government indictment alleges Rivard was involved with Caron in that case. The seizure was the largest capture ever made on the U.S.-Mexican border.

Urges Study Of Ways to Keep Lakes Ice-free

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives public works committee was urged today by Senator William Proxmire (Dem. Wis.), to approve a study of how to keep the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway ice-free during the winter.

He said a Senate-passed bill, of which he is the author, could lead to year-round shipping on the Great Lakes ports, thereby reducing unemployment and cutting transportation costs.

In a letter to the committee, Proxmire said:

"In this age of science and progress, when the United States sends satellites into space and launches probes to distant planets, it is unthinkable that a thin sheet of ice should continue to stand in the way of year-round shipping on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Under the Proxmire bill, the de-icing study would cost about $75,000 and take two years to complete.

PAT'S DAUGHTER MAKES DEBUT — Actress Patricia Neal holds her 6 pound, 8 ounce daughter at Radcliffe General Hospital, Oxford, England, soon after the infant's birth. Despite partial paralysis by strokes last February, the actress, 39, had an easy natural childbirth a hospital spokesman said. The child was Pat's fifth.

Women, Tots Sometimes Caught in Middle by U.S. Marines in Village Warfare

By JOHN T. WHEELER

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. marines are schooled to kill under fire. And in South Viet Nam they are under orders to try to win over villagers who — freely or under duress — harbor the Viet Cong guerrillas.

The same problem may beset other American combat troops as they become more deeply involved. This anti-Viet Cong war has long been called primarily a political struggle for loyalty of the people rather than a massed military operation for conquest of territory.

This week marines teamed with South Vietnamese troops to overrun the Viet Cong - dominated village of Chan Son, 10 miles south of Da Nang, the big U.S. air base 380 miles northeast of the capital of Saigon Among 25 persons they killed were a woman and four children.

EXPRESSES GRIEF

Maj. - Gen. Lewis W. Walt, commander of the 25,300 U.S. marines in South Viet Nam, deplored the five deaths.

"Such unfortunate products of the operation grieve me deeply," he said, "and I express my deep sympathy to the loved ones of such innocent victims as I do to the loved ones of marines who have given their lives."

In another incident an officer asked permission to burn several huts as a punitive measure in a village the Viet Cong had used for concealment. He suggested, however, this might cause trouble with the rural pacification officer whose job it is to attempt to win over villagers to the government side.

"Sure, I'm for pacification — five days out of the week," a senior officer said, and gave him permission to burn.

As it turned out, the marines didn't burn those particular huts since they did not go back into the village. But many others have been burned. Some are set off with phosphorous rockets. others with cigarette lighters, matches, grenades and flame throwers.

KILLS BUFFALO

Elsewhere marines have killed water buffalo, chopped down banana trees and taken chickens and ducks for their own food.

All this strikes at villagers, whose struggle to exist already is precarious.

Such acts, particularly the serious ones, are but a few. But they raise questions in the American military establishment while a tremendous buildup is under way to help the faltering South Vietnamese halt the Viet Cong tide.

It is a maxim in South Viet Nam that no victory is possible unless the population is won over to the government side. Senior U.S. Army and marine commanders constantly stress this point. But the theory is hard to get down to the squad and platoon level.

RIGID DISCIPLINE

The Viet Cong are under rigid discipline in regard to conduct with the population, which they like to describe as "water for the guerrilla fish to swim in." Political commissars are with every unit to enforce the discipline.

No such system exists in the American military, which is steeped in traditions that make political control over troops heresy.

U.S. Army advisers to South Vietnamese units which have had first-hand experience with the marines say they are appalled at times by some of the young marines' actions. Not all of this can be dismissed as interservice rivalry.

Special schools have carefully oriented the advisers to the political side of the war, but no such training is available for the ordinary soldier and marine being sent to South Viet Nam.

Army officers concede that problems between the marines and civil population are probably due to the fact the marines were the first U.S. combat men assigned to South Viet Nam and the first to mix with villagers.

HAND OUT RATIONS

The marines have carried out attempts in the pacification field. Villages occupied by the marines enjoy American medical treatment. Marines hand out rations and candy.

The breakdown in applying the theory of "winning the hearts and minds of the people" usually comes when marines charge a village that their commanders have labelled as Viet Cong. The troops feel that all those they run across are enemies dedicated to their destruction.

If they receive sniper fire as they charge across rice paddies toward the village, they consider the whole village an enemy strongpoint. Many react accordingly, especially when comrades are wounded or killed in the assault.

Nearly all the villages the marines move into are under some degree of Viet Cong control, often by default.

WEED OUT VIET CONG

One of the aims in bringing U.S. troops to South Viet Nam is to help re-establish government control and weed out the Viet Cong from the villages.

Many American operations now are aimed at trying to find a major Viet Cong force, destroy it and then pull back to the main base. U.S. troops so far have failed to come up with one such battle.

If American perimeters are to expand as planned, some day these villages will be behind American and South Vietnamese forward positions.

The French found in the Indochina war that village hatred and apathy turned their forward positions into isolated outposts subject to attack from any direction. As control faltered and collapsed outside Hanoi now capital of North Viet Nam, Communist battalions submerged isolated strong points one after another.

Windfall Report Ready End of Month

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly said Wednesday he has "every hope" the report on his investigation of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd. will be turned over to the provincial government before the end of the month.

"I still have a great deal of work to do . . . but I am making good progress," he said. The Ontario Supreme Court judge is a one-man commission investigating price gyrations in July, 1964 of Windfall shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The inquiry was ordered one year ago after Windfall shares rocketed to a high of $5.60 on rumors that the company had made a promising find on its property near Timmins. The shares eventually collapsed to around 32 cents after the company announced it had found no ore on the property.

SPORTS SLICES

"Swimming," says the likeable Norm Carter, the right bower of the city's Recreation Commission, "is on the up-and-up in the city and come Saturday it will be very much in the in-and-out."

Norm, who extracted himself from soccer retirement and now spends his Saturday's off kicking the "fitba'" around, is busier than a Las Vegas one-arm bandit buff after hitting a jackpot.

He is up to his ears in track and field and if he were standing on his head would be up to his ankles in swimming.

"There'll be more splashes around here Saturday than a thundercloud would cause spraying baseballs into a pond," claims Mr. Carter.

He is masterminding the First Annual East-Central Ontario Open Swimming Meet which makes its debut at the Kinsmen pool starting at two o'clock. He hopes that a generous portion of the city's population will be on hand to watch the natatorial exhibition.

"Actually," says Norman, "it is an age group and open competition which will take from three to four hours to run off."

Seven centres are sending strong representations. These include teams from Belleville, Oshawa, Peterborough, Marmora, Cobourg, Port Hope with two teams coming from Kingston.

The meet strongly emphasizes youth. The age classes call for both boys' and girls' competitions in the 10-12-14-16 and 18 year-old groups. Featured will be open events for both men and women.

The meet embraces fifty-nine events including the breast stroke, back crawl, butterfly, free style and relays.

The meet is jointly sponsored by the Recreation Commission and the Kinsmen Club.

Competitive swimming has come a long way since that day in London, England, in 1844 when the city boasted some six pools.

The records say that the National Swimming Society in England organized the first international meet that attracted North American Indians.

The winner was "Flying Gull" who defeated "Tobacco" by swimming the length of a 130-foot pool in 30 seconds.

A sportswriter of that day described the Indian's style as being "totally un-European." He declared the Indians "thrashed the water violently with their arms like sails of a windmill and beat downward with their feet blowing with force (apparently their breath) and performing grotesque antics."

Oldtimers around here tell me that back at the turn of the century, "across the bay" swims were part and parcel of summer sports here. Marathons from Deseronto to Picton and Belleville to Trenton took place not too long ago.

But the gay young blades of the late nineties and the early 1900,'s had themselves a ball.

I may have been "put on" with a neat spot of leg-pulling but one sombre-faced greybeard told me the hellions of that era took off after dark arrayed in nothing but a topless-bottomless bathing suit which they acquired at birth and headed for the dim distant shores of Prince Edward county.

The accompanying whaleboat carried a generous supply of "doch-and-doris" which was doled out to the mermen at periodic intervals.

The nocturnal antics came to a rather sudden close, my informant told me, after one swimmer got off the track and wandered into Muscote Bay where he was chased ashore by a patrol of jealous man-eating muskies.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

GET THE MOST FROM YOUR EQUIPMENT

Many, many years of research have gone into the design of the modern golf club. Today's driver, for instance, is truly a precision instrument, designed to make it easier to play well. You should take advantage of this by selecting clubs that properly fit your physique and golf swing.

The illustrated chart is designed to show the type of driver you should be using. Check the distance of carry that applies to your tee shot and then note the type of clubshaft and amount of swingweight that would best suit your game.

Club manufacturers can, and will, supply you with clubs that cover a wide range of specifications. If you are in doubt about the type of clubs you need, I suggest you contact a professional golfer in your area and let him "fit" you for your next set. Properly fitted clubs can take several strokes off your scores. I know of no faster way to improve your game.

Softball Derbies Close Races

The Belleville District Softball League is in the throes of elimination series. With Bloomfield and Ellis Juniors leading 2-1 and playing tonight, these clubs could prove the finalists.

Over in the Commercial League the City Hotel is the "Northern Dancer" of the loop with a lead longer than the nag's halter shank.

But down below six clubs have their eyes set on the playoffs targets.

As of this writing Lightfoots hold a precarious hold on second place with 26 points. Two points behind Cosmos RCAF, Stewart-Warner and Point Anne are galloping neck-and-neck.

Four points back of the second-placers Black Diamond and Belvedere Hotel are straining at the leash.

Second place is up for grabs. Lightfoots have four games to play with the rest having five. Anything can happen.

Coming into the stretch it is the tightest race in years and the battle for the remaining three playoff spots should be a series of thrillers.

Pointers Thump Lightfoots

Point Anne snatched a share of third place in the Commercial Softball league at the expense of second - place Lightfoot Construction with an 8-1 win last night.

The victory left three teams tied for third place, two points behind Lightfoots.

Ron Maracle hurled three-hit ball for the winners in going the distance. He struck out six and walked three.

The winners tallied four runs in the first inning and added two in the second to coast to the wire. Six Lightfoot errors helped the Cementmen to win.

Dennis Hull powered a homer and also hit a single to lead Point Anne. Mike Cook stroked a pair of singles, as did Ron Maracle and Gerry Maher. With base - hits were Jim Horwood, Eric Maher, and Rick Rosebush.

Don Smith, Jack Gilbey and Doug Rose had hits for Lightfoots.

Suns Split With Leafs, Hens Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russ Gibson came close to defeating Jacksonville Suns singlehanded in International League action Wednesday night.

The 195-pound slugger gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 2-1 victory in the first game of a doubleheader, driving in the winning run in the 12th inning.

He also scored the only Toronto run in the nightcap with a solo home run and added another hit before the Suns went on to a 2-1 win in 11 innings. The homer was Gibson's ninth of the season.

Elsewhere, Toledo Mud Hens shut out Rochester Red Wings 4-0, Atlanta Crackers defeated Buffalo Bisons 6-1, and Columbus Jets downed Syracuse Chiefs 8-5.

Zany Play * * * * * Braves, Dodgers Split

Four Umpires Wrong - - Bragan Right

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Bragan, Milwaukee Braves' manager, helped the umpires decide they hadn't seen what they thought they'd seen in the second inning of Wednesday night's doubleheader opener against league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bragan's persuasive power paid off in a 4-3 National League victory for the Braves and Walt Alston didn't stop seething until his Dodgers had salvaged the nightcap 3-2 nd protected their first-place foothold.

The Los Angeles pilot lodged a protest—later withdrawn—after Bragan and the umpires contributed to a zany play during Milwaukee's decisive three-run second-inning rally in the first game.

Gene Oliver's homer had tied the score 2-2 and the Braves had runners on first and third with one out when pitcher Hank Fischer bounced to second baseman Jim Lefebvre.

THROWS WILD

Lefebvre swiped at Woody Woodward as the Braves runner passed him on the basepath, then threw wildly to first as Frank Bolling scored the go-ahead run. Both first base umpire Ken Burkhart and second base umpire Lee Weyer appeared to have signaled Woodward out of the play.

Bragan rushed onto the field to dispute the call and, after a huddle with all four umpires, Woodward was declared safe at second—and awarded third base on the overthrow. He scored the deciding run a moment later on Felipe Alou's infield out.

The Dodgers took the nightcap, breaking a 2-2 tie in the eighth on Lou Johnson's run-scoring triple.

Second-place Cincinnati Reds dropped a 4-3, 10-inning verdict to San Francisco Giants and fell two games behind the Dodgers while Pittsburgh Pirates blanked New York Mets 3-0, St. Louis Cardinals rocked Houston Astros 9-4, and Philadelphia Phillies drubbed Chicago Cubs 7-2 in other games.

Jim Hart doubled in the 10th and scored on Hal Lanier's single, lifting the Giants past Cincinnati and enabling Juan Marichal to gain his 17th victory while giving up 12 hits.

Andre Rodgers drove in two runs with a homer and squeeze bunt as the Pirates shut out the Mets for the second straight day. Bob Veale pitched eight innings, striking out 12 and allowing five hits, before giving way to Don Schwall in the ninth.

Ted Savage broke a 2-2 tie with a fourth-inning double and singled home another run in St. Louis' five-run eighth, powering the Cardinals and southpaw Curt Simmons past Houston.

The Phillies trimmed the Cubs behind Chris Short's eight-hit pitching and the hitting of Dick Stuart, who drove in four runs with his 19th homer, a double and a sacrifice fly.

'Steal Home' Gives Foxboro 5-4 Squeaker

Claude Carr stole home for the winning run in the sixth inning and Gerry Mann pitched well in relief to give Foxboro a narrow 5-4 victory over league leading Shannonville last night at Foxboro.

Foxboro had led 4-1 until the sixth, when the visitors tied it up.

"Soup" Campbell, with relief from Mann in the final two frames, hurled for Foxboro. He allowed six hits while striking out seven and walking four.

Larry Lewis toiled for the losers, and gave up only four hits while whiffing four and walking three.

Glynn Reynolds stroked two singles for Foxboro and Skinner doubled. Wiley had a base hit.

Carl Boomhower had two singles for Shannonville, while Les Reid doubled, and G. Hill, B. Hill and C. Green had baseknocks.

Rally Came Too Late

Bombers Twist Lions' Tail 23-21

WINNIPEG (CP) — "I kept telling them the Blue Bombers were good but I guess they didn't believe me," coach Dave Skrien reflected in the dressing room Wednesday night.

Maybe they do now.

Skrien's British Columbia Lions came to life with a pair of touchdowns in the last two minutes of play but it wasn't enough as Winnipeg held on to a 23-21 victory and took over the leadership of the Western Football Conference.

It was Bombers second straight win in two starts this year and gave them a two-point lead over Calgary Stampeders, who won their league opener. A crowd of 17,923 watched the game.

Coach Bud Grant's crew, particularly newcomer Dave Raimey, ran with authority against the huge B.C. defence and capitalized on the Lions' lapses.

The game was saved, however, by their complete throttling of quarterback Joe Kapp and his pass receivers throughout most of the second half. Early in the fourth quarter, before Kapp got loose, Winnipeg was ahead 23-7.

PASS TO END ZONE

The Bombers got touchdowns from Billy Cooper on a 13-yard pass from quarterback Kenny Ploen to the end zone; Leo Lewis on nine yards of twisting and diving off tackle; and Barrie Hansen after a blocked punt. Jackie Simpson converted two and kicked an 18-yard field goal.

Defensive half Dick Thornton engineered Hansen's touchdown when he got in the way of Neil Beaumont's kick from deep in his own end zone. The ball bounced over the goal line and Hansen jumped on it.

Willie Fleming got two B.C. touchdowns on passes from Kapp. One was a 57-yarder to open the scoring in the first quarter, the other an end-zone reception with the minute flag up.

The stage for the second was set when the Lions recovered their own short kickoff at the Winnipeg 37 after Ron Morris had gathered in a Kapp throw in payoff territory. Peter Kempf converted all three.

The victory was costly for the Bombers, crippled by injuries last year. Tackle Roger Savoie suffered elbow damage and linebacker Phil Minnick aggravated a strained knee ligament. Both are expected to miss some action.

Grant rehired Herb Gray Wednesday and used him sparingly on the offensive guard position.

Winnipeg gained 162 yards on the ground against the Grey Cup champions. Raimey collected 76 in eight carries and fullback Art Perkins 44.

Ploen was good on 10 of 18 pass attempts for 146 yards and had one intercepted.

For the Lions, Kapp completed 19 of 34 passes for 277 yards and gave up two interceptions. They made 131 yards on the ground, 70 by Fleming including a 50 - yarder. Bob Swift, B.C.'s powerhouse fullback, gained 47 yards in 11 carries.

Former Belleville RCMP Officer

Bill Beatty Wins Match

By PETER McNAUGHTON

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—Bill Beatty of Ottawa has picked up a lot of experience in his 35 years of shooting.

The 57-year-old former RCMP officer needed every bit of it Wednesday to win the tough Macdonald Tobacco Match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championships.

The match was fired from 300 and 600 yards under what veteran shooters called extremely treacherous conditions although temperatures were n the mid-70s and the sun was shining at the defence department's range near Ottawa.

It was the tricky winds which sent flags in different parts of the range blowing in different directions that caused most of the trouble.

Beatty, who was making his 18th appearance in the annual matches, had a score of 123 out of a possible 125. It was good for a one-point edge over Gerry Ouellette, the Ottawa high school teacher who won an Olympic gold medal for Canada at Melbourne, Australia in 1960.

Ouellette, in turn, was one point ahead of Capt. Bill Molnar, one of the more consistent performers in the first half of the week-long event.

Most of the rest of the field of about 550 trailed the top three by more than 10 points—a substantial amount in shooting, where winning matches is a matter of inches.

A trio of veteran competitors battled even tougher winds in the Alexander of Tunis Match, fired from 900 yards in the afternoon.

They were Howie Oliver of Digby County, N.S., Jim Houlden of Beaconsfield, Que., and Hal Bowen of Ottawa. All three scored a respectable 49 out of 50.

Oliver, who has shot for Canada at the Commonwealth championships at Bisley, England, several times, scored a perfect 25 in the shoot-off, while Houlden, another perennial Bisley shooter, and Bowen were one point short of the maximum.

The hunt for spots on Canada's 18-member Bisley team—decided on the basis of key matches fired throughout the week—continues right up to the last shot in the Governor-General's Match Saturday.

GIARDELLO OKAYED

NEW YORK (AP) — World middleweight boxing champion Joey Giardello was granted a licence Wednesday to box in New York State by the State athletic commission. Giardello had not been licensed to fight in New York since 1957. Melvin Krulewitch, commission chairman, said in a statement that the commission unanimously approved the boxer's application after an exhaustive investigation.

Bloomfield Beaten 3-2

Zakos Is Trudeau Hero

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

PICTON — Paul Zakos slammed a game-tying-homer in the seventh inning and scored the winning run in the ninth to single-handedly give Belleville Trudeau Motors a 3-2 win over Bloomfield here last night. The contest was a do-or-die affair as far as Trudeaus were concerned, as they trailed 2-0 in the best-of-five B. and D. Softball League semi-finals.

The squads hook up at the Fairgrounds tonight. Game time is 8.30. Belleville Ellis Juniors will attempt to end their series with Tweed in the other half of the semi-finals at Madoc this evening.

Bob Green and Carl Stacey battled on opposing mounds for nine innings before the former got a close decision.

Green was touched for eight hits while striking out six and walking two.

Stacey allowed seven hits, and only sensational fielding by Leo St. Louis prevented the total from being higher. He struck out 11 and issued a pair of free passes.

Bloomfield started the first inning with a bang as they scored two, but the explosion fizzled out in the next eight frames as Green pitched shutout ball.

Ralph Plane smashed a home run to lead off the second frame, and it remained at 2-1 until Zakos unloaded in the seventh to tie the score. He won the game in the ninth when he tripled and scored on a miscue by Bloomfield catcher Eldon Carson.

Zakos' homer and triple were tops for Belleville in the hitting department. Plane stroked a single to go along with his round-tripper and Hugh Brennen, Pete Weston and Tom Meeker had base hits.

Stacey's bat led the losers with a triple and single, and Keith MacDonald and Frank Forester contributed two hits each. Leo St. Denis hit a fly ball into the heavens that was lost and dropped for a two-base hit. Ron Weese had a base knock.

South Hastings Little League

Carmel and Cannifton Comets battled to a five - all tie in South Hastings Little League baseball finals last night at Carmel. The series stands at two wins and a tie for Cannifton.

The fourth game will be played at Cannifton tonight, and in case of rain tomorrow night.

Murray Whitmore for Cannifton and B. Casey went all the way on the mound.

Dave Holcroft, Whitmore and Bob Whey had two base hits for Cannifton with Wagar, Mitchell with two singles each and Hannah with one being the Carmel clouters.

Budapest Meet

Name Jerome, Crothers

OTTAWA (CP) — Track stars Bill Crothers and Harry Jerome were among 11 athletes named Wednesday to the Canadian team for the World Student Universiade at Budapest Aug. 20-29.

The team, Canada's first in the Olympic - type competition for university students and recent graduates-has eight track and field representatives, two swimmers and one fencer.

Both Crothers, of Markham, Ont., and Jerome, of Richmond, B.C., are no longer students but they qualify under a regulation allowing persons who have graduated in the last two years.

The universiade, sponsored by the Federation Internationale du Sport Universities, is held every two years, with summer sports in odd-numbered years and winter sports in even.

Others on the team announced by the Canadian Union of Students include: Abigail Hoffman, Dave Bailey, Alan Beretton, all of Toronto, and Hylke van der Wal of Watford, Ont., all track specialists; Steve Spencer of Vancouver, high jump; George Puce of Toronto, shot put and discus; swimmers Marvin Chase and Udo Buechner, both of Montreal; and fencer Manfred Von Nostitz of Campbellville, Ont.

CONSIDERED TOPS

Crothers is considered by many to be the top man in the world in the 800-metre event. He won a silver medal at the 1964 Olympic Games when he finished second behind Peter Snell of New Zealand, but defeated Snell earlier this year at a track meet in Toronto. Snell has since retired from competition.

The team will be coached by Ron Wallingford, assistant professor of physical education at McMaster University, Hamilton.

The Russian team will include Valery Brumel, the world high jump record-holder. That of Britain will include Lynn Davies, who won the gold medal for the long jump in the Tokyo Olympics.

More than 2,500 athletes will be competing in the eight events which include gymnastics, tennis, volleyball and water polo.

Sue Hilton Beaten In Major Upset

Other Favorites Win

By JIM CRERAR

KITCHENER (CP)—Sue Hilton of London, Ont., a graduate in physical education at the University of Western Ontario, was the only major upset victim in the first round of match play in the Canadian women's open golf championship Wednesday.

Miss Hilton, 21, took a lesson in golf from a 27 - year - old teacher of physical education and mathematics at a private school for girls in Ottawa, Mary Ellen Driscoll.

Miss Driscoll, who plays out of Saint John, N.B., upset Miss Hilton 2 up.

Otherwise the favorites advanced into the second round which began at 9:30 a.m. today. The championship flight will be reduced to the four semi-finalists after two rounds today.

The rest of the competitors, playing in six consolation flights, resumed play beginning at 8 a.m. today. Two rounds will cut the field to the finalists.

Miss Driscoll won the first hole and was never behind.

Miss Hilton, normally strong in match play, won the Canadian close and junior titles in Winnipeg in 1962 and was seventh in last week's close championship here. She was low scorer with a one-under-par 74 after the first 18 holes of the open qualifying round Monday.

"I didn't play badly, but I didn't play well either. But Mary Ellen played a very good game," Miss Hilton said.

Miss Driscoll, who said she shot about an 81, said only one other victory compared to this one. That was in the 1963 women's open in Hull, Que., when she defeated Marjorie Burns of Greensboro, N.C., United States Curtis Cup player.

Drawing on 13 years of experience in Canadian women's close and open tournaments, Miss Driscoll allowed Miss Hilton to square the match only twice, on the fourth and seventh holes.

Miss Driscoll went two holes up on the 12th, was one up going onto the 18th and clinched it when Miss Hilton drove into the trees and needed five to reach the green on the four-par hole.

U.S. LOSES OUT

All three U.S. competitors in the championship division were knocked out. Mrs. Ann Gregory of Chicago lost to Canadian junior champion Sandra Post of Milton, Ont., 3 and 2, Mrs. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, bowed 3 and 2 to Kay Helleur of Toronto and Helen Reynolds of Manchester, Conn., fell 2 and 1 to Joan Riddell of Montreal.

In other top matches Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., won 7 and 6 over 17-year-old Jane Kirkpatrick of Toronto; Mary Gay of Kitchener survived wasp stings on both ankles Tuesday to defeat Judy Darling Evans 5 and 4; Betty Stanhope Cole of Toronto eliminated Rae Milligan of Calgary 3 and 2; Canadian Close champion Gail Harvey of Toronto won 8 and 7 over Patricia Clawson of Sarnia in the day's most one-sided match and Jocelyne Bourassa of Trois - Rivieres, Que., playing with a sore right wrist wrapped in tape, defeated Mrs. Ted Homenuik of Winnipeg 3 and 2.

190 Set Record For PGA

MONTREAL (CP) — An all-time record entry of 190 professionals is announced for the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association 54-hole championship to be played next week at the Royal Montreal Club.

The previous high was 152, established two years ago in Edmonton. CPGA officials said all 10 provinces are represented.

A total of more than $15,000 will go into the jackpot, including money prizes for the senior section of the competition and for pros taking part in the curtain-raising Pro - Amateur Tournament next Wednesday.

First - prize money for the CPGA title-winner is $2,000.

The CPGA tournament will lack the presence of the defending champion, George Knudson of Toronto, who is committed to play in the U.S. PGA championship at the same time.

Tribe Ace 4-Hits Tigers For 12th Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sonny Siebert has swept the dust under the carpet, and now he's cleaning up in the American League.

The Cleveland Indians' ace recorded his 12th victory Wednesday night, pitching a four-hitter as the Indians defeated Detroit Tigers 4-1.

After Don Demeter homered in the fourth inning, Siebert allowed only one baserunner—Don Wert on a fifth-inning walk—and retired the final 14 batters he faced.

Thus, the Tigers didn't have a chance to raise the dust against Siebert, who had troubles with dust at the start of the season.

"For the first couple of months of the season," Siebert explained, "they treated me for colds, and nothing helped. But one day I was talking to a furniture dealer who noticed my trouble. He told me it sounded like the same dust allergy he had."

Siebert went to an allergist, who agreed with the furniture dealer's diagnosis and prescribed shots.

The shots have helped Siebert compile a 12-6 record with a 2.21 earned run average. The victories are the most for the Indians and second best in the American League.

WIN BY ONE AGAIN

Elsewhere, Minnesota Twins edged Washington Senators 4-3 for their fifth one-run victory in six days, New York Yankees nipped Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 13 innings, Baltimore Orioles swept Los Angeles Angels 6-5 and 8-0, and Boston Red Sox defeated Kansas City Athletics 5-1.

The Indians backed Siebert with three runs in the fourth inning. Max Alvis ignited the outburst with his 17th home run, and the other runs came across on an infield grounder.

Jerry Kindall's leadoff, pinch-hit homer off Howie Koplitz pulled Minnesota into a 3-3 tie in the ninth, and minutes later Jimmie Hall singled in Zoilo Versalles with the winning run.

The Yankees edged the White Sox on Tom Tresh's leadoff homer against Eddie Fisher in the 13th. Tresh earlier singled in a run.

Jerry Adair's run - scoring single climaxed a four run, eighth - inning uprising that gave Baltimore the first-game victory. Brooks Robinson drove out starter Dean Chance with a two-run double in the inning.

A bunt single by pitcher Dave Morehead brought in Jim Gosger with the run that put Boston ahead of Kansas City to stay. Bert Campaneris set an Athletics' club record by stealing his 38th base.

B-288-9

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Parts of Madison Square Garden looked like a disaster area early today following what old-timers called the worst riot in the 40-year history of the famed sports arena.

Only a few people were hurt in the 25-minute riot.

It came after a controversial split decision awarded the world junior lightweight champion, Flash Elorde of the Philippines, over 11-to-5 favorite Frankie Narvaez, a Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, in a non-title 10-rounder Wednesday night.

Police said five spectators, two policemen and a fireman were taken to hospital. The fireman was hit on the mouth by a brick, one policeman was struck on the head by a fire hose nozzle, and the other hit in the back of his neck by a chair.

Five New Yorkers were arrested and booked on malicious mischief, a misdemeanor. One of the five—Jesus Valez, the alleged brick tosser—also was booked for felonious assault. Another was charged with endangering public health for allegedly attempting to throw a fire extinguisher into the crowd.

Cries of "robbery" and "thieves" from irate Narvaez backers in the crowd of 6,918 rang out after it was announced two officials had voted for Elorde five rounds to four with one even, giving the Filipino underdog the decision. The other official voted for Narvaez, 7-2 with one even.

The Associated Press scorecard had it even, five rounds for each, after a lively, bloody fight in which no knockdowns were scored. A ringside poll showed a 13-9 edge for Narvaez with four writers calling it even. It was a difficult fight to score because of the contrasting styles of the right-handed, 24-year-old Narvaez and the left-handed, 30-year-old champion.

The riot went off like a delayed bomb explosion. Some of the fans started throwing paper cups, coins, cigar butts and other light objects.

Then the whisky bottles started flying and smashing and part of the crowd went berserk.

Five-chair sections were tossed like matchsticks from the mezzanine and side arenas onto the ring floor. Fire axes and fire extinguishers, light bulbs, sections of metal railings, and wooden slates were heaved into the ring-side sections.

The rioting went on for about 25 minutes inside the arena and then spread to the lobby, the streets and the subway below, before being quelled by police and firemen.

Asked for an estimate of damage, John F. X. Condon, the Garden's boxing publicity director, said: "Offhand, it looks like more than $10,000."

ARGOS USE TRAIN

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Shaw, coach of the Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference, Tuesday announced his team will travel by train for Eastern games this year instead of by air as in previous years. "It's only five hours by rail to Ottawa or Montreal," Shaw said, "and a couple of the boys have balked at the idea of flying."

Ontario Amateur Tennis

TORONTO (CP)—Three Canadians and six Americans are among 13 players advancing to the fourth round today of men's singles competition in the Ontario open amateur tennis championships.

Bob Puddicombe, 19, of Vancouver was the only surviving Canadian to play in the third round Wednesday. He defeated Ontario's first-seeded junior, Dave Brown of Port Credit, 6-1, 6-4.

Former Davis Cupper Don Fontana and Mers Kutt, both of Toronto, had byes Wednesday.

Other results of Wednesday's play:

Women's Singles

Second round: Benita Senn, Toronto, defeated Betty Kruty, Welland, 6-0, 6-2; Faye Urban, Windsor, defeated Hilda Doleschell, Toronto, 6-1, 6-2; Inge Weber, Kitchener, defeated Edith Daedorff, Toronto, 6-4, 6-4.

Not Easy to Crawl Out From Beneath Shadow

By JACK HUTTON

When newsmen recently interviewed Peter Jennings, the youthful, good-looking newscaster who has just crashed American TV with a $50,000 job, I got the impression he flinched at mention of Charles Jennings.

The later is Peter's father — probably the best known radio voice in Canada during the 1930's and now a senior C B C executive.

Maybe Peter didn't. But I wouldn't blame him if he did. It's never easy for sons or daughters of famous men to crawl out from under that shadow.

Just look at the examples around us right now:

Have you heard of Frank Sinatra Jr.? This young man seems intent on singing all the songs his father did 20 years ago, and has obviously decided to make himself a carbon copy. That's one approach.

Or consider the plight of Charlie Chaplin's many children, (two by his second wife, eight by his third, Oona). The older ones who've entered show business issue interviews by the dozen telling why they can't get along with the old man. That's another approach.

Think of the problem that sweet, young Jane Fonda faced when she entered acting as the daughter of Henry Fonda, one of the theatre's beloved veterans. What did she do? She went to Paris and made headlines as the successor to Brigitte Bardot. That's another approach.

HAPPIER EXAMPLES

There are happier examples closer to home.

When Stephen Lewis entered the Ontario Legislature several years ago as its youngest MPP, many openly hinted he was trading on the reputation of his better known father, David Lewis, one of Canada's best known labor lawyers and a federal MP.

Today Stephen has won keen respect from veteran MPP's around him. And he is considered one of his party's most informed debators on a variety of issues — at the ripe old age of 27.

Others haven't fared as well. Just look at the Crosby family, Gary, Lindsay and whoever the third one was. (That shows how well he crawled out from under the shadow, we can't even think of his name).

I remember well listening to Crosby's Kraft Music Hall radio program when he would have the boys sing as a trio — sometimes with him, sometimes not. What a future those boys have got, I remember thinking.

What a future is right. How many times has Lindsay been married now? If he's got a steady job right now, I'm delighted. But it's hard to find out because all I read about are his marital and courting troubles.

And poor Gary. He has been making a good showing on TV recently as a character actor in isolated series instalments, but his singing career has never got off the ground. Maybe he sounded too much like his father.

All I do know is that Gary has never managed to lose a belligerent scowl that appeared sometime during his late teen years. I can't remember one TV or movie appearance in which he breaks out with a broad, good-natured smile.

Probably the most successful example in history of a family welcoming success rather than futilely competing with each other is the Kennedy family in the United States.

Millionaire Joseph Kennedy didn't discourage excellence in his sons. He welcomed it. Each one of the sons, Joseph Jr., John F., Robert and Edward, was taught early the responsibility of living up to a high standard.

There are many, including myself, who still believe that a Kennedy brother will someday follow John F. Kennedy into the White House. Both Robert and Edward have followed him into the Senate — and done well.

FAMOUS RIVALRY

But the most famous father-son feud of all time has to be rivalry between the two French authors with the same name, Alexand Dumas. (You refer to one as Dumas pere and the other as Dumas fils).

The father, convinced that his son was trading on his name to sell novels, stopped speaking to him when he entered literature. However, years later, he wrote a stiff note that said, "It is pleasant for an established author to see a young newcomer doing well."

The son fired back an immediate reply: "Thank you. It is pleasant to hear from a man of whom my father spoke so often."

American Golf Team Has Edge

WINNIPEG (CP) — The United States lays a perfect seven-for-seven Americas Cup record on the line Friday as the biennial three-country amateur golf competition opens at St. Charles Country Club.

And they've registered another power-laden team on the eve of the two-day classic.

In their first tour of the par 36-36—70 layout the Americans turned in scores as low as 68—by Dale Morey.

The United States, led by Morey, 1964 amateur champion Bill Campbell and runner-up Dave Eichelberger, is being given a slight edge on the strength of past performances and another experienced, steady team.

But no one is overlooking the potential of Canada and Mexico—Canada in particular. Veteran Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., Canadian champion the last two years and currently on a streak that has won him this year's Ontario open and amateur, is representative of a team that may match the Americans in depth.

With Weslock are veterans Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Keith Alexander and Doug Silverberg of Calgary, Johnny Johnston and Bert Ticehurst of Vancouver and Bill Pidlaski of Winnipeg, all established Canadian stars.

How They're Biting!

TORONTO (CP) — Eastern Ontario reported the best catches last week as fishing seemed to level off in the province.

Lake Simcoe and Saulte Ste. Marie both reported poor catches due to cold weather, rain and high water. Most other areas reported similar conditions.

Bass and trout fishing was good in Lindsay area, White River district and North Bay. Pike and pickerel catches ranged generally from fair to good.

A weekly report issued by the Ontario department of lands and forests said muskellunge were taking the bait in the Sioux Lookout district and the Kemptville region.

Reports from 17 of the department's 22 districts Wednesday:

NORTH

Sioux Lookout — Pickerel fair. Trout, bass and muskellunge good. Pike excellent.

Sault Ste. Marie — All species poor due to cold weather.

Kapuskasing — Pike and pickerel fair. Trout poor.

Chapleau — Pike and pickerel good. Trout poor to fair.

SOUTH

Lake Simcoe — Fishing poor due to rain and high water.

EAST

Lindsay — Pickerel, muskellunge and trout fair to good. Bass good.

Pembroke — Bass, trout and muskellunge good. Pike fair.

Kemptville — All species fair to good.

WEST

Lake Erie — Pickerel good. Bass fair to good. Trout fair.

ROSE WINS AWARD

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose, Cincinnati Reds' second baseman, won the National League's Player of the Month award for July as he and a teammate, pitcher Joe Nuxhall, ran one-two in the balloting. Rose received 24 votes from the 50-man selection committee of baseball writers and radio-television broadcasters. Nuxhall was named on 10 ballots.

War Years Brought New Appreciation of Females

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—All of a sudden legs were in style. Bosoms were emphasized, too.

The war years brought a new appreciation of the feminine form. Girl-starved servicemen far from home yearned for female companionship, and Hollywood provided it with a flood of pin-up photographs.

Betty Grable gazed saucily over her shoulder, affording a view of her pretty back and peerless legs.

Jane Russell, chest out, a haughty look on her lovely face, leaned against a haystack.

Lana Turner, the original sweater girl, was available in a variety of poses.

Rita Hayworth posed half-crouched on a satin sheet wearing a negligee.

Born Margarita Cansino in New York City, she danced in her father's troupe, made her film debut in Dante's Inferno 30 years ago. She was a bit player in B pictures at Columbia until Howard Hawks chose her for a role in the Cary Grant — Jean Arthur film Only Angels Have Wings.

GAVE HER CONFIDENCE

"I didn't test her, because I knew she would freeze up," says Hawks. "Rita suffered from lack of confidence, and the only thing to do was throw her in the part. I told Columbia boss Harry Cohn, 'If you're smart, you'll do nothing with her until the picture comes out; then she can read the notices and become confident'. "

The newly-confident Rita was to star in five marriages and dozens of films. Her most successful portrayal came in Gilda. Few red-blooded male moviegoers of that era can forget her rendition of "Put the Blame on Mame."

The stern hand of censorship still ruled Hollywood. Rita's number was obviously meant to be a strip tease, but such was forbidden. She merely peeled down her long white gloves and detached her earrings and necklace. As she was about to lower a shoulder-strap of her black satin gown, Glenn Ford hauled her off the dance floor and slapped her.

KISSES TIMED

The same rules adopted in 1934 applied to film morals. Kisses were limited to approximately 10 seconds. An actor embracing a prone maiden had to keep one foot on the floor, like a billiard player.

As far as the Breen office was concerned, navels were non-existent. Even kooch dancers were required to glue in rhinestones.

The world had undergone violent change, but movies had not. Hollywood's prosperity continued in the early post-war period. Then something began to sour.

Somehow the fairy tales that had charmed Americans in the 1930s didn't ring true. People had more money, and they found other things to do with it.

And in 1948, citizens began huddling in darkened living rooms every Tuesday night to watch a Hollywood reject Milton Berle get splashed in the face with a seltzer bottle.

Tomorrow: The troubled fifties and Marilyn Monroe.

Cassius Prefers Floyd

NEW YORK (AP)—Cassius Clay, world heavyweight boxing champion, said Wednesday night "it is most likely" his next title defence will be against Floyd Patterson in two or three months in Washington or New York.

Clay made his remarks before departing for Stockholm for 10 exhibition bouts in Sweden.

"That's good," said Harry Markson, director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, when he heard of Clay's comment. "We are still hopeful of making the Clay-Patterson and Ernie Terrell-George Chuvalo doubleheader for the Garden in October. But Clay is the key and we have to get the green light from the champion."

Chuvalo of Toronto, is the Canadian titleholder who lost a 12-round decision to Patterson, the former heavyweight champ, in the Garden last Feb. 1.

AT THE BELLE — Friday — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are the principals of a vibrant love affair in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Sandpiper", with Eva Marie Saint as the third member of an unconventional and dramatic romantic triangle. Directed by Academy Award-winner Vincente Minelli, was filmed in Panavision and beautiful Color largely on locations in the magnificent Big Sur country on the north coast of California. Also prominent roles in "The Sandpiper", opening Friday at the Belle Theatre are Charles Bronson, Robert Webber, Tom Drake and Morgan Mason.

Combat in Its Fourth Year, Not Far From Beachhead

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The slowest-fighting company of the Second World War is ABC's Combat infantrymen who are starting their fourth year of battling the Germans and still are not far away from Normandy.

Combat's war is really waged on MGM's big back lot, in and around a standing set that looks like a shell-scarred French village. The action Wednesday, however, was in a nearby sweet-scented eucalyptus grove made more dense by fake trees and shrubs. Star Vic Morrow was playing Sergeant Saunders deafened by an exploding grenade and trying to get back safely to his own lines.

When the lunch break came, Morrow and other tired-looking men in beat-up khaki slouched over to a nearby chow line and this onlooker, caught by the mood of the script, was quite unprepared for the menu.

"Would you like stuffed guinea hen—or ham loaf?" inquired the white - uniformed woman presiding over the food, "and perhaps some macaroni or mixed green salad? And a little fresh mixed fruit?"

K-rations, or even C-rations of the real old war, never tasted like that.

Morrow, whose realistic portrayal of a battle-weary man has won him the admiration of veterans of the fighting across France, says the show is "the toughest, physically, I've ever acted in."

VETERANS HELP

Morrow has turned into an avid student of Second World War infantrymen, and has dug up many rare snapshots showing soldiers in spirits ranging from holiday to pain and despair. They have helped him, he says, to understand the man he portrays better and in directing an occasional episode.

The actor admitted Combat will stay on its slow time-table just as long as the popularity ratings keep the show in fast company.

American involvement in Viet Nam will be thoroughly explored by television during the next month.

CBS News will present a series of four one-hour shows, starting next Monday, 10 - 11 p.m. EDT, and continuing Aug. 16, 23 and Sept. 6.

ABC on Aug. 25 will preempt Shindig for an hour's report based on commentator Edward R. Morgan's recent three-week visit during which more than 100,000 feet of film was shot.

NBC does not now have a Viet Nam special on its schedules but its Sept. 7 evening show, giving 3½ hours to an examination of American foreign policy, will devote considerable time to the Viet Nam conflict.

WHY

DID THESE PEOPLE LIST THEIR FARMS
WITH FOSTER?

$3,500.—200 - acre pasture ranch; good fences, also barn and house in need of repair.

$4,500.—neat, tidy 3-bedroom home, oil furnace, water on tap, and 50 acres of bush included; ideal for hunting. $700. down, and $45. a month buys it. Located near Thomasburg.

$4,900.—100 acres, 50 workland, good barn, maple bush and a trout stream runs through the property. $600. down payment and one open mortgage at 3½% for the balance. That's right, 3½% per annum.

$5,000.—60 acres on No. 37 Highway 4 miles to Belleville. 40 acres of workland and several building lots.

$5,500.—140 acres, and the water is under pressure in the 7-room home. There is a barn, 50 acres of workland, loads of wood, and a spring well that overflows the year round. Low low down payment buys it.

$9,500.—100 acres, 5-bedroom frame house in A1 condition, barn, machine shed; 45 to 50 acres of work land.

$10,500.—186 acres, 90 of which is productive workland. 7-room home in spotless condition; 2 barns and endless water supply.

$10,500.—Bonarlaw—100 acres, lovely 8-room, 2-storey home, large basement barn, 65 to 70 acres of workable land.

$14,900.—Circle B. Ranch on the 4th of Tyendinaga, featuring a beautiful 6-room, 2-storey stone home completely modernized. There is a horse barn, and a never-failing creek runs through the property.

$16,500.—25 acres at Foxboro with a future subdivision potential. 13 lots on the road frontage alone. 7-room frame home, 4 or 5 truck garage and a barn.

$16,000.—200 acres and 165 is workland. This is a real dairy farm, having 2 barns, the one is an all steel truss and good basement. 8-room frame, 2-storey home, water under pressure, in good condition.

$18,900.—One of the best 100-acre farms in the township of Thurlow. 5-bedroom, 2-storey brick home, 3-piece bath; hip roof basement barn and silo. There is also a sugar bush.

$29,000.—300 acres with highway frontage, L-shaped basement barn is large, the water supply is gravity fed. There is no house, but you should see the potential housing development of this place not far from Belleville.

They have listed their farms with Foster Real Estate because we have the reputation for selling farms and rural properties. Remember it's "Faster with Foster."

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES

On Friday, July 23 the Wellington Playground held a Pirate Day. The children played pirate games, such as a treasure hunt for real treasure (candies). That day they made pirate hats and eye patches and spent much time pretending they were pirates.

The next week was spent preparing for a Penny Carnival, which was held Thursday, July 29th. At one o'clock the children walked in a parade from the park a short way down Main Street and back to the park. Constable Earl Marvin lead the parade in his car and made it quite official. Both the children and the spectators enjoyed this.

At the Carnival there were side shows such as a diamond pin (dime and a pin), a swimming match (match in water), and a pup show. Freshie and pop corn in bags and necklaces were sold at the refreshment booth. Bowling and horse shoe games were set up and all this cost only pennies. Next week a mock Tabloid meet is planned with a few races and prizes

Deseronto News

Committee Will Meet County Road Board

DESERONTO — Deseronto Council began twenty minutes late Tuesday as not enough members were present for a quorum at the starting hour.

Mr. Clarke Rollins M.P.P. for Hastings East attended council, says he make it a practice to attend as many councils as possible in his riding during his term of office.

Dr. D. C. McVicker stated that the county roads committee of Hastings County Council seems to be reluctant to release Deseronto from the county road system. He stated that $7,000 approximately is paid to the county for the purpose of maintaining county roads in Deseronto and nothing is derived from this. He also said he made a motion to secede from Hastings county before and he would not hesitate to put the motion again.

A committee of five has been named to meet with the county road committee to pursue this idea of being released as quickly as possible, councillors J. Sharpe, P. Brooks, J. Webster, Reeve C. Brooks and Dr. D. C. McVicker will serve on this committee.

Mayor Gerald Lott was appointed as the town's representative to the Napanee Region Conservation Authority.

Six members of Deseronto council will attend a meeting in Belleville to attempt to form a county planning board.

A request was received from Richmond township council for permission to use the Deseronto dump. The property committee is to investigate this and make arrangements.

Dr. D. C. McVicker, thanked two interested citizens who helped make up a small inexpensive tourist map of the town. He stated although people in town have had differences before this proved they were all working together for the benefit of the town.

Three Injured In Accident Near Town

DESERONTO — A two car accident a mile east of Deseronto late Tuesday afternoon sent one man to hospital injured two others and resulted in heavy damage to the vehicles involved.

An eastbound car driven by Harry Hudson, Deseronto Road apparently went out of control narrowly missing a westbound car driven by Mr. Ray Clark of Preston Ont., and collided with a westbound car driven by Robert Huffman of Deseronto.

Mr. Hudson was taken to hospital by ambulance with a badly cut face and was dismissed after receiving first aid. Mr. Huffman was badly bruised about the chest and back. Two passengers in the Huffman vehicle, Raymond MacDonald and Warren Albertson both of Deseronto suffered cuts and lacerations.

Plaque to Commemorate Sir John A. Macdonald To Be Unveiled in Picton

On August 11, commencing at 7.00 p.m., a plaque to commemorate Sir John A. Macdonald will be unveiled in front of the post office building, Main Street, Picton. This plaque is one of a series being erected throughout the province by the Department of Tourism and Information, acting on the advice of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario.

Wednesday's ceremony is being sponsored by the Prince Edward Historical Society whose President, Mr. David R. Taylor, will act as program chairman. Among those who are expected to participate are: Dr. G.F.G. Stanley, a member of the province's Historic Sites Board; His Worship Harvey J. McFarland, Mayor of Picton; Mr. Norris Whitney, M.P.P. (Prince Edward-Lennox); Mr. B. C. Hepburn, Warden of Prince Edward County; and Mr. Douglas Alkenbrack, M.P. (Prince Edward - Lennox). The plaque will be unveiled by Mr. Gordon T. Walmsley, Q.C. of Picton.

John Alexander Macdonald, who became Canada's first prime minister at Confederation, was born in Glasgow, Scotland on January 11, 1815, the son of Hugh Macdonald and Helen Shaw.

In 1820, when John was five years of age, the Macdonalds emigrated to Canada and settled in Kingston, Upper Canada. They had probably decided upon this location because it was here that their relatives the Macphersons lived. Donald Macpherson, who had purchased 200 acres just east of Kingston in 1810, commanded the 10th Royal Veterans in Kingston during the war of 1812.

During the years that followed, the Macdonald family lived in turn at Kingston, on Hay Bay near Adolphustown, and at Glenora, where John's father leased a large stone mill a short distance from the present ferry.

Despite these moves John Alexander received a sound basic education and in 1830 he began the study of law under George Mackenzie, a prominent Kingston lawyer. As the months passed Mackenzie's practice rapidly expanded and he began to think seriously of setting up a small branch establishment a little to the west in the Bay of Quinte region. Macdonald was apparently an adept student for, in 1832, when Mackenzie decided upon Napanee for his branch office, John was chosen to be its manager.

SHORT LIVED STAY

However, his stay in Napanee was to be short lived. Lowther Pennington Macpherson, Macdonald's cousin, who had established himself as a lawyer in Hallowell (now Picton), Prince Edward County, became seriously ill. He was advised to take a period of complete rest. The Mcpherson family, who had given the Macdonalds so much help, hospitality and clannish friendliness, asked John Alexander to act as "locum tenens" until Lowther Macpherson was able to return to work. Macdonald accepted eagerly. His assignment was a formidable one, for Hallowell meant a good deal more responsibility than he had assumed in Napanee. He was now in charge of a general practice not a small branch office.

Following his arrival at Hallowell in the fall of 1833, Macdonald was soon catapulted into the centre of the social and business whirl of the community composed of two fair-sized settlements, Hallowell and Picton, divided only by a small stream which flowed into the head of Picton Bay. As the two communities grew, a movement was started to have them incorporated under one name. This suggestion provoked a bitter controversy, since although the citizens agreed that a union should take place, they could not agree upon a name. It is understood that Macdonald took part in an abortive effor to christen the united village "Port William".

DEFENDS SELF IN CASE

During his stay in Hallowell Macdonald became the first secretary of the Prince Edward Young Men's Society in 1834, and served as secretary of the Prince Edward District School Board. The latter position constituted the earliest experience in the field of public administration for the aspiring young law student who was destined to become the first Prime Minister of Canada.

An interesting sidelight of Macdonald's life in Hallowell is found in the minutes of the Quarter Sessions of the Prince Edward District. Here we find that in October, 1834, he successfully defended himself against an indictment for assault which had been occasioned by a practical joke.

By the summer of 1834 Lowther Macpherson was back from England, uncured of his malady and vague about the future. It seemed apparent that Macdonald's career as Macpherson's agent might be prolonged indefinitely. However, by the summer of 1835, nearing the time when he could be admitted to the Bar, John decided to return to Kingston, and in August of that year there appeared in the Kingston Chronicle and Gazette the following notice: "John A. Macdonald, attorney, etc. . . . has opened up his office in the brick building belonging to Mr. Collar, opposite the shop of D. Prentiss, Esq., Quarry Street, where he will attend to all the duties of the profession."

RETURNS TO PICTON

Macdonald returned to Picton for a speaking engagement in June, 1861, and in his opening remarks stated: "I have been for many years absent from Prince Edward, for my political and professional avocations have called me away, but I have not forgotten the good old county, and it speaks well for its salubrity that I recognize so many of my old friends present here today. My early associations are connected with Prince Edward—some of the happiest days were spent here —I here obtained my earliest professional education, and here in this good old town of Picton, I earned my first fee and made my first speech to a jury, in this very Court House, at the first Quarter Sessions that were held in it . . ."

It is very apparent from the known facts of Macdonald's early career and from his public utterances, that his relatively short sojourn in the pioneer settlement at Hallowell, now a part of Picton, remained as one of his choicest memories. In paying homage to this great Canadian statesman, and giving public recognition to the very start of his meteoric career, it is most appropriate that this plaque is being unveiled in 1965, the 150 anniversary of his birth in Glasgow, Scotland.

OLD LANDMARK GIVES WAY TO PROGRESS

The last of the ruins of the Old Pollock Home on the sideroad between the Eighth and Ninth Lines, went up in smoke on Monday, when the new owner, Percy Reid burned up the remains of the old log house which had been vacant for many years. It was the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Pollock, Sr. great grandparents of Mrs. Percy Reid. The site of the house will be bulldozed to enlarge an already existing field.

Extortion Ring Broken up in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Police have arrested a house detective at the New York Hilton Hotel in an investigation of what one officer called an extortion ring "operating from Maine to Florida to California."

The house detective, Edward Murphy, 39, was picked up by police Tuesday and was charged with extortion and impersonating a police officer.

Detective James McDonnell said Murphy was a member of a gang that preyed chiefly on homosexuals and men who sought the company of homosexuals.

Two other men said by police to be involved in the extortion ring were arrested earlier. They are John Aitken, 35, and William J. Burke, 53.

Police said all three have long police records. A spokesman for the hotel said Murphy was hired 14 months ago on the recommendation of a federal agency that the job would help "rehabilitate" him.

The highest amount thus far known to have been extorted by the ring was $8,000, McDonnell said.

Labor's Legislation Record Amazes Even Its Backers

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Labor government came to the end of its first session of Parliament today with a record of legislation astonishing to even its most zealous supporters.

With Prime Minister Wilson's forces plagued by the smallest majority in this century, the House of Commons put through 65 separate measures before adjournment until Oct. 26. Some of the legislation represents minor social and economic revolutions in taxation, race relations, capital punishment and other fields.

Fifty - two of the successful bills were introduced by the government as part of its program, the rest by individual MPs. The total of 65 is two more than the number of bills passed by the last Parliament, when the Conservatives had a majority of about 100 votes. Labor's over-all majority is three.

The MPs trooped into the voting lobbies 107 times and enacted a long-term capital gains tax, a unified corporation tax, a curb on overseas investments, a curb on tax-free expense accounts and basic changes in the tax structure.

Other major election platform pledges passed:

Old-age pensions were raised and widows allowed to collect pensions if they hold a job.

A national severance pay scheme was set up to increase the mobility of labor.

The monopoly laws were tightened, especially on newspapers.

Incitement to racial violence was made a crime, and racial conciliation boards were authorized.

The underdeveloped highlands of Scotland were put under a development board with powers to lend money.

The House of Commons also voted to abolish capital punishment for murder. The House of Lords approved the bill in principle but did not act on it finally before adjournment. Meanwhile, no murderers are being hanged.

Opposition within the party delayed Labor's most controversial measure, renationalization of the steel industry, and may eventually kill it. Support from the Liberal party's 10 members also helped on some bills.

Wrong Flag So Court Moves

Picton Judge Insists Upon Maple Leaf Flag

PICTON (Staff) — Judge Wilfred S. Lane yesterday refused to hold Division Court Sittings at Shire Hall (County Buildings) Main Street because the new Canadian Maple Leaf Flag was not flown while court was held there. The new Ontario Provincial flag is flown on the flagstaff.

His Honor adjourned court and moved the sittings to the County Court House on Union St., where the Maple Leaf flag flies.

When Division Court opened yesterday morning, Judge Lane said: "Gentlemen, there will be no court here today. I requested county council for some time that a proper flag be flown on the flagstaff at this building when court is in session. I do not consider the Ontario flag a proper flag to fly over a court. I take it as a personal affront in view of my request that county council did not accede to my request to have the proper flag flown and therefore refuse to sit in this courtroom.

"I will, however, resume the court in 15 minutes in the court house where they have a proper (Maple Leaf) flag," concluded His Honor.

According to County Clerk Thomas Walker, Judge Lane has not made any written or formal request concerning the flying of the Maple Leaf flag at the county buildings and county council has not refused to fly the Maple Leaf flag.

"As far as I am concerned, I don't feel I can sit in court in a building displaying the Ontario flag alone," Judge Lane said. "I quite appreciate the Ontario flag as a symbol of the province but the court is part of Canada."

The judge said later that he had spoken to county officials two or three times before yesterday's scheduled sitting of division court asking that a maple leaf flag be flown.

"I did not know until this morning that my request would

Second Term Opposed

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) Opposition is reported to be mounting against re-electing Alex Quaison-Sackey, the foreign minister of Ghana, for an unprecedented second term as president of the UN General Assembly.

But opponents, not so much against Quaison-Sackey himself as against the principle of giving the representative of one member state the post in two consecutive years, were understood to have been unable so far to offer an alternative choice.

Usually reliable sources said West European members discussed the question at a private caucus Monday, and the Latin Americans Wednesday.

Feeling in both groups, these sources said, crystallized in favor of having a European president for the 20th assembly, due to open Sept. 21. There was no great opposition, it was added, to having the post go, for the first time, to a diplomat from Eastern Europe.

Poland was understood to

NEW SETTING AT SCENE OF DESTRUCTION IN HIROSHIMA — Here are two views of the area around the Sanyo-shorei-kan (Trade Promotion Hall) in Hiroshima, Japan. Twenty years agc, an atomic bomb exploded within 100 meters of this building. The structure is shown, top, about a month after the explosion. The same building and area is shown as it appears today, with a water fountain, trees and a new building, right, rear, changing the scene somewhat.

Hiroshima, City of Memories, Grief, Hope Marks 20th Anniversary of Holocaust

HIROSHIMA, Japan (CP) — Hiroshima today was a city of memories, sadness and hope as tens of thousands of people stood in silent prayer remembering its destruction 20 years ago by an atomic bomb.

At 8:15 a.m., the hour when an atomic flash enveloped the city and killed an estimated 200,000 people, clusters of pigeons were released as an appeal by the city for world peace.

The prosperous, reconstructed city of 520,000 came to a standstill for one minute to mark the moment when a U.S. Air Force B-29 on Aug. 6, 1945, dropped the world's first nuclear bomb on human beings.

More than 30,000 persons attended a service at Peace Memorial Park. Typhoon Jean's rains held off until after the ceremony.

A few of the 96,000 "radiated" survivors who still live here stood with new citizens of the reborn Hiroshima, heads bowed, as the mournful peal of the peace bell echoed across this mountain-ringed city.

Two 20-year-old girls, orphaned by the atomic blast, represented the survivors in paying tribute to lost members of their families by placing a wreath on the city's memorial to the dead.

As the huge rally joined together in the prayer "No more Hiroshima," Mayor Shinzo Hamai, himself a survivor, placed a list of 469 new names of people who have died here from the effects of the blast.

The names include 69 who died in the last 12 months at Hiroshima's atomic bomb hospital of illnesses believed connected with radiation from the bomb.

The roll at the cenotaph now totals 61,443 identified victims. The Japanese estimate 200,000 persons died in the explosion of the 20-kiloton bomb, but American officials say there were around 80,000.

As the peace bell pealed out across the city, all public transport came to a halt and people stood in silent prayer.

In the Atomic Bomb Hospital nurses and doctors stood in wards with heads bowed.

And throughout Japan people remembered.

Better Course Was Not Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Oppenheimer, who helped develop the atomic bomb, said Thursday night he will never think of the bombing of Hiroshima "with ease," but does not believe "a better course was then open."

Oppenheimer was interviewed by the Columbia Broadcasting System's Martin Agronsky.

Oppenheimer said "when you play a meaningful part in bringing about the death of 100,000 people and the injury of a comparable number, you naturally don't think of that . . . with ease.

"I believe we had a great cause to do this, but I do not think our consciences should be entirely easy. . . ."

LBJ Signs Bill Assuring U.S. Negroes Right to Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a small Capitol chamber where Abraham Lincoln signed a slave-freeing bill 104 years ago, President Johnson puts his signature today on the measure he proposed to guarantee Negroes the right to vote.

Johnson chose for the ceremony the President's Room, just off the Senate chamber, where Lincoln on Aug. 6, 1861, signed into law a bill the White House said freed slaves employed by Confederates in waging the civil war.

The president's signature will set in motion enforcement machinery already poised to guarantee Negro voting rights in broad areas of the South.

The bill will suspend state literacy tests and authorize federal registration of voters in wide areas of the South. And it orders Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenback to go to court to challenge the constitutionality of poll taxes still required of state and local election voters in Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. predicted today that his workers, reinforced by the new U.S. voting rights bill, would register more than 900,000 southern Negroes by the end of the month.

"We're going all out now to double registration of Negroes," King said in an interview.

"Within days," he added, "we'll have 800 workers in the six states and 34 counties" covered by the legislation.

He said passage of the bill "won't stop all demonstrations in the South." But, he added, "if there is serious implementation of voting rights and correct enforcement, demonstrations may very well decrease."

However, with that decrease, King said, will be "an increase in northern demonstrations" as the battle against segregation continues.

Non-union Sorters Trying To Catch Up On Backlog

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government, still working behind the scenes to get Montreal's strike-bound mail moving again, today faced evidence of renewed dissatisfaction from postal workers in other parts of Canada. It was the 16th day of the Montreal strike.

While Prime Minister Pearson and the special three-man cabinet strike committee decided on interim arrangements for Montreal, scattered reports began to reach the capital of growing rejection of the government's latest pay boost.

Postal workers in St. Catharines voted Thursday night to back the 4,100 Montreal strikers in rejecting the increases. A similar result was reported in voting among mail clerks and letter carriers in Edmonton.

Reaction among Calgary's 700 postal workers was mixed.

"The reaction of some is bitter," said William Gibennus, southern Alberta vice-president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association. "Some are satisfied. Some are non-committal."

There has been no formal reaction to the pay boosts from Toronto postal employees. However, in a move Thursday night that could indicate the general feeling, 400 branch members voted to ask president William Dawson to resign for refusing to endorse an earlier walkout.

The latest pay boosts, recommended by federally-appointed commissioner Judge J. C. Anderson and approved Thursday by the federal treasury board, provides increases totalling between $510 and $550 a year. The first $360 is retroactive to last Oct. 1, with the remaining $150 to $190 effective Aug. 1.

POLL ALL WORKERS

An official of the Postal Workers Brotherhood, the central body for the three postal employees associations, said today plans are being worked out to poll all 19,500 organized postal workers for their reaction to the new pay boosts.

He said it is hoped to carry out the nation-wide balloting early next week.

Brotherhood sources said the ballot may include the question: "For strike or against strike?"

Brotherhood representatives, along with leaders of the Montreal strikers, were meeting in the capital to consider their next moves. They were to meet later in the day with the cabinet committee, headed by Revenue Minister Benson.

The committee, in turn, is to report to Mr. Pearson. A spokesman in the prime minister's office said Mr. Pearson "probably will have a statement sometime today."

Mr. Benson said early today arrangements have been made for Montreal area residents to pick up their own mail at regional post offices as soon as non-union mail sorters now at work catch up with the 16-day backlog.

He told a press conference that more than 300 persons

50 Soldiers Used to Move Mail Bags

MONTREAL (CP)—About 50 soldiers were assigned today to moving mail bags and lifting mail from bags that have been stored in freight cars at the ordnance depot, a spokesman for the national defence information office said.

This was the first indication that army personnel has been asked to assist with the piled-up mail since the strike of postal employees began July 22.

The defence department Aug. 4 provided railway siding facilities at the ordnance depot at Longue Pointe, in east-end Montreal. The spokesman said the department now has been asked to provide "limited assistance" to post office employees in handling mail at Longue Pointe, in addition to siding facilities.

He said the soldiers are carrying out "simple manual duties."

MONTREAL (CP)—For the first time since postal employees went on strike July 22, army men today began assisting in mail handling.

A spokesman for the national defence department information office said about 50 soldiers were assigned to the duties at the army ordnance depot at east-end Longue Pointe where accumulations of mail since the walkout have been placed aboard freight cars at a siding.

The siding facilities were provided Aug. 4.

"A number of freight cars have already been brought into Longue Pointe and the work connected with sorting of mail began this morning," said the spokesman.

"About 50 soldiers are involved. They are carrying out simply manual duties, moving the mail bags and lifting mail out of the bags."

FOLLOWS REJECTION

Use of the soldiers followed the vote Thursday by Montreal strikers not to accept wage increases announced by the government.

Meanwhile, about 290 female workers and a few men, all non-union workers, were reported engaged on the mountain of mail in the main post office.

Only first-class mail was reported being handled. Newspapers, magazines and unsealed letters were left untouched.

Following the decision of the workers to continue the strike, their leaders flew to Ottawa for conferences with government officials.

Back in mail-starved Montreal, demands for official action came from the Board of Trade and from a local member of Parliament who asked that federal negotiators come here for "immediate" talks with the strikers.

There was even talk in some quarters of citizens volunteering for duty at the post offices, to clear the enormous backlog of letters and parcels that has accumulated since the workers walked out July 22.

CALL IT CRITICAL

The Board of Trade and Liberal MP John Turner of the city riding of St. Lawrence-St. George both termed the situation critical.

A radio station and a newspaper said they had been receiving offers from residents who wanted to do duty at post offices.

Union officials crowded strike headquarters during the night, still buzzing with talk about the rejection vote but primarily awaiting developments from Ottawa.

Raids Fail To Sever Supply Line

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam are still far from achieving their aims after six months of virtual round-the-clock action, according to the best available assessments.

"We'll need to drop a lot more bombs and we'll have to lose increasing numbers of aircraft to get anywhere," one highly qualified source said.

U.S. air force and navy planes have dropped an estimated 10,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese targets. About 50 U.S. aircraft have been lost. The continuous strikes began Feb. 7.

U.S. planes first began hammering Communist installations with two goals in mind.

One was to cut the supply lines to Viet Cong troops in South Viet Nam.

The second goal was to force the North Vietnamese regime to the conference table.

SUCCESS DOUBTFUL

Qualified sources doubt that Viet Cong supply lines have been hurt badly.

"We have smashed their bridges, clogged their roads and sunk their barges, but none of us seriously believes that the supply effort has been hurt," a U.S. officer said. "They have proved very resourceful."

Three Quebec Views Of Canada Given Couchiching Parley

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Three Quebec versions of Canada's struggles with the issues of federalism and inter-provincial relations were delivered to the annual Couchiching Conference on Public Affairs Thursday by three of the province's leading spokesmen.

Former justice minister Guy Favreau, now president of the Privy Council, outlined a concept for Canadian unity which he described as a "menage a onze"—a household of 11—the federal government, and 10 provincial governments.

Daniel Johnson, Quebec opposition leader, called for a completely new constitution based on the fundamental reality of the co-existence of two nations.

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, said Canada is threatened by a stubborn refusal to accept change and difference.

In another speech, E. Davie Fulton, former justice minister in the Diefenbaker Progressive Conservative government, warned that what gave Canada partnership in 1867 won't do the same in 1967 unless "English-Canadians are prepared to make fundamental adjustments."

Mr. Johnson described Canada as two nations with common interests and said it is possible to create common structures for the management of these common interests.

"We need a constitution which should include a charter of national or cultural rights granting exactly the same guarantees to the English-speaking minority in Quebec and the French-speaking minority in other provinces," he said.

Mr. Favreau, making his first major speech since he resigned as justice minister, called for federal and provincial governments to share tightly interlocking responsibilities. However, he said Ottawa's role had changed from one defending its pre-eminent independence to one of measured and selective stimulus.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said Canada's future as a country rests with English-speaking Canadians. "They must decide whether they are willing to live together with French-Canadians in a country where the terms of co-existence will be drawn up and decided in common as between two equal partners." He said a majority of French-Canadians have opted for partnership.

Spread Between Rising Costs and Falling Returns Growing Wider for Farmers

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The spread between rising costs and falling returns has grown wider for Canadian farmers, the latest figures from the bureau of statistics indicate.

At the start of the current growing season, farm prices for agricultural products were 4.2 per cent lower than prices received by farmers a year ago. But the cost of commodities and services used by farmers was two per cent higher.

The bureau bases its indexes of farm prices and costs on 1935-39 averages equalling 100. The index of farm prices of agricultural products for April this year was 254.8, down 4.2 per cent from 266.6 in April, 1964. Farm costs rose in the same period to an index of 289.2 from 283.4.

For the average farmer the indexes meant that this spring he had to pay $2.89 for the commodities and services he was able to obtain in pre-war years for $1. But the farm products which he could sell in 1935-39 for $1 brought in $2.54.

CHANGES NOT SHOWN

The indexes, however, do not reflect changes which have occurred in the agricultural economy since pre-war days. Farmers today use more efficient—and costly—equipment to produce a greater yield with a smaller labor force.

Another bureau report issued this week surveyed the prices paid at terminal markets for farm produce in Eastern and Western Canada. These figures were generally higher than what the farmers themselves received since they include costs of transportation to the terminal markets.

The eastern index at mid-year stood at 279.7, up 14.1 per cent from 245.3 at July last year. The western index, however, was down 6.6 per cent to 218.4 from 232.9.

In dollars-and-cents terms, the indexes meant that eastern farmers' products, when they reached terminals markets brought a price of nearly $2.80 for what would have drawn $1 in the pre-war years. But the western producer's return for a pre-war dollar's worth of output was just over $2.18 this year.

Don E. Welch To Be Honored At Convocation

Administrator of the Doctors Hospital in Toronto, and former resident of this city, Donald E. Welch, has been formally admitted to the American College of Hospital Administrators.

The honor will be accorded at the college's 31st annual convocation to be held in San Francisco.

Only son of the late Clarence Welch and Mrs. J. B. Newell, 94 Yeomans Street, Belleville. He received his primary education at King George School and Belleville Collegiate. He attended University of Toronto.

Mr. Welch married a Belleville girl Joyce Wiggins, whose mother resides in this city. They have two sons, Blaine 9, and Dwight, 5.

Main Canadian Initiative May Become War Casualty

By WILLIAM NEVILLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A major Canadian disarmament initiative may become a casualty of the Viet Nam war.

The two have little direct connection, but they are being tied together, to the chagrin of the Canadian government, by the Soviet Union and other Communist representatives on the 17-nation Geneva disarmament commission.

That in itself may be enough to dash months of work by officials of Canada's external affairs department on a carefully-drafted proposal aimed at ensuring the non-dissemination of nuclear weapons.

"I can't say that we're exactly surprised at the Soviet position," said one official in Ottawa. "The whole international atmosphere seems poisoned by Viet Nam.

"But that doesn't mean we aren't disappointed and even angry."

STRONG BURNS SPEECH

Both the disappointment and, to a lesser extent, the anger were reflected Thursday in a speech to the Geneva conference by Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's chief disarmament negotiator.

He told the conference he had seen nothing in the opening speech of Soviet delegate Smyon Tsarapkin to indicate Russia is prepared to negotiate seriously on either a non-dissemination treaty or an extension of the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

Instead, said Gen. Burns, Mr. Tsarapkin had offered only a "rather schizophrenic" speech which concentrated as much on hammering United States policy in Viet Nam as it did on disarmament.

By Canadian standards at least, Gen. Burns' speech was a hard-hitting one. Canadian practice at Geneva and other international conferences has been, if at all possible, to leave the cold war polemics to the main antagonists and concentrade instead on trying to foster at least limited agreement.

CANADIAN PROPOSAL

The major effort in this regard at Geneva is centred on a six-point proposal to guarantee that control of nuclear weapons will not spread beyond the current members of the nuclear club.

To this end, Ottawa some time ago circulated a draft treaty which offered the basic pledges by both nuclear and non-nuclear nations not to disturb the status quo and added a few unique elements of its own. The two main innovations were a promise by the nuclear powers to come to the defence of any non-nuclear nation attacked with nuclear weapons and a proposed time limit on the whole package.

The latter stipulation was a particular Canadian initiative. It was thought in Ottawa that, by limiting the non-dissemination agreement to about 10 years, such a treaty would meet the objections of non-nuclear nations reluctant to commit themselves indefinitely. At the same time, it could bring pressure on the nuclear powers to achieve some meaningful progress on disarmament during that period.

"We still hope the Geneva conference can accomplish something along these lines," said the Ottawa official. "But I must say there is very little indication at this stage that Moscow is prepared to make any serious effort.

"It would mean a lot of work virtually for nothing. But then, in the disarmament business, hope springs eternal."

Elks Open New Home

Tonight the Elks Lodge of Belleville will hold their weekly games night in the new Elks Hall at 109 Cedar Street. For the past several weeks workmen and members have been busy preparing what was formerly the Upper Canada News Building for this first public showing. A new ceiling has been installed and paint has been lavishly and daringly used to transform the building into what is thought to be Belleville's largest public hall.

The Elks have become a very active Lodge in Belleville, memberships have more than doubled, charitable work has been greatly increased and a progressive program of help and healthy entertainment has been instituted for the children of the district.

No Cutbacks In Building Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday the level of activity in the construction industry will remain unaffected by the government's action to stretch out building projects.

He read a statement at a press conference expressing surprise at interpretations placed on the government's action and adding that there is no crisis in the building industry, nor any hidden problems.

"The one problem is that, in some areas, the demands on the construction industry have been increasing even faster than had been previously indicated.

"I am sure these demands can be met. But it takes time for the industry to make the necessary plans and assemble the men and machinery."

He said the government is merely moving some of the deadlines on certain projects.

NO CUTBACK

"This is in no way restrictive. No work that has been started will be stopped. No planning will be abandoned. There will be no cutback in the possible level of activity."

He described as a "silly statement" the remarks of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who suggested the construction stretchout was related to Finance Minister Gordon's recent meeting in Washington with United States Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler.

He also denied Mr. Diefenbaker's contention that the 11-per-cent sales tax on building materials was responsible for the problems in the building trades.

Mr. Pearson said the unprecedented volume of construction planned and under way proves the sales tax did not bring about a reduction in building or prevent planning for construction work.

Pressure Mounts On Sterling In London

LONDON (AP) — Pressure mounted on sterling by noon today despite Prime Minister Wilson's assurances the government will not devalue the pound. The dollar price of gold stood one-quarter cent higher than Thursday.

The fixing price of gold bullion today was $35.19375 (U.S.) — compared with Thursday's $35.19125 per ounce.

And in a television interview Conservative Opposition Leader Edward Heath stated that devaluation of the pound could not be justified "on rational reasons."

The exchange market opened quietly this morning and dealers reported there was no pressure on "spot sterling." Some even thought that rates for forward sterling, where all the pressure of recent days had concentrated, might improve later in the day.

By lunchtime, however, the pound was again under pressure. Dealers reported reduced volume in business but said the discount on sterling for six months delivery had widened sharply.

But buying of selected shares on the stock market continued as the dollar price of gold rose.

CJBQ to Present Controversial Opera

Imagine a city where lawlessness reigns; where any crime — rape, murder, theft — is regarded as inconsequential; where the sole crime against society is to run out of cash.

Such a city was envisioned in 1927 by Bertolt Brecht and Kurt Weill. They named it Mahagonny (City of Nets) and made it the setting for a brief song-sketch. Three years later they expanded this into a full-length opera titled The Rise and Fall of The City of Mahagonny. At its Leipzig premiere in 1930, the work precipitated a riot in the audience, which was quelled by police.

The North American premiere of the opera took place this year at the Stratford (Ontario) Shakespearean Festival. A broadcast performance of this production will be heard from Stratford's Avon Theatre, on CBC Sunday night, Aug. 8, at 8.05 p.m. on CJBQ radio.

The Stratford production stars Viennese actress-singer Martha Schlamme as Jenny; Thomas O'Leary as Jim, her lover; and Muriel Greenspon as Mrs. Begbick, founder of the city. Featured are Jean Bonhomme, Yoland Guerard, Bernard Turgeon, James McCray, Len Cariou, Donald Saunders and Wallace Williamson. Williamson, a rising young star in Canadian Opera circles, is married to the former Tamsin Reid of Belleville.

Music is by the National Festival Orchestra, conducted by Louis Applebaum.

CN Vacation Train Bound For Churchill

WINNIPEG — With 233 passengers on board, a special Canadian National Railways train will leave here Friday morning bound for Churchill on the 29th annual rail tour to the northern Manitoba port.

For six days the train will be a hotel on wheels for the tourists who come from 24 American states and four Canadian provinces.

During the trip to the sub Arctic the welcome mat will be rolled out at many northern communities where special events have been arranged by local officials.

On the journey to Churchill extended stops have been arranged at Dauphin, Flin Flon and Thompson, while the return trip will see the travellers enjoy the hospitality at The Pas.

At Churchill, the high light of the trip, the visitors will have a full day to inspect the port facilities, the grain elevator, the whaling plant, the historic fort Prince of Wales and other landmarks. They will also take part in a number of social functions including a dance.

This year's excursion will, for the first time, accommodate two special groups. Making the journey from opposite side of the continent are 50 members of the Pacific Northwest Electric Railway Association and an equally large group of members from the Appalachian Mountain Club.

The largest representations of the tour will come from the States of Oregon and Massachusetts with 43 and 34 representatives respectively.

Tyendinaga Gets Grant for Municipal Park

The Province of Ontario has approved a centennial grant for the township of Tyendinaga to assist in the purchase and development of a municipal park.

Clarke T Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, today reported that he had received notification of provincial approval of the centennial grant. The project application has now been forwarded for approval by the centennial commission in Ottawa.

Etsimated cost of the park is $4,000 and, subject to centennial committee approval, will be shared $1,334 by the township, $1,333 by the province and $1,333 by the government of Canada.

To love and cherish and never forget.

—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by aunt Ivy, uncle Harry and family.

ROYLE — In loving memory of a dear sister, Margaret (Belch) Royle, who passed away on August 6th, 1964.

This month comes with great regret,
It brings back a day we shall never forget,
You fell asleep without goodbye,
But the memory of you shall never die,
We often think of bygone days,
When we were all together,
The family chain is broken now,
But memories will live forever,
To us, she has not gone away,
Nor has she travelled far,
Just entered God's eternal home,

—Lovingly remembered by sister Bunny, brother-in-law Mac and family.

ROYLE — In loving memory of our dear sister Margaret (Belch) Royle, who passed away August 6th, 1964.

Our hearts still ache with sadness,
And secret tears still flow,
What it meant to lose you "Marg",
No one will ever know,
When we are sad and lonely,
And everything goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper,
Cheer up and carry on,
Each time we see your picture,
You seem to smile and say,
Don't cry I'm only sleeping,
We will meet again some day.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by sister Jean, brother-in-law Allan and niece Cathy.

ROYLE — In loving memory of a dear sister Margaret (Belch) Royle who passed away August 6th, 1964.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind,
They are cherished in the hearts,
Of those they leave behind,
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just in all her days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.

—Lovingly remembered by brother George and sister-in-law Joanne.

ROYLE — In loving memory of our dear daughter Margaret (Belch) Royle who passed away August 6th, 1964.

God blessed us with a wonderful daughter,
And you were one of the best,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called to rest.
We've learned with patient effort,
To hide the tears that start,
But cannot help the longing,
That lives within our hearts,
When days are dark and lonely,
And everything goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper,
Cheer up and carry on,
Each time we look at your picture,
You seem to smile and say,
Don't grieve, I'm only sleeping
We'll meet again some day.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mom and Dad

ROYLE — In loving memory of our dear sister Margaret (Belch) Royle who passed away August 6th, 1964.

Though her smile is gone forever,
And her hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories,
Of the one we loved so much,
Her memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.

—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by sister Beverley and brother Gary.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Leonard Reid wish to convey their sincere gratitude to all neighbors, friends, relatives, Rev. Beahm, also the Ontario Provincial and City Police, staff of John R. Bush Funeral Home for many acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy and floral tributes, also special thanks to Rev. McFarlane for his comforting words in our hour of sorrow in the sudden passing of a loving husband and father.

Mrs. Loraine Reid and family.

The family of the late D. R. Calvin Tanner wish to extend to their friends and neighbors, their deep appreciation for the many kindnesses shown to them during their recent bereavement in the loss of a dear husband and father. A special thank you to Rev. J. H. Thompson, for his words of comfort, and to MacKenzie Funeral Home for their thoughtful consideration.

Smallest Baby Ever to Survive At Belleville Hospital Home Eleven Weeks After Birth

Belleville hospital has sent home to its happy parents the smallest baby ever to be born there and survive.

She is two and a half months old Dawn Elizabeth Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dawson 18 Charlotte Street who was born three months prematurely and weighed only 1 lb. 13 ounces at birth.

The baby now weighs 5 lbs. 7 ounces and is gaining rapidly on a standard feeding formula.

"When she was born three months prematurely doctors gave us no hope that she would survive," the mother said yesterday. "But she surprised us all and was in the hospital nursery incubator only a few days."

Hospital records show that the Dawson baby is the smallest premature baby ever to survive at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson have four other children, the eldest seven years.

And they all simply dote on the new arrival.

"They could hardly wait until Baby Dawn came home from the hospital," Mrs. Dawson said. "They think she is pretty nice."

Non-union were at work sorting mail Thursday night, and "an even larger number" was expected today.

The staff was made up of part-time and casual workers employed by the post office, he said, and the size of the staff was expected to increase with each shift.

Postmaster - General Tremblay said he could not be sure until later today, but he hoped to have the pick-up service in operation by Saturday at the latest. Mr. Benson, Mr. Tremblay and Solicitor-General Benson form a cabinet committee dealing with the strike.

AFTER TALKS

The announcement by the cabinet ministers came after an hour-long meeting with representatives of the Canadian Postal Workers Brotherhood and a five-man group representing the striking Montreal locals.

The meeting, which Mr. Benson said was requested by the brotherhood, was scheduled to start at 11 p.m. EDT Thursday but didn't get under way until 11:55 p.m. because the Montreal group arrived late.

William Houle and Roger Decarie, outspoken heads of the Montreal postal clerks and letter carriers, both refused to say what took place at the meeting with Mr. Benson.

They said their spokesman now was Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Labor Federation (CLC) and a vice-president of the New Democratic Party.

Mr. Laberge would say only that they had discussed the general situation, and that the union group would meet again, then possibly meet the three-man cabinet committee again sometime today.

"We're still on strike," Mr. Houle added.

Prime Minister Pearson's office said Thursday night the prime minister probably would make a statement today. There also were reports that the cabinet would meet to consider he government's next move.

WON'T GIVE IN

But any chances of the government giving in to demands for a $650 annual pay increase for the strikers were ruled out Thursday by Mr. Pearson and Mr. Benson.

Mr. Pearson told the Montreal unions in a telegram the government "will not be making any further proposals" after accepting fully the proposals of Judge J. C. Anderson, the commissioner appointed July 23 to investigate the postal workers' claims for more money.

The judge recommended in an interim report Wednesday that the postal workers be given increases ranging from $510 to $550. The government originally announced increases of $300 to $360, based on recommendations from the Civil Service Commission.

"We're not negotiating any more," Mr. Benson said this morning.

"The government can't negotiate with a union.

"We will be able to in the future when collective bargaining legislation for the civil service is passed but we can't do it now.

"The entire problem would never have occurred if we had collective bargaining now."

SEE UNION SPLIT

There were continuing indications of a split between the brotherhood, a special organization set up by the three national postal unions, and the leaders of the Montreal strike.

The brotherhood reached an agreement last week with Mr. Benson to recommend that all strikers return to their jobs. While about 9,000 postal workers in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia went back to work, the 4,100 Montreal men continued to strike.

Mr. Benson said he was disappointed by a decision of Vancouver letter carriers who voted Thursday night to reject the new pay increases and demanded a national referendum of postal workers on the subject.

"But you'll note that it was not a strike vote," he added.

Reaction to the latest increases varied across Canada Thursday.

Letter carriers in Toronto nd Hamilton objected to the fact that inside clerks received bigger increases than they did but Edward Polischvik, Ontario vice-president of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, said it was the "highest raise ever given postal employees."

REJECTED IN WEST

Edmonton postal workers voted Thursday night to reject pay raises for mailmen ranging from $510 to $550 a year.

Matian Shalagan, regional vice-president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, said the group rejected the recommendations "because of disparities in increases recommended for various classes of postal workers."

President Ron Sansom of Calgary letter carriers said the matter of unequal raises would likely be an issue at a Sunday meeting when Calgary employees consider the offer.

Regina and Saskatoon spokesmen were happy with the increases but thought they should be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1964, as were the previously announced boosts.

Dan MacBurnie of Truro N.S., vice-president of the postal workers union for the Atlantic provinces, said he did not consider the $510 - $550 boosts sufficient.

He said that if the Montreal strike is not settled by Aug. 10, ballots would be given to all members in the Atlantic provinces to see whether they wanted to strike.

At Vancouver, a standing vote of 450 letter carriers Thursday night unanimously rejected the pay increases.

The men loudly demanded a national referendum of postal workers.

Their action followed similar votes by postal employees in several suburban areas.

Police Gather To Control Folk Festival

By VOLKMAR RICHTER

TORONTO (CP) — Squad cars, motorcycles and paddy wagons arrived at suburban Downsview Thursday with 80 provincial police officers gathered from across the province to patrol the three-day Mariposa Folk Festival which starts tonight.

Their main duties will be directing traffic around and into the festival site on Innis Lake about 40 miles northwest of here.

Napanee Beaver Buys Express

NAPANEE — The weekly Napanee Post - Express has been sold to the Napanee Beaver, H. D. Wightman, Post - Express publisher, announced yesterday.

The sale will leave the Napanee Beaver, established in 1871, with the circulation, business and building of the 104-year-old Post - Express. Mr. Wightman will sell his newspaper's equipment separately. Each paper had a circulation of about 3,000, with the main coverage being in Lennox and Addington County, Napanee and Deseronto.

The Napanee Express was purchased by Mr. Wightman's father, the late H. D. Wightman, in 1948. In 1951 it bought out the Deseronto Post. Mr. Wightman joined his father as a partner in 1949 and took over the operation on his father's death in 1961. The last issue of the Post - Express was produced last week.

Mr. Wightman will go to Ottawa to take a position as statistician with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, a job he held before entering the newspaper business.

May Sue Town Over Wall, Weaver Hints

TRENTON — Gerald A. Weaver, through his Picton lawyer, Frederick Ward, has notified Trenton council that he expects to sustain "substantial damages" if his Dundas Street West building is left in a "wall-less" state. Council has declined to pass a by-law which would give him the right to enter upon adjoining property owned by D. R. Fraser and Hugh O'Neil. Mr. Ward in a letter read at council meeting last night, said "Mr. Weaver is not prepared to acquiesce to the extent of absorbing these losses personally."

Mr. Weaver, said Mr. Ward would "have to have legal redress against the municipality for damages in a very substantial amount unless some remedial means are afforded."

Mr. Weaver, in effect, asked through Mr. Ward that council pass a bylaw which would permit him to enter the Fraser and O'Neil property to build his wall.

This is the fourth time of asking. Council has refused to pass the bylaw to date, and last night merely referred the letter from Mr. Ward to town solicitor Roderick Campbell.

30 Employees Start Work on Storm Sewers

TRENTON — The 30 men employed this summer by the public works' department have been busy this month installing storm sewers and started Thursday with the installation on Kerr Crescent.

The Devere Gardens storm sewer will relieve spring flooding conditions in that area and this holds good for recent work on catch basins and storm sewers on Byron Street.

Meanwhile, men from the Cobourg Construction Company are expected in town on Monday to start work on the installation of a sanitary sewer running from Sidney Street over to Reid Street. This sewer will serve the new V. P. Carswell Elementary School, scheduled to open in September, and also Phase One of the Land Assembly housing development on the west side of Reid Street where 68 lots are to be serviced this year.

Workmen also started yesterday to install a new sidewalk on the east side of Front Street, across from the new federal building. Official date for the opening of the building has yet to be announced. A.T.A. Andre (contractor) spokesman at Kingston said on Wednesday he couldn't understand the delay as an inspector was called in to give the building approval last week. An Andre foreman "on the job", refused this week to hazard a guess as to the completion date. "I won't go out on a limb again." he said.

Sub-divider Requested to Build Curbs

TRENTON — Twenty-five Westmount Park residents sent in a petition to town council last night asking that something be done to force the developer, William Sidor to build curbs in the sub-division.

Mr. Sidor's agreement with the persons who bought property in his sub-division is said to have guaranteed that services would be forthcoming once annexation of the area by the town took place. This was accomplished last January.

Town solicitor Roderick Campbell, who is vacationing at the moment, will explore council's responsibility, (if any) in the issue.

Council voted to sign an agreement with the Cobourg Construction Company for $129,000 for the installation of a sanitary sewer running from Sidney Street to Reid Street, and serving not only the new elementary school on Reid St. but also 64 lots in the government-sponsored land assembly project, (phase one) west of Reid St.

In other business, council voted to release a $40,000 hold-back to the Rayner Construction Company. The difference between this and the remainder of the $70,000 hold-back on reconstruction of three of the town's' main streets last year, will be retained by the town, pending an agreement between Rayner and a sub-contractor.

The town will put in to the Ontario Department of Highways for a $46,545 grant towards construction and maintenance of roads, bridges and culverts, (an annual grant, varying in amount from year to year.)

And the town will approach the D.H.O. about a 75 per cent grant for the reconstruction of Dundas Street East, between Ontario Street and Bay Street. Total cost will be $49,315. Trenton's share, around $19,800.

May Include Bowling Green In Project

TRENTON — Work on Trenton's Centennial Project... the completion of the central part of the waterfront park south of the community gardens....is well underway this year, and scrapers have been sent into the area to prepare the land for the addition of topsoil.

Two ball diamonds have been staked out, as well as a bowling green.

Ex-mayor Kenneth Couch, who heads up the town's Centennial Committee, will find himself a very busy man in the next few months, as he will be asked to speak before various clubs whose members would like to take some part in the Centennial Project, but want advice on just what is needed.

Acting Chief Honored For 20 Years' Service

TRENTON — Acting Police Chief R. J. Rutherford was honored at a banquet in the Gilbert Hotel last night by the members of the Trenton Police Association for his 20 years with the local force.

Mayor James MacDonald, chairman of the Trenton Police Commission, presented Chief Rutherford with a 20-year pin and Staff Sgt. Walter Youmans also presented a gift to the chief from the association.

Chairman for the evening, Constable David Camp, introduced the guest of honor and also told the officers and their wives that the banquet was a means of honoring Mrs. Rosamund Smith, who is leaving her post as station secretary to move to Western Canada.

Mrs. Nellie Bain, J.P., presented Mrs. Rutherford with a bouquet of roses and Mrs. Smith was also presented with a gift and a bouquet.

Here's some good news for Trenton residents.

No longer will they be greeted by a fishy smell outside their homes after town workmen spray the sides of the roads with dust layer.

Chemists at Domtar, the firm which supplies (free) the dust layer, have developed a technique to eliminate the odor.

The new, purified dust layer was sprayed on the roads for the first time yesterday. Notice the difference?

Town workmen have been building a fence around the sanitary landfill area off Bay Street, to contain the rubbish in the given area and cut down on blowing paper.

Salvage rights to the area were granted to Jack Zigman by council last month.

Aid for Indians

The provincial premiers' meeting in Winnipeg appear set for another attack on the problems of Canada's Indians, Metis and Eskimos.

In one of the most notable understatements of the year, Manitoba's Duff Roblin said: "There was general agreement that the provinces and other government levels are not dealing with these problems as effectively as might be wished."

What the various governments plan to do, with or without federal assistance, has not been outlined in detail, but the fact they are thinking of doing something is encouraging.

To quote Mr. Roblin again: "I think there was a feeling that one of the main problems in this field is motivation. The aim must be to help the Indians achieve self-respect and then give them the tools with which to do the job."

Presumably, Mr. Roblin was also thinking of the Metis and Eskimos when he made this observation.

Much has been written about the problems of Canada's indigenous people but little real progress has been made toward solving them.

One of the drawbacks to progress has been differences over the degree of responsibility exercised by the provincial and federal governments. Ontario's Premier Robarts, for instance, feels there should be close co-operation between the provincial and federal governments.

That a concerted attack on the problem seems imminent, however, is evident from the statement of Mr. Roblin that there is a need for "a more comprehensive, overall approach to aid for Indians, Metis and Eskimos."

British Exports Lag

Britain needs dollars. That is clear from the austerity measures announced by the Labor government recently.

However, from casual observation alone, one of its main dollar earners—the car industry—seems to be slipping back while other overseas manufacturers continue to make inroads in the North American market.

One sees few late-model British cars around these days. Yet there are plenty of Swedish Volvos and of course Volkswagens from Germany. Japanese cars are also in contention.

A handful of the new British 1800 models may be seen, but only a handful. Sports cars fare better, and it is fortunate for Britain that they do.

What is behind Britain's poor export showing in autos as well as in other spheres? Lack of drive and efficiency at the management level is one reason. Labor strife is another.

A third reason is poor promotion. Canadians and Americans simply are not getting the message.

Then again, Volvo has gained greatly from its decision some years ago to open a plant at Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. One has only to observe the growing number of Volvos on the highways to appreciate the wisdom of that decision.

Now the word is that Japan is going to follow suit. A Japanese auto manufacturing company has announced plans for construction of a $4,000,000 manufacturing and assembly plant near Sydney, Nova Scotia.

It is strange that Britain has never established a similar enterprise in Canada. However, its main problem, as we see it, is to step up promotion of its products.

Movie Stars Homecoming

British-born movie idol Cary Grant went home to Bristol last week and immediately fell victim to the vagaries of the British weather. He and his new wife, 27-year-old American actress Dyan Cannon, both caught heavy colds.

When you are accustomed to the dry atmosphere of California and Nevada, where the couple were married last month, this is the kind of thing to expect when you encounter a fresh breeze off the Bristol Channel or any other stretch of coast in Britain.

In a photograph of the couple, Mr. Grant has that shivery look perculiar to the vacationer in Britain. Hands clasped, he has a raincoat over his right arm while Miss Cannon holds on tightly to his left.

Mr. Grant, who belies his 61 years, had truly come home, and he took the opportunity to visit his 87-year-old mother who has been a patient in a nursing home in suburban Clifton for about a year.

Earth is here so kind, that just tickle her with a hoe ano she laughs with a harvest.—Jerrold in A Land of Plenty.

France Quits Common Market

The Globe and Mail

The European Common Market has spent a good deal of time, since its birth in 1958, wallowing in one crisis after another. The crisis in which it is now involved, however, is being described by some on both sides of the dispute as the "final" crisis, although the word final wears different interpretations as it issues from different mouths. This could be the final crisis which, survived, would wed the six ECM nations beyond dissolution. Or it could be the final crisis which splits France off from the other five, leaving them to find another future, perhaps in a new matrimonial venture with Britain.

French President Charles de Gaulle has put the Common Market in a deep freeze, temporarily at least, by recalling France's ambassador to ECM headquarters in Brussels. French participation in the Common Market at every level has ceased. The Council of Ministers, fixed for July 26 and 27, may yet be held, but if a French representative attends at all it will be only as a silent observer. This means that no decisions can be made, for decisions to be binding must be unanimous.

The battle, technically speaking, is about farm financing in the community. France had demanded in 1962, and the other partners had agreed, that June 30 of this year should be the deadline for completing arrangements which would assure ECM farmers — principally French farmers—both increased incomes and financial aid in finding outlets on the world market.

Involved is a $2.7 billion pool, derived from levies on imports of food into the community and from customs revenues. France's partners want the handling of this money placed under the control of the European Parliament, the Six's supranational body which heretofore has been long on talk but short on power. Such a budget at its disposal, however, would give it a positive start on the road to real power.

France, which has never favored political integration except in circumstances that would make it the dominant power, want no such control to pass to the supranational body, especially as decision by majority voting is to be introduced there in 1966. To yield to the demands of the other five would measurably lessen the individual sovereignty of all, and set the stage for further reductions later.

West German representatives have both parliamentary and public support to press for control by the European Parliament of the funds involved; the Dutch are equally strong in their insistence that this be so; Italy stronger than either. Belgium and Luxembourg have made some conciliatory noises in the French direction, but their motivation is believed to be largely that of wishing not to see France isolated.

In the meantime, President de Gaulle is already under pressure from the French farmers to proceed with the arrangements which will assure them continuing good incomes — the French farmers have been the principal beneficiaries of the present agreement, which a split would end.

Mr. de Gaulle's battlefield would therefore, on the surface, seem to be badly chosen. If he yields to his partners' demands for a degree of supranational political control, his dream of a dominant France in a strong Europe will be damaged, perhaps irretrieveably. If he does not yield—and the other five stand firm—the first sufferers will be the French farmers; and the French presidential election, in which he is not yet a declared candidate but is expected to be, is set for December. Mr. de Gaulle is meeting these problems in typical fashion. He is planning a press conference, probably for August.

The possibilities inherent in the situation are both serious and fascinating. A break or even a slowing down in European integration would lay a depressing hand not only on European development but upon the Kennedy tariff negotiations, with their hopes of freer world trade. France, which has not developed industrially on a level with its stronger ECM partners, might be the greatest sufferer. Britain would be involved in their economic repercussions.

Yet France's departure from the ECM could open the door to Britain's entry. As the British watch developments they must occasionally wear a Cheshire-cat sort of smile. If the heels of France's partners are really dug in, the choice that faces President de Gaulle—who blackballed Britain from the community—is painful.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Aug. 6th, 1945

The year 1945 seems destined to be known as one with the most unusual vagaries of weather. No year recently has strayed so far from normal as have the seasons of this year. The latest sign is the cool air which swept in this week after a brief rain spell.

The effect upon crops is one of the results which concern people in this year of years when food is so much required so that the rehabilitation of war-ravished countries may be begun. Housewives have been urged to put up in preserves as much as they can of small fruits with canning allowance and sugar saved from other purposes as the outlook for the larger fruit harvest is not favorable. Crops estimates from Ottawa indicate reductions in plums, pears, cherries, and apples. This condition is only slightly offset by a larger crop in small fruits like grapes and strawberries.

Heart Murmurs Common, Most of Them Meaningless

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Doctor: My two-year-old son has had a functional heart murmur since birth. Is this something that will need medical or surgical attention later? I have not been able to find out anything about murmurs in any books I have read. — Mrs. G. J.

A murmur is not a disease. It is a sound in a stethoscope. In a very rough sort of way, we might call it the gurgle that occurs as blood passes through the valves in the heart.

Whether a murmur is serious depends entirely on what it denotes. Some specialists have found that in an average group of young children, half will be found to have murmurs. Most of these murmurs mean nothing. There is some little oddity of shape or size in or near a valve, and the blood swirls or eddies and makes a faint sound.

Frequently, a doctor can be rather sure at once, that the murmur means little or nothing, or is a warning of trouble. It depends on the type of murmur and its location. There can, in fact, be minor flaws in the heart which are too trivial to constitute a threat.

There are murmurs which are in-betweeners. The heart is obviously operating capably, yet the murmur is such that the doctor wants to watch its progress, if any, to guard against significant danger later on.

A murmur that is the result of some defect in the heart is a matter of organic trouble. A functional murmur is one which results, not because of a defect in the organ, but because of the way it happens to operate. This type often disappears as the child gets older.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would it be all right to rub linament on varicose veins, as sometimes they are very painful? — Mrs. M. M.

It's probably all right if you don't rub too hard and damage the skin, but it won't do a bit of good and you'll have wasted the price of the linament.

Many people with varicose veins spend time and money on worthless remedies. To learn more about varicose veins — what causes them and what will help — write for my plain-language booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins." Dear Dr. Molner: My question is very personal. I got involved with the wrong type of boy when I was quite young and we had intimate relations. That was three years ago and I haven't seen him since.

Will my husband know about this indiscretion when I decide to get married? I'd rather not tell him. That's why I am asking. — C. T.

Assuming that you didn't contract a venereal disease, and didn't become pregnant, there is no way your future husband can tell, so forget it. Just admit to yourself that you did wrong and now know better.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 6, 1965 . . .

The British 11th Division landed at Suvla Bay on the Gallipoli peninsula 50 years ago today—in 1915—in the final attempt to gain the 500-foot hills overlooking the beaches and so breach the Turks' Dardanelles defences. The troops were brave but inexperienced members of "Kitchener's Army" and so did not follow up the advantages they won by surprise. They were held on the hill slopes and came under constant artillery bombardment. By the time the Allied troops were evacuated, in January 1916, as many were disease as battle casualties.

1623 — Anne Hathaway, Shakespeare's wife, died.

1896 — Madagascar became a French colony.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — ANZAC forces attacked the heights of Sari Bair, on the Gallipoli peninsula, in support of the Suvla Bay landings; German troops attacked in the Souchez-Neuville sector of the Western Front.

Short Shrift

Peterborough Examiner

The news that a Nigerian housewife killed her white husband because he called her a 'black monkey' should sober a good many husbands who are apt to heap invective on the heads of their wives in an excess of spleen. The girl in question was 18 years of age: her husband was nearly 30 (and an Irishman to boot) and these are two facts which suggest that, for the time being, husbands of young wives should exercise great care until the courts have disposed of this case.

We are not certain about the implications of case law in criminal matters, or how decisions in various Commonwealth countries affect the new law of precedent in the courts of other members. But if our worst fears are justified, no husband can aford the luxury of bad language in his wife's presence any more.

Letter to the Editor

Liquor Store Critics Challenged

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

May I register my criticism of the writer and authors of the letter "Plaza Liquor Store Opposed". It is not my intention to argue for or against the consumption of alcoholic beverages but rather to criticize the feeble, exaggerated and distorted statements forwarded in the letter. They are (in my opinion) ludicrous to say the very least!

In Belleville there is one, and only one, retail outlet where a person may make a purchase to take to his place of residence. In any of the other "outlets" the customer has to consume his purchase on the premises.

As for children seeing respectable and in some instances prominent citizens leaving the store, I simply cannot visualize them (the children) suffering a trauma in later years as a result of such an incident.

To them it would be just another store, should they be so inclined as to be interested in the functions and operation of such a store, surely, correct education on the potential problems would be more in keeping with today's world than pretending liquor and alcoholics do not exist.

I am not married, I have no children, but I am just as concerned with under age drinkers as the writers of the letter. Once again we should look to education and a sensible attitude toward drinking.

With reference to para 3. of the original letter . . . "being compelled to pass a liquor store every time they visit the plaza," would the author have us believe that a child passing within hailing distance of the liquor store would immediately become a servant of the devil?

The Plaza is already a commercial zone and the petition was not for a gambling casino, raceway or common bawdy house, it was for the establishment of a legitimate business sponsored and operated by a government agency. That such a store will lower the standard of the district is (in my opinion) utter nonsense.

Nor am I convinced that a second liquor store and a rise in the consumption of alcoholic beverages are synonymous. In Belleville there are only "X" number of dollars that can be spent on drink and if some of this money is spent at the new location then less will be spent at the old store. The last three lines of para 4 (the original letter) left me a little puzzled, just how far from a church should one go before building a liquor store. That such a store "is too close to two of our churches" is the pettiest statement of them all!

Changeable Weather Stimulates

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We had an especially fickle July in the small Wisconsin town where I spend my summers — hot and dry one day, cool and wet the next. The weather would sometimes change twice a day, and I loved it.

There are two basic human temperaments, in terms of weather: those who enjoy an unvarying predictability, and those who exult in swift and surprising changes. Being one of the latter, I agree with Ruskin when he said:

"Sunshine is delicious, rain is refreshing, wind braces up, snow is exhilarating, there is really no such thing as bad weather, only different kinds of good weather."

In an area as variable as mine, each day has its own flavor and tone and special kind of personality — and each day calls up different responses in one's nature. I would find it hard to work — or even play vitally — in a climate that did not offer such seasonal challenge.

Within a single week, my neighbors and I were subjected to a fierce storm raging in from the lake; to a chill and tangy morning, reminiscent of the Maine woods; to a languid summer day, reeking with mischievous indolence; and to an old-fashioned scorcher, rapidly followed by thunderheads over the bay and the menace of another storm.

We complain, of course, that this day is too hot and that one too wet; but there is a kind of pride in our complaints — the way a parent boasts of his child by relating his scampish tricks. The elements keep us continually braced, wary, flexible, attentive, and emotionally involved in that primal relationship between man and his physical environment.

One reason the tropical and arctic zones have contributed so little to mankind's development has little to do with the intellectual or moral qualities of the Bushman or the Eskimo, but with the effect of geographic extremes. Lands that are too hot, or too cold, or too consistent in their climate do not offer enough challenge for sustained creative or productive efforts.

And one of the basic human divisions may obtain between those who seek such challenge, and those who seek only to escape it; those who enjoy coping with diversity and those who demand that their environment be always soft, warm, tractable yielding and uniform.

Let them have it, if that is what they prefer. But those of us who exult in the thunderhead racing across the bay resent it when our weather is maligned — as if the universe should accommodate itself to us, instead of our learning to handle each day as it comes along, and to rejoice in the splendid originality of the Maker.

Deseronto No Mean Town

Napanee Banner

The Town of Deseronto is getting tired of the indifference some cities have for their smaller neighbors. A report from Deseronto listing the reasons why it is proposed that the town secede from Hastings County and apply to become a part of Lennox and Addington County says:

"Another bone of contention seems to be that Deseronto is referred to as the Village of Deseronto instead of the Town of Deseronto."

A justified bone of contention, and one cannot blame Deserontonians for feeling slighted. The Town of Deseronto has been incorporated as such for over one hundred years, since 1849 in fact, and at one time was not far behind Belleville in size. Today, however, it has shrunk to some two thousand souls, but retains its classification as an incorporated town, and it resents being referred to as anything less by those big shots in Belleville.

We have no doubt that Deseronto would be treated with more attention by Napanee if it were in Lennox and Addington County than it is by Belleville while in Hastings, but it may be some time before that comes to pass. We imagine when Hastings County Council finally gets the report that rebellion is rumbling along its south-east border, a token interest, at least, will be taken in "The Town of Deseronto."

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials added small fractions in light morning stock exchange trading today.

Today's gains mark the eighth successive day of rises for the main list.

Bell Telephone, Consolidated Paper and Dominion Bridge each rose ¼ to 58¾, 40½ and 26½, respectively.

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce advanced 1¼ to 63¾.

Senior base metals advanced with Inco up ¾ to 93¾ and Cominco ahead ¼ to 42¼. Gold stocks were quiet.

On index, industrials rose .12 to 162.64, the Toronto Stock Exchange index .12 to 152.80, golds .09 to 173.80 and base metals .30 to 77.61. Western oils fell .07 to 94.78 and volume at 11 a.m. was 616,926 shares compared with 657,000 shares traded at the same time Thursday.

Gains in industrials Thursday were also only fractional.

In the main list, Distillers Seagram rose ¾ to 36¾ and Imperial Oil and Southam ½ apiece to 52½ and 36. Massey-Ferguson gained ⅜ to 29⅜.

Harding Carpets A advanced 1 to 28½ and Aluminium and Interprovincial Pipe ⅛ apiece to 28⅞ and 87⅞. Anthes Imperial A and CPR each tacked on ⅛ at 19⅞ and 61½. Moore Corp. added ¼ each at 26½ and 69⅝

Inco gained ⅝ to 93⅝ among senior base metals and Noranda and Denison ½ each to 48¾ and 29. Cominco rose ⅜ to 42.

On index, industrials rose .30 to 162.52 and the Toronto Stock Exchange index .39 to 152.78. Volume was 2,652,747 shares compared with 2,856,277 shares traded Wednesday.

Qualifications Not Decided By Governments

TORONTO (CP) — The federal and provincial governments have no intention of deciding entrance qualifications for Canadian universities, Premier John Robarts told a press conference Thursday.

He was clarifying a statement released during a provincial premiers' conference in Winnipeg that said the provinces had agreed to work for equalization and entrance requirements.

"What we agreed to strive for was more a standardization of the work of Grades 12 and 13 in the secondary schools of the provinces based on what the universities would require for entrance," he said. "In that way, we decided, we would be getting closer to standardization of university entrance qualifications."

The Toronto Telegram said Thursday that the premiers had agreed to recommend that Canada adopt uniform aptitude tests for college entrance.

TIP SCANDINAVIAN

In the absence of an East European candidate, diplomatic sources said, the Nordic countries may be encouraged to offer a name.

There was already speculation about Sivert Nielsen, the resident representative of Norway, who has a considerable reputation in the UN, based largely on several constructive initiatives during Norway's occupancy of the West European seat in the Security Council, which he vacated at the end of last year.

Nielsen was said to be personally not interested in the presidency.

The argument used by backers of Quaison-Sackey is that the semi-paralysis of the 19th assembly, by the UN financial and constitutional crisis, prevented him from running a normal session and, to make up for this, he ought to have another term.

Europe last had the presidency in 1960, when Frederick Boland of Ireland broke his gavel trying to restore order at the momentous summit assembly attended by Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet premier; Fidel Castro, the premier of Cuba, President Nkrumah and other heads of state and government.

Cheese Exchange

First grade large colored cheese sold at 41.8 cents on the Belleville Cheese Exchange this week with white cheese fetching 41.5 cents.

Offered on the Exchange were 2,411 specials, 10,894 regular cheese and 11,474 square cheese.

Want Power To Set Prices Of Appliances

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Appliance Manufacturers Association plans to petition the federal government for permission to exert greater influence on the retail pricing of appliances.

The association has formed a committee to prepare a brief on retail pricing which will be submitted to the government in the fall. The committee is headed by D. C. Marrs, vice-president for consumer products at Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd.

"The general feeling is that appliance manufacturers would like to be in a position to protect their names and reputations against any questionable retail practices," Mr. Marrs said Thursday.

Around the 'Cat'

A rink of Mrs. Irene Trudeau, Mrs. Lil Mascaro with Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon of the local club, as skip won the second three-game high score in a women's tourney staged at Cobourg on Thursday afternoon. Another Belleville rink of Mrs. Anne Avery, Mrs. Millie Wright and Mrs. Mildred Smith as skip could only manage to win one game. There were 24 rinks entered from all parts of the Province and Mrs. Beare and her rink from Stouffville won the tournament defeating the Belleville rink by two shots. Mrs. Kemp and her rink from Oshawa were in third place. Mrs. Charles Erskine's rink from Cobourg won the two game high score with Mrs. Parker and her Cobourg rink in second place. Mrs. Smith of Cobourg won the one-game high count.

A week ago in the Thursday afternoon bowling league a rink of Mrs. Vera McIntosh, Mrs. Irene Trudeau with Mrs. Betty Vince as skip won the high score of the day closely followed by a rink of Mrs. Pearl Legault, Mrs. Jessie Hunter with Mrs. Elsie Humphreys as skip.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Vera McIntosh with Mrs. Elsie Humphreys won the high count with Mrs. Marg Watkin, Mrs. Nora Kyle and Mrs. Carm Mott as skip in second place.

The tea hostess for a week ago were Mrs. Marg Watkin and Mrs. Flossie Coleman while on Thursday Mrs. Elsie Humphreys and Mrs. Laura Hyde acted in that capacity.

On Saturday in Kingston the Molly Gault Memorial trophy will be up for grabs and a full entry of 64 rinks has been obtained. Five mixed doubles rinks from this club will compete in the tourney, one of the largest in the province.

Postal Workers Ask President To Resign

TORONTO (CP) — Postal workers at a clamorous meeting Thursday night voted to ask William Dawson, president of Branch 1, Federated Association of Letter Carriers (CLC), to resign.

In a standing vote, after two hours of heated and confused debate most of the 440 branch members present shied away from a motion that Mr. Dawson be removed from office. But they backed a motion of non-confidence in his leadership.

Minister Urges Strikers, Firm To Arbitrate

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Rowntree of Ontario Thursday urged the H. J. Heinz Co. of Canada Ltd. in Leamington, Ont., and the striking United Packinghouse Workers Union (CLC) to submit their contract dispute to binding arbitration and immediately resume harvesting a bumper tomato crop in southwestern Ontario.

Workers at the Leamington plant, 25 miles southeast of Windsor, walked off their jobs July 27. Officials of Local 459, representing 1,100 employees, said the strike was called because agreement could not be reached on hours to be worked during the busy season—August to mid-November.

Mr. Rowntree said in a telegram to both parties:

"A prolonged strike means almost the complete loss of this crop worth millions of dollars. The fact is it will rot in the field if the Leamington plant of the company is not restored to production at the earliest date."

He said employment prospects for employees in the month ahead will be sharply diminished if the strike goes on. The town of Leamington, with a population of 9,100, and the company itself will suffer as the result of a prolonged strike, he said.

In Leamington, E. V. Anderson, president of H. J. Heinz of Canada Ltd., said late Thursday he had sent a telegram to Mr. Rowntree, saying that the company will consent to arbitration in view of "the seriousness of the situation and economic impact on employees, growers and the company."

He added:

"Although we are normally opposed in principle to arbitration of union contract negotiation settlement, we are agreeable to this procedure due to the seriousness of the situation. . . . We are agreeable to submit remaining unresolved issues to voluntary, binding arbitration. It is our understanding that the board of arbitration will consist of one member appointed by the union, and one member appointed by the company, with an impartial chairman agreed upon by both members, or failing that, appointed by you (Mr. Rowntree). We await your instructions."

William Cranston, president of Local 459 of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers (CLC) said the union was not prepared to commit itself to arbitration until a meeting of the membership had been called. No such meeting has yet been set up, he said.

Business Bombs or Booms

In the last few months, several well known downtown Belleville businessmen have closed.

How many more will follow?

The downtown merchants are worried, and understandably so, about prospects for the future. However, it appears that all some of them want to do is worry about their situation rather than do something about it and it's the merchants themselves who have to act.

For years the merchants have been blaming their troubles on the lack of parking downtown. True, parking is a problem, but only a small part of the overall situation.

People don't really mind going out of their way a little bit to park if they are offered something for it. Many of the Front Street stores are the dreariest looking things imaginable. They have no color, no appeal. If these merchants really want to attract customers then why don't they brighten up their store fronts and make them look like something

Earlier in the summer, my wife and I went into one reputable downtown store five minutes before closing — because we were working, we couldn't get there sooner.

My wife asked the saleslady if she had a particular item, and the clerk looked at her watch and said, "Yes, but you've only got five minutes."

If anybody thinks that this is the way to sell, then think again. Sure, it's annoying to have customers come in when you want to go home, but a store is open to serve and if the store-owner wants to be successful he must do just that.

I walked into another store one time and stood around for 10 minutes without so much as attracting a polite "How do you do?" Another example of slovenly service.

But all this aside, perhaps the major problem is that no matter how much someone wants to shop downtown, there's nothing they can do about it if the stores aren't open.

As of July 16, Belleville stores could stay open six days and two nights each week. I walked downtown Wednesday and aside from confectionery stores and restaurants, three stores were open.

Three stores.

The downtown merchants have to change with the times in order to survive.

Twenty years ago most women weren't working and they were home during the day and able to go shopping. But today, with so many women working, how can the merchants expect them to shop during their short store hours? Merchants must operate for customer convenience, not for personal convenience. It's nice to have Wednesday afternoon off for a game of golf, but it's not going to help the financial situation of the stores.

And in case you don't think people want to shop during the evening take a look at the west end plaza some night.

Enough said.

All you will need are a old golf irons (putters pre-red) some inexpensive golf s, a tin can and a patch of sely cut grass about 20 feet more in diameter. If you are the cottage and haven't a n in sight, you can rig the ne up by clearing away an of loose sand and playing on the hard damp surface underneath.

Set out little square headed stakes of wood or flat stones in a large circle at least 20' across to resemble the face of a clock — number them from 1-12. Sink a tin can into the ground in the very centre for the hole — a few punctures in the bottom will let any rain drain through if you dig the hole deeper than the can. One small puncture in the middle will support a miniature flag or penant.

Places everyone, in front of the stakes, putting for the hole in the centre. X number of putts each, and then move on — someone keep score of how many strokes it takes each person to sink their putt; or make up your own rules.

To make it even trickier you might place the hole on top of a small mound or in a little dip in the ground. — Oh those downhill putts! Anyone ready yet for the U.S. Open? — Susanna

NEW SALT FOR OLD DRIPS

Dear Susanna: The tantalizing odor of homemade fruit pies bubbling in the oven is a treat often enjoyed in our house. An odor of a much different ilk though, is the boiled over juice that sometimes drips down onto the bottom of the oven. (Even if a tray has been laid out to catch the juice, it still smells badly.)

Rather than have these drips spoil the whole effect of bake day I sprinkle the pan underneath liberally with salt. This eliminates the burning odor from any spills. If food is already there when you light the stove or oven, and you don't notice 'til everything is heated up and the spills begin to smoke, spread a thin layer of salt over the spots and there'll be no more problem. — Big Sister

(If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

MR. AND MRS. GLENN STUART STINSON

Stinson – McCaffery

Albert College Chapel was the scene of a double ring ceremony on Saturday, July 31, 1965, when Rev. R. C. Gerard united in marriage Joan Mabel McCaffery, Corbyville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James McCaffery, and Glenn Stuart Stinson, Tamworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stuart Stinson. Mrs. W. E. Stinson played the organ and the soloist was Miss Helen Morrow.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length white crepe sheath gown with an Empire waistline, V-neck and long lily point sleeves. The skirt featured a rounded hemline with a controlled slit in front and a split train flowing from a deep V in the back. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a cluster of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a single white orchard and stephanotis with streamers of green ivy.

Miss Pat Clapp of Belleville, as maid of honor, wore an Empire floor length gown of turquoise crepe featuring a fitted bodice with V-neck and elbow length sleeves. The loosely fitted straight skirt was enhanced with a walking fan pleat in back. She wore a matching, wedding ring headpiece and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations. The attendants, Mrs. Fred Furmidge Jr., sister of the bride, Mrs. Art McCaffery, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Ken Howie of Napanee were attired in identical dresses to that of the maid of honor.

The flower girl, Miss Connie Belfie of Ottawa was dressed in a floor length gown of white crepe with rounded neckline, Empire waistline and short sleeves with a rope belt in turquoise. She wor a wedding ring headpiece in turquoise crepe and carried a basket of turquoise and white poms.

Mr. Ronald Stinson of Toronto attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Richard Young of Oshawa, Mr. George Abbott of Kingston, and Mr. Bill McCaffery of Toronto. Ricky McCaffery, nephew of the bride, acted as ring-bearer.

The reception was held at the Belleville Shrine Club. Mrs. McCaffery chose an ice blue crepe faille sheath dress with a Chantilly lace jacket, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Mrs. Stinson wore a honey beige dress of bonded linen with a full-length coat of sculptured overlay in lace, green and gold accessories and a corsage of orange Delight roses with gold leaves.

For her wedding trip to Ottawa and the Gatineau area the bride chose a pink silk shantung sheath dress with a matching full length coat, white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations and pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Stinson will live in Smithfield.

Young Couple Honored at Presentation

STIRLING — Last Friday evening approximately 100 people gathered at the River Valley School in honor of the newly married couple Mr. Peter Heasman and his bride the former Linda Kerr.

Relatives were in attendance from Toronto, Belleville, Scotts, Marsh Hill, Chatterton and Petherick's Corners.

A large bowl of baby's breath and sweet peas was the central decoration. Douglas Detlor was master of ceremonies and he interspersed the program with several humorous anecdotes. The guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. George Heasman and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Heasman.

Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh led the assembly singing with Mrs. Glenn Brooks as accompanist. Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed a humorous monologue. Harvey Couch with the harmonica and his son Kenneth on the accordion delighted with several musical selections during the evening. Selections were read by Mrs. Roy Tucker and Mrs. Ross Bush. A piano solo was given by Mrs. G. Brooks.

The honored couple sat on the platform and Glen Bush read an address from the charivari group and John Craighead made the presentation of a steam iron. Ross Holland read an address on behalf of the River Valley community and neighbors while Harold Bush made the presentation of a plate glass wall mirror and a purse of money.

Peter replied and thanked friends for the party in their honor and everyone for the lovely gifts. He and Linda invited all to visit them in their home at Oshawa.

The committee in charge served refreshments and Mr. George Heasman served each guest with a slice of wedding cake as a souvenir of this happy gathering.

U.C.W. Meetings

CENTENARY U.C.W.

The August meeting of Centenary U.C.W. was held in the church hall August 4th with eight members present. A minute's silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Hart.

The president opened the meeting with a reading and conducted the business session. It was decided to start an "In Memorial Fund". A shield will be purchased on which names will be added.

Mrs. Pearson was in charge of the program, her topic being "Alcoholism and Drug Addiction". A film was shown on alcoholism.

Mrs. Best was in charge of the devotional and Mrs. Christopher closed the meeting with prayer.

Engagement Notice

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sutton, Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter Barbara Sharon to Mr. Carl David Swan of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Swan of Brighton. The marriage will take place on Saturday, August 28, at 11 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Belleville.

Nurse Says Patients Should Expect Counselling

DEAR DORIS — As a teacher of nursing I was concerned with your letter from Lynn, who had just had a hysterectomy. Your reply was adequate, but where was her nurse? Health teaching is a major part of a nurse's responsibility.

DORIS CLARK

When patients find it difficult to discuss their problems with their doctor, it is not the patient's fault. Some doctors are naturally good at counselling but some leave their patients more confused than ever. Student nurses receive a course in interviewing and counselling.

A good nurse will ascertain if her patient has any problems. She will make sure the patient understands what to do on going home and knows what to expect in the future.

Student nurses are taught to consider both the mental and physical needs of their patients. The public should be taught to expect and demand this service from nurses. — REGISTERED NURSE, B.N.Sc.

DEAR NURSE — Thanks for pointing this up: Many a doctor gives full credit for a patient's recovery to the T.L.C. (tender loving care) given by a good nurse. This frequently goes well beyond the line of ordinary duty.

Helping the patient understand her ailment is an important step in her cure.

(Is it better to put up with misunderstanding, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light.)

Hubbie Mean, He Stays Thin She Adds 30 lbs. Per Child

DEAR ANN LANDERS — When I was married in 1954 I weighed 98 pounds. Unfortunately I gained 30 pounds with each of my two children and the weight just stayed on.

ANN LANDERS

Today I weigh 158 but I really don't look it. When I put on my good corset and wear heels and a black dress you'd guess me at about 130.

My husband makes me miserable because I am overweight. Every time I reach for a second piece of butter or a baked potato he makes some ugly remark. He is one of those wiry types who can still get into his Korean war uniform. Last Sunday he put it on to do the yard work. I'm sure he did it just to make me mad.

Why should I deprive myself of delicious food to please a man who is so mean? I know several women who are overweight but their husbands love them anyway. Please say he should accept me as I am. I get very depressed over his constant nagging. — PLEASINGLY PLUMP.

DEAR . . . . — Some husbands don't care if their wives get fat, but your husband does care and he has let you know it.

Obviously you'd rather stuff your face than please him. This hurts a man's pride and his needling remarks are his way of getting even.

One of these days I hope you get sick of yourself and go to a doctor and ask to be put on a sensible diet. When you begin to shed those unhealthy and unattractive pounds your husband will like you better — and you'll like yourself better, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — If I were the publisher of the Las Vegas paper I would throw your column out. For the third time in the last two years you have printed a reference to Las Vegas in connection with slot machines and dice tables.

The image of Las Vegas as a city made up of nothing but gamblers is unfair. Thousands of respectable, decent people live in this wonderful city. Many of us have never seen the inside of a gambling casino and don't plan to.

Las Vegas has excellent schools, beautiful churches, lovely parks and one of the best golf courses in the country. We have a wide circle of friends who are interested in art, science, music and literature. So please, Ann, stop portraying Las Vegas as a city that has nothing to offer but casinos. — FIE ON YOU.

DEAR FIE — I'm sure many citizens of Las Vegas have no interest in dice tables or slot machines. (This is strictly for visiting suckers.) But since gambling is your city's major industry it should not surprise you that Las Vegas has earned the image. If you'd like to change it, get your Chamber of Commerce to promote something else.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our daughter was divorced last year after a scandalous affair with a married man. Her husband was a fine person and our heart ached for him.

Recently our daughter remarried. We do not know her new husband well because she met him abroad and they were here only briefly.

During their visit my daughter announced that she and her husband plan to move to this city soon and she asked me to remove the panel of wedding pictures in the living room. These photographs were of her first wedding and they are truly beautiful.

My husband and I wonder if she has the right to ask such a thing. After all, this is our home and we are still very fond of our former son-in-law. What's your opinion? — LOYAL IN-LAWS.

DEAR IN-LAWS — Remove the pictures. If they remain they will be a steady source of discomfort to your daughter and her husband — and understandably so.

WEDDING

HUTCHINGS — DOWNING

St. John's Church, Stirling, was the scene of the wedding of Anne E. M. Downing, daughter of the Rev. F. F. Downing of Stirling, and F. Ford Hutchings of Toronto, son of Mrs. F. Hutchings of Delta, on Saturday, July 31, 1965, at 11 a.m.

The Rev. F. F. Downing officiated at his daughter's marriage, assisted by the Rev. F. A. Crook. Rev. D. Potter of Madoc played the wedding music.

Dr. E. R. Westman of Sackets Harbor, New York, gave the bride in marriage. She wore a floor length white satin gown with a softly pleated skirt and a lace jacket with elbow length sleeves over the sleeveless bodice. Her lace mantilla veil fell to a small train. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Margaret Downing of Stirling as maid of honor wore a yellow floor length peau de soie gown similar in style to the bride's gown. Miss Annie Mary Courtney of Harold, and Miss Connie Lloyd of Collins Bay, as bridesmaids, wore floor length dresses of white dotted Swiss over yellow taffeta, and carried nosegays of yellow and white rosebuds.

Mr. D. E. Lee of Norwich, New York, attended the bridegroom and the ushers were J. Keuhl of Brockville and E. Lloyd of Collins Bay.

At the reception at St. John's Parish Hall the bridegroom's mother helped receive the guests. She wore a street length dress of pink crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a two piece suit of pink Irish linen with white accessories and a corsage of deep pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchings will live in Islington.

Modern Art Brought Into Fashion Show

PARIS (Reuters) — Yves Saint Laurent today brought modern art into women's fashions and received thunderous applause from the experts.

His collection was based on modern geometric art and the ovation for it was warmer than any other Paris designer has received in years.

Many said it was the greatest collection of St. Laurent's career.

Applause was reminiscent of his first collection in January, 1958, after the younger designer took over the Christian Dior empire following the master's death.

St. Laurent dared to do something dramatically new in transferring the colors of Dutch artist Piet Mondrian and the patterns of modern art to clothes, and he did it wonderfully well.

COLOR IS NEW

The abstract art theme was the essentially new idea rather than any change in silhouette. St. Laurent envolved the basic slim chemises and high-waisted smocks cut beneath contrasting colored yokes in three and four searing color combinations, worked in squares, oblongs or crazy-quilt patches.

White dresses were squared off by black bandings with a single oblong patch made of bright red. He married red, green, purple and orange in enormous zigzag patterns, harlequin designs or giant chevron stripes of contrasting colors.

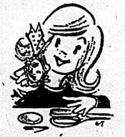
He divided slim jersey shifts and sheath dresses with a high-waisted yoke of one color, the unfitted torso of the dress in another and 10-inch-wide hem band in a third brilliant shade.

St. Laurent employed the modern art theme in every type of model and accessory, from sports wear to millinery and formal evening clothes.

MAKE THEIR MARK

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no longer any doubt that President Johnson's dogs are making their mark at the White House, in a concrete way. Johnson, taking the dogs for a walk Wednesday, came on some new paving near the office wing. Urged on by photographers and assisted by a White House electrician, he imprinted paw marks of the beagle Him and the white collie Blanco.

Mother's Helper



"NUTTY" LAPEL PINS are my little girl's delight—to make as well as to wear. She paints a face on a pecan and ties a bright scarf (a tiny, triangular piece of material) around it from chin to topknot. Cut-out flowers of felt can be stitched to the scarf for extra decoration. A safety pin through the fabric serves to pin "Miss Nutty" to daughter's coat lapel.

(Idea from Mr. James Coleman; Sydney, Australia.)

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

Dear Mary I would like your recipe for a macaroni salad for a hundred persons for a shower, and also your recipe for a potato salad for a hundred — M. S.

ANSWER:

I hope these recipes are not too late for your shower. Did you realize you did not give me your name and address? You could have had a reply by return. Please always include your name and address when writing.

FRIDAY Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Chilled Gaspe Salmon (see Thursday); Mayonnaise Garnish; de Luxe Potato Salad; Marinated Button Mushrooms and Green Peppers (see Thursday); Summer Apple Pie; Old Cheddar Cheese; Tea.

MACARONI SALAD (100 — three-oz. servings)::

2 lbs. 8 oz. uncooked elbow or sell macaroni, 10 hard-cooked eggs, diced, 8 oz. ripe olives, chopped, 12 oz. chopped sweet pickles, 2 lbs. 8 oz. diced celery, 8 oz. chopped pimiento, 8 oz. chopped green peppers, 1½ oz. chopped parsley, 4 oz. grated onion, 1 oz. salt (2 tablespoons), 8 oz. vinegar (1 cup), 2 cups mayonnaise.

Cook macaroni in very large pot in boiling water with 2 tablespoons salt until tender. Drain. Rinse with cold water and drain well. Add eggs and vegetables. Sprinkle with salt. Add vinegar and mayonnaise. Mix lightly. Chill.

POTATO SALAD (100 ½-cup servings):

25 lbs. scrubbed new potatoes, 12 cups finely diced inner celery, 1 cup finely chopped green onion, including tops (or chives), 12 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, 2 cups chopped parsley, 2 cups chopped canned pimiento, 2 cups chopped green peppers, 2 cups French dressing, 8 cups mayonnaise, 1 cup prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon paprika, 8 tablespoons salt, 3 or 4 teaspoons white pepper.

Cook potatoes in their skins. Peel and dice. While warm, pour over French dressing, then chill for 2 hours in the refrigerator. Add all the remaining ingredients. Mix lightly. Chill thoroughly. Serve in lettuce-lined bowls garnished with hard-cooked egg wedges.

QUESTION:

Would you have recipes for making different sundaes using strawberries, or raspberries or cherries for ice cream topping? — L. C.

ANSWER::

ALL-PURPOSE RED FRUIT SAUCE (for sundaes and plain puddings):

Mash fresh or fresh frozen strawberies or raspberries or bing cherries and measure 1 cup well-packed. In a saucepan mix together well ½ or ¾ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch, then stir in the mashed fruit and cook, stirring constantly, until boiling. Reduce heat and cook 5 minutes longer, stirring. Force through sieve. To the puree add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ½ cup sliced strawberries, or ½ cup fresh raspberries or ½ cup pitted chopped bing cherries. If to be used at once this does not require further cooking. If to be kept in refrigerator for 3 or 4 days, heat in double boiler over boiling water for 15 minutes. Cool and chill and store in covered jar.

NOTE:

If fruit is fresh frozen use only ⅓ cup sugar.

ANNOUNCEMENT

ONTARIO

Ontario Hospital Insurance will now cover dependent children to 21st birthday

Beginning September 1, 1965, benefits under the Ontario Hospital Insurance "Family" premium will be extended to cover eligible unmarried, unemployed dependent children until they reach their 21st birthday (rather than to the 19th birthday as in the past). This will apply, also, to the supplementary 'semi-private' coverage for which some residents remit additional premiums to private carriers through the Commission.

Separate premiums will be required when such dependants reach age 21, or marry, or become regularly employed. Applications for registration are available in hospitals, banks, Province of Ontario Savings Offices and Commission offices.

The Family premium, however, will cover a person over age 21 who is dependent upon the insured parent or guardian because of physical or mental infirmity, provided he or she was the insured person's dependant before age 21.

Refund of Premiums

An unmarried, unemployed person who will now become eligible as a Family dependant under age 21 because of this new regulation, and for whom separate premiums have already been prepaid beyond September 1, 1965, is entitled to a refund of premiums back to that date. Refunds must be requested as this is the only means of identifying those eligible. The form at the bottom of this announcement is for the convenience of Pay Direct members in claiming this refund. Premiums prepaid through a group (other than as an employee) will be refunded through the group.

Note:

Commission literature is being changed to show the new age limit. In the meantime, please read all references to age 19 in existing pamphlets as "age 21".

Pearson Awaits Report From Company of Young Canadians

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—An older Canadian has been called in to get the Company of Young Canadians on the rails.

Dr. John Francis Leddy, 54, president of the University of Windsor, is chairman of the organizing committee that will recommend to Prime Minister Pearson this fall a structure and possible projects for the company to undertake in Canada.

The prime minister has reversed the usual process of passing legislation and then fitting a program into it. Instead, Mr. Pearson is waiting to hear what the company's needs are before sending any bill to Parliament.

Basically, the CYC is being set up to undertake special projects at home and overseas.

It is Dr. Leddy's job to provide the recommendations for the prime minister and he has impressive qualifications for the task. The grey - haired classics professor is a Rhodes scholar, a former vice - chairman of the Canada Council and the head of many academic groups.

But his main asset for the present task is several years experience organizing and developing the Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO).

PLENTY TO DO AT HOME

Dr. Leddy's interest in student volunteer work was aroused by a young engineering student who several years ago wanted to spend a year or so helping out in South Africa, but could find no agency to help him get there.

Dr. Leddy and many others got together to set up CUSO, an organization that has dispatched hundreds of young people abroad to help in underdeveloped countries.

He said in an interview that at CUSO's last two annual meetings there was concern that too much work overseas was unjustified when Canada had many social ills to cure. So the prime minister's decision coincided with the feelings of many who have been working in the field.

Because CUSO's activities now are well launched, most of the CYC's initial work will be directed to the domestic scene, and Dr. Leddy thinks it will be a "fascinating" experience.

"At the moment we're snowed under with ideas. We have to sort them out and find some that are sound and sensible for the company."

Dr. Leddy says the CYC has no intention of displacing voluntary and governmental agencies already helping the poor and distressred, but will help existing progams when asked and launch its own where nothing is being done now.

HELP MIGRANT INDIANS

He noted the CYC's first project as a good example of how the company can help out an existing agency.

The Indian affairs branch is moving about 350 Indians to southwestern Ontario this summer to work on farms. Lacking the personnel to help Indians adjust to their new surroundings, the branch called Duncan Edmonds, the CYC's co-ordinating secretary, and asked whether he could supply any voluntary help.

From the thicksfile of applications that have flooded Ottawa since the company was announced, Mr. Edmonds drew some volunteers. The Indian affairs branch held an orientation course at the University of Windsor for 12 volunteers.

Dr. Leddy is uncertain about projects the CYC will tackle on its own, but thinks many at the start will be short - term projects that can be undertaken by students on summer vacation. Summer projects have worked well in frontier areas for various churches, and Dr. Leddy sees no reason why this method cannot be used by the company.

A soft-spoken but enthusiastic man, he sees the company as an opportunity for young people to direct their idealism into constructive channels.

He has found that CUSO work matured many young people and made them more aware of other people and their problems. The same should hold true within Canada, he says.

EASE RACIAL FRICTION

Dr. Leddy predicts the CYC volunteers will develop an exciting esprit de corps and a healthy Canadianism. And, if the organizing committee is any example, the company may have the side benefit of showing how French and English can get along if given a chance.

Five of the 12 committee members are French - Canadians, three others speak French and the others understand it.

"Sometimes the discussions go on entirely in French, sometimes entirely in English. There is no strain. It's a perfectly natural phenomenon that has arisen."

Meanwhile the committee's main task is to find projects and Dr. Leddy emphasizes that the projects must be worth doing so the young volunteers will retain their enthusiasm.

The tiny CYC staff is quartered in a loft of Parliament Hill's East Block. Dr. Leddy drops into Ottawa for two days every two weeks to meet Mr. Edmonds, his assistant Stewart Goodings and six research assistants.

Born in Ottawa April 16, 1911, Dr. Leddy was graduated in arts from the University of Saskatchewan in 1930 and took his M.A. there the following year. He attended the graduate school at the University of Chicago and then went to Exeter College at Oxford as a Rhodes scholar.

He joined the University of Saskatchewan as an instructor in 1936, became an assistant professor in 1939, associate professor in 1945, professor and head of the classics department in 1946 and dean of arts in 1949.

He moved from Saskatchewan to the University of Windsor last year.

ORGANIZING COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN — Dr. John Francis Leddy, 54, is the chairman of the organizing committee for the Company of Young Canadians. Dr. Leddy, president of the University of Windsor, will pass on the committee's recommendations to Prime Minister Pearson this fall on a structure and possible projects to undertake in Canada for the young Canadians. FAREWELL PARTY

BATAWA — Friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Bob Schriver recently to say farewell to Mrs. Maurice McGeachy who leaves shortly to take up residence in Milton, Ontario.

Mrs. Walter Stewart conducted a number of games and contests during the evening.

The honored guest was presented with a set of TV tables and a salad bowl set.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. William Newell.

28-Inch-long Adder Found In Engine

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—It wasn't a tiger in Mrs. Norma Filson's tank—it was an adder in her engine.

"I was petrified," said Mrs. Filson. "I drove very slowly to the garage wondering whether the snake was suddenly going to come slithering out at me from the pedal slits."

This little melodrama from real life began when Mrs. Filson's car was parked outside her suburban home Wednesday. Neighbor Wal Jenkins could hardly believe his eyes when he saw a striped tail disappearing into the engine of Mrs. Filson's automobile.

He rang his neighbor's doorbell and told her what he'd seen. Together they tried to coax out the intruder. They banged on the hood shook the car and blew the horn. No luck.

"I phoned the police," said Mrs. Filson, "because so many children were crowding around the car. A sergeant arrived, but he couldn't dislodge the snake either."

ESCORTED TO GARAGE

With the policeman following in a squad car Mrs. Filson made her "petrifying" drive to her garage.

At the garage, she jumped out of her car and told her story to two mechanics.

"They opened the bonnet (hood)," said Mrs. Filson, "but they couldn't find the snake. They used the flame of a metal cutter to try to burn him out—but nothing happened.

"They gave up and from the way they looked at me, I'm afraid they thought I'd been drinking and imagined the whole thing. Then I saw it curled up—up there where the heater leads off from the engine."

Poking the snake from its hiding place, the mechanics killed it.

Police said the reptile was a 28-inch-long adder with a striped tail. Adders and vipers are Britain's only poisonous snakes.

Quebec Members Will Receive $18,000 Yearly

QUEBEC (CP)—A bill which would bring the annual salaries of members of the Quebec legislative assembly to the level of federal MPs — $18,000 — received two quick readings in the assembly Thursday night.

"The comparison can only be with Ottawa," said Premier Lesage in conversation with reporters after the bill was tabled. The reason was "the concept of two nations in Canada, one of which is represented by Quebec."

Members of the assembly now receive $15,000 annually, of which $10,000 is taxable indemnity for the session and $5,000 represents a non-taxable expense allowance.

The bill also raises Mr. Lesage's own salary, but "it's still $5,000 less than the prime minister of Canada draws," the premier noted to reporters.

Formerly the premier drew $35,000. Now he will draw $40,000, of which $9,000 will be non-taxable expenses.

The only legislators whose pay is not raised are the members of the legislative council, the upper house whose veto powers Mr. Lesage's Liberal government wants to suppress. Their stipend stays at $12,000 a year.

The opposition leader's salary rises to $33,000 from $27,000, with $11,000 non-taxable. The same figures apply to cabinet ministers and to the assembly's Speaker.

One thing about daily newspapers.

they seem to know what interests people most

More often than not, it's the daily newspaper that gets behind the community drive for a new hospital. It's the daily newspaper that uncovers that shady deal in public business. It's the daily newspaper that prods and probes where you'd like to. The daily newspaper acts as a mirror, reflecting the overall interests and feelings of the people in the community. And 57% of the people interviewed in a recent survey validated by The Canadian Advertising Research Foundation agreed that the daily paper does just that.

This reflection of community interest seems to carry over to newspaper advertising too. In the same survey, 70% said that things seem to be advertised in newspapers just when they're interested in buying them. Only 13% found television ads, and 5% radio ads, to have this same timeliness.

And people like newspaper ads. 83% use them as shopping guides, and have found that newspaper ads are a reliable source of value at a good price. On the other hand, 56% felt television ads made extravagant claims that were hard to believe.

Small wonder so many advertisers use daily newspapers. The way the odds are stacked, their newspaper ads may run just when you're in the market for their product. And it gives them a nice head start when what they advertise is something that interests you most.

Sunday School Lesson

Necessity or Nonsense?

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A Christian writer tells that as a child she was taken for the first time to a cathedral. She was taken to a high balcony where she could not disturb others if she squirmed or talked. She could not hear what the clergymen were saying; she did not know what the people were doing, yet the experience made a deep impression on her. The people were so solemn, so quiet except when they stood to sing, she felt that whatever they were doing must be very important.

"Worshipping," says one modern writer, "is either the most vital or the most nonsensical form of action in which man engages." Well, which is it? Is worship indispensable to spiritual growth, or does it take time that could be better spent doing something else?

One answer is that all religious people feel the need to worship. The Catholic Church considers worship so important, it has recently made changes in its liturgy, so laymen can better understand it, and participate in it. One Protestant denomination has recently given major consideration to a study of "Worship in a Secular Age."

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 8: "Christians Grow Through Worship," Mark 1:35; Acts 2:46-47; Colossians 3:16-17; Hebrews 10: 19-25.

The Bible certainly considers worship important. Jesus felt prayer was so important He often rose early in the morning to go to a secluded spot to pray. (Mark 1:35) The first Christians, trained in Jewish worship, met regularly in the temple and in their homes for worship and fellowship. (Acts 2:46-47) Paul urged Christians to praise God by singing psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs. (Colossians 3:16-17) The author of Hebrews warns against the neglect of worship. (Hebrews 10:19-25)

WHY NEED TO WORSHIP?

If there is a God, it is important that men should learn to commune with Him. The prophet Isaiah indicates something of the importance of worship when he says, "They who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength." (Isaiah 40:31) People live at such a rapid pace today, they need to stop at times to "let their souls catch up." They are so busy making a living, they sometimes forget to think why they are alive. People get confused, and need a sense of spiritual guidance; they wander away from God, and need to be called back to Him. People sometimes lose heart, and need spiritual strength; they feel alone, and need to feel under them the everlasting Arms of God. Like a battery, their spirits run down, and need to be recharged. Like a hunter, they get lost and need to recheck their compass.

But what happens when people worship? For one thing, the fires of faith are rekindled. In worship, God comes out of the Bible and speaks to men's hearts. Through worship, the God of the Ages becomes the God of the present experience.

VISIBLE POINTS TO INVISIBLE

In worship, people are made aware of the invisible things of the spirit by means of visible and audible symbols. Just as a wedding ring reminds people of their marriage vows, so religious symbols remind them of God's presence. Through the eye-gate and ear-gate, God comes to them to convict them of their sins, to offer them grace and forgiveness, and to strengthen them for their tasks.

But worship is more than a reminder of God. It is a response to God. As they worship, people respond to God in penitence and faith. They are made aware of what God has done, and is doing, for them. They respond in faith and discipleship to Him.

Group worship not only reminds men of their relationship to God, but also of their relationship to each other. They are made aware of their unity as believers in God. In worship, men feed their souls just as at the table they feed their bodies. But no one wants to eat alone all the time. Eating is enjoyed most when it is a family affair. Public worship is a reminder that the church is the family of God.

God is the Host. The primary purpose of coming together for worship is to become better acquainted with the divine Host. A student went to a certain school. At first, he went to the library to get books. After a while, he went for books he did not need so he would have an excuse to speak to the librarian. In time, he went just to see the librarian with whom he had fallen in love.

Often, people pray or go to church only when they need special help from God. As faith deepens, they discover their deepest need is to know Him. Worship makes this possible as it provides an opportunity to commune with God, and to offer Him their gratitude and love.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Your recent advice to a reader that one's home mortgage should be as small as possible and should be paid off as rapidly as possible is good common sense. I wonder if it applies to my situation.

I am a construction engineer and am seldom in one location for more than two years. With a family of five, renting an apartment is out of the question and a satisfactory rental house is almost never available. When I buy, shall I get a small or large mortgage? — Traveling American ANSWER: Persons who must change locations or jobs frequently are exceptions to the general rule. To them a house is a place for temporary shelter.

If one is in this group he should endeavor to get a mortgage as large as possible. Then if for any reason the mortgage money market becomes "tight" when he gets ready to sell, the property is still readily marketable.

It is most important (often overlooked) that the mortgage contract should give the property owner the right to assign the mortgage to the new buyer.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We received a $15,000 house from my father-in-law as a wedding gift. I am determined that one day I shall be rich. My first step is to associate with persons of wealth.

Therefore, I will get my husband to sell our house and buy a more expensive one. With $15,000 available as a down payment, how expensive a home can I buy? I need this information quickly to know in what price range to start looking. — Ambitious Wife.

ANSWER: I hope your husband becomes a millionaire (he will need to) — just as one millionaire I know who gives full credit to his wife because he was trying to find out if there was any income she couldn't live beyond.

No one I know ever became wealthy by living in an expensive house — I know of many who went bankrupt trying.

I can give you no answer without additional information. Down-payment is relatively unimportant to the price of the house one should buy. Income, debts, obligations and future prospects are much more important considerations.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I received a letter from a syndicate offering land for sale at $150 per acre. They claim it is worth $500 per acre.

I feel rather flattered that they are willing to let me in on a chance to make a fortune. Is it better to send them the cheque first, like they are asking, or wait for an agreement of sale and then send them the cheque? — An Eager Investor

ANSWER: Restrain your enthusiasm and hold on to your money. Anyone offering land worth $500 an acre for $150 does not have to use a mailing list.

I predict that if you spend the time and money and are able to get the information you will find that the syndicate probably bought the land recently for $5 to $10 an acre.

The only fortune likely to be made is by the promotor's extracting money from the bank accounts of gullible persons like yourself.

Feelings of Love and Hate Inspire Ham to Fight On

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP)—Some men fight out of hate, some fight out of love.

Nguyen Van Ham, a 23-year-old South Vietnamese sergeant, fights for both reasons.

"I hate the Viet Cong, and I love my country," he said.

"I have killed three Viet Cong. When I shoot them, I don't know why, but I feel very good."

"I love life very much because I am young. It looks to be like a rose. But I don't know how it will be later."

Sgt. Ham is hardly a typical South Vietnamese soldier. He is a Roman Catholic, has a high school education and now serves as a battlefront interpreter with the Da Nang special sector forces here. But his story illustrates both the wartime plight and the long-term hopes of South Vietnamese youth.

SHOT BROTHER

"I was eight when they—the Viet Minh—shot my brother," he said. "I came across his body in the street. I cried and cried. Not long after that they came to our house at two o'clock in the morning. They asked my father for 1,000 piastres. He refused.

"They took him away. I was a young boy and could do nothing. We heard six years later that they had buried him alive in a well. From that time on my mother, who had been very sad, never remembered anything again at all. She died six months ago."

At 20, Sgt. Ham joined the South Vietnamese Rangers as a volunteer. He worked with an intelligence platoon and infiltrated enemy territory wearing Viet Cong garb.

"But at night we killed them," he said. "Once we got a cash bonus of 5,000 piastres for ambushing a VC platoon with 18 men.

"I still want to go more often into the field and kill the Viet Cong. Now I no longer think so often of my father and brother. That was a long time ago."

LOVES COUNTRY

"I just think it would be bad if the VC take over Viet Nam. I love my country. If I didn't, I would desert. I have had some commanders I did not like.

"But I am proud to be Vietnamese, and all I want is for the country to get peace as soon as possible. My country is beautiful. When you stand on a high hill, and look down over the rice paddies and the trees, it is very nice."

The sergeant is engaged to a girl still in high school in Saigon. "We want to have three children, but it will be hard for me to support a family on my salary," he said.

Ham gets 3,400 piastres a month—about $48. He pays 500 piastres a month for lodging and 1,200 a month for two meals a day. He tries to save at least 1,000 piastres a month for his marriage.

When peace comes, he hopes to become a construction engineer.

Picton Judge

not be acceded to," he said. "I consider county council's action as a personal insult to myself."

A battle is also raging around the flag that flies in the war memorial park. Town council has purchased a new Maple Leaf flag for the park but a tattered, weatherbeaten Red Ensign continues to fly there.

Mrs. Bessie Ward, chairman of the parks committee, said the police department, which looks after town flags, refuses to put up the new one because the Royal Canadian Legion would tear it down.

The Legion, she said, flatly refuses to give permission for the new flag to be flown.

The park is within town limits, she said, but the county has a measure of control over it. Mrs. Ward is trying to arrange a meeting of her committee, the County War Memorial Board and the Legion to settle the matter.

FLEE FROM TERMITES

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—"I don't know much about construction contracts, but I do know what's wrong with this house." What's wrong is termites. The speaker was Mrs. Hullett C. Smith, wife of the governor of West Virginia. The Smiths were told the $160,000 executive mansion was about ready to collapse. They moved into their home at Beckley, 50 miles away.

On Thursday evening Miss Bayview Heights, Maura Lloyd, took part in the Miss Penny Carnival although Maura wasn't a winner everyone on the park was proud to have her represent them. Thank you, everyone, for your help during Playground Week.

SOUTH GEORGE STREET

On Tuesday night, parents and friends of the children of South George playground participated in a Neighborhood Night. The program started with a ball game between fathers and children while the mothers and younger children watched. Following this there was a balloon breaking contest amongst the adults. Then came the talent show starring Chris Hannah, Sharon Hannah, Jacky Holland, Judy Semark, Joe Semark, Harry Semark, Mike Callaghan, Doug Michael and Keith Cole. The big event of the evening was the crowning of Miss South George 1965. This year's winner was Glenna Sommerville. The other contestants were Dale Shelley Archer and Penny Markwell. The judges of this event were Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Ironside, Mr. Webb, Mr. Semark and Mr. Taylor. The night was full of laughs and proved enjoyable for everyone. Then on Wednesday afternoon there was a Mothers' Tea. The afternoon got underway with a series of games demonstrated by the children for their mothers.

There was a craft display followed by refreshments for everyone.

On Thursday preparations for the Penny Carnival at East Hill playground were carried out.

The supervisor, Marianne Ironside would like to thank all those who made this past week such a success.

FIREHALL

A very successful Neighborhood night was held on Tuesday evening August 3rd at the Firehall Playground.

Events started at 7.00 with the arrival of a gratifying number of parents, grandparents and other relatives.

The parents were warmly welcomed as they arrived by Rosemary and Patty Flannigan, identically dressed sisters who also handed out the evening's program.

A craft display was observed by many of the parents and a fortune teller, Linda LaPointe, in appropriate attire was present for those interested in looking into the future. Also a clown, in the person of Betty Fletcher circulated handing out lollipops to the younger children.

When all the parents had arrived, several singing games were aptly demonstrated by the children of the playground. Then the parents were seated and the Talent Show began.

First on the program were the Beatles represented by Randy MacDonald, Martie MacDonald, Terry LaPointe and Mike Asseltine who entertained the audience to two numbers.

SKIT PRESENTED

Next a skit was acted by Bobby Fargey, Diane Helm, Lea Morris and Laural Caverly.

Then a fashion show was held with John Spurgeon, alias Red Skeleton as master of ceremonies and Patty Bouck, Heather Bouck, Laural Caverly, Mindy MacDonald and Kim Pritty as most capable models.

Next, pert Bobbie Fargey entertained with a baton routine to the tune of "The Yellow Rose of Texas."

Then another humorous skit was played by Patty Bouck, Heather Bouck and Bobby Fargey with assistance from various members of the audience.

Following this, Diane Langabeer and Bobbie Fargey, dressed in identical costumes, entertained with a tap dance duet. Then yet another comical skit was presented by Mindy MacDonald, Laurie Caverly, Lea Morris and Diane Helm.

The program was closed by a vocal duet by Bobbie Fargey and Diane Langabeer who sang "This Land Is Your Land."

PAGEANT PRESENTED

Then the long awaited event of the evening, the Miss Fire-Hall Pageant was held. The little misses entering the pageant were Vicky Caverly, Sandra Heighton, Bonita DeRoy, Linda Austin, Cindy Rivers, Brenda Lee Harrington, Janet Bennett, Janice Bennett, Rhonda Bourette and Sherri Lynn Ackerman.

The little ladies attired in bathing suits paraded before the audience and finally the judges reached their decision. Brenda Lee Harrington was chosen Miss Firehall 1965. Brenda was presented with a silver crown and a pink satin ribbon with silver lettering to spell out her title. She was also given a small gift and a nosegay of sweet peas. Brenda represented the Firehall Playground in the Miss Penny Carnival Pageant on Thursday evening.

Special thanks to the firemen of Firehall No. 2 who acted so capably as judges.

Following the crowning of Miss Firehall, a large campfire was lit and a rousing sing-song was held.

Supervisor Nancy Williams would like to thank all those parents who showed their interest in the playground by attending our Neighborhood Night 1965. Thank you.

Even Workers Surprised as Bomb Dropped

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — History's best-kept secret exploded on a stunned world 20 years ago at Hiroshima, and few people were more surprised than the majority of the thousands of workers producing a vital ingredient for the atom bomb in the sagebrush flats near this town 165 miles southeast of Seattle.

They were producing plutonium, the first man-made element, which was used in the bomb dropped on Nagasaki three days later.

The government, striving to keep the secret, had unbelievable co-operation from the people of the region and from the plant employees. Contrary to popular belief, many did know or guess the projects purpose, but none spoke.

The mystery was deep for the people who were brought out and moved out of the tiny neighboring towns of Richland, Hanford and White Bluffs.

"They only told us they were taking the farms to help the boys in the army, said Mrs. Blanche Martin, whose farm was sold to the government.

May Form Authority In County

PICTON (Staff) — Representatives from Picton, Wellington, Bloomfield and the townships of Prince Edward County attended an information meeting conducted recently in Shire Hall by the Conservation Authorities Branch of the Department of Energy and Resources

A department spokesman explained the working of the conservation authority and how one was established. An authority for Prince Edward County would consist of ten members and three members from the department. In order to arrange and establish an authority here petitions would have to be sent to the Minister of Energy and Resources from three different municipalities. The minister would then fix a time and place for a hearing and notify the council of every municipality in the watershed to send representatives to it on a population basis.

Effects of the meeting as regards the various townships represented are expected to be aired at Monday night's county council meeting.

Rabies Still Prevalent in Some Townships

PICTON (Staff) — Rabies are still prevalent in Sophiasburgh township. Recently Cecil Thompson, R.R. 8, Picton, found a fox in his calf pen during the evening. The animal was shot and the head sent away. The report to Prince Edward County Health Unit revealed it to be positive.

A woman in Demorestville area was bitten by a cat which was suspected as being rabid. The woman is receiving treatments. A report yesterday revealed the cat had rabbies.

Medical Officer of Health Dr. Turpel suggests that county residents be alert for suspected cases of rabies and warns children to beware of animals which appear sick, or wild life which appears too friendly.

McFarland Co. Gets Contract For New Road

PICTON (Staff) — The McFarland Construction Co. of Picton has been awarded the contract for the grading and draining of the new highway 49 which runs from the High Shore road to the new Quinte Skyway bridge.

This covers a distance of 3.6 miles and is an entirely new highway. The total amount of the successful bid was $239,270. The work is to be completed by February 16th 1966.

Announcement of the award was received on Wednesday by Norris Whitney M.P.P., from the Ontario Minister of Highways.

Highland Games A Family Affair

By BARRY McCULLAGH

There is nothing like a day at the Highland Games, where men are men, and the girls play the pipes and the drums with the best of them and lose none of their charm or femininity in so doing.

In an age of canned entertainment and conformity and much that is artificial, here is something that brims with vitality and color and wholesomeness.

A day at the Games is an occasion for the whole family. That is how it was at Cobourg on the holiday weekend. despite what I heard described as real "Scots weather" — a dull morning, a little rain over the lunch period, a burst of short-lived sunshine around 3 o'clock and a downpour in the late afternoon just as the pipers were preparing for the final march-past.

Several thousand people watched the Games, Cobourg's third since their inception in 1963. The grey skies and lowering clouds had that brooding quality of Scotland's own Highlands and it was not difficult to see in imagination the lonely moorlands and the heather and the clear mountain streams and the shaggy Highland cattle that dot the region.

If Cobourg's Donegan Park could not boast the mountain-girt - setting of Scotland's Braemar, it was entirely adequate for the marchers and dancers, the tug-of-war and caber tossing that made up the day's activities, not to mention track and field events.

The music of the pipes is a blend of such human elements as courage and compassion, grief and joy. Men have gone into battle to the skirl of pipes and taken new heart from them. And to those who fell in the face of the enemy the same pipes would play their lament.

AT KENNEDY FUNERAL

Pipers of The Royal Highland Regiment, The Black Watch, were in the procession at the funeral of the late President Kennedy. They had been touring the United States at the time and returned to Washington at the request of Mrs. Kennedy.

In the First World War The Black Watch earned from the Germans the title, "The Ladies From Hell."

In birth, in marriage and in death the pipers have their place, for the pipes are instruments for all seasons and occasions.

Originating in Greece, the pipes were brought to Britain by Roman soldiers. The Irish had a whirl at the strange imports (and Irish regiments have their pipe bands to this day), but it was the Scots who really made the pipes their own and absorbed them into their own culture.

Arriving at Donegan Park last Monday, sword dancing classes were in progress at the far end of the field, while closer at hand a blonde Nova Scotian lass from the McDougall Girls' Pipe Band in New Victoria, Cape Breton, was pacing slowly back and forth in one of the solo piping events.

The girls from the Maritimes were not the only ones from afar. Competing against them were the Sprig O' Heather Pipe Band from Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, and the Blue Belle Highlanders all the way from Saugus, Massachusetts.

Competition in the male bands was also keen and included the band of the Black Watch of Canada from Camp Gagetown, New Brunswick, the 1st Battalion of the Canadian Guards from Camp Petawawa and the RCAF band from Rockcliffe Air Station in Ottawa.

While bands were on the field, others were dotted around the park practising, and young dancers in colorful Stewart, MacKenzie, MacFarlane and other clan tartans, limbered up before being called upon to perform.

IRISH JIGS

Not to be outdone, a couple of dozen youngsters representing the Irish in Canada (some actually took part in both Scots and Irish dances) appeared in attractive green outfits and performed a real swinging jig that called for the expenditure of a great deal of energy and considerable skill. And earlier there were sailors' hornpipes.

All the while, track and field events were being held, as well as tug-of-war competitions (with both men's and women's teams) and Cobourg's Jack Baggeley was demonstrating once again that he has no peers when it comes to tossing the caber.

Nationality is no barrier to participation in Highland Games, not in Canada anyway. The entrants—from as far away as Calgary, Minneapolis, Philadelphia and of course, many centres in Ontario—included names like Denise Bardeau, Paula Sawinski, Irene Wenger and Sylvia Zuliana. Most of the entrants in the dancing were girls, although there was a sprinkling of boys too. One little girl was Chinese on her mother's side and it was not difficult to recognize the Scandinavian strain in Paula Stromberg, a fair-skinned and blonde member of the Sprig O' Heather band from out west.

When you go to the Highland Games and see so many good-looking and healthy youngsters perform with such skill and gusto you do not fear for the future of this country. Any parent would be proud of these boys and girls. Moreover, to become proficient in Scottish dancing demands much in the way of discipline and self-control and these youngsters displayed large measures of both.

Cobourg's Games owe their beginning to Scotsman David Carr who in the spring of 1963 suggested the town follow the example of Maxville (near Cornwall). Since then many of the town's organizations have combined to place the event on a sound footing and Cobourg is now competing with the best on the Highland Games circuit.

TRY SS GUARDS

DUESSELDORF (Reuters)—The prosecution Thursday demanded hard labor for life for seven of 10 former SS (Elite Guard) guards at Treblinka concentration camp, on trial in this West German city for complicity in the wartime murder of 700,000 Jews. Summing up the 10-month trial, the prosecutor demanded hard-labor sentences ranging between three and four years for the three other accused.

Many Youths Said on Fringe Of Delinquency

TORONTO (CP)—Youth must have a community in which to live, even if it has to form its own by turning to gangs or "beatnikville," the Ontario legislature's select committee on youth was told Thursday.

The Ontario Council of Christian Education, presenting a brief to the committee, urged a moral regeneration of adult society to bring youth out of its own sub-culture.

The council, an inter-denominational group, comprised of nine religious organizations, said many adult institutions—including the church—are only "pseudo-communities," run by absentee landlords youth never meets.

The brief said that while three per cent of youth is considered delinquent, far more than this are on the fringe and "there are whole communities in the cities where youth is demoralized and hopeless."

"This group will destroy our society unless we redeem them in some way."

The council said "teen-agers have inherited the frustrations, unhappiness, insecurities and suspicions of their parents and teachers.

It said police use a hard-hitting policy—"nail them often and nail them hard."

"These young people claim there is a law for the poor and a law for the rich, and when you check their record you believe it."

The Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West said in a brief that the age limit for voting should be lowered to 18 from 21 years "so that youth may take a greater interest in politics and citizenship."

Committee on Conservation Pays Visit to O'Hara Mill

How Hastings county pioneers power sawed their lumber 120 years ago was demonstrated yesterday for members of the Select Committee of the Ontario Legislature appointed to review the Conservation Authorities Act.

The 16-member committee, which in October will hold hearings throughout the province, stopped off at O'Hara's Mill northwest of Madoc, where the members inspected the Moira River Conservation Authority's historic sawmill — believed to be the only Muley saw of its type in Ontario still on its original site.

Earlier in the morning the committee visited the Crowe Valley Authority dam at Marmora and following luncheon at Actinolite, visited other reforestation, conservation areas and water control projects in the Moira Authority.

Keen interest was expressed by the Legislative committee members as they watched the operation of the old Muley saw at O'Hara's Mill.

OPERATED SUNDAYS

The mill is operated each Sunday afternoon for the benefit of visitors and yesterday Richard Bird opened the mill pond flume and set the old vertical saw in motion.

Built back in 1846 or 1847 by the O'Hara family, the water-powered sawmill was operated until about 1908. In the early 1950's the site was purchased by the Moira River Conservation Authority and the historic mill was restored.

In its heyday the mill did custom sawing for farmers in the Madoc area. For three months during spring run-off period, when water was plentiful, the mill ran night and day.

The Muley saw with its up and down motion was used by the pioneers prior to the introduction of circular type saws and bandsaws.

Chairman of the recently appointed Select Committee on Conservation Authorities is D. Arthur Evans, M.P.P. for Simcoe Centre, who headed yesterday's tour through the Moira watershed.

The committee members are M.P.P.'s from the Toronto and Western Ontario areas.

Members of the Moira River Conservation Authority executive committee, chairman George Wishart, vice chairman James Sprackett, Graham Bell, Bruce Smith, Gerald Irvine and T. C. Graham, also went along on the inspection tour of watershed projects.

Long-standing Practice Says Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday it probably isn't the best way of proceeding to pay aides to cabinet ministers partly from public and partly from private sources.

However, he said at a press conference, it was a long-standing practice in government and had been done by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker as prime minister.

Mr. Pearson was asked about the sources of income of his press secretary, Richard O'Hagan, and about a Toronto Star Weekly report that Mr. O'Hagan gets $10,000-a-year from public funds and an undisclosed further amount from private sources.

This, Md. Pearson said, is a well-known practice. For a good many years, cabinet-appointed aides to ministers had their salary increased "from outside, mainly political sources because the work they are doing is not only official but it's political."

This, Mr. Pearson said, is a Diefenbaker and was being done today in other offices than his own.

"I'm not suggesting it's the best way of proceeding but $1-a-year men have become an adjunct of the democratic process for about 25 years in war and peace."

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Garry Young, well-known and popular minor hockey coach, has been named the mentor of the 1965-66 Kingston Frontenacs junior "B" hockey club.

And with the announcement, the Kingston sports editor lines his columnar elephant-gun sights on last year's edition of the team and blasts it with both barrels.

Quoting Young's successes as a minor coach, he says: "The Frontenacs need a heavy hand to steer them straight. Last year's junior "B" was a disgrace. Seldom, if ever, has a team done so little with as much ability."

"There were more attempts to punch a nose, blacken an eye or split a skull than there were efforts to score goals or prevent them. You don't need more than the fingers of one hand to count the number of games the Frontenacs played that there was not at least one fight."

"They even fought among themselves at practices," the editor charged. "You work at practice what you intend to do in a game and for the Frontenacs that was to fight."

He said the team wore out its welcome in the Metro Junior "B" Hockey League where they were allowed to play a partial schedule in addition to their games with Peterborough and Belleville, the other junior "B" teams in Eastern Ontario.

It appears the Metro League wants no part of a Kingston team in their schedule this winter. The Kingston writer quotes a Metro coach who voiced the opinion of all his counterparts: "I'm not bringing my players down here to have them maimed. There isn't one team that hasn't had players sent to hospital during every game with Kingston."

He says the rejection by the Metro clubs could turn out for the best. The interlocking schedule was a makeshift arrangement at best.

The new Kingston coach has proposed an Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League which he thinks would be more workable, easier on the players with less travelling and more time for studies and stimulate more fan interest.

If it comes about, and it's still in the hands of the Ontario Hockey Association, it would embrace teams from Kingston, Peterborough, Belleville, Trenton, Whitby and possibly Oshawa.

"The Kingston, Peterborough and Belleville teams were part of last year's make-do schedule," says the Kingston writer. "Whitby played in the Metro Junior 'B' League last season, and so far entry from Oshawa which already has the Junior 'A' Generals, is speculation. Trenton is expected to ice a strong club."

This could be the rebirth of all-out junior "B" in this neck of the Ontario woods. However, Picton, Napanee and Gananoque might voice objections as the larger centres' teams have proved good attractions.

Rough and rugged, boisterous and fight-hungry as they may have been, the Kingston Frontenacs cannot grab all the glory for mayhem and blood-letting. Other teams in junior "B"—and you don't have to go too far to name them—were not averse to swapping punches, stick-swinging and whatnot.

Scarcely a day went by last winter without the public prints carrying stories of brawling, beak-busting and head-cracking on the part of the beardless ones.

The only answer is stiff suspensions. Not the slap-on-the-wrist kind of two or three games, but a year or so for the worst offenders. A season on the sidelines would cure a lot of them. And that goes for coaches and other officials who deliberately encourage such tactics.

Sandy Wins No. 19 * * * * * * * * * * Two Homers For Willie

Front And Centre For Koufax, Mays

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays found the cow milking contest an easy act to follow, and Sandy Koufax came on with the same old routine.

Performing on separate stages, Mays and Koufax put on typically glittering shows Thursday night.

Mays clouted two homers and drove in four runs as San Francisco Giants battered Cincinnati 18-7, while Koufax picked up his 19th victory in Los Angeles Dodgers' 6-3 triumph over Milwaukee Braves.

Mays came to bat minutes after team-mate Jim Davenport won $50 in a pre-game milking competition. Two men were on base, and the Giant slugger promptly connected for his 26th home run. He batted again in the second inning and this time unloaded his 27th.

Koufax scattered seven hits, struck out 12 and walked two. The victory set the stage for the 29-year-old southpaw to become the season's first 20-game winner.

Koufax is ahead of the pace he set in his two previous best seasons. In 1963, en route to 25 victories, he won his 19th game Aug. 17 and his 20th 12 days later. Last year he picked up No. 19 on Aug. 16 but never had a chance for the 20th. An elbow injury took care of that.

He also is maintaining a pace that would make him the one-season strikeout king in modern history. His major league-leading total of 253 is only 95 away from Bob Feller's record of 348. His average of 10 strikeouts a game could give him the record in 10 more starts.

In other National League games, Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 4-3, Pittsburgh Pirates bombed New York Mets 11-3 and St. Louis Cardinals stopped Houston Astros 3-1.

Philadelphia nipped the Cubs on Rich Allen's two-run triple in the fifth inning. Allen also singled and scored on Adolfo Phillips' single in the fourth. Relief pitchers Gary Wagner and Bo Belinsky snuffed out Chicago threats in the eighth and ninth innings.

League-leading Roberto Clemente raised his average to .345 with a single, double and home run while pitcher Don Cardwell added a three-run homer to Pittsburgh's attack. Cardwell brought his record to 10-5 as the Pirates won their fifth straight game.

Bob Gibson picked up his 14th triumph against eight defeats with a four-hitter against the Astros. Tim McCarver drove in the first two St. Louis runs with a sacrifice fly and an infield out.

Latta Wins Over Read

Latta trounced cellar-dwelling Read 7-2 in a South Hastings league game played at Latta last night.

Both teams played poorly behind their pitchers, as they committed five errors each.

Frank Farrell took the loss for the visitors. He was pounded for eight hits, struck out eight and gave up one free pass.

Gerry Ray and Howard Meeks led Latta's hitters with a pair of safeties each. Lorne Cronkright, Doug Geen, Bob Smith and Doug Rollins added singles.

For Read, Carmen Milligan slammed two base-hits, while Ted Abrams, Gerry Brennan and Percy Milligan contributed single hits each.

Maritime Marksmen Win Match

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—The old adage practice makes perfect doesn't seem to mean a thing to a group of Nova Scotian shooters at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championships.

They've been winning the long-distance matches at the week-long event with surprising regularity although they have nowhere to practise.

Latest of the Maritime victors is an 18-year-old sea cadet who outshot men three and four times his age to win the City of Ottawa Match, fired Thursday from 900 and 200 yards at the government's range west of Ottawa.

Ralph Grant scored a perfect 50 at 200 yards and had 48 out of 50 at 900 yards.

Grant also won the Viscount Wakefield Aggregate as the top cadet in three matches—the Tyro, for shooters who have never made the top 200 in the Grand Aggregate at the DCRA matches, the Letson and the Bankers'.

WINS IN TUNIS

To add to the Nova Scotian monopoly of the distance events, Howie Oliver of Digby won the Alexander of Tunis Match, another 900-yard event.

Thursday's other major match, the Letson, was won by Gerry Ouellette of Ottawa.

The Olympic gold medallist who also has taken the Queen's Prize, top honor at the Commonwealth championships at Bisley, England, scored a perfect 105 points over 200, 500 and 600 yards.

KITCHENER (CP) — The women proved completely unpredictable as the favorites fell by the wayside in the Ontario women's open golf championship Thursday.

The victims included Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., seven-time winner of the title; Mary Gay of Kitchener, a five-time runner-up in the event; Betty Stanhope Cole of Toronto, formerly of Edmonton, who won the crown in 1957; Gail Harvey of Toronto, who last week won her second consecutive Canadian women's close championship; and 17-year-old Sandra Post of Milton, Ont., winner of the Canadian junior crown here last week.

The giant killers were Jocelyne Bourassa, a willowy, 18-year-old just out of high school in Trois-Rivieres, Que.; Joann Riddell, a 22-year-old Montreal department store supervisor; Mary Ellen Driscoll, a 27-year-old Ottawa girls' school teacher playing out of Saint John, N.B., and Carolyn McLure of Saskatoon, a 22-year-old physical education graduate of the University of Saskatchewan who plans further studies in San Diego this fall.

A hole-in-one by Miss Bourassa, her first in six years of golf and one she didn't realize she registered, and a heart-stopping 100-foot approach shot into the cup on the 18th hole by Miss Gay to oust Mrs. Streit were by-products in a day of upsets.

Miss Driscoll meets Miss Riddell in one of the semi-finals starting at 11:30 a.m. Miss Bourassa, who plans to pursue studies in physical education at the University of Montreal starting in September, meets Miss McLure, who already has her degree in that subject, at 12 noon.

Miss Gay, loser to Mrs. Streit in the women's open final on three occasions and in the women's close tournament twice, was 1 up going onto the 18th but shanked an approach shot into an adjacent fairway and had to play back to the green through the trees. She was off the edge in four.

Mrs. Streit, lying two just off the green, chipped on 10 feet from the pin.

Miss Gay then pulled out a nine iron and curled a chip shot into the cup. Mrs. Streit was wide with her putt and lost the match.

Miss Gay, who defeated Mrs. Streit in the 1957 women's open quarter-final in Montreal, was an upset victim in the next round to Miss Riddell.

The two hooked up in a gruelling battle in which neither could move more than one hole ahead after the first nine holes. Miss Riddell finally won it on the 17th with a par four. Miss Gay, short with her tee shot, took a one-over-par.

Miss Riddell upset Mrs. Len Cole earlier in the day and said the two victories represented one of the biggest thrills in her 11-year golfing career. Her best previous showing was a victory in the 1962 Quebec junior championship. She was taught by Mrs. A. B. Darling of Montreal, mother of Judy Darling Evans who was eliminated by Miss Gay Wednesday.

Doug Hull Sparks City Hotel

Doug Hull broke up a tie in the fourth with a homer and drove in the clinching run to lead City Hotel to a 3-1 victory over Stewart-Warner in the Commercial Softball picture last night.

Hull's blow ended a fine pitching duel between Gerry Genereaux and Len Masters.

The losers had potted one in the third to take an early 1-0 edge.

But Genereaux blasted a home run in the bottom of the same frame to tie the score.

Genereaux allowed five hits while walking two and striking out four in his six inning stint.

On the apposing mound, Len Masters gave up seven hits, walked two and whiffed six.

Genereaux topped his team in batting as he slammed a homer and single. D. Moneau stroked a pair of hits, Hull had his homer and J. Martin and Tom Coolen added base-hits.

G. Gee and Masters had two safeties each for Warners and R. Turner hit one.

Olympic Star Moving To Toronto

VANCOUVER (CP) — Irene Piotrowski, Canada's fleet-footed Olympic star, is moving to Toronto this month.

The 24-year-old schoolteacher and her husband and trainer, Heinz, will leave Aug. 14 for Toronto where Heinz plans to take a nine-month course at Toronto's College of Massage and Hydrotherapy.

Mrs. Piotrowski said Wednesday she will continue teaching and running while living in Toronto.

In her third season of running, she is co-holder of the Canadian 100-yard record of 10.7 with Yvonne Breeden of Vancouver, and holder of the Canadian 100-metre record of 11.4. She also holds British Columbia records in the 220, 440 and 880 yards.

OLYMPIA TAKES WIN

TORONTO (CP)—Klaus Woltschatzke fired two goals Thursday night to pace Toronto Olympia to a 4-1 victory over Toronto Croatia in a National Soccer League game.

Cassius Likes Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay arrived Thursday and talked about a possible title fight in Stockholm with former champion Floyd Patterson.

"I believe it could be staged here," he said, "provided trans-atlantic satellite TV coverage could be arranged."

Clay was vague about arrangements for a tour which will comprise 10 exhibitions around Sweden. The tour, arranged by Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlquist, was to start today with an appearance in Stockholm. The champion will continue his European tour in England after he leaves here.

Clay was accompanied by Angelo Dundee, his manager, who said that one of the reasons for the visit was to talk to Ahlquist about a possible title fight with Patterson, who has fought here on a number of occasions and is popular.

Pitcher's Homer Won It

Lombanks Shade Juniors 5-4

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

MADOC — Trailing 4-3 with two out in the ninth and the tying run on third-base, Tweed Lombanks pitcher Eldon Gray smashed a game winning homer to defeat Belleville Ellis Juniors 5-4 in the fourth game of the B. and D. Softball League semi-finals here last night. The series stands all-even at two each, with the fifth being probably next Thursday.

Gray's blow, capped a fine nine inning hurling effort in which he gave up only two earned runs.

The Juniors took a 2-0 edge in the first when Bob Moon reached first on an error, and two outs later Stu Muirhead drove a homer through centre.

Tweed cut the margin to one run in the fifth. Bert Sherry stroked a double and advanced to third on a deep fly by Gray. He scored on another fly by Paul Meraw.

Belleville gained what looked like a safe 4-1 lead with two tallies in the eighth. Wayne Woods reached first on an error and advanced to third when Moon powered a two-base hit. Woods scored and Moon went to third on a long fly ball by Jim Rutherford. Mike Chatland drove in Moon with a ground ball.

Tweed again slashed Belleville's lead to a run with two runs in the bottom of the same inning. Paul Meraw was hit by a pitched ball and crossed the plate on Joe Barron's double. Barrons scored when the ball was thrown away.

And then Gray won it in the ninth.

Bob Ethier struck out 11 and walked two while giving up seven hits.

Gray allowed six hits, whiffed nine and did not walk a man. His change-of-pace pitching kept Belleville off balance throughout the game.

Terry Lesage had a double and single and Gray had his homer to lead the Lombanks. Bert Sherry contributed a safety, as did Don Cotton, Garry Gorr and Joe Barrons.

Stu Muirhead hit a homer and single, and Bob Moon had a double and base-hit for the Juniors. Jim Rutherford and Bob Ethier slammed safeties.

Riders, Argos Pry Lid Off Tonight

Cats, Als Tomorrow

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Eastern Football Conference opens a new season on two fronts this weekend but the format of recent past seasons isn't likely to be changed much.

It still looks like a two-division league. Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, the powerhouse twins, are in one classification.

Somewhere behind them come the Montreal Alouettes and the Toronto Argonauts, still in the process of rebuilding with raw talent.

Coach Frank Clair's Rough Riders, pre-season favorites for conference honors, and the face-lifted Argonauts pry the lid off the new season tonight at Toronto's CNE stadium.

On Saturday night, the Tiger-Cats entertain Jim Trimble's Alouettes. Both games start at 8 p.m. Neither game will be televised because of a stalemate in negotiations between the two Canadian TV networks, potential sponsors, and the advertising agency which holds television rights to the games.

PLAYERS MIXED UP

You'll need a program and a good memory, to keep track of who's playing for who, because of player exchanges between all four teams.

Bob Shaw, the new coach of the Argonauts, said fullback Dave Thelen, the veteran acquired two days ago from the Ottawa waiver list, was "going the wrong way" in workouts with the Argos Thursday night. "I haven't made up my mind about using him in the Ottawa game" he said. "I want to make sure he knows what he's doing."

Shaw may throw three other Ottawa alumni against the Rough Riders — halfback Bob Reed, end Len Sparks and tackle Dave Still. Quarterback Lamar McHan, a newcomer with 10 years experience in the National Football League, will direct Argos' game, which could suffer with the vital corner positions in the hands of rookies.

Clair's field general, of of course, will be the polished Russ Jackson who will direct what has been called the strongest backfield in the East, made up of Jim Dillard, Bo Scott and Ron Stewart. But Clair is worried about the eight rookies on his lineup.

MAY CAUSE PROBLEMS

"They may cause us some problems in crucial situations," he says.

One of the rookies is Scott, who signed a three-year contract Thursday after indicating he would play out an option to join Cleveland Browns next year.

Hamilton fans may have difficulty remembering that Quarterback Bernie Faloney is no longer on their side. Faloney and two other Hamilton defensive stalwarts, Jackie Simpson and Ralph Goldston, went to Montreal in a mid - winter trade. They'll all be making their Hamilton debut in another uniform.

Alouettes gave up four solid starters —Dick Walton, Billy Ray Locklin, Billy Wayte and Ted Page—to get them from the Ticats. Coach Trimble says the addition of Don Estes and John Kennerson, cut by Ottawa a week ago, will add balance and authority to the Als' forward wall.

Faloney's prime targets in the pass department will be flanker-backs Terry Evanshen and Ernie White, and ends Mike Gibbons and Al Irwin.

ZUGER TO START

Joe Zuger, the big Arizona State quarterback, will start for Hamilton, having been chosen over Frank Cosentino, his key rival for the spot with Faloney's departure.

"It was a tough decision for me to make," said Ticat coach Ralph Sazio. "I could have been a hero and gone with Frank, the local boy. But I have to do what is best for the team. In my mind, Joe has earned the job."

Zuger's offensive backfield is likely to be a duplicate of last year's attacking unit —halfbacks Willie Beathea and Johnny Counts, fullback Art Baker and Flanker-back Tom Grant. The Hamilton pattern appears set except at offensive end where Sazio still hasn't found a replacement for Hal Patterson.

All Even-Stephen

Trudeaus Wallop Bloomfield

A wild and woolly 6th-inning seven - run explosion sent Bloomfield to the cleaners and clinched an 11-4 victory for Trudeaus at the Fair Grounds last night.

The win squared the clubs' B. and D. semi-finals series at two-all. The fifth game is scheduled for Picton tomorrow night starting eight o'clock.

It looked like a romp for the village crew who led 4-1 going into the bottom of the sixth.

Then the roof fell in.

Starting pitcher K. DeMille blew higher than a kite and his mates blew higher behind him. Hits, errors and runs sprayed the infield and by the time the smoke had cleared and DeMille in the dugout Trudeau's had an 8-4 lead.

Two doubles, five singles, wild pitches, passed balls, a walk, three errors and seven runs contributed to the explosion.

Bob Hunter replaced DeMille who gave up eight runs, eight hits in five innings. Hunter put out the fire getting the final two outs.

But Bloomfield was not through kicking the ball around. In the seventh frame two glaring errors put a pair of Trudeau's aboard and Paul Zakos cleared up the mess with a lined homer to left field.

Prior to this the city team had scored their first run in the fifth on a bunt error good for three bases, and two putouts.

Bloomfield took a commanding four-run lead in the third on a back-to-back trio of hits, a double by Ron Weese, Carl Stacey's triple and Warren Ostrander's single. Jim Guernsey's single helped. They had scored a single in the second on two Trudeau bobbles.

Bill Baldwin went all the way for the winners giving up eight hits, two in the ninth, whiffing two and walking none.

Paul Zakos' homer and doubles and singles by Hugh Brennan and Tim Meeker paced the winners attack. Pete Weston and Ricky Locke had two singles with Larry Mavety and Bill Baldwin one each.

Carl Stacey with a triple and single, doubles by Ron Weese and Fred Forster, Jim Guernsey's two singles and Warren Ostrander's loner was the village offensive.

The teams::

Bloomfield — MacDonald, St. Denis, Weese, Carl Stacey, Ostrander, York, DeMille, Hunter, Keith Stacey, Forster, Guernsey.

Trudeaus — Wannamaker, Locke, Plane, Weston, Brennan, Meeker, Mavety, Zakos Baldwin.

Bloomfield 013 000 000 - 4 8 6
Trudeaus 000 017 30x - 11 11 4

Umpires — Barton (P), Ethier.

Referee Staff Is Unchanged

TORONTO (CP) — The National Hockey League's refereeing staff will be unchanged for the 1965-66 season.

Referee-in-chief Ian (Scotty) Morrison of Toronto said officials Frank Udvari and John Ashley of Kitchener, Vern Buffey of Toronto, Art Skov of Windsor, and Bill Friday of Hamilton, have all been reappointed.

Bo Scott Signed By Riders

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders announced Thursday night that prized halfback Bo Scott has signed a three-year contract with the Eastern Football Conference club.

No figures were released, but speculation in football circles here was that Scott would be the highest paid player in Rider history.

There were reports the over-all contract, including bonuses, would exceed $50,000.

Scott's signing was a major break-through for the Riders who open the EFC schedule tonight against the Argonauts in Toronto.

Previously, the 215-pound import had indicated he would play out his option with Ottawa this season and join Cleveland Browns of the National Football League in 1966. The Browns, who made the Ohio State grad their third college draft choice, were reported ready to pay him up to $100,000 on a long-term contract.

FIND LIGHTER HAUL

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—The largest contraband haul ever discovered in Mexico, 300,000 butane-gas cigarette lighters worth nearly 15,000,000 pesos, (about $1,300,000) has been uncovered at Vera Cruz, customs officials said Thursday.

World Hockey Revamped

CAHA Proposals Endorsed

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Canadian proposals for revamping the world ice hockey championships have been endorsed by the European executive committee of the International Ice Hockey Federation, Gordon Juckes said Thursday.

Juckes, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said the proposals would change the championship into a double round-robin contest between five teams.

At present, eight teams form the championship pool and meet each other only once. Juckes said such an eight-team pool includes three crews that are not of championship calibre.

Juckes said the proposals will come up before the IIHF next year. With the backing of both the European and North American executive committees, there is little doubt they would be approved, he said.

The CAHA proposal—rejected by the IIHF last March—also suggests two subsidiary eight-team pools be formed. Each year, the top teams would move up for future competition and the bottom teams down.

If more than 21 teams were entered, separate playoffs would be held to select the five championship teams, Juckes said.

He said he learned of the European committee's support in a telephone conversation with IIHF president J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne of London, England.

Juckes said Canada will welcome the change because "we have always felt two meetings between each team was fairer."

The 1966 championships will be held in Yugoslavia.

Carmel Wins Little League Championship

Carmel won its first South Hastings Little League title in six years last night defeating Cannifton Comets 16-4 on the latter's diamond.

Murray Whitmore went all the way for the winners, whiffing 13 and smashing out three doubles.

Damon Richardson had a field day at bat for Carmel with a homer, double and single. D. Holcroft, John Masterson, Bob Whey and Steve Hodson each had three hits with Jeff Dalton getting a double.

Mitchell, Wagar and Casey were the hitters for Cannifton.

But Vikings Like Him

Young Has Lot To Learn

BEMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — If Jim Young ever learns the rules, he may become the only Canadian playing in the National Football League.

Minnesota Vikings are convinced the young athlete from Hamilton and Queen's University of Kingston, has the talent to make the grade in the NFL as a running back.

But he's got a lot to learn before he will reach that point.

"I've got to remember I'm not playing under the same rules," Young said as he finished his third week in the Viking camp at Bemidji State College.

"It has taken me a little time, but I'm learning the American style," he said. "It's the little things that bother me, like remembering to block downfield and lining up right behind the offensive line."

For three years, Young was regarded as the best halfback in Canadian college football. He was drafted No. 1 by Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League last year. Although he had another year of college eligibility, he spurned that and the Toronto offer to sign as a free agent with the Vikings.

"If I make the Vikings, I'll be the only Canadian in the league," Young said. "That's quite an honor. I remember years of watching the NFL games on television and dreaming I might play in that league some day."

LIKES HIS 'LOOKS'

Viking coach Norm Van Brocklin, searching for a big, strong running back to spell Tommy Mason and Bill Brown, likes the looks of Young a great deal. But Van Brocklin fears he may need a year to catch up with the American style of play.

"His only basic problem," Van Brocklin said, "is that he can't block, because he never learned to block in Canadian football. He forgets to block and he has difficulty with it when he remembers.

"And remember, these are pros he's trying to block."

Best bet at this stage of the training season is that Young likely will wind up on the Viking taxi squad, an unrostered group kept by each NFL team for injury replacements and for players considered to be a year away from being able to help the varsity.

"I doubt that he will be going back to Canada," one Viking official said.

Leafs Win Over Jets, Close Gap

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Phil Regan of Syracuse Chiefs won his own game against Jacksonville Suns in International Baseball League action Thursday night.

Regan shut out the Suns on five hits and drove in the winning run in the 5-0 victory with a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning.

In other league action Toronto Maple Leafs moved within two games of league-leading Columbus Jets with a 6-2 victory over the Jets, Rochester Red Wings edged Atlanta Crackers 5-4 and Buffalo Bisons won the opener of doubleheader with Toledo Mud Hens 3-0 but dropped the nightcap 6-3.

Jack Lamabe won his seventh game against no defeats as he pitched the Leafs to victory. Lamabe allowed the Jets only six hits, struck out eight and walked only one.

One-armed Golfer Wins Honors

OTTAWA (CP)—Al Bloom proved that golf can be a one-armed game.

The Ottawa golfer has had the use of only one arm since childhood but he scored a hole - in - one this week while practising for a tournament at the Lachute Golf Club, west of Montreal.

Mr. Bloom scored the ace on the 140-yard 15th hole with a four iron.

On Wednesday he won the low net honors for Ontario golfers in the National Garment Association tournament.

He has been playing golf for 12 years.

Pitching—Whitey Ford, New York, pitched a five-hitter for his 13th victory against eight defeats as the Yankees shut out Chicago White Sox 3-0.

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

They've been passing over Fred Talbot pretty regularly this year but the young Kansas City right-hander keeps winning just the same.

Talbot became the Athletics' first 10-game winner Thursday night when he limited Boston to six hits and got help from John Wyatt for a 5-1 victory over the Red Sox.

Talbot was passed on to Kansas City in the aftermath of the complicated three - cornered trade which sent Rockey Colavito to Cleveland and John Romano from the Indians to Chicago.

With a 10-6 record and 3.48 earned run average for 140 innings, the 24-year-old pitcher is the top pitcher on the Athletics staff.

TWINS WIN

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota lengthened its lead to 5½ games over idle Baltimore by whipping Washington 8-5. New York blanked Chicago 3-0 behind Whitey Ford's five-hitter and Cleveland defeated Detroit 5-2 for Sam McDowell's 12th victory.

Joe Nossek and Zoilo Versalles provided the home run punch for Minnesota against Washington. Nossek's three-run shot built a five-run Twin lead in the third inning and Jim Kaat coasted to his 10th victory. Relief ace Johnny Klippstein finished up.

It was Ford's kind of day in Chicago — 92 degrees worth — and the Yankee southpaw responded with his 13th victory. Whitey, who has trouble on cool days because the operation on his left shoulder last winter left him with a circulation problem in his pitching hand, was in charge all the way.

Catcher Elston Howard whacked a two-run homer.

McDowell ran his American League-leading strikeout total to 211, fanning 10 Tigers. It was the 12th time in 28 starts this season that the tall left-hander has struck out 10 or more batters in a single game.

Leon Wagner and Rocky Colavito drove in two runs apiece for the Indians with Wagner stroking his 19th homer of the season.

Minor Baseball

Tip Top Cleaners edged Sine's Shell 5-3 in a B.M.B.A. Peewee contest last night.

Both teams managed only two hits as the two pitchers turned in strong efforts.

Paul Hall was the winner. He gave up two walks and struck out 11.

Peter Fralick lost a tough one, as he allowed five walks and struck out 10 besides giving up a pair of hits.

Paul Hall had the big blow for Tip Tops, a three run homer. Peter Jones collected the other Cleaner's hit.

Terry Meagher and J. Canning singled for the losers.

'Star' Status Given Few New Series Next Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In strict theatrical terms, a performer is the "star" of a show when his name appears in the billing over the title of the vehicle.

This limited definition has been broadened considerably by motion pictures and, particularly, television.

Today a television star is anyone — even an unknown — cast in a regular, leading role in a series. Or it may be a "guest star"—a performer with or without name value brought in to play a leading role in a single episode. And there are many types of special billing, like "special guest star," and "also starring" which more than anything else reflect the ingenuity and persuasiveness of the performer's agent.

In spite of the loose application of the word, television does award real star status to a few—the ones whose name is the title of the show: Andy Williams, Andy Griffith, Danny Kaye, Red Skelton, Patty Duke, Ed Sullivan, Donna Reed, Dick Van Dyke, Jimmy Dean, Jackie Gleason and Lucille Ball.

During the new season, there will be a few additions—Dean Martin, the Smothers Brothers, Steve Lawrence and John Forsythe.

IS NERVOUS

The latter wound up as title star of The John Forsythe Show, one of NBC's 10 new comedy series, largely because the producers were stuck for a suitable name. The responsibility seems to make him a little nervous.

"We originally had a dandy, The Major and the Minors," Forsythe said almost apologetically. "But we dropped that when we found the people who owned an old movie called The Major and the Minor wanted a lot of money to use it."

Forsythe, who played the title role in Bachelor Father for five television seasons—and is still seen in its re-runs all over the place—is as pleased with his new professional "family' as he was with the other one. Among the regulars are Elsa Lanchester and Ann B. Davis, who played a character named Schultzy in a Bob Cummings series for so long.

Hollywood's Dark Decade Happened in the 1950s

By BOB THOMAS

AT THE PARK — Britain's version of Brigitte Bardot is Jocelyn Lane who has the feminine romantic lead in Allied Artists "Tickle Me," which stars Elvis Presley, opening Monday at the Park Theatre for its first showing.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The 1950s were Hollywood's dark decade.

Everything seemed to conspire against the film industry. Television replaced movies as the entertainment habit. The public also lavished its leisure and cash on travel, do-it-yourself projects and a host of other distractions. Foreign film industries, with no restrictions of censorship, were cutting into the world market.

With costs rising and film attendance slashed by half, some studios flirted with bankruptcy. The companies tried 3-D, wide screens, even smellies. Nothing worked for long.

RKO and Republic ceased operations as film producers. Other companies stayed alive only by making television films, selling off real estate, drilling for oil and dumping old movies into television.

The conviction grew among producers that films would have to come to grips with sex.

Oddly enough, a maverick Viennese was to lead them. In 1952 Otto Preminger made a film version of a seemingly harmless sex play, The Moon is Blue. Because Preminger refused to excise the words "virgin" and "seduce" from the script, the production code refused a seal. The National Legion of Decency condemned the film.

The Moon is Blue turned into a big moneymaker.

The seal was refused again to Preminger for showing a drug injection by Frank Sinatra in The Man with the Golden Arm. The code banned the depiction of dope. This time the legion didn't voice condemnation.

The big chance came in 1956 when revisions provided that:

Miscegenation was no longer banned; abortion, white slavery and dope addiction could be treated with certain restrictions; swear words could be injected when dramatically valid.

The code retained bans on sex perversion, venereal disease, sex hygiene and nudity.

MONROE MAKES IMPACT

Franker films drew alarm from the keepers of public morality, but they also sparked renewed public interest in movies. No star did more to incite that interest during the 1950s than Marilyn Monroe.

She was a wisp of a girl with a whispery voice that made her seem all the sexier. In reality, she spoke softly out of sheer fright.

Yet Marilyn had an air of inborn naturalness that made her sexiness seem like the real article. Her last husband, Arthur Miller, wrote of Marilyn: "Her beauty shines because her spirit is forever showing itself."

Marilyn symbolized the new attitude toward sex in films. She feared her career would be ruined when it was revealed that she had once posed in the nude. Her career boomed after the news, and later she cheerfully autographd the photos of herself nude on red velvet.

AT THE PARK — Stephen Boyd is starred in Columbia Pictures' "Genghis Khan," in Panavision and Technicolor, as that conqueror's relentless foe. Also starred are James Mason, Eli Wallach, Francoise Dorleac, Telly Savalas, Robert Morley, Yvonne Mitchell and Omar Sharif as Genghis Khan. The big attraction is showing Today and Saturday only. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

REMEMBER WHEN

Yes! We can all remember when this house would sell for $12,000.00 but we also recall when bread was a nickel a loaf, but times have changed many things and this 4-bedroom house on Chatham Street with attached 2-car garage is not too far from the good old days, both in character and price, only $14,500.00. $2,500.00 down, 1 mortgage for the balance — $80.00 per month. Let us show you through. We have the key.

YOUR DOWN PAYMENT

may be the one considered on this very clean 2-bedroom home in the country close to Rednersville store. Very large living room, 3-pc. bath. Full price $8,000.00. Call tonight.

RANCH BUNGALOW! 2-CAR GARAGE

Be sure to see this beautiful 3-bedroom ranch style bungalow, 2-car garage. Forced air oil heating system. A lovely treed lot. Clay brick. Full ceramic tile bathroom, extra large vanity. Full price $18,500.00. $2,500.00 down, balance on one mortgage. Call to inspect, we have the key.

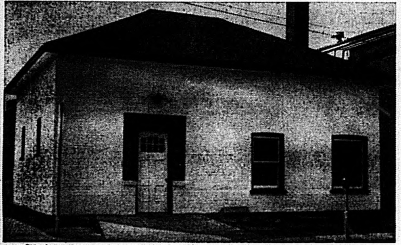
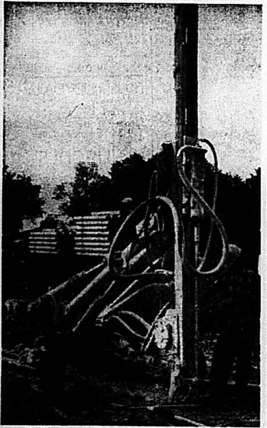
Workmen unload sewer pipes for installation of sanitary services in the new Ponton Park development. The Tatham Company is installing the services. General Contractor is Don Keller Construction.



Work on the remodelling of the old weigh scales building is scheduled for completion by next week. William Belch and Son was General Contractor. The building will be used for the Opportunity Workshop.



Drilling operations started this week on the site of the new subdivision at Ponton Park. The area is located just west of Sidney Street and north of Dundas Street West. General Contractor is Don Keller Construction.

Construction Round-up

The old weigh scales building next to the arena has been revamped in preparation for the opening of the Opportunity Shop. William Belch and Son Construction began working on the building in early July and plans to be finished by next week.

The building has been painted white, black shutters are to be added, and the inside has been completely rebuilt. The old English style of the structure has been maintained. The building is very attractive and adds a touch of interest that was previously lacking on that corner.

William Belch is also working on a new Sun Oil station at Marysville. Work has progressed to the half-way point.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring an Industrial Display at the Belleville Fair, August 16-19. Participating in the display are Northern Electric, Wilson Concrete, Deacon Brothers, Corby Distilleries, Deloro Stellite, Aluminum Star, International Hardware, Stewart-Warner, the Hasty-Pees, Junior Chamber of Commerce, W. T. Hawkins Ltd., and of course, the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

• • •

Work has started on a new 68-lot subdivision in Ponton Park just west of Sidney St. and north of Dundas St. West. General contractor for the job is Don Keller Construction. The Tatham Company Limited is now putting in the municipal services.

• • •

The Tatham Company Limited has drilled and blasted 6,600 yards of rock and excavated a large portion of it at the railroad bridge site near Harrowsmith on the Sydenham Road.

• • •

Wilson Concrete Products Limited is very busy producing the necessary precast materials for the medium security penitentiary in Warkwork. Work on the penitentiary is going full swing and will keep the company busy for a number of months.

Other jobs Wilson Concrete is busy on now are additions to a number of small schools around Ontario and especially around the Ottawa district and the new County of Hastings bridge at Lonsdale.

Dief Wants Strikes Dealt With

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Thursday called on the government to summon Parliament into special session to deal with the strikes by postal workers and grain handlers.

"The time has come to put an end to the diplomatic pussy-footing of the government," he said in a statement issued through his office here. Mr. Diefenbaker was at his home in Prince Albert, Sask.

"The prime minister and the cabinet have refused to act while all the time the national economy is suffering dislocation and disruption," the Conservative leader said.

"As leader of the Opposition, I urge the government again to call Parliament into special session to deal with these (strikes in Montreal and Vancouver) and other pressing matters.

"Only Parliament can put an end to the procrastination of the Pearson government."

Supply of Money in Hands Of Public Shows Expansion

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bank of Canada reported Thursday that the supply of money in the hands of the public expanded last week by $170,000,000 to $18,665,000,000.

The expansion of total coin, notes and chartered bank deposits came at a time when falling bids for new 91-day treasury bills forced the yield up to 4.05 per cent, its highest point since late 1962.

The 91-day treasury bill yield rose further to 4.08 per cent, in this week's action.

The central bank's weekly statistical bulletin did not indicate whether it or the chartered banks and money market brokers were the main purchasers. But Bank of Canada holdings of treasury bills before the auction were $3,400,000 lower this week than last at $429,200,000.

This indicated that it was not the central bank itself which was dropping its bid in the weekly auction in order to force the treasury bill yield up. The treasury bill yield is taken as an indicator of short-term best-security loan rates.

By expanding or allowing the money supply to expand, the central bank appeared to be anxious to demonstrate there are few if any serious economic clouds on the horizon, at least in the short term.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

FOR AUGUST 7

Aries (Mar. 21 - Apr. 19)—Be confident but avoid urge to expand too quickly. Tendency is to argue over minor matters. Important you control impulses. Evening can feature exciting, new contacts.

Taurus (Apr. 20 - May 20)—Money affairs, investments, payments and debts in spotlight. Seek knowledge. Don't hide head in proverbial sand. Be receptive to suggestion by Cancer-born individual.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)—Co-operate with mate or partner. Be aware of impression you make at public affair. Evening favors socializing, relaxing. Obtain hint from Aries message.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22)—Offer aid to Taurus individual, if requested. You will be more than repaid; The more you give today—the more you ultimately receive. Key is service.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22) — Excitement and change featured. Friends do turnabout. Many appear confused. Communicate your wishes. Make sure others know where you stand. Avoid tendency to be stubborn.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)—Accent now on domestic harmony. Avoid misunderstandings with family member. Be a willing listener. Then you make headway. Put finishing touches on favorite project.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)—Take long-range view. Avoid being impatient. What you try now apt to be merely a trial. Means refuse to be bound to only one course. Scan the opportunity horizon.

Viet Cong Asks For More Help From Hanoi

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP) — Communist guerrillas set up a steady barrage of mortar attacks early today against government outposts in a Mekong Delta region south of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The Viet Cong shelled the Vietnamese positions, ranging from 100 miles to 125 miles southwest of Saigon, with 60-millimetre and 81 - millimetre mortar rounds, an officer reported.

And as the fighting went on, the Viet Cong called Friday for help from Hanoi. This raised speculation about what lay behind the appeal.

Some observers view the Viet Cong appeal, broadcast today by Hanoi radio, as an indication that the Communists are feeling the manpower pinch. U.S. officials have claimed the guerrillas have suffered heavy losses recently.

NEW ACTION COMING?

Another theory is that the statement was a prelude to some new action by Hanoi or a move to strengthen its bargaining position should there be a new approach to the conference table.

It also may have been a response to President Johnson's July 28 announcement that the U.S. will add 50,000 troops to the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, bringing their strength to 125,000.

Up to now, Communist North Viet Nam has disclaimed direct involvement in the war. But U.S. officials say units of the north's regular army have been identified in the south and that there has been steady infiltration.

The statement was issued by the Viet Cong Tuesday, but broadcast only Friday night by the Viet Cong radio, the Hanoi broadcast said.

The North Vietnamese broadcast said the guerrillas want help "to increase our forces and step up resistance of the war 10 times more vigorously. . . ."

In another development, a South Vietnamese unit was reported to have uncovered a major Viet Cong medical facility in a jungle area 35 miles southwest of Saigon. Troops who discovered the centre Friday 10 miles north of Tan Hiep reported they found fresh food there.

The unit also uncovered a Viet Cong ammunition factory and a supply depot in the area. The bodies of 25 dead Viet Cong also were said to have been discovered. The spokesman said they had apparently been killed by air strikes.

IS SUPPORT SITE

The spokesman said the operation that led to the haul was based on intelligence reports indicating the area was a Communist logistical support site. He said it includes "small factories" capable of producing arms ammunition and mines.

"This really hurt the Viet Cong," said one U.S. Army advisor.

Election In Quebec Is Hinted

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec legislature prorogued Friday amid a quarrel between its two chambers which had members running through corridors between the two and brought a hint of an election over the abolition of the upper house from Premier Jean Lesage.

The premier made his threat of abolition to newspaper men in the press gallery, situated between the green assembly chamber, and the red legislative council.

His anger had been aroused by changes the opposition-dominated upper house made to a government bill on the second-last day of the fourth session of the 27th legislature.

Later, when the difficulty over the bill was ironed out but the threat of abolition still hung in the air, Lieutenant-Governor Paul Comtois read members of both houses a speech from the throne in the upper house which called the session "one of the most fruitful in our history."

The bill in question was the one which would merge 14 towns on Ile Jesus north of Montreal into a single city named Laval. The legislative council advanced the date on which the new city's first elections should be held, a move the government finally accepted.

The elections will be held Nov. 1, and the bill will go into effect on that date.

APPROVE LIQUOR BILL

The final day of sittings of the legislature also brought final approval for a bill changing the Quebec Liquor Act to permit freer Sunday drinking in Montreal, Quebec City and the area of the soon-to-be-born city of Laval.

Premier Lesage told reporters he has already had an address to Queen Elizabeth prepared by lawyers for dispatching to the United Kingdom if the upper house is intransigent.

"If the compromise had not been accepted," he said, "we would have adjourned the House to study this address to the Queen. You can imagine that a general election would result from that serious a constitutional issue."

The address would be the second sent to Westminster on the upper chamber by the Quebec government. One already in the U.K. government's hands calls for removal of the chamber's veto.

No Pilot Error In Crash

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A DC-8F jet that crashed near Montreal 21 months ago, killing all 118 persons aboard, probably was forced into an excessive dive because of a technical fault and hadn't enough height to recover.

That was the essence of a 9,500-word report issued Friday by a one-man federal inquiry that investigated the crash, Canada's worst air disaster.

"It is concluded that the actual cause of the accident cannot be determined with certainty," Mr. Justice George Challies of the Quebec Superior Court reported.

But he added that "the most probable cause" was a fault in the plane's automatic pitch trim compensator that forced the nose up. The pilot's efforts to overcome this situation put the plane into a dive from which it was impossible to recover in time.

The huge Trans-Canada Air Lines (now Air Canada) jet plunged straight into the ground from a height of between 5,000 and 7,000 feet and blew to bits in the early evening of Nov. 29, 1963. It had seven crew members and 111 passengers making a regular "businessmen's special" flight to Toronto.

IN FIVE MINUTES

It crashed only five minutes after takeoff from Montreal International Airport.

The chain of technical events which Mr. Justice Challies described as the most probable cause of the tragedy is no longer possible on DC-8 jets.

In September of 1964 the Douglas Aircraft Co., producer of the plane, made changes that limit to one-half of one degree the amount of nose-down trim a pilot can apply to the horizontal stabilizers. Formerly it was two degrees, or four times as much.

Similar alterations were made in the Boeing 707, the DC-8's chief rival in commercial aviation.

Under the technical circumstances that the report described as the probable cause of the crash, the pilot would be plunging earthward with his two main control devices combatting each other. The elevators would be in an "up" position and the stabilizers "down," jammed there by the air pressure.

His only remedy was to release his pull on the control column, momentarily causing a steeper and faster dive but unstalling the motor on the stabilizers.

WAS FAR SHORT

In other documented incidents of excessive jet dive it has taken at least 13,000 feet to accomplish this pull-out procedure. The Montreal jet was about 6,000 feet short of that requirement.

The circumstances of the Montreal crash were identical with one three months later near New Orleans and led to a joint Canadian-American study. It included flying tests with DC-8s.

Mr. Justice Challies said the direct cause of the crash apparently was the action of the pilot in adjusting the horizontal stabilizers to put the jet's nose down. These motor-driven sta-

May Ask Montreal Postmen To Work Until Vote Taken

Soldiers Move Mail

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Postal union leaders have returned to Montreal after indications Friday that striking postmen in the metropolis may be asked today to return to work — at least temporarily.

William Houle, president of the Postal Employees Association in Montreal, ducked out the back door of the Canadian Labor Congress headquarters here Friday night to avoid reporters in the corridor.

But Mr. Houle and other Montreal union leaders could be heard discussing a possible national strike referendum with officers of the Postal Workers Brotherhood.

It was suggested at one point in the closed meeting that the striking workers be asked to return pending the outcome of a vote. The Montreal team admitted it would be difficult to get the strikers out again once they had returned to work but said this could be done.

The postal brotherhood said ballots for a referendum could be moving within three days to workers across the country.

However, neither Quebec nor other delegates would say after the meeting what decisions would be arrived at.

The wildcat strike of 4,100 Montreal postmen started July 22.

LIFT EMBARGOES

About 1,300 part-time employees and some army personnel now are trying to restore service and all embargoes against mailing are expected to be lifted Monday.

Postmaster - General Tremblay, in Montreal today overseeing the operation, lifted the embargo against first-class mail Friday night.

The six union leaders from Montreal spent about two hours with the brotherhood, then another hour with CLC President Claude Jodoin.

As reporters talked to Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC), and Roger Decarie, another Montreal union leader, Mr. Houle skipped out the back door.

Another spokesman said the Montreal delegation will present its views to the union executive which must announce any submission to the membership which is meeting at 2 p.m EDT.

Mr. Houle and the others earlier Friday had a two - hour meeting with Revenue Minister Benson and twice saw Judge J. C. Anderson, whose pay boost recommendations the Montrealers turned down Thursday night.

CONSIDER REPORT

The brotherhood and a special committee composed of officers of the postal clerks letter carriers and railway mail clerks groups late Friday issued a terse statement:

"The executive of the Postal Workers Brotherhood and the ad hoc committee have met and have carefully considered Judge Anderson's report in every de-

Hundreds Demonstrate In U.S. Against LBJ's Viet Nam Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) —Critics by the hundreds Friday demonstrated, some into the night, in Washington, California and Indiana against President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

In Washington, about 600 persons attended a four-hour rally in a park across from the Whits House to mark the beginning of what was called a four-day assembly of unrepresented people. A smaller number staged a sit-in at a White House gate. Scores of police were on guard against outbreaks.

Demonstrators included Abraham Feinberg, rabbi emeritus of Holy Blossom Temple in Toronto, who told the park gathering that Johnson's policies are leading all mankind to the brink of nuclear holocaust.

In Emeryville, Calif., about 300 pickets tried unsuccessfully to block a 22-car train hauling troops to the Oakland, Calif., army terminal.

In Bloomington, Ind., more than 100 Indiana University students and a few professors paraded downtown with such signs as "stop the slaughter of Vietnamese people."

A 100 - member delegation sought to present a "declaration of conscience" to President Johnson Friday. When he refused to receive it personally, about 60 pickets staged a sit-in at an entrance to the White House grounds.

Although it was against the practices of his religion, Rabbi Feinberg knelt for one-half hour in front of the White House with folksinger Joan Baez and A. J. Mustie, 81 - year - old national chairman of the Committee for Non-Violent Action.

Earlier, speakers at the rally in the park had denounced fighting in Viet Nam, called for admission of China to the United Nations and pointed out that the day marked the 20th anniversary of the dropping of an atomic bomb on Hiroshima, Japan.

The assembly began to break up at the end of a long, hot afternoon, and Miss Baez said:

"I don't think the president gives much of a damn."

Some pickets distributed pamphlets asking contributions for the "committee to aid the National Liberation Front of South Viet Nam." The Liberation Front is the Viet Cong group.

Mustie told reporters there might be some Communists in the crowd but he doubted it.

The Emeryville, Calif., demonstration was the second of its kind in two days.

Three hundred pickets gathered at the Sante Fe Railway crossing, seeking to halt the four-diesel troop train by sitting on the rails. But as the train slowly approached, a flying wedge of about 30 deputies from the Alameda County sheriff's office forced them off the tracks.

No one was injured or arrested.

Meanwhile, in Congress the House of Represent atives armed service committee approved a bill calling for a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine for anyone convicted of destroying his draft card.

National Chinese Navy Sinks Three Red Warships Off Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese Navy claimed three Chinese Communist warships were sunk south of Quemoy Friday in a dawn sea battle with two Nationalist warships. The navy said the two Nationalist navy vessels are missing.

The Nationalist navy said two warships were on patrol south of the Nationalist island fortress of Quemoy in Formosa Strait when they were attacked by Chinese Communist naval vessels. The Nationalist warships returned the fire, hitting three Communist ships which caught fire and sank, the navy statement added.

Then contact with the two Nationalist vessels was lost and other navy vessels and planes were dispatched to search for them, the navy said.

Peking's version, broadcast by Peking radio and monitored in Tokyo, made no mention of Communist Chinese losses but identified the two Nationalist navy vessels claimed sunk as the sub-chasers Chien Men and Chang Chiang.

No Nationalist navy submarine chasers with those names are listed in the Jane's Fighting Ships, an authoritative directory of the world's navies. There is, however, one called Chang Kiang. This is a 280-ton vessel, formerly the U.S. PC 1232.

Find Bodies Of Couple At Wasaga

WASAGA BEACH (CP)—The bodies of a Toronto couple were found Friday in a cabin on River Road East.

Police declined to say what caused the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fitzgerald, but it is believed they had been dead for several days.

The bodies have been taken to the attorney-general's laboratory in Toronto. They were found by a caretaker who went to the cabin because she had not seen the Fitzgeralds around since Wednesday.

Det.-Sgt. Thomas Lennon of the provincial police detachment in Barrie, when asked about the possibility of foul play, said: "We always keep an open mind in these matters."

Wasaga Beach is a resort area about 20 miles northwest of Barrie.

Manitoulin Fiddler Wins

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP) — Arthur McKinlay, 68, of Gore Bay, on Manitoulin Island, won the 65-years-and-over title Friday night at the Canadian open championship old time fiddlers' contest.

Mr. McKinlay, appearing at the national fiddle championships for the first time, won out over 12 other competitors in the class.

Start Enforcing Vote Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. justice department presses the button today to start enforcement of the new law against obstacles to Negro voting.

The department is going into court at Jackson, Miss., to challenge that state's poll tax.

Federal voting - registration machinery will be set up next week in still undesignated areas in the south, and additional poll tax suits filed.

Attorney - General Nicholas Katzenbach had no prediction of how many new Negro voters the law will bring to the polls.

"As the president said, this act and its enforcement open the gates. Walking through them is up to individual Negroes throughout the south," Katzenbach told a reporter.

Dr. Martin Luther King, civil rights leaders, has said workers expect to help some 900,000 southern Negroes register by the end of the month. He hailed the new voting-rights law Friday as one that "will go a long way toward removing all the obstacles to the right to vote."

The justice department today brings about specific application of the ban on voter-qualification tests in areas where less than half the adult population cast ballots in last November's election. The tests are banned in Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia, Alaska, part of North Carolina and scattered counties elsewhere.

The Weather

Synopsis: A slow-moving disturbance over Wisconsin will end the current heat wave on Sunday and Sunday night as it moves slowly eastward across southern Ontario. The result will be an unsettled weather picture for the weekend throughout southern and central Ontario.

Pound Remains Weak But Stable After Days of Heavy Trading

LONDON (AP) — The pound remained weak but stable Friday after several days of heavy selling prompted by fears of devaluation.

The Bank of England again had to step in with support for forward rates, but not as much support was needed as Thursday.

Sterling closed Friday at $2.79⅛ (U.S.), the same level as it opened. There had been some pressure during the day, but many dealers held off trading for fear of being left with sterling during the weekend.

Most of the pressure was on forward sterling — pounds for delivery three and six months from now. Foreign traders buy forward pounds to cover themselves against future fluctuations in the rate.

The price of gold continued to mount slightly. It closed at $35.19143 (U.S.), a gain of ¼ of a cent above Thursday's closing price. This matches the peaks established during the last sterling crisis four years ago, during the Cuban missile crisis and during the gold rush inspired by French monetary policies earlier this year.

Some of the rise was attributed by financial experts to holders of sterling switching to gold as a hedge against devaluation. But general uneasiness about Viet Nam, a possible contraction of world trade and the tight international monetary system also were major factors.

Prime Minister Wilson has given repeated assurances that Britain will not try to solve its economic crisis by devaluation, as it did in 1949. Thursday, he called the latest devaluation rumors "neurotic."

Thursday night Edward Heath, new leader of the opposition Conservative party, stopped just short of pinning himself down to pledging that any Conservative government would also refuse to devalue. However, he did say: "I do not believe that devaluation of the pound can be justified on rational grounds."

North Bay to Kingston Canoe Race Starts Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Three territorial teams will be among the eight that strike out from North Bay Monday in a 600-mile canoe race to Kingston.

It is a trial race for the centennial voyageur canoe pageant planned for 1967 in which it is hoped entries from all provinces and both territories will paddle 3,500 miles from Rocky Mountain House, Alta., to Montreal.

It was hoped to have western trials for the 1967 test in Saskatchewan this summer but they have had to be cancelled. Half the eight teams coming to North Bay for what were to be the eastern trials are from the West.

Ontario, Alberta and the Northwest Territories each have entered two teams and the Yukon and New Brunswick one each.

They'll be racing under conditions similar to those planned for the pageant. The North Bay-Kingston test is expected to provide valuable experience for both commodores and paddlers.

BRINGS INDIAN TEAMS

Father Brown is a Roman Catholic missionary priest.

His teams are made up of young Indians, one group coming from the Mackenzie River Delta near the Arctic Ocean and the other from the Great Slave Lake area just north of the Alberta boundary.

The 1967 race will mean a first prize of $2,500 to each member of the winning team, $2,000 to each member of the second-place team, and $1,500 to everyone in the third team.

The other nine teams will share $63,000 split 63 ways.

The Centennial Commission, which has budgeted $350,000 for the trials, next year's tests and the actual pageant, supplies canoes and transportation.

The commodores, for instance, are allowed daily expenses of $30 plus cost of renting station wagons. The paddlers get a $7 daily meal allowance.

The 25-foot canvas canoes weigh 200 pounds and the paddlers must also carry provisions, as did the voyageurs.

Unlike the voyageurs, they'll be closely safeguarded and two-way radio systems will keep them in touch.

WILL BE WATCHED

During the 1967 race, they'll be preceded and followed by rescue boats, patrolled by helicopters, and in stormy northern Lake Superior, watched by a naval ship.

The North Bay-Kingston route is well known, running across Lake Nipissing and down the French River to Georgian Bay.

They'll enter the Trent-Severn system from the bay and paddle to Lake Ontario and Kingston.

There will be a ceremonial start Sunday with the blessing of the canoes and a sprint at North Bay but they won't leave for Kingston until Monday.

Another group of centennial paddlers is to reach Fort William Monday. They are mapping the route from Kenora to North Bay.

Bountiful Array Of Produce on Local Market

A bountiful array of colorful produce greeted city shoppers this morning on the city market.

A rarity, English broadbeans, made probably their first and last appearance selling at 25 cents for two quarts.

New corn prices dipped to 60 cents the dozen and field tomatoes slipped to $1.25 the basket and 40 cents the quart.

Raspberries red and blue were 50 and 45 cents the quart box. Blueberries sold at 65 cents the quart and $3.50 the six-quart basket.

Montmorency cherries sold well at $1.35 the basket. New potatoes were offered at 65 cents for six quarts and $3.00 the bushel.

Yellow Harvester apples outsold the Red Astrachans selling at 80 cents a basket with the Reds asking 75 cents.

Cucumbers were ten cents each, three for 25 cents; yellow string beans went at 75 cents the basket and 25 cents the quart. Carots and beets were offered at 25 cents the bunch, two for 25 cents. Head lettuce went at 20 cents with the leaf variety going at 15 cents.

Red currants sold at 35 cents the quart box. Cauliflower varied between 20 and 30 cents the head. Cabbage was offered at 20 cents the head. Pickling gherkins sold at $1.50 the basket and "dills" $1.25.

New peas were offered at a dollar a six quart basket in the pod and 25 cents the box.

JET AVOIDS FIGHTERS

GENEVA (AP) — A New York-bound jetliner took off 3½ hours late Friday after an incident in which it narrowly avoided colliding with three Italian jet fighters over the Mediterranean island of Elba. TWA Flight 801, Rome-New York, via Geneva and Paris, landed safely here after pilot Capt. John Kennedy took evasive action to avoid the fighters. The 62 passengers were unhurt.

E. Sandercock Recuperating At His Home

Elmer Sandercock, Deputy Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, now is recuperating at home following a stay in hospital.

Yesterday he said he hopes to relax in the next few weeks at his Belleville home — a time of the year when provincial legislative business is at a minimum of activity.

However, while public business may be light, he could have much personal correspondence to deal with.

"I received no end of good wishes while I was in hospital," he said. "Not only gifts of flowers and fruit, but letters and cards came in, not by scores — but in stacks."

The mail arrived from friends, constituents, lodges and community organizations.

"I don't know how one man — politician or not — could reply to them all at once," he added. "However, I want to express my deepest appreciation to all those who wrote myself and Mrs. Sandercock."

"Neither can I forget the doctors, nurses in fact the entire staff of Belleville General. Their many thoughtful and unsolicited acts of kindness contribute in no small measure to a patient's recovery."

Treatment of Mental Patients Said Outmoded

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Frank Rubenstein, former director of social work at the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, said in an interview Thursday that the treatment of mental patients in Ontario is shamefully outmoded.

"The Ontario hospital system has been bankrupt for 50 years and has only succeeded in filling more and more beds," he said.

Dr. Rubenstein blamed the situation on public apathy and attitudes of the government and mental health officials.

"The government is still concentrating on hospital beds rather than on people," he said. "But everyone who is sick doesn't need a bed. Only one out of three now in mental hospitals should be there."

Dr. Rubenstein said mental hospitals should be de-centralized and smaller. Places such as the Ontario Hospital on Toronto's Queen Street should not exist, he said.

Dr. Rubenstein favors hospital day care which allows the patient to go home at night.

He said "mental illness is epidemic" and agreed with a recent Canadian Mental Health Association survey that estimated one of every five people are in need of help.

If proper and sufficient care were given at the right time this would reduce the number admitted and re-admitted to hospitals, he said.

Finds Penny Father Lost 41 Years Ago

MIDDLEBURY, Conn. (AP) Forty-one years ago, Merill Booth went fishing with his father at Kelly's Pond.

Booth, who now lives in Waterbury, Conn., never forgot the trip because his father lost a pocketfull of change at the pond that day, including a large copper penny minted in 1793.

Recently, while on a drive with his wife, Booth passed Kelly's Pond and saw someone fishing.

He stopped to chat, then explained to his wife how he and his father used to turn rocks over to find worms for bait.

"Let me show you," he said, turning a stone. Sure enough, there was a worm.

Booth reached for the worm, but found something hard between his fingers instead. It was a 1793 penny—undoubtedly, he said the one his father lost in 1924.

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The 20th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki coincides with a bleak outlook at Geneva, where representatives of 17 countries are making yet another attempt to safeguard the world from any more atomic destruction.

The disarmament conference which resumed July 27 after a 10-month adjournment, completed its second sterile week on the anniversary of the destruction of Hiroshima and begins its third week 20 years after the second Japanese city was hit by an atomic bomb. The anniversaries have done nothing to inspire any easing of the differences between East and West—nor among the Western participants for that matter.

Even as Canada's Gen. E. L. M. Burns was vainly pressing the urgency of a treaty to prevent the proliferation of nuclear arms, a report from Jakarta hinted at the possibility of Indonesia joining the nuclear club with China's help.

Indonesian military leaders and President Sukarno himself have talked of an "imminent" atomic test. Western observers believe a Chinese atomic device might be exploded on one of the small Indonesian islands with the help of Indonesian technicians.

EFFORTS FUTILE

The reported Chinese activity underlines a feeling of futility about the Geneva talks. Of the five nuclear powers, only Russia, the United States and Britain are involved in efforts to agree on methods of preventing the spread of nuclear arms to other countries, to freeze or cut back their own atomic arsenals and to extend the two-year-old treaty banning nuclear testing to cover underground explosions.

Russia has made acceptance of a treaty to prevent dissemination of nuclear weapons conditional on a Western pledge to drop plans for a multilateral nuclear force that would include West Germany.

Canada's chief delegate responded to this stand by arguing Thursday that an agreement on preventing the spread of nuclear weapons would serve as a guarantee against Germany acquiring nuclear arms. At the same time, Burns said West Germany has much more to fear from Russia than vice versa.

NEED GUARANTEE

He warned that a treaty preventing the spread of nuclear weapons would be useless without an accompanying guarantee of "a degree of security against nuclear attack" for nations that forego nuclear armament.

Burns said outside the conference that such safeguards would "not necessarily" be covered in any treaty itself. Britain's chief delegate, Lord Chalfont, went further, and said guarantees against nuclear attack should definitely be considered separately from the treaty.

Such differences of emphasis have marked the Western approach throughout. The United States and Italy have been reported cool towards a British proposal—designed to meet Russian conditions—that would allow Russia to opt out of a non-proliferation treaty in the event that any Western international force should give non-nuclear countries access to atomic weapons.

The United States, Britain, Italy and Canada are meeting in an attempt to reconcile their differences. Until the Western allies agree, there can be little prospect of progress towards the much more formidable goal of East-West agreement.

TED BENJAMIN HOWARD
(Crookston, — Harold, Ont.)

MADOC — The funeral of Mr. Ted Benjamin Howard, late of R. R. 1 Crookston and formerly of Harold was held on Friday afternoon August 6th with service conducted in the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc by Rev. T. W. Sedore assisted by Rev. R. Hawley. The funeral home was filled to overflowing by the many relatives and friends in attendance and there was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Bearers were: Clarence Farrow, Cleo Bedell, Donald Reid, Lindsay Tanner, Stanley Thompson and Harold Adley.

Interment took place in White Lake Cemetery.

MRS. ETHEL HART

Funeral services for Mrs. Ethel Hart of R.R. 5, Belleville, were held yesterday in the Grant Funeral Home. Mr. Roy McGrath and Rev. Fred Edmondson officiated.

Belleville Chapter, No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star, held a memorial service in the funeral home Thursday evening, attended by Worthy Matron Wynn Tomlinson, Worthy Patron Bruce Simpson and Sisters Luella Brickman, Laura Simpson, Marjorie Gray, Jean Stephenson, Lottie Faulkner, Dorothy Ellis and Wanda Clare.

Bearers were Gordon Woods, Mac Nobes, John Emerson, Byron Harder, Albert Christopher and Gilbert Sills.

Interment was at White's cemetery.

Wheel, Wing Of Plane Found In West Lake

WELLINGTON — A wheel and wing of a plane in which a Guelph family of four died two weeks ago was found near here last night — fifty miles from the scene of the crash off Port Hope.

RCAF officials at Trenton said it was presumed part of the light aircraft in which Mr. and Mrs. Stroy Leith and their two sons died en route from Watertown, N.Y. to Toronto, July 24.

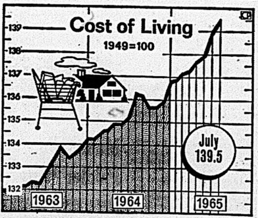
Wreckage was found the next day floating in Lake Ontario, 15 miles southwest of Port Hope.

The wheel was still retracted beneath the wing when taken from West Lake last night. The tip of the wing was missing, and the only identification left were the letters CFL.

The wreckage was taken to Trenton by an Air Search and Rescue helicopter and stored for inspection Monday by Federal Department of Transport officials.

CRASH KILLS SEVEN

PURCELL, Okla. (AP) — Seven persons were killed Friday night in a two-car, head-on collision on rain-slick Oklahoma Highway 74, south of Oklahoma City, the highway patrol reported.



LIVING COSTS RISE AGAIN — The consumer price index, Canada's cost-of-living gauge, rose 0.5 per cent during June to a new high of 139.5 in July. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said the index stood at 136.2 a year ago. The increase, based in most categories on prices in early July, was mostly due to higher prices for food and housing. The index is based on 1949 prices qualling 100. (CP Newsmap)

B.C. Mountain Picks ROTP Men From Boys

By T. M. CLARIDGE

ESQUIMALT, B.C. (CP)—A 5,000-foot wilderness mountain is the crucible in which the navy discovers the mettle of its cadets.

The unnamed peak is the centre of a week of "expedition training" for cadets in the Regular Officer Training Program.

Seventy ROTP cadets went through the training this summer.

At remote Buttle Lake in north-central Vancouver Island, cadets use an elderly LCM landing craft supplied by a mining firm to land on the shore of the lake and climb the mountain overlooking the lake.

Navy officials say the training started two years ago when someone suggested Canada's peace-keeping role with the United Nations might require navy to land or provide seaborne support to ground troops.

The expedition training, under direction of Lt.-Cmdr. C. H. Humble of Victoria, consists of two- and five-day courses.

After arrival at base camp—a collection of 15 army tents at the mouth of a creek — the cadets are trained in a series of skills including use of map and compass, trail-cooking bivouacking, use of axe and knife, camp equipment and use of plant life as food in emergencies.

CAMP ON PEAK

Practical tests on the training completed, the cadets split into two divisions, each under command of experienced expedition leaders.

After some smaller exercises the cadets put all their organization, leadership and stamina to a test in a 5,000-foot climb up a steep mountain in the Vancouver Island range.

They spend a night on the mountain and return the following day.

During the exercise each cadet carries 45 pounds on his back in a packboard—a two-day ration of food, plastic sheets for making a tent and groundsheet, a bedroll, cooking equipment, mess tins and a survival handbook.

A lot of the cadets, picked from universities and armed services colleges across the country, have never before seen wilderness camp life. They usually ended up overawed with the breath-taking island scenery.

Commander W. H. Atkinson, officer commanding HMCS Venture, says the navy can find out more about a young officer cadet in the one week on the trail "than during three months 'ashore'."

"It's important to the navy and the cadet himself that we find out what kind of chap he is as soon as possible."

FIND FOOTPRINTS

MILLINOCKET, Me. (AP)—The discovery of new footprints and a tree carving Friday threw no new light on the week-long disappearance in Maine of Robbie Mott, 17, a mentally retarded diabetic, and his brother, Timothy, 3, of Rochester, N.Y. The footprints were found about six miles northeast of the Roaring Brook camp site where the boys were last seen.

Piano Damaged In Fire at Hotel Quinte

Firemen played water on a piano in the Hotel Quinte early this morning—after fire broke out in a reception suite.

Firemen say the blaze apparently started from a cigaret that had fallen into the piano earlier in the night.

As a precaution 17 guests in the vicinity of the fire, in the hotel's Prince Edward Suite, were awakened when the alarm was turned in at 4.45 a.m.

Loss was confined to smoke and water damage.

Plaque to Commemorate Monck Road Will Be Unveiled at Bancroft

On August 12, an historical plaque will be unveiled in the village of Bancroft to commemorate the Monck Road, a pioneer colonization road. This plaque is one of a series being erected throughout the province by the Department of Tourism and Information, acting on the advice of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario.

Thursday's ceremony, which will commence at 2.30 p.m., is being arranged and sponsored by the Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce, and is being held in conjunction with the opening day ceremonies of the second annual Bancroft "Gemboree." The joint ceremonies will take place at the Gemboree grounds on Highway No. 62 about a mile and a half north of Bancroft.

Mr. Bernard Shapiro, president of the Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce, will act as program chairman, and the Honorable James A. C. Auld, Ontario's Minister of Tourism and Information, will give the principal address. Others expected to take part in the program are: Gordon Groves, reeve of Bancroft; W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. (Hastings West); Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. (Hastings East); Roderick A. Webb, M.P. (Hastings- Frontenac); Dr. G. F. G. Stanley, a member of the province's Historic Sites Board; and John L. Churcher, tourist secretary of the Bancroft Chamber of Commerce. The plaque will be unveiled by Mr. Groves and dedicated by the Rev. H. Maloney of the Church of Our Lady of Mercy, Bancroft.

Attracting immigrants to Canada, and the reduction of the loss of these and native-born Canadians to the United States were vital problems in the 1850's. One measure, taken in 1853, was the passage of the Public Lands Act, whereby a maximum of 100 acres of land would be granted free to any person willing to settle in the "wild lands" of the province.

MANY ROADS BUILT

There were millions of acres of undeveloped land, much of it heavily timbered and some of it suitable for cultivation, though the authorities took an overly optimistic view of the latter. An added inducement was required, the provision of access to these areas, and to this end the government launched an ambitious program of road building. These roads included such routes as the Opeongo Road, the Muskoka Road, the Hastings Road and the Bobacygeon Road.

The Monck Road, a pioneer colonization road was constructed for the dual purpose of opening up a wilderness area to settlement and providing an alternative, less vulnerable, military route between the upper Great Lakes and the Ottawa Valley, at a time when relations with the United States were tense. Its line from the vicinity of Lake Couchiching to the junction of the Hastings and Mississippi colonization Roads at the hamlet of York River (now Bancroft) was surveyed in 1864-5.

Peter Gibson surveyed the western part and T. Weatherald surveyed ten and a quarter miles eastward from the Bobcaygeon Road before withdrawing owing to the death of his brother. His work was continued by Robert Gilmour who surveyed from Snowdon township to the Hasting Road. In 1866 John A. Snow re-examined the westerly part which had been surveyed by Gibson in order to locate more a favorable line.

Named in honor of the Governor General Lord Monck, (1861-68) construction began in the spring of 1866 at the western terminus in Mara township.

In a letter from J. W. Bridgland, superintendent of Colonization Roads to the Commissioner of Crown Lands dated July 9, 1866 we find direct references to the Monck Road as a planned military route. "Under the present somewhat war like aspect of our Country, I beg again to revive the consideration of constructing the Colonization Road line called the Monck Road the works upon which are already commenced at the western terminus as a Military Highway.

The great advantage of a thorough internal communication road from the navigable water of Lake Huron to those of the Ottawa by which military stores and troops may be transported and deposited can hardly be over estimated, indeed it seems to have become in the present threatening emergency an indispensible necessity. There will be no difficulty in selecting eligible points along the line for block houses and arsenal depots, at convenient distances of thirty or forty mile intervals where an abundant supply of water can be had and even in some cases where an internal water route can be made available for a great distance towards the frontier . . . the Monck Road can in my opinion be made very satisfactory to serve the important purpose now before your consideration".

BUILT IN SECTIONS

Built in sections, the Monck Road was not completed until 1873 and never did prove very satisfactory. Using present day names the route might be described as passing through North Mara, Rathburn, Sebright, Dartmoor, Uphill, Head Lake, Norland, Kinmount, Furnace Falls, Irondale, Gooderham, Monck Road and Bancroft.

An article in the Orillia Times of April 8, 1875, two years after the completion of the Monck Road, shows that it quickly fell into disrepair. "This important thoroughfare is in a most deplorable state at the present, bridges are out of repair and one has already been almost entirely swept away. It must be remembered that this Road was opened by the government some years ago for the purpose of, like other colonization roads, promoting the settlement of the Crown Domain, and since then the settlers have been obliged to keep it in repair which they have only been partially able to accomplish owing to the small number of those along the road. The government have afforded some slight assistance but the expended has almost been thrown away . . . One fact, however, is certain that this important outlet to a large section of valuable land should not be neglected . . ."

Although there is no evidence that the Monck Road was ever used for military purposes, one of the original intentions, its contribution to the settlement of the inland areas adjacent to its route, should not be underestimated. In common with other contemporary colonization roads, it was often in disrepair and passage during the summer months very difficult. However, it did serve its purpose of encouragong settlement and today provides a picturesque link with our pioneer life of a century or so ago.

No Promising Avenue to Peace In Message

By JOHN HEFFERNAN

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The United States government does not see any promising avenue to peace in the message that President Johnson received Friday from President Kwame Nkrumah, U.S. officials made clear today.

They said there is little reason to believe that it brings the prospects for an end to the Vietnamese war any closer.

The officials emphasized that this was a message from the Ghana chief of state to President Johnson, and did not contain any direct communication from Hanoi to Washington.

Diplomatic sources said the message did not contain any indication that Hanoi is willing to talk on terms that would be acceptable to the United States.

Observers drew attention to the comparatively short time—15 minutes—which Alex Quaison-Sackey, the Ghana foreign minister, actually spent with Johnson. This was interpreted as a fair indication of the relatively relaxed manner in which the Johnson administration regarded the Ghana peace mission.

Johnson may reply today to Nkrumah's message on Viet Nam, emphasizing to the Ghana leader the American view that North Viet Nam holds the key to peace.

U.S. officials privately discouraged speculation that Nkrumah's letter had opened up any promising new prospects for a peace settlement.

The letter was delivered late Friday by Quaison-Sackey, and was reported to deal with peace soundings made in the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi by President Nkrumah's special emissary.

Canning Plant Union Studies Plea to Work

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)— A proposal by the Ontario government that workers at a packing plant here return to work, while their dispute with the company is put to binding arbitration, has been called a "tactic" by the union.

However, the executive of Local 459 of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers Union (CLC) said Friday it is considering the proposal by Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree in the union's dispute with H. J. Heinz Company of Canada Ltd.

Caught in the middle are hundreds of area farmers, whose tons of tomatoes may rot in the field if the packing plant strike is not settled soon. The walkout began July 27.

Rivard Given Permission to Get Money Back

MONTREAL (CP) — A Superior Court judge Friday gave permission to Lucien Rivard to open court proceedings to get back the $16,515.50 that was in his possession when he was captured July 16.

Mr. Justice Robert Lafleur allowed the move by Rivard's lawyer, Dollard Dansereau, as a reaction to a suit filed July 27 by the Royal Bank of Canada against the Montreal police who are holding the money.

The bank said the cash is part of the loot stolen in a $1,400,000 postal truck hijacking in March, 1964.

Rivard, in jail in Texas awaiting trial on narcotics smuggling charges, said through his lawyer that provincial police who seized the money refused "over and over again" to give back the cash and illegally handed it over to the city without his permission.

He demands that Superior Court declare him sole owner of the money and order police to repay it within 15 days of judgment.

July Sales Of GM Cars Sets Record

OSHAWA — An all time record for sales of North American cars and trucks in the month of July — the sixth monthly record in a row — has been established by General Motors dealers across Canada.

Car and truck sales totalling 25,572 last month compared with 23,603 in July of last year. Passenger car sales reached 21,252, up from 19,086 in the same month a year ago. Truck sales last month were 4,320 compared with 4,517 in July, 1964.

Teachers at Summer Course Aid Groups for Retarded

The five weeks Ontario Department of Education Elementary Schools Summer Auxiliary Course being held at Moira Secondary School wound up activities Friday and the course Students' Council at the same time wound up with a profit.

But that doesn't mean there will be a Students' Council fund carry-over — in fact as result of a goodwill gesture the fund is now entirely depleted.

During final assembly Friday the Student Council president Carl Reid of the OSD instructional staff in Belleville, presented cheques to the Plainfield hospital for retarded infants and the Belleville school for retarded children.

The cheque for $90 for the Plainfield hospital was accepted by the board chairman Mr. O. Griffiths, and the $35 cheque to the Belleville retarded infant's school was accepted on behalf of the school by Arthur Bradford.

U.S. Doubts Chinese Serve With Viet Cong

SAIGON (Reuters) — U.S. military officials here were highly sceptical today of claims by American advisers that Chinese officers are serving with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regular troops fighting in the Duc Co area, 215 miles northeast of Saigon.

They said there have been many similar reports from the field in the past, and none has ever been substantiated.

The reports frequently arise through intercepted field radio communications in which two or more Viet Cong radio operators speak to one another in Chinese, the official said.

However, they said, the only Chinese captured with Viet Cong units have been Vietnamese of Chinese descent.

There are about 2,000,000 Chinese living in South Viet Nam.

Sinatra Not Planning to Wed Actress

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP)— Actress Rosalind Russell squelched rumors today that singer Frank Sinatra and television actress Mia Farrow planned to get married during their one-month vacation cruise on New England waters.

Miss Russell told reporters on Martha's Vineyard Island:

"I can assure you they are not getting married here or on this voyage. There is no suggestion of it."

Miss Rusell is one of the party accompanying the 49-year-old Sinatra and the 19-year-old Miss Farrow on a vacation trip aboard a luxurious 168-foot yacht.

Others include actresses Claudette Colbert and Merle Oberon and their husbands.

Sinatra went ashore only once during the three days the yacht Southern Breeze has been moored some 500 yards offshore. The others have made brief shopping trips.

Chambers More Livable With New Unit

TRENTON — Trenton Council, some of whose members have sweltered through many a long session in past summers, sat in cool comfort during Thursday night's two-hour session. The reason? A new air conditioning unit had been installed in the council chamber that day. Even Councillor Duncan McDonald, who last month wore a heavy jacket to the meeting on an attempt to dissuade his fellows from spending money on the installation, agreed the atmosphere was exhilarating.

One fault, noted by members of the press at the rear of the chamber, was that when the unit was working, it was very hard to hear the councillors' remarks and arguments.

WILL PAINT CELLS

Trenton's police station is to be made more attractive to those who are forced to accept the hospitality of the police force.

The cell blocks, washrooms and entry hall are to be painted by men from the town's public works' department.

Will Repair Bulldozer at Cost of $1,000

TRENTON — Acting on recommendations from the public works' committee, Trenton council voted Thursday night to spend $1,000 for repairs to the bulldozer, used in the past to spread dirt over garbage at the town dump, but relegated to the town yards now that the spreading operation has been taken over by a salvage firm. Last year, $4,500 was spent on repairing the bulldozer . . . this year, $1,700 has been collected in rental fees for the piece of equipment. And it might yet be pressed into service at the dump, and rental charged back to the salvage firm, should the firm's bulldozer be laid up for repairs.

Council also voted to have a storm sewer installed on Queen Street, at the rear of King Street United Church, to relieve flooding conditions at this point. Estimated cost of the work is around $500.

A sidewalk will be built on the south side of the Carrying Place Road, from the Knox Gelatin plant to Dufferin Ave.

Local Jeweller Enjoys Trip To Convention

TRENTON — Local jeweller, Michael Gartner, attended the Lions' International convention in Los Angeles this month as the official delegate from the Trenton club. There were 55,000 delegates to the convention, which was highlighted by a monster parade down Hollywood Boulevard.

Mr. Gartner flew from Toronto to L.A. and took a helicopter to the roof of the downtown Los Angeles Hotel. His trip included a visit to Disneyland, a bus trip to visit relatives in San Jose and a motor trip to Santa Cruz.

Since returning home, Mr. Gartner has received greetings from many U.S. Lions and one from a Lion in Jamaica.

Cost to Fight Fires in Twp. Aired

TRENTON — The town of Trenton will send out an itemized estimate of what it costs the town to fight fires in Ameliasburg Township, as the township council has asked for a review of fire fighting costs. The Ameliasburg council members are reported to feel Trenton's costs of $1,000 down, (annually), $350 for the first three fires and $125 for each fire thereafter, are out of line with what they are paying Belleville to render a similar service. Trenton's fee is based on the number of men involved and equipment depreciation costs, among other factors.

REPORT GIVEN

Trenton's assessment commissioner, J. Allan Smith reported to Trenton council Thursday night that the assessment picture in the town was not as good as it had been in previous years. Mr. Smith lays this to a saturation in house building.

Nevertheless, Mr. Smith expects to increase the assessment by the $350,000 council needs this year to fulfill capital budget spending.

Highway Toll

The highway accident graph grinds inexorble upwards and it would appear nothing can e done about it. There is an inevitability bout highway accidents that is terrifying to ehold.

Having said that, however, is to recognize hat drastic steps must be taken sooner or later o reduce the number of accident deaths—now unning at the rate of 24,000 a year in the nited States and 5,000 annually in Canada.

Meanwhile the incidence of outright reckessness is increasing. The other day we reerred to a fatality on the Clayton-Watertown, .Y., highway that killed three Kingston teengers. Witnesses said their car pulled out to ass a line of cars and was in collision with nother vehicle.

An identical manoeuvre by a young driver n the two-lane stretch of Highway 401 west of rockville at 10.30 p.m. last Friday (the same me as the New York accident occurred) relted in a head-on collision with a tiny compact nd the death of the 20-year-old Quebec girl riving it. A 20-year-old girl companion was dly injured in the collision which virtually molished the car. The girls were only 10 iles from their vacation destination, Ganoque.

This two-lane stretch of 401 is becoming torious, but work on the four-lane project will t be completed until 1968. Seven persons ve been killed so far this year on the two-lane etches between Long Sault and Gananoque.

In the Stratford area over the holiday weekd a Maryland couple died in a fiery crash as e result of which the driver of another car s been charged with dangerous driving.

The Maryland driver, a psychiatrist at a litary hospital in Washington, was burned bend recognition when the gas tank of his lkswagen exploded. His wife also died.

Gruesome events such as this unfortunately becoming more commonplace. The country infested with drivers who don't know what y are doing—to themselves and to innocent ple who happen to appear in their sights.

We can be saved from these killers in only way—and that is to remove them from the hways. How this is to be done we have no a. But if it is not done some 30,000 people have been killed in auto accidents in North erica by the end of this year.

Canada Helps Needy

Canadian contributions to under-developed ntries in Southeast Asia under the Colombo n have amounted to $528,678,000, since 1, according to a report on this country's ernal aid programs.

The chief recipients of Canadian aid under Colombo Plan have been the Commonwealth ntries of Ceylon, India, Pakistan and Malsia, which have accounted for more than per cent of Canadian expenditures.

However, capital and technical assistance also been extended to, or is planned for, hanistan, Brunei, Burma, Cambodia, Indon-, Korea, Laos, Maldive Islands, Nepal, Philnes, Thailand and Vietnam.

It may seem ironic that Canada should be nding aid to Indonesia, in view of the guer- operations it is conducting against Malayas- lowever, aid to Indonesia has been confined to ant of $4 million for development purposes, gh proportion of which was devoted to the hase of wheat flour, and to the enrollment 3 Indonesian students in Canadian univers and technical schools.

Aid to other countries has included provision hedical equipment for treatment of cancer nts in Burma and Thailand and a big o-electric project in India.

id totalling $2 million to South Vietnam was ly in the form of technical assistance and t flour, but it is interesting to note also in 1964, 141 Vietnamese students were lled in French language universities in da.

There are some English domestic struggles seem to go on and on. There's the eternal nate relationship between the universities ford and Cambridge. There's the deadly eting rivalry between the counties of Lanre and Yorkshire. And there's the equally minable feud at Westminster between the of Commons and the House of Lords. One about all these domestic struggles is that ly really wants them to end.—Norman nel.

Cool Cat Benson Carries on With Careful Calm Courtesy

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — "This guy Benson", cracked the brash, hot-shot radio reporter with just a hint of admiration in his professionally pear-shaped tones, "is a sure-enough cool cat."

And cool cat is one way of putting it.

Matter of fact, not a bad way at all.

For National Revenue Minister Edgar John Benson, 42-year-old former Kingston chartered accountant and part-time Queen's University economics professor is very calm, very quiet, very casual.

The scene may be wild.

Questions flying. Tough, rough, sticky-to-answer questions. Deliberately provocative. Sharply pointed like the needles they're obviously intended to be.

A forest of microphones thrust into his face, pin him against the wall like spears.

The beat's on.

And Edgar Benson turns out to be the only one who is not getting all steamed up.

His performance, polished, professional, during the postal strike, was so controlled, so conciliatory as to be, in the way these things so seldom are, a thing almost of beauty.

A study, in fact, in competence.

You think newspapermen, the day-to-day reporters of the hard, live news, are sometimes unreasonable, too demanding, overly aggressive?

You should see these radio types.

A DIFFERENT APPROACH

They can even give Prime Minister Pearson, the world diplomat, a roughing up at times.

Like the radio reporter's question: "Did the Government tell Postal Strike Commissioner Anderson what to put in his interim report?"

The answer was a rather surprised, even indignant: "Why of course not."

But that didn't satisfy the radio man: "What was your Man Friday, Mr. Hal Dornan, doing at the Commissioner's elbow then?"

Questions blunt and loaded with pointed suspicion. And they made the Prime Minister a bit restive if not irritated.

But not Revenue Minister Benson.

Before he came along, former George Hees was the only Cabinet member who could fend off the electronic wolf pack.

"Get these so-and-so microphones out of my face," he roared, "or I'll bite 'em off!"

The radio men, stunned, fell back, and after that kept a decently respectful distance.

Edgar Benson has a different approach.

He fields every question, no matter how loaded, regardless of how hostile, with quiet courtesy, responding calmly with a carefully considered and usually satisfactorily sense-making answer.

The mike-men can't needle him, and failing to give him the radio reportorial hot-foot, quit trying.

So he's got the floor. He is in control. And very pleasant and informative too.

Even takes chances in trying to supply information.

Like when the strike was at its tightest, and the Government was doing its best to hint, as delicately as a blow from a broad-axe, that the postmen were going to have to get more money.

THE TRUTH, ISN'T IT?

Whatever was given the postal workers would have to be granted all the rest of the 58,000 Civil Servants in that particular government staff classification, wouldn't it, Mr. Benson was asked.

"Correct," he said.

And to the other 150,000 Federal employees in the other three staff classifications?

"Right," agreed Mr. Benson. Also to the Armed Forces?

"Quite possibly," conceded the Revenue Minister.

That would make it an across-the-board pay increase for the entire Civil Service — and, measured in the money terms of Government pay increases over the years, would run the Federal Treasury something more than $100,000,000 including the accompanying required step-up of payments into the staff superannuation fund.

Later a reporter was to ask Mr. Benson:

"You know what you said this morning in answer to those questions about pay raises for postmen being matched with increases for all the rest of the Civil Service?"

Mr. Benson knew very well. And what about it?

Well, didn't Mr. Benson think he had said quite a multi-million-dollar mouthful, committing the Government that way.

The thought hadn't occurred to him before. But it didn't phase him.

"It's the simple truth," he said. "What I set out were the hard facts. Just the truth."

Some other Cabinet Minister might have attempted — as often happens — to back away from what had been said, claiming a misquotation or misinterpretation.

But not the cool, calm, competent Edgar Benson. No panic. No back-tracking. He had said it. Now he stood by it. For it was nothing less than the truth.

Quite an operator, this man.

No Statues For Baruch Is His Plea

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I hope no memorials are going up for Bernard Baruch, who died earlier this summer. No statues, no monuments, no ponderous cenotaphs. He would not have liked them, or approved.

A few months before his death he wrote to me about a column I had written on memorials and monuments. I had said that we could best serve the memory of the dead by dedicating to them, instead, playgrounds and libraries, skating rinks and carousels — symbol of youth and life.

Baruch disclosed that he, many years ago, anonymously donated the funds for a chess-and-checker shelter in New York's Central Park, in honor of a member of his family who had died. In bad weather, the chess and checker players now have a place to pursue their hobby — often the only one remaining to them that they can afford.

His feeling for a park bench was affection, not affectation; he immensely enjoyed the sense of fun and freedom that parks bring out in people. In part, he lived as long as he did because he refused to be confined behind a desk, because he knew a ping-pong table could be as important as a conference table.

In his last letter to me, he expressed the hope that if any sought to commemorate him, they would do it in the way he wanted — not in some solemn and marmoreal fashion, but with humor and gaiety, like a merry-go-round free to all children, or a set of tennis courts open to the public.

It is strange that we treat the honored dead with such pompous dignity, which great men would be the first to laugh at and dismiss. It is the "public man" we pay homage to, but the private man (who is truly known only to his few friends) may have been nothing like the image we have of him.

In the last couple of years, we can already see the cult of John F. Kennedy growing to such formal proportions that it has begun to obscure the man as he really was. The prayers, the orations, the official hagiography — all these make him something different from what he was to his family, his friends, his close working associates. This is why the task of a biographer is so infernally difficult — and gets harder in direct ratio to the passage of time.

All this apart, however, the statue and the monument commemorate the public man, and not necessarily the spirit of the private man, which is what deserves to be remembered. When Baruch the financier and confidant of Presidents is but a footnote in history, his shelter in Central Park may still be giving pleasure to thousands who scarcely recall the name. And this is a better kind of immortality than the other.

There are hundreds of busts of Shakespeare all over the world; but one repertory group bringing his plays to students is worth all of them put together. The first are for pigeons; the second for people.

Intertrigo Common Ailment Caused by Skin Rubbing

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have an itching on the under side of the breasts and at times it nearly drives me to distraction. I have tried salve, powder and many things with small or only temporary relief. What should I do? —Mrs. D. C.

This sounds like intertrigo. Your own doctor can be more sure, from examination, than I can from a description in a letter.

However, intertrigo is a quite common ailment. It results when two skin surfaces rub together. The area beneath the breasts, if they are large, is possibly the most likely place for this to occur. The two surfaces are in contact, hour after hour, day after day.

The same condition can occur in other parts of the body — between the thighs, under the arms, in abdominal folds.

There is natural moisture from the pores. There is constant chafing. The result is maceration — softening, wearing away, and irritation of the skin. So it begins to itch — to distraction.

When the skin is thus softened and irritated, and is rather constantly moist as well as warm, it becomes a perfect bivouac area for all sorts of common infections: Bacteria, fungus, sometimes others. Then, of course, you have a secondary infection. Another irritant has been added on top of the original one.

This condition more often bothers fleshy people. It doesn't often occur in thin folks. So try to lose weight.

Meantime, keep the area dry. Frequent use of powder will absorb moisture and also reduce the chafing. If that is ineffective it may be necessary to use gauze so that the two skin surfaces are kept separated.

Any secondary infection or dermatitis may require special treatment, perhaps an antibitic or other antiseptic solution.

This is a characteristic problem in many types of skin disorders or irritations: When one gets started, another kind presently can develop on top of it. Correcting the original trouble may not also cure the secondary one. Both have to be cured. That's a basic fact which makes dermatology (treatment of skin diseases) so complex.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person be allergic to nylon hose? When I wear cotton anklets, my feet don't bother me, but when I wear nylons it feels as though something is crawling on my skin and my toes sting. — Mrs. C. C.

Yes. Somebody turns out to be allergic to almost anything you can imagine. In your case it may not necessarily be nylon; it might also be the dye.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I read about a treatment for ulcers — drinking a quart of uncooked cabbage juice daily for 30 days, and remaining on a bland diet. My doctor said this was the method many years ago but he was not sure how effective it was. Have you heard of it? — O. T. N.

Yes, some years ago. There was experimentation, but as I recall, the real attempt involved was a medication, an extract from cabbage juice. Many gallons of juice were required to get a very small amount of the medication. To the best of my knowledge, the idea never proved to be effective.

Henry Tudor, earl of Richmond, landed in Wales at Milford Haven 840 years ago today—in 1485—after 14 years of exile and one unsuccessful rising, and killed Richard III at the battle of Bosworth Field two weeks later. Henry had a claim to the throne in that he was a descendant of John of Gaunt and became the head of the house of Lancaster after the murders of Henry VI and Prince Edward in 1471, when he was 14 years old. As Henry VII he ruled until his death in 1959, being succeeded by Henry VIII.

1925—Britain adopted daylight time to be effective every summer.

Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, busy preparing to move her family back to liberated Holland, took time out Wednesday to tell a press conference how grateful she was for the hospitality of the Canadian people during the last five years.

"Five years is a long time, and everyone here has been so hospitable, so kind and sometimes so touchingly kind that we have wonderful memories."

Life in Canada for her three children has been very healthy. She was taking them back to the home that she and her husband Prince Bernhardt occupied near Utrecht before the outbreak of war. Princess Margaret, born in an Ottawa hospital, a section of which was declared Netherlands territory for the time of the birth, has never seen her homeland and her two sisters were too young to have any recollection.

The Stockdale Old Boys' and Girls' Reunion which was held on Monday was a great success. It is estimated that the attendance was close to 400. On Sunday the United Church was filled and a large number of former residents were present. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. F. Lane.

Mr. William McGie is home from Ford, Ontario, for the reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch, Church Street, can claim the greatest number of relatives being here for the Old Boys' Reunion; they number 50 and although they cannot entertain all at one time under their rooftree, they have done so in instalments.

Many of the old boys have visited Mr. James Roy at his home and they have greatly enjoyed talking over old times with him. Mr. Roy is a real old Belleville boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henry of this city are visiting relatives in Deseronto.

Decision Makers

Toronto Star

The British North America Act says nothing about the dominion - provincial conference, yet in recent years it has become one of the most important organs of government in Canada. Decisions taken at these cosy meetings of federal and provincial prime ministers are often more important than those made in Parliament; indeed parliamentary legislation is more and more a matter of putting the conference agreements into statutory form.

EUROPEAN EXCERPTS: ITALY

"We found Venice enchanting . . . Florence is truly one of the world's marvels . . . Bologna is the gastronomic centre of Italy. We had a meal which included some real bologna — delicious!" — Keltie Burr.

"I am sitting on a stone wall that encircles an Italian villa on the out-skirts of Florence, that is now used as a Youth Hostel," continued Keltie in a June letter from Italy to her parents Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burr, 227 Foster Avenue.

A 1964 Physical and Occupational Therapy graduate of the University of Toronto, Keltie is spending a year abroad gaining experience in her field as well as a traveler and a French linguist.

"Below me is the Arno River and the fertile valley. Across the river the hills are dotted with ancient villas. The sandy colour of the river blends well with the ancient buildings that look as if they've been blown with sulphur.

"Today, Carolyn McMullen, a physiotherapist on the staff of the Kingston General Hospital, with whom I'm travelling in Italy, and I found our way in the penetrating heat to the riverside and lay in the sun.

"At five o'clock we came here to the Youth Hostel via bus and then a long walk in a winding road to this magnificent setting.

"The whole villa is filled with sculptures and paintings. We pay 75 cents a night, 20 cents for breakfast and 70 cents for dinner. Lights are out at 11 p.m. and everyone must be out by 9 a.m. There are many young people from all over the world here.

"I was sorry to say "au revoir" to my friends at the Cantonal Hospital in Geneva but it was time for Carolyn and me to begin our trip to Italy.

"We found Venice enchanting. We visited the San Marco Square and the famous Byzantine-Romanesque-Gothic church rich in mosaics and terribly ornate both inside and out.

"Four famous bronze horses, brought from Constantinople in 1204 and dating from 300 B.C., surmount the doorway. In 1797, Napoleon, during his occupation of Venice, had them moved to the Tuilleries. They were returned to San Marco at the fall of the French Empire.

"We saw the medieval palace Ca' d'Or, which houses paintings by Titian and Van Dyk. The palace is only a few doors from a house where Wagner died in 1883. I must tell Heidi that I saw this house. (You remember my German friend, Heidi, with whom I worked at the Cantonal Hospital in Geneva. She is a close friend of Richard Wagner's grandchildren.)

"We stopped at Ponti de Rialto, a bridge of stores built in 1580 across the grand canal. I read that the world's oldest medicine 'Terciaea' can be found in a Venetian pharmacy, there since the 1500's, near this bridge.

"So after getting instructions as to its whereabouts from the friendly Italians, I set about to find it. The pharmacist is a delightful old gentleman hidden in a large, high-ceilinged drugstore that seems to belong in the 15th century.

"My Italian is sketchy but I was finally able to buy two bottles of this gem, one for me and one for Rick." (Rick Lamon is Keltie's cousin, studying medicine at the University of Western Ontario in London.) "Don't tell Rick about my surprise for him!

"The Italians seem to have the same "joie de vivre" that I admire so much in the French. The Italians are very hospitable, friendly people, and I can understand why Italy inspired so many poets, sculptors and architects. Many a gondolier paddled by to the tune of his own operatic aria, and we saw children walking down the street, arm in arm, singing with strong melodic voices.

"We spent a day in Bologna which houses Europe's oldest university. We strolled through its ancient, sand-colored buildings supported by long arcades. The city is the gastronomic centre of Italy. We had a meal which included some real bologna — delicious!

"Florence is truly one of the world's marvels. The week we are spending here will hardly be sufficient.

"We leave the villa at 8 a.m. and take a three-quarters of an hour bus ride to town, to begin a heavy schedule visiting museums, churches and shopping in the straw and leather markets.

"We have seen the Pitti Palace and its surrounding Boboli Gardens. The Palace contains many paintings by Raphael, del Sarto, Titian and some Flemish painters of the same period. Napoleon's sister lived here during the French occupation.

"It has taken us two days to see the Uffizi Galleries properly. One of the most famous museums in the world, it houses Michaelangelo's "The Holy Family", a masterpiece.

"In front of the Santa Maria de Flore cathedral, is the Baptistry of St. John, the first church in Florence, built on ancient Roman ruins in the fourth century. Its north door has the famous bronze doors of Ghiberti that Michaelangelo called the "Doors of Paradise." I had fun taking close-up shots of the various panels.

"Last evening we were taken by friends to a dance at the castle Belvedere, a fort actually, whose walls were built by Michaelangelo to protect Florence, and where Dante is said to have walked and possibly lived.

"I'm happy to find that I can use my French in town most of the time. Florence breathe of medieval and Renaissance history. It seems more like four years rather than 400 since Michaelangelo walked the streets, for nothing structurally has changed. The buildings are the same, the pace slow and the people are happy and proud of their home.

"After Rome, we travelled north along the coast to Pisa and viewed the leaning tower (it is quite small), where we met two students from the University of Pisa.

"They told us about a myth: that any Pisan student who ascends the tower will be unsuccessful in his examinations. Consequently, none of them ascend until after they graduate!

"We went on then to Leirci on the Italian Riviera. The Youth Hostel is in the Chateau of this fishing village perched high on a rock. In the morning I swam in the sea. This is the spot where Shelley (the English poet) was drowned.

"The heat was excruciating. The sun shone incessantly, never a cloud, let alone a shower, which explains why the grass is yellow — not green."

From the Italian Riviera the girls moved on to the French Riviera, where "the highlight for me was our visit to Villanes, a small village near Nice. Here Picasso spent ten years. Now it is a village of artists who make pottery and stoneware in their ateliers. We visited Picasso's former home which is now a museum containing his famous 'War and Peace' mural, and saw reproductions of his pottery. Here I bought a fascinating book on his life and work."

As for Italy, concludes Keltie, "it was a dream. I left my heart there — especially in Florence."

Radio Station 'Copter Forced To Land

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A helicopter used by a Windsor radio station to report on traffic conditions was forced down at gun point by police in Detroit Friday.

It was allowed to take off again when a case of mistaken identity was explained.

The helicopter, used by radio station CKWW here, was reporting on traffic conditions between Windsor and Detroit during the evening rush hour when Detroit police stationed at the city's downtown waterfront signalled for it to land.

The crew of Ron Lindsay and pilot Pete Unklebach hovered about four feet above ground and dropped a note saying they had no clearance to land on U.S. soil.

The police replied: "Border patrol on way—land."

Lindsay said the police then drew their guns.

A Detroit couple had earlier reported to police that a helicopter had "buzzed" them.

Detroit police said the couple had reported that a larger helicopter, with three men aboard, had annoyed them and they called police.

Power Steering Failure Can Be Prevented

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Some motorists have never driven without power steering and would find manual control quite difficult if the power system failed. These people, in particular, should have any change in steering response investigated immediately.

One of the more common trouble-makers is hydraulic fluid leakage. This may occur at hosing, fittings, gaskets or seals, and is usually easy to trace. Contaminated fluid will cause trouble, too, but can be a bit more difficult to pinpoint.

Then, there are those conditions which are not due to any part of the power system itself, but which affect steering control. Front end misalignment and incorrect tire inflation are typical examples.

In the latter case, either extreme leads to trouble. If pressure is too low, hard steering and poor wheel recovery on turns will be experienced. When there is too much air in the tires power steering becomes overly sensitive and the driver finds it harder to maneuver accurately and hold a straight, steady course.

From L.M.: "I notice what seems to be grease stains on the inside of my two rear tires. Would this be due to brake wheel or cylinder leaks?"

Possibly — or grease leaks from the differential lubricant.

Mrs. P. W. writes: "The left front headlight glass on my daughter's car is cracked from top to bottom. Can this be replaced?"

You can't replace the lens alone. This is a sealed - beam headlamp and the entire unit must be replaced.

J. Q. asks: "I don't think the automatic choke is working properly on my '59 wagon. Is there an easy way to check this without taking anything apart?"

Remove the carburetor air cleaner and note the position of the choke plate. It should be near closed when the engine is cold, gradually opening as the engine warms up.

From C. Y.: "No one has been able to solve my problems of hard starting, rough and sluggish acceleration and terrible straining to reach 50 or 60 mph speeds. Can you suggest anything?"

Dozens of things, but you've probably had most of them checked out. Many such troubles, however, are caused by a lean fuel mixture, which could be due to poor carburetor adjustment, clogged fuel line, weak pump or diluted gas.

South Korea Division to Go To Viet Nam

Viet Nam—Korea

SEOUL (AP)—The South Korean government's plan to send one combat division of about 15,000 men to South Viet Nam was approved by the defence committee of the South Korean National Assembly today.

The vote was 12 for and two against.

The United States is the only foreign country with more troops in South Viet Nam.

A plenary session of the proposed large-scale Korean participation in the Viet Nam war is expected to take place sometime next week.

South Korea already has 2,500 troops in Viet Nam for engineering and medical duties. These have been sent since last September.

Ann Landers

She Broke Pact to Quit Smoking, Resents Criticism

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — On New Year's Eve my husband and I made a pact to quit smoking. Hank was a much heavier smoker than I was so I knew it would be more difficult for him to quit. Well, Ann, he hasn't touched a cigarette since the night we made the agreement, but I started three weeks ago when I found half a pack of cigarettes which had been left by a guest.

Last night, when Hank came home he saw a cigarette butt in the garbage pail. He asked me who had been smoking. I lied and said the plumber had come to fix the sink. He picked the cigarette butt out of the garbage pail and said, "Since when did the plumber start to wear lipstick?" I felt like a trapped rat.

Now Hank insists the only way I can square things is to quit smoking for good. I don't want to quit. (Perhaps I should be honest and say I don't think I can quit.) Furthermore, I resent his bossiness. Please give me your most broadminded, liberal opinion. — LYDIA.

DEAR LYDIA — My most broadminded, liberal opinion is that a woman who made a deal with her husband should keep it. You say you can't quit. I say anybody can quit if he makes up his mind. A person who is addicted to tobacco will find it very difficult, but not impossible.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — A girl I know (but have never been close to) asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding. I tried to refuse graciously but she was so insistent I finally accepted.

I spent $40 on a dress and $12 on shoes. I also bought her a shower gift and wedding gift. My parents paid for everything because I am a high school student and have no money of my own.

The wedding invitations were sent out last week and I was sure my parents would receive one. They did not. The mother of the bride met my mother at a party yesterday and told her she was sorry they could not invite them to the wedding because the church was so small.

I am very upset. My folks want to see me in the wedding procession and I want them to be there. Who is wrong and what should be done? — OFFENDED.

DEAR OFFENDED — The parents of the attendants should always be invited to the wedding — regardless of the size of the church. Tell the bride exactly how you feel. If your parents don't receive an invitation promptly, your friend's family is guilty of atrocious taste.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — This may sound like a very insignificant problem compared with some you get, but it really does annoy the heck out of me.

I married a wonderful gal, who had been married before, but only for a few months. I won't go into details, but the marriage was annulled. (Her first husband was a real nut.)

My wife had a beautiful trousseau of bedsheets, pillow cases and towels. Everything was monogrammed at the bottom with the initials of the nut's last name. I hate to see this stuff around and I've told my wife how I feel. Her answer is as follows: "My folks spent a fortune on these things and I'm not going to throw them out."

I appreciate my wife's practical nature, but I think my feelings should count for something, too. Any ideas, Ann? — HACKLES UP.

DEAR HACK — Suggest that your wife cut the initials off and re-hem everything. It would mean a lot of work and shorter towels and bed linens but it's the best compromise I can think of.

Bridge Players Face Inquiry For Cheating

LONDON (AP) — An independent inquiry has opened into allegations that Britain's leading bridge pair, Boris Schapiro and Terence Reese, cheated during the world contract bridge championships in Buenos Aires in May, informed sources said today.

The inquiry is in private. The investigator is Sir John Foster, a Conservative member of Parliament and prominent lawyer.

The sources said both Reese and Schapiro have testified before the inquiry, and are legally represented before it.

The inquiry was sought by the British Bridge League, to which evidence gathered during the world championships has been passed by the executive committee of the World Bridge Federation.

American contestants in the championships charged that Reese and Schapiro used finger signs and other signals to indicate strength in the vital hearts suit.

BOTH DENY IT

Both men have denied the charges categorically, and have argued that it would be ludicrous for so experienced a pair to use so naive a system.

The American Contract Bridge League said in Chicago Friday that the world bridge federation has found the two British players guilty of illegally conveying signals in the championship play.

The spokesman for the American Bridge League said the world federation, after its hearing May 23, passed jurisdiction in the matter to the British Bridge League, along with information as to its findings of guilt.

This Is Age of Contrivance, a Second-handed Time

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

This is an Age of Contrivance, a Second-Handed Time.

The voices we hear most come to us via something else: a telephone, a record, a radio, or a television set.

The letters we read come from another hand: a typewriter, lithograph, mimeograph, photo-copier, and the like.

There is a second-handedness even to much of our own "involvement" in life.

Consider these tell-tale short-hand descriptions of our second-handed way of looking at things:

• We do not discuss things, we talk "in terms of" it;

• We no longer have beliefs, we "share values;"

• We do not rest, we seek "to relax;"

•We no longer do a job, we "perform a function," "fulfil a role;"

•We do not talk to people, we "get in touch" with them, we "contact them;"

•We do not meet, we "set up" a meeting;

•We do not study art, music or literature, we learn "art appreciation," etc.;

•We do not enjoy wealth, prestige or happiness, we "achieve status;"

• We do not cultivate an ideal or hold a philosophy, we reflect an "image."

And so, on and on, and on — the divorce of the person from his own experience of life, increases apace.

This Age of Contrivance has, of course, been hastened and abetted by the technological revolution. Man is not only the inventor of the I.B.M., he is quickly being displaced by his own invention. He is an average or better-than-average statistic, a large or tiny number, a big or small cog — a statistic, a number, or a wheel, for all that.

The artificial has become so real that the natural, too, now seems contrived these days. The natural is referred to as the "non-" or the "un-." We have "un-filtered" cigarettes (the filter has become more natural than even the tobacco); or "unabridged" novels (the norm is the abridged); or the "uncut" version of movie films. Libraries have whole sections devoted to "non-fiction" books (fiction has now become real). And manufacturers of wool clothing take pains to remind us that their product still has all the good qualities of nylon. Soon, plastics-makers will be encouraging us to forsake our flowers and gardens and replace them with their things — things "forever real."

As we lose more and more of our spontaneity we ourselves become pseudo-selves. We have lost touch with reality because it is not real enough!

Let an older wisdom return: there is no substitute for humanity if we are to be human; no replacement for nature if we want to retain our human nature!

QUEEN WAS TOO YOUNG

CLIFTONVILLE, England (CP)—It was a unanimous decision when the judges at this Kent resort chose Jasmine Livermore as winner of the beauty contest. Then the mothers of other competitors complained that Jasmine was only 14 years old, two years under the entry limit. The organizers were adamant and she kept her title.

A Lift for Living

Envy Is Sickness of Soul Which Smothers All Joy

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Envy is a sickness of the soul. It smothers joy with a touchy peevishness. Envy torments the mind with bitter resentment, poisons the heart with hatred and blinds the eyes to excellence in the life of another person. Envy cringes and crawls before those who are richer than oneself, or more able, or more prominent.

The Old Testament relates a story of such an envy-sickness. The First Book of Samuel tells of King Saul's envy of David's high position in the esteem and affections of the Hebrew people. David, as a leader in Saul's army, was so successful that he became a national hero, and Saul could hear the women happily singing in the streets,

"Saul has slain his thousands
And David his ten thousands."

This adulation of David hurt and angered Saul. He was not mature enough or great enough to accept, without bitter resentment, the fact that someone younger than himself was abler than he and favored over him.

To be sure, the women's song was cruel and humiliating when sung in Saul's hearing, but life is always cruel to the egotistical, the supersensitive and the envious. In Saul's case, envy defiled his whole nature, filling him with a blinding hatred, robbing him of his reason, driving him toward attempted murder of young David. All envy tends to destroy. While it may not seek to kill another person, it murders the best elements in the life of the one who does the envying.

ENVIOUS ARE BLIND

In Dante's "Divine Comedy," the poet pictures the envious in Purgatory with their eyes sewn shut. Dante saw that envy blinds man to worth in his fellow men. The envious cannot see a fleck of goodness or a flicker of beauty in another. He is out of touch with the real values that exist in others. And to the extent that he is separated from such realities, he is spiritually ill.

Envy will not allow us to rejoice in another's success or be glad about another's superiority. Usually spiteful, and sometimes cruel, envy is not satisfied with venting its own maliciousness. It summons a gang of other demons to join in its mischief — gossip, slander and revenge, false pride and grudgefulness — and they all troop into the situation close on the heels of envy and set about their vandalism together. They tip over one's standards of values. They break all rules of conduct. They mix up one's emotions and unlock and let loose one's baser, primitive feelings. They pour poison into the well of thought. At last one's spirit is in shambles.

It is refreshing to know a few people who seem to be almost wholly free of envy. They are the world's realists, seeing life clearly, even looking upon their chief competitors with objectivity and admiration.

FREE OF ENVY

The Scottish poet and novelist Sir Walter Scott was such a person. While still a young man, Scott became famous for his poetic gifts, his splendid imagination, phrasing and harmony, his unique powers of narration, characterization, and description. For some time Sir Walter Scott was widely regarded as the leading poet of his generation. Then Byron came on the scene, and the bright light of his brilliant gifts cast Scott into the shadows. An anonymous reviewer wrote an evaluation of Byron's poetry that was almost extravagant in its praise. The critic said that it was now clear that Sir Walter Scott was not the best poet of his time. Byron was better. Some time later it was revealed that this reviewer was Sir Walter Scott himself.

Scott's passion for beauty was greater than his competitiveness, and he loved the truth more than he loved his own preferment or fame.

We must love something and Someone bigger than ourselves if we are to be free of envy. When we are self-centred we resent anyone and everything that is greater than we are for fear we will be overshadowed by it. But when we are God-centred we can rejoice in every bright gift that God has bestowed upon His children, whether it was given to us or to some other member of His family.

LIGHTING THE WAY

By Walter S. Crone

CULTIVATING OUR APPETITES

A boat load of sheep was on it's way from Scotland to Australia. The journey was uneventful until the ship was approaching the Australian shore. A dense fog covered the waters, and the ship was obliged to stop for two days. At the same time, the sheep refused to eat, paying no attention to their food. The owner became afraid that he would soon lose the whole consignement.

On the third morning, the fog lifted. There, stretched before them, only a few miles distant, were the green fields of Australia. Th sheep had smelled the succulent pasture in the land not far away, and it made them lose all appetite for their dried hay.

Men who are without a spiritual awakening, may have a good appetite for the "dried hay" of material and earthly things. But once our souls have awakened to "God-consciousness", and we become aware of the things of the Spirit, and of their eternal value, and we cultivate our appetite for these things, the pasturage of this earthly life begins to lose it's appeal.

TEXT FOR THE DAY: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God." (St. John 3:3)

Historical Soc. to Hold Antique Show

NAPANEE—The choicest treasures from their shops will be on display and for sale, when dealers from adjacent counties, as well as distant counties, gather in the Napanee Curling Club for the town's second annual Antique Show and Sale, August 13 and 14.

The "Cradle of Ontario" counties, where Loyalists first settled, bringing with them their most precious belongings from the colonies, has been, and still is a treasure house of the past. Dealers of the area are in a unique position to find the mementoes of an early settlement, whether fine china, glass, or primitives.

Most dealers represented at the show have their own specialties. One has a particularly fine stock of old prints, books, and early pictures. Another, whose comparatively new shop is rapidly gaining prominence, has rare pieces of the currently popular Carnival glass.

A local dealer, whose business background has made her a shrewd judge of quality and period, is well known among museum people who have bought a great deal from her shop, stocked with authentic Canadiana.

Though the antique trade is only a sideline with him, one dealer renting a booth is in a position to find, through his regular occupation, primitive furniture from the last century, which he sells in its original state.

An attraction of wide interest will be a display of early Gibbard furniture, most of it in solid woods. The Gibbard furniture factory, in business since 1837, has manufactured household furniture through many periods of style change.

The Antique Show and Sale is presented by the Lennox and Addington Historical Society. All proceeds go towards the restoration of one of the finest of early homes in the county, the Allan Macpherson House. The house on Macpherson Ave. was marked by a plaque during last year's county centennial, by the Ontario Archaeological and Historic Sites Board.

During the two days of the Antique Show and Sale the Macpherson House and Park will be open to visitors, with guides to conduct a tour of the house filling in its growth with the growth of the county town, and its significance in the career of John Alexander Macdonald, Canada's first Prime Minister.

The ladies of the Historical Society who are convening the refreshment in the lounge of the curling club promise traditional treats: raspberry shrub, and pumpkin cake, one of the earliest sweets the settlers' wives were able to bake from pumpkins which flourished in the clearings, will be featured on the menu.

Ketcheson Picnic Held At Tweed

Over 100 descendants of the family of the late William Ketcheson, U.E. Loyalist, who came to Canada in 1786, and settled on the fifth concession of Sidney, gathered at Tweed Memorial Park to celebrate the ninth annual picnic and reunion.

Registration was in charge of Mrs. Ralph Sills, Halloway and Miss Beverley Ketcheson, Madoc, assisted by Mrs. Nelson Welsh, R.R. 6, Belleville.

After a bountiful dinner, the chairman, Mr. Allen Ketcheson, Madoc, welcomed the family members. The names of the deceased members were read and a few minutes silence observed in memory of Rev. George Denyes, Winnipeg; Mr. Fred Denyes, Brighton; Mrs. Wilmott Rose, Frankford; Mrs. George Ketcheson, London, England; Mr. Fred Ketcheson, Moira; Mrs. Helen Ketcheson, Belleville; Professor Mac Hay, Toronto; Mr. Roy Ketcheson, Niagara Falls; Mr. George Garrison, Dundas; Miss Norma Sills, Halloway and Mr. John Sayers, Semans, Saskatchewan.

A kind invitation was extended by Mr. and Mrs. Griffin Ketcheson to hold the picnic in 1966 at the old homestead on the fifth concession of Sidney. Many of the pioneer members are buried in the Ketcheson cemetery there. A stone cairn was built in memory of the late Henry Ketcheson. In 1911 a family reunion was held at the same place where 900 descendants of William Ketcheson gathered.

The plans for this gathering were made by several members at that time, but the late Mr. Freeman Ketcheson, Belleville gave unstintingly of his time and energy to make it such a success, that it has been treasured as a family memory ever since. The present reunion committee hope as many as possible of the clan will make an extra effort to be present next year.

PRIZE WINNERS

Prizes were awarded as follows: Persons coming the farthest, Mr. A. F. Gamble, Sudbury; oldest person present, Mr. George Ketcheson (87), Madoc; youngest person present, Master Dwain Ketcheson, three weeks' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Ketcheson, Peterborough; person having birthday nearest picnic day, Mr. Carl Rose, Frankford; a bride and groom-to-be, Mr. Willmott Rose, Frankford and Mrs. Luella Stickle, Trenton.

Lucky numbers were held by Mrs. Kenneth Faul, R.R. 2, Belleville; Mr. Ralph Sills, Halloway, and Master Robert Hagerman, Foxboro.

NEW OFFICERS

The election of officers for the coming year brought about the election of Mr. Max Ketcheson, Peterborough, as chairman; Mr. Ross Ketcheson, of Moira ,as vice-chairman; Mrs. Nelson Welsh, R.R. 6, Belleville, as secretary-treasurer; historical secretary, Mrs. Taylor Franklin, Belleville, and the followinb on the committee: Mr. H. W. Rose, Frankford; Mr. Murray Denike, Toronto; Mr. Jack Ketcheson, Guelph; Mr. Ralph Sills, Halloway; Mrs. Evelyn Keene, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Griffin Ketcheson, Foxboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurison Ketcheson, Halloway.

Mr. Sam Ketcheson, Toronto, expressed thanks to Mr. Allen Ketcheson for his leadership for the past two years.

Following this the younger set dispersed for an interesting program of sports, conducted by Mr. Grant Ketcheson, Madoc, assisted by Messrs. Ralph Sills, Griffin Ketcheson and Jack Ketcheson, while the older members enjoyed renewing acquaintances.

Races were won as follows:

5 years and under — Marylea Harry, Robert Hagerman, Robert Ketcheson. 5, 6 and 7 years—Ian McCutcheon, Deana Ketcheson, Janet Denike. Under 12—Tanya Ketcheson, Ian McCutcheon, Deana Ketcheson. 13 and up—Griffin Ketcheson, Beverley Ketcheson, Max Ketcheson.

Shoe scramble — Beverley Ketcheson, Jack Ketcheson, Tanya Ketcheson. Shoe toss up to 12—Tanya Ketcheson, Deana Ketcheson. Shoe toss 12 and over—Max Ketcheson, Griffin Ketcheson. 3-legged race —Beverley and Grant Ketcheson, Max and Tanya Ketcheson, Jack and Deana Ketcheson. Minute race—Deana Ketcheson, Tanya Ketcheson and Marylea Harry.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD J. LESLIE

Leslie – McGowan

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Leslie left on their wedding trip to northern Ontario and the Western provinces following their marriage in Calvary Temple on July 31.

A double - ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. E rl Bergman when Nancy Ann McGowan daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berton C. McGowan became the bride of Donald J. Leslie son of Mrs. Thomas J. Leslie and the late Mr. Leslie. The altar was adorned with standards of white and blue tinted Shasta 'mums. The soloist, Rev. James McKnight sang two appropriate selections.

Nancy, given in marriage by her father and mother wore a floor length gown of organza and Chantilly lace featuring a Sabrina neckline and lily - point sleeves. The full front tiered skirt was edged at the bottom with lace and caught up with a rose. Attached to the gown was a watteau train trimmed with Chantilly lace. The bride's headdress consisted of a matching silk tiered veil caught up with a cluster of roses. She carried a cascade of white Starlite roses intermingled with Plumosia fern.

The matron of honor, Mrs. James MacGregor, sister of the bride, wore a gown of Cotillion blue nylon chiffon over taffeta with a flowing train from the back neckline. She carried a cascade of Colonial white pom pom 'mums with fern.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. John Anderson, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Deborah McGowan, niece of the bride, were attired similarly in gowns of lighter blue organza with embroidered waistbands giving the cummerbund effect. The detachable train extending from the waistline was embroidered to match the waistband. They wore similar headdresses to the matron of honor and carried a cascade of white pom pom 'mums and fern.

The junior bridesmaids, Miss Susan Cooke and Miss Ann MacGregor, both nieces of the bride, wore gowns of blue nylon organza with a lighter blue lace coming to a "V" at the bodice and following through into the two flowing panels. They carried Colonial nosegays and wore matching head bands of white Pinnochio 'mums.

Little Miss Sharon MacGregor, niece of the bride, as flower girl, was dressed in a white lace over organdy dress. She carried a basket of white baby 'mums and a head band of pom pom 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Leslie Haight, nephew of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. James MacGregor, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. John Anderson, nephew of the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the Madrid Room of the Sun Valley Motor Inn, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a two piece pink lace gown, white accessories with a corsage of pink and white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a white and navy silk knit gown with pink and white accessories and a corsage of white and pink carnations.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a two-piece suit of white lace over pink taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Readers' Saturday Column

Letters from dozens of readers have arrived in response to my S.O.S. for a recipe for Fruit Cocktail Cake for Mrs. W. B. The majority of the recipes that I received were the same as follows. Thank you all very much. I have not tested this cake.

FRUIT COCKTAIL CAKE (courtesy dozens of readers):

One 20-oz. tin fruit cocktail, 1 egg, 1 cup white sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups flour.

Drain fruit cocktail. Add egg to juice and beat. Sift flour, sugar, salt and soda. Add liquid. Beat only until blended. Add fruit. Put in 8 x 8" pan. Mix 1 cup brown sugar and ½ cup nuts and sprinkle on top. Bake 45 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Serve with whipped cream.

QUESTION:

I am trying to locate a recipe for Sweet and Sour Corn — Ada McK.

ANSWER:

SWEET AND SOUR CORN:

1½ to 2 cups fresh young corn kernels, cut from cobs (or 1 can kernel corn drained), 2 tablespoons butter, 1¼ tablespoons cornstarch (or 1½ tablespoons flour), ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar (or less), 2 or 3 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, ¾ cup boiling water.

To make Sweet and Sour Sauce melt butter and blend in cornstarch (or flour), salt and sugar. Stir in the boiling water until thick. Add the vinegar or lemon juice and the corn and heat through, stirring for a few minutes.

Readers please if you have a different recipe for Sweet and Sour Corn which you think Ada McK. might be seeking, would you please copy it out carefully and mail it to me in care of this newspaper?

QUESTION:

. . . how about some cake recipes to fill 9 x 12" pans for larger families? An 8 x 8" recipe disappears in a day and I can never double a recipe successfully — Marg. J. W.

ANSWER:

How's this one?

TWO-EGG ALL-PURPOSE CAKE (9 x 12" pan):

½ cup shortening, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 ⅞ cups sugar (2 cups less 2 tablespoons), 2 large eggs, 2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2½ teaspoons single-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups milk, 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

Cream the shortening and butter with the sugar until pale and light. Beat in the eggs until fluffy. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Fold in the flour mixture alternately with the milk mixed with the vanilla, 1/3 of each at a time. Line bottom of 9 x 12" pan with buttered wax paper. Pour in batter and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes.

Mountains, Not Iron Curtain Form Frame for Yugoslavia

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

BLED, Yugoslavia — The first notion you ought to get out of your head about Yugoslavia is the same one we entertained: that it is an Iron Curtain country.

It is a socialist country, though all the small hotels we've seen and some of the industry are privately owned. It is a dictatorship, though the people we've spoken to seem a little bored with and disdainful of it, waiting for time and intercourse with Western democracies to straighten things out. True, you need a visa to enter the country but it takes about three minutes to get it at the airport or railroad station.

You don't have to register with the police every time you move, you can take pictures freely, no noe follows you around, and we've scarcely seen a police station. Their airline doesn't fly to Moscow; it uses American Convairs and French Caravelles and those who own cars own Italian or German ones.

A bank won't exchange a reble on a bet, but a tourist can get dollars for dinars without a whisper. In the schools they teach English, German and French, but no Russian.

Here in Slovenia, in the northern Yugoslavian Alps, they say that a tourist from Serbo-Croatia or Macedonia would consider himself in Western Europe. To all practical purposes, so he would be.

Oh, they may not speak fluent English in the smalltown hotels, and the home-brewed whiskey, gin and beer taste as if they're laced with slivovitz. But except for the prices and the absence of North American tourists, the dissimilarities end there.

POLITICAL MIRACLE

Yugoslavia is a political miracle, the most unlikely country in Europe. It consists of six provinces — Serbia, Slovenia, Bosnia, Macedonia, Croatia and Montenegro — where the people speak at least three different languages. They have so little in common that some of them still were fighting each other after World War II. As late as 1912 they were under the Turkish Ottoman rule. They eat shashlik and Salzburger nockerln, drink slivovitz and Turkish coffee, their language, culture and attitudes are a melange of Muslim, Oriental, Austrian, Orthodox, Catholic, Slavic, Balkan Greek and Italian.

The country is a miracle for tourist, too. You can often drive for miles on good roads and pass nothing but a dozing farmer on an ox-cart. Good country resort hotels charge rates like $1.00 single and $2.00 double.

Yugoslavia has an air where-has-this-place - been - all - my-life — especially in Slovenia. Towering sheer rock faces of the Julian Alps rise majestically from gentian-sprinkled green valleys and trout-laden brooks of bottle green. Church bells ring and children's choirs rehearse in quiet Alpine villages of onion domes, pastel stone and falling-down wooden haylofts with overhanging roofs. Glassy lakes whisper of treasures within as they reflect castles and churches so old their records have been lost in mists of the Dark Ages.

"END OF THE WORLD"

Slovenians call Bohinj "the end of the world," for the very good reason that the gurgling Sava Bohinj River and Bohinj Lake, from which it flows, are surrounded by an impassable cul-de-sac of stone Alps. The road goes so far, then doubles back around the lake. If the ski slopes don't set you drooling, the fishing, boating, swimming or water skiing should.

Around Pokljuka there may still be snow among the towering pines, the capitalistic private villas and the chalet hotels. There will definitely be views down the ski slopes and up to the forests. And near Kranjska Gora, where the Prisank Hotel will apologetically charge you about $3.50 a day for three meals and a room with a magnificent mountain view, you can see where, in 1939, the first 100-meter ski jump was executed.

"Bled is a colorful little lake resort of comfortable hotels and red-roofed stone houses, dominated by a beautifully restored occupied until the eighteenth thousand - year - old castle century by Brixan bishops of Italy. On an island in the heart of the lake rests Santa Maria Church, and the idyllic picture is framed by the Stol Mountains reaching to 9,000 feet along the Austrian border.

But Slovenians have difficulty forgetting that Bled was the headquarters of the Nazi occupation of Slovenia. The countryside is dotted with memorials to the partisans who were slain in what was probably the most vigorous resistance in Europe.

PRISON NOW HOSPITAL

In nearby Begunje is a former Gestapo prison, now a mental hospital, where 12,000 were held between 1941 and 1945. The cells of the former prison have been transformed into a moving memorial to these patriots. Scrawlings on the walls reveal the last thoughts of condemned prisoners, and preserved documents expose, without unnecessary commentary, the cruelties of the Nazi regime.

Cultural and economic capital of Slovenia is Ljubljana (you can pronounce it if you turn the j's into i's). It has that square gray Communist-modern look, and broad boulevards without quite enough traffic to be convincing. But there is an unmistakable Balkan air here in the flowery sidewalk cafes and among the arches and monuments of the old section, dominated by the ramparts of Ljubljana Castle, whose foundations go back to Roman times.

Ljubljana's current claim to fame is that the Chinese recently won the world's table tennis championship here in the new indoor sports arena. Mao Tse-tung called this a political victory for Communism, much to the disgust of the Yugoslavs.

Ljubljana is a good place to sample wonderful Serbian food. Muckalica is a spicy goulash, made with tomatoes and peppers. Swiss-like cheese from the aforementioned Bohinj area is justly famous. Serbian spear is a kind of meat-and-potato shishkebab with tomato sauce. Fresh fruit with maraschino liqueur, native to Yugoslavia, is another specialty.

Indulgence in such goodies may be capitalistically decadent, but Yugoslavia is making the most of it.

Retirement for Nell West Likely to Be Short One

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

TORONTO (CP) — After 11 years as a hard-working director of services for the International Institute, Nell West has decided she needs a little relaxation.

She retired as head of the United Appeal agency's service for newcomers to Canada June 30.

But retirement will probably amount to no more than a few months at the cottage and then she'll be back looking for people who need help.

"There's too much to be done in this world for absolute retirement. I was brought up in an era when people got a great deal of enjoyment out of work and gave their all to it. I suppose I've kept some of that pioneer spirit."

Born Nell Wark, one of six daughters of pioneer settlers in Minto, Man., Mrs. West's interminority groups was first kindled when she became a teacher in a rural Saskatchewan school.

Here she saw what she has seen often since—adults trying to adapt to life in a new country while preserving their own traditions and culture for their children.

TURNED TO WELFARE

This experience so interested her that Nell Wark put herself through university in Manitoba and at the University of Chicago.

She was one of the first women in Canada to obtain professional standing in social work.

In the '20s and '30s she set up the departments of welfare of three Ontario cities, Windsor, St. Catharines and Hamilton, and in 1934 became Ontario's assistant deputy minister of welfare. It was the first time a woman had held the post.

Married in 1940 to a "Victorian" husband who wanted her to stay home, Mrs. West retired for a while but in 1942 was appointed director of women's voluntary services in the department of national war services in Ottawa.

She was widowed in the same year and returned to social work. In 1954 she joined the International Institute.

"My work here has been a fascinating and rewarding experience," she said. "But now I'm leaving I'm worried. We need much more community support to do the job."

Her 18 multi - lingual staff members work on shifts to keep the institute open 18 hours a day.

JOBS POSE PROBLEM

Mrs. West believes New Canadians have much to give Canada and says she tries to work "with" rather than "for" the newcomers.

"Canadians shouldn't try to superimpose their attitudes and opinions on these people. If we are open-minded in dealing with New Canadians both groups will grow and change."

The institute provides counselling, English classes and social and recreational opportunities for 71 different nationalities.

Mrs. West says housing and unemployment are the two greatest problems facing New Canadians.

"So often an employer will insist that a man who has been well-trained in his own country must have Canadian experience before he will be taken on. But how can he get it if no one will hire him?

"I have had men plead with me to telephone an employer and say they will work for nothing until they prove they can do the job."

Problems like these will follow Mrs. West in her retirement. She said she is thinking of doing a study of what happens when Canadian-born children find themselves in a minority among immigrant schoolmates.

"There are so many things to be done before we will have real unity in this country."

BOY SHUNS SUNLIGHT

CARLISLE, England (CP) — David Askins, 10, is never allowed to play outdoors—not because he is being punished but because he is allergic to sunshine. The condition, known as hydroapuerorum, causes a bad skin rash if he is exposed to the sun. Doctors hope the ailment will improve as David grows older.

Mother's Helper

A MISSING button or ripped hem often shows up minutes before the children are going out. For a quick mend, I keep a special sewing kit right in the kitchen. An assortment of needles are already threaded with common colors and stuck in a handy pin cushion, along with various sized buttons. Useful at laundry folding time, too. Wasps and Bees Sting People When Annoyed

Wasps and bees often nest in or near buildings and sting people when annoyed. But they do eat flies, caterpillars, and other harmful insects.

Honey bees may become established in buildings and accumulate comb and honey. Heat may melt the comb and the honey may drip into the rooms below.

The honey bee usually leaves its stinger in the wound. To east the pain, scrape it from the wound. Don't try to pull it out. If you do, you force more poison into the flesh. Wasps do not leave their stingers in the wounds and can sting repeatedly.

Stings may cause almost no swelling or pain in some, but they may cause others to die. If you become nauseated, faint, or short of breath, get medical help immediately. If the sting causes only swelling and pain, apply a paste made with water and baking soda.

Wear protective clothing when carrying out control measures, do so after dark when the insects are all in the nest and there is less danger of being stung.

If you need a light, do not let an unprotected person hold it as escaping insects will fly towards it. Keep children and pets away from the area around a treated nest untill all the insects on the ground are dead.

Do not knock nests down with a water hose. The insects will remain in the area in an aggressive mood, and may repair the nest.

TO CONTROL WASPS

Drench exposed mud dauber wasp nests with a spray containing one of the following persistent insecticides in an oil base: 5% DDT, 2% chlordane, 1% malathion, 0.5% lindane, or 0.5% diedrin. Including 0.1 or 0.2% pyrethrins in the spray knocks the wasps down quickly.

The nests of yellow jackets and hornets are enclosed and often hard to reach. If you can safely use a torch on the end of a pole, simply hold the flame beneath the nest until it is entirely burned.

Where a torch is dangerous or the nest concealed, such as a ground nest made by a digger wasp, use a hand dust gun to pump into the nest dust containing 0.2 to 0.4% pyrethrins plus one of the following insecticides: 10% DDT, 5% chlordane, 4% malathion, 1% dieldrin, or 1% lindane. You may use one of the sprays recommended for exposed nests, but they do not penetrate the inside of the nests of yellow jackets and hornets so effectivley as do dusts. Aerosol insect sprays are convenient and are effective if you direct the spray into the nest entrance at close range.

Or, to destroy nests in debris on the ground, in the soil, or under stones, you may pour boiling water over them.

Fall frosts kill wasps and the nests are not re-occupied the next year. You may remove them easily and safely in the fall after the insects are dead.

TO CONTROL BEES

To kill honey bees established in a wall space, force one of the persistent insecticides listed under control of wasps into the nest entrance. A dust is more effective than a spray. Or, attach a small board to the end of a pole long enough to reach from the ground to the nest, and simply lean it against the wall with the board just beneath the entrance. Cover the board with an insecticide dust or wettable powder. Repeat the procedure once a week until no more bees appear. Do not try to nail the landing strip to the wall as you will disturb the bees.

If possible, remove the honeycomb after the bees are dead. If you don't scavenger insects or wax moths may develop in it and spread through the building. Also, the brood in the comb will emerge and may build up the colony again. When the bees are dead, close the entrance to the nest to avoid further trouble.

Do not use honey from a nest treated with an insecticide. Bury or burn the comb after you remove it.

During the summer, honey bees may leave the parent colony in a large swarm. They may settle on a tree branch or other object for a few hours or even a day but are not likely to be aggressive if you do not disturb them. If you know a beekeeper, he may wish to capture the swarm.

Chairman James Cox of Ottawa refused to comment further. Other members prepared to return to Vancouver, Halifax, Winnipeg and other centres.

"It's over," said Mr. Cox, when asked about the strike. Then he muttered a confused denial when pressed to elaborate about the brief comment.

Prime Minister Pearson has stated the extra pay boosts approved Wednesday are final for the time being. They increase to $510-$550, effective Aug. 1, the $300-$360 pay increases that were approved three weeks ago and made retroactive to last Oct. 1.

HIT THREE PROVINCES

The postal brotherhood wants $660, but only the Montreal workers have continued the wildcat strike that for a time halted mail services in the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia.

Other strikers went back to work to await the judge's report.

The emergency arrangements n Montreal included moving 39 nail-laden railway cars to the Longue Pointe ordnance depot for unloading by army troops. Mr. Tremblay said this has reed the main post office to leal with new mail.

At the Friday meeting Judge Anderson made it clear to the brotherhood that he will not neet their demand to recommend that the extra increase be nade retroactive to last Oct. 1. "The judge feels he has acted airly in this instance," one unon official reported later.

A strike chronology issued by Mr. Benson said the cabinet, at neetings between July 7 and 14 before the original increases were approved, had discussed lans to meet any walkout.

New Cars Will Have Added Safety Features

TORONTO (CP) — All 1966-model cars made in Ontario will be equipped with new safety features in an effort to halt an alarming increase in highway traffic deaths.

Transport Minister Irwin Haskett and Ronald Todgham, president of Chrysler of Canada Ltd., said in a joint announcement Thursday that windshield washers, left-outside rear-view mirrors, padded dashboards, padded sunvisors, rear seat-belts and back-up lights will be standard equipment in the new models.

Mr. Haskett has been meeting with Canadian automobile company presidents and W. B. G. Reynolds, commissioner of his department's highway safety branch during the last two months.

The companies which manufacture about 90 per cent of the cars sold in the province, are: Ford Motor Co. Ltd., Oakville and Windsor; General Motors of Canada Ltd., Oshawa; American Motors (Canada) Ltd., Brampton; Chrysler Canada Ltd., Windsor, and Studebaker of Canada Ltd., Hamilton.

The largest-selling import, Volkswagen, already includes most of the announced safety features as standard equipment but plans to add front and rear seat-belts and back-up lights to their new models.

A transport department official said the Ontario manufacturers would probably absorb themselves the $75 cost-per-car of the safety equipment.

"The aircraft then commenced a diving descent, building up speed at such a rate that any attempted recovery was ineffective because the stabilizer hydraulic motor had stalled, thus making it impossible within the altitude available to trim the aircraft out of the extreme nose-down position," he wrote.

DISCUSSES CONDITIONS

His report, dismissing the theory of pilot error, then discussed the conditions that might have caused the pilot to take this action.

Most probable of these was "an unprogrammed extension of the pitch trim compensator," known as PTC.

PTC influences the elevators that are located behind the stabilizers and make a plane go up or down. It automatically adjusts them as increased speed shifts the centre of lift farther back on the main wings.

As this centre changes, the plane has a tendency to nose down. The computerized PTC device works to overcome this by moving the elevators to a nose-up position.

"The PTC has been known to extend fully, due to a fault in the system," the report said. "If this occurs, it usually is detected immediately by the rearward pressure on the (pilot's) control column and by the clicking sound which accompanies the extension."

If a pilot wasn't aware of the fault he would tend to apply a nose-down trim to the stabilizers to counteract the nose-up tendency.

Should PTC then retract, the plane would pitch downward but the pilot would have no trouble recovering.

WOULD AFFECT

However, if PTC did not retract "the aircraft's manoeuvering stability would be adversely affected."

The tests showed that a pilot would have some difficulty if PTC was fully extended and the pilot applied one-half degree of nose-down trim on the stabilizer. Crash investigators found that the Montreal plane had 1.6 degrees applied.

Two other items were cited as possible causes for the pilot's use of down-trim. One could be a failure in the pilot system, causing the airspeed indicator to show an erroneous drop in air speed; the other a failure in a vertical gyro that indicates the trim of the plane.

However, Mr. Justice Challies did not consider either of these quite as likely as the PTC theory.

He attached a list of recommendations to the report, the main one calling for installation of a flight data recorder in all large commercial aircraft. Such a recorder would show all the control actions taken by an aircraft.

They Shoot Arrows Into Air, Fail to Cover Lady Bare

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)— Tamzon Feeney's first guerrilla raid was a failure, but she has vowed to return with more troops, bows, arrows and stronger string.

The object under attack is a bikini-clad statue.

Tamzon, 16, and her teen-age followers are waging a battle—in the wee hours of the morning — to have the statue removed or covered up.

Problem is, however, that the statue is a 17-foot advertisement for a nightclub featuring bare-bosomed dancing girls.

Her band of partisans, armed with bows, arrows, string and a plastic sheet, made their first raid on the statue in predawn hours Thursday. For more than two hours the 10 boys and girls shot arrows over the statue.

"We tried to shoot arrows over the statue with string attached so we could pull a dropcloth over it, but the string kept breaking," Tamzon explained.

Even though the guerrilla band failed to cover the statue, they didn't leave until they'd posted a sign reading "teen-agers against immorality."

Tamzon said their plan is to arouse public indignation so that the statue would be taken down.

The rotating statue was erected by the club's owner, Paul Richter, who said it cost $6,000.

Richter said, "It's not anything different than you'll see down at the beach."

Parliamentary Notebook

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—One political effect of the postal strike has been a sense of exasperation with Prime Minister Pearson among some Liberal MPs.

Mr. Pearson's great personal popularity among his followers appears to have taken a sharp nose-dive, at least among Ontario and Quebec MPs who in the past have been some of his strongest supporters.

After the Liberals' 1963 election victory, Mr. Pearson stood at the peak of popularity with his party. It wasn't until the first series of federal-provincial conferences that a few critics raised anonymous voices.

Their private complaint was that Mr. Pearson in his dealings with Quebec was giving the rest of Canada the impression that Premier Lesage really called the shots at Ottawa, not the prime minister.

Two events added further voices of criticism. One was the handling of the flag debate filibuster which caused several Liberals to say privately the whole issue had been raised unnecessarily by Mr. Pearson and had been complicated by his remarks about his favorite design.

THEN CAME RIVARD

But Mr. Pearson probably came in for the harshest words among his followers for the Lucien Rivard affair, the subsequent inquiry by Quebec Chief Justice Frederic Dorion and the cabinet shuffle which left former justice minister Favreau in the cabinet, where he will be a target when the Commons reconvenes.

With the cabinet shuffle out of the way, official Ottawa was settling back to what had been expected to be the first "normal" summer since 1962. Unlike 1963 and 1964, Parliament was in recess for a lengthy period.

But up popped the postal strike to make life difficult for the Pearson administration.

Curiously, one criticism of Mr. Pearson among some of his followers echoed that of Opposition Leader Diefenbaker over the postal strike.

SAY ISSUE OBVIOUS

It was that the prime minister and his ministers should have realized that the first pay increase announced — $300 to $360 a year—wasn't enough. In effect, they say the strike should never have happened.

As the strike dragged on in Montreal, words such as "weakness" and "indecision" began to be heard among the few Liberal MPs who showed up in Ottawa.

Mr. Pearson conceded this week that he'd been bombarded with pleas from Montreal MPs to get the strike settled. Reports reaching here from Toronto and Montreal were that Liberal fortunes had never been so low.

Whether there are any permanent effects on Mr. Pearson's standing or on the party's election chances remains to be seen. Liberals have been taking comfort in the notion that there hasn't been any marked flight of support to other parties.

U.S. Finds Giving Help Impartially Just Alienates Pakistan and India

By CONRAD FINK

RAWALPINDI (AP) — The United States has gotten into a diplomatic muddle in the Indian subcontinent.

A policy of equal treatment for two countries that are bitter foes has brought Washington little prestige among the 580,000,000 people in India and Pakistan.

The facts are these:

In the last 14 years, the United States has put more than $11,600,000,000 in economic and military aid into Pakistan and neighboring India.

The aim was a "joint defence against communism.

Yet Pakistan today is openly voicing hostility to Washington while rapidly strengthening ties with China and other socialist countries.

India is scornful of American foreign policy and Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri is especially critical of the way President Johnson is running the Viet Nam war.

Americans in this subcontinent say that from the very beginning of its involvement, the United States has misunderstood the situation.

MISCALCULATED RIFT

They say the United States completely underestimated the bitterness between India and Pakistan and this inevitably doomed Washington's attempt to play both sides of the street.

In addition, both Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan are making a big pitch for influence in the Afro-Asian world, often to the detriment of ties with the United States.

Neither leader has forgotten that his country and its problems must be viewed in the Asian context.

Ayub, at one time considered by many to be a firm American ally, constantly makes it clear that while Washington is thousands of miles away, he and Pakistan are next door to China.

Pakistan must have normal relations with its neighbors, he says, and "Pakistan is looking for friends, not masters."

As for the Pakistan - India quarrel, interviews with leading officials in both countries show this is the central theme around which almost all policy is built.

MUST TAKE SIDES

Both say, in effect: "Anyone not with us is against us." Both demand from their friends all-out support in the struggle over the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

China has bet on just one of the two bickering neighbors—Pakistan — and is moving quickly and with skill to exploit the opening offered by Pakistan's quarrel with the United States.

Peking denounced as "shameless blackmail" Washington's revelation it is delaying new aid commitments. But the Chinese steered clear of offering to replace American aid.

Soviet diplomats in Pakistan are anxious to exploit United States-Pakistan differences, but Moscow apparently is afraid of the same trap that caught Washington.

With more than $1,000,000,000 in economic aid invested in India, the Soviet Union apparently does not want to risk offending Indians by rushing to Pakistan's side too quickly with too much.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are going to be staying at the Chateau Frontenac for a few days and were wondering if you could suggest a tour we could take on foot around the old part of Quebec City? — B. L., Belleville

ANSWER: Here is a suggested route: leaving The Chateau Frontenac and proceeding up Rue St. Louis, one comes to Rue du Parloir, which leads past the Ursuline convent, founded in 1639. Continuing past the convent on Rue Donnacona brings the visitor to Rue des Jardins, where the Anglican Cathedral, the City Hall, the Basilica and the old Quebec Seminary, founded in 1663, may be seen. Following Rue des Jardines onto Rue de la Fabrique, turn left and after one block, right onto Rue Couillard, which becomes Hebert. Following Hebert to Des Ramparts (passing a section of the University Laval) the route leads for about two blocks then right onto Dambourges and continues into Rue Sous le Cap. From here walk along the Rue Sault Au Matelot, then right on Cote de la Montagne and left on Notre Dame, passing the Notre Dame des Victoires Church built in 1688. A right turn and a short walk along Sous le Fort leads to the Ascenseur (elevator) which ascends to the Dufferin Terrace, the famous promenade in front of the Chateau Frontenac.

QUESTION: We are spending a couple of weeks at Shanty Bay, Lake Simcoe. If Orillia is close, we would like to see the Stephen Leacock House. Could you please tell us the distance and also when the House is open? — D. H., Belleville

ANSWER: The Stephen Leacock Memorial House is on Old Brewery Bay, Orillia. It contains many of this famous humorist's books and private papers. Open 10 to 8, Sunday 1 to 8 during the summer. Admission 50 cents, children 25 cents.

Orillia is about 18 miles from Shanty Bay.

While in Orillia, it would be well worth your while to see the Champlain Monument, in Couchiching Beach Park, it commemorates the visit of Champlain to Orillia in 1615. Acclaimed as one of the finest examples of bronze statuary in existence, it has attracted art lovers the world over.

QUESTION: Could you tell me where Louis Bromfield's Malabar Farm is situated and if it can be visited? — J. W., Corbyville.

ANSWER: Malabar Farm is 2 miles southeast of Mansfield, Ohio, on Bromfield and Pleasant Valley Roads and State 603. It is one of the largest private agricultural experiment stations. Tours of Bromfield's residence, "The Big House" on the hour from 9 to 4 daily, grounds close at 5; wagon tours Sun. at 2:30 from May through October, weather permitting. Admission $1.

QUESTION: We are interested in visiting Whiteshell Provincial Park, Manitoba. How may it be reached, and is there any accommodation in the park? — D. M., Belleville

ANSWER: The Whiteshell Provincial park covers over 1,000 square miles and is reached by Trans-Canada Highway west from Kenora, Ontario just across the Manitoba border. Much of the land is rough, hilly and thickly forested. The southern section of the park, along the Trans-Canada Highway, has been most highly developed. West Hawk, Falcon, Caddy Brereton and White Lakes offer recreational facilities. Lodges and cabin accommodations, campgrounds and trailer parks are ample. A new highway extending through the northern area has made accessible, hitherto untouched lakes. Fishing is an outstanding attraction.

The entrance fee to the park is 50 cents per day, $3 per weekend.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JCT. — Mr. and Mrs. Keith Johnson and Judy enjoyed the 1000 Island Boat Cruise recently.

Mrs. W. Harlow, Mrs. C. Bridges and Mrs. C. Fitchett visited Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith and children at the Thomasburg manse recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kovach and children are visiting with relatives in Montreal this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bridges and family from north of Perth were weekend visitors at the home of the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy and Lloyd visited Bon Echo Provincial Park recently.

At the afternoon service at Eggleton Church last Sunday, the minister, Mr. A. Smith, delivered the final in a series of sermons on "Resurrection." Mr. and Mrs. Smith and children are on vacation until September 5th.

The Eggleton Messengers with their leader, Miss Dianne Prest held their regular meeting at the church on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Allen and family from Michigan were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stapley, Sandra and Gary during the weekend.

Miss Audrey Stapley spent a few days in Ottawa, visiting at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Summers and family.

Things a Wife Should Know About Retirement Benefits

By THOMAS COLLINS

Some men are not telling their wives all there is to tell about the retirement benefits that go with their jobs.

They simply haven't bothered to learn what the benefits are, or else they reckon these benefits are their private business.

Whatever the cause — and this column is not intended to start any new domestic feuds — here is a general picture of what jobs with some of the better companies and institutions now offer a husband in retirement:

1. They offer great variety, and any wife who is seeking to check up on her husband must understand this. His job may offer all of what follows here. It may offer less of some benefits and more of others. If she is not convinced by what her husband says, he can bring her a copy of his Employee's Manual and-or his union contract, either of which should detail retirement benefits.

2. One of the key retirement benefits some jobs offer, from the standpoint of a wife, is a provision in the man's pension plan whereby he can guarantee his wife a lifetime pension in case he dies. The man provides this either by paying more money into the pension fund while he is working, or agreeing to take a smaller pension — say one-fourth or one-third smaller — than he is entitled to at 65. The man must give his employer a decision on this from five years before his retirement down to one year before depending on the employer. Once he makes the decision he has to stick by it.

EARLY RETIREMENT

3. Many jobs now allow a man to retire prior to age 65. This is vital to a wife who sees he is losing his health. An early retirement, of course, reduces the pension the man will get, and the size of the reduction varies with employers. One progressive employer who formerly reduced pensions up to 8 percent for each year prior to age 65 now reduces them a flat 3 percent Thus a man set to retire at 65 with $200 a month could retire at 62 with $182.

4. Many jobs, usually the better ones, have some intriguing gimmicks to them which are not written down in manuals. They provide, for instance, that a man who has a post the employer would like for him to vacate can step down to a lesser post and be assured he can hold it for maybe three years beyond the normal age - 65 retirement date. A man's vanity will seldom let him do this, so why tell the wife?

5 Some jobs allow a man to sway his retirement date up to six months or more after, or before, his 65th birthday. If he is 65 in March he may be allowed to stay on until September or December 31. He may be allowed to walk out six months early with only a minor cut in pension.

6. Some jobs allow a man to tack his vacation onto his retirement and walk out three weeks early. Some allow him to forego his vacation for the year and walk out with three weeks' pay in a lump.

HEALTH INSURANCE

7. Some jobs provide a man a free health insurance policy for life when he retires though its benefits may be smaller than when he was working. Some provide such a policy for a small fee. Many jobs now provide a man a life insurance policy free for life, but often with decreasing payments over the years. A few jobs provide a special death benefit, in addition to the life insurance, that pays up to a year's salary at the time of retirement.

8. Almost every employer in the land would be pleased if the wife of every male employee knew all details of the retirement benefits the employee will get. But doesn't know how to go over the husband's head to inform her.

What has been said here, as stated, is not to start a fuss. Most husbands are nice guys. They actually don't know much about their retirement benefits. Maybe more wives can now prod more of them to go find out.

Minister Inducted At Special Service

RAWDON — On Thursday evening the Rev. W. Sedgwick of Queensboro and Rev. D. W. Potter, of Madoc represented Belleville Presbytery and conducted an Induction Service for Rev. Wilbert C. Cox B.A., B.D., of Arden, who will assume the pastorate of Rawdon charge with three appointments at Bethel, Wellmans and Mount Pleasant.

The Rev. Cox was ordained to the ministry in June of this year and was married on July 10th.

The Induction Service was held in Bethel United Church and the central decoration was a large basket of mixed summer blooms. About 90 adults were in attendance from the three appointments and there were visitors from Arden, Mountain Grove, Kingston and Springbrook.

Mrs. Harold Elliott was pianist and during the service Mrs. Thomas Sarles sang a vocal selection. Special hymns and Bible lessons were used throughout the service.

Messrs. Edgar McKeown and William Heath were the ushers.

Rev. D. W. Potter gave an inspirational message outlining the duties of minister, elders and congregation. He said the minister should not be expected to spend time doing unimportant duties on the charge.

Following the service, the Rev. Cox and Mrs. Cox were introduced individually to those present. A fellowship hour followed in the church hall where Mrs. Donald Heath, president of Bethel U.C.W., and several women served refreshments.

War Reporter's Notes Paint Grim Picture

By HAL BOYLE

QUI NHON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

This is a city under enemy siege. It is haunted by bitter memories and by many refugees.

The bitter memories result from the terrorist bombing last Feb. 10 of the Hotel Viet Cua. Viet Cong agents blew up the four-storey building, then being used to quarter men of a U.S. aviation maintenance company. Twenty-three Americans were among the 37 killed.

No trace of the hotel now exists. Its site is used as a parking lot.

Qui Nhon, rebuilt since it was razed and looted in 1945, is a neat-looking city of French colonial design. Its streets are wide and well-kept.

But it has become a city of tragedy and mass misery. Refugees flocking in for safety from outlying villages have nearly doubled its normal population of 50,000.

Its plight only reflects the situation throughout the province of Binh Dinh, which is the second largest of South Viet Nam's 44 provinces and its most populous area with the exception of Saigon.

REFUGEE LIST LONG

"The province now has a population of 852,000—and 96,000 are refugees," said Lieut. David McLaughlin, 26, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who is a 1962 West Point graduate.

"We think the enemy is creating a refugee situation here deliberately. With the main highway and railroad cut, that forces us to supply the refugees by sea and air, and puts a real drain on us."

A large percentage of the refugees are Roman Catholics and strongly anti-Communist. Most have chosen to uproot their lives and flee here rather than co-operate with the guerrillas in their native villages.

The refugees are huddled in 25 camps throughout the province. One of the seven camps here houses 10,000 homeless men, women and children.

They dwell behind barbed wire in abject conditions. They are fed and given what clothing is available and about five cents a day each to care for their other needs. Disease flourishes.

One officer estimated that more than half the population of one large camp was tubercular. Peace, when it comes, will come too late for thousands of these civilians who pay the sad price of war.

Minto

MINTO — Messrs. Will Donald, Stewart Brady and Frank Forestell have returned home from hospital.

Helen Sarles spent a few days with her friend, Brenda Williams of Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. E. Colden spent last weekend with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Colden of Westree.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wickens and Lori of Toronto are holidaying with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Wickens and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Preston.

Dr. and Mrs. Sternard, Cleveland, Ohio., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keller.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bagshaw and three boys of Toronto spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holden.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geen, Rhonda and Russell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spry of Bonarlaw spent the weekend in Oshawa and attended the wedding anniversary of Mrs. Spry's sister and her husband.

Brenda Watson of Petherick's visited her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sarles and family for a few days.

Mrs. Vera Alcombrack of Toronto is holidaying with her sister-in-law, Mrs. L. Heagle.

Mr. Harry Courtney and Miss Muriel Courtney of Brockville, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clements and boys spent the holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Poste, at their cottage on Papineau Lake.

Mrs. Laura Tanner, Miss Edna Tanner and Messrs George and Clare Tanner were dinner guests of Mrs. Edith Edwards of Stirling on Sunday.

40TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Colden celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary on Thursday. Their family, including Mr. and Mrs Carman Colden and daughters of Springbrook, Mr. and Mrs. John Myall and daughters of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. R. Finch and Pamela of Oshawa, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Colden and family of Toronto, Mr. Colden's mother, Mrs. B. Colden and sisters, Mrs. Jerry Hurley and Mr. Hurley and Mrs. J. McCarey and Mr. McCarey, all of Belleville spent Sunday afternoon and evening at the Colden home. Following dinner at six Mr. John Myall acted as master of ceremonies and on behalf of the family presented Ed and Leatha with a purse as well as some personal gifts. The "bride" and "groom" of 40 years expressed thanks and appreciation to the family for a very memorable anniversary.

An old story relates the experience of a miser who placed his hoarded money in a bag and swam across a river with it.

When he reached the other side he discovered the money had disappeared. The bag had broken open while he was swimming.

The moral of the story is: never figure you've got something in the bag until you look and see if there is a hole in the bottom.

I'm not saying that Ellis Juniors and Bloomfield figured the Belleville District Softball League semi-finals were in the well-known containers but some of the wiseacres who figured the stage was all set have learned better.

Trudeaus clawed their way out of the "bag" after being two down and they could blast their way into the final with a win in Picton tonight over the canning village "Yankees."

Likewise Ellis Juniors were jolted into a sense of not too well-being when the Tweed Lombanks set them back on their haunches Thursday night with a 5-4 squeaker defeat.

It is not beyond the realm of possibility that the underdogs in the B. and D. Stakes will cross swords in the finals. Stranger things have happened.

Next Thursday will decide the issue when the Lombanks are here for the final round with the Juniors at the Fairgrounds.

Meanwhile the OASA playdowns have entered the picture with the general curtain rising next week.

The Juniors get their first taste of out-of-town warfare here Tuesday night when they take on Trenton in the junior "A" opener at the Fairgrounds. Second game is tabbed for Trenton, Saturday, Aug. 14.

Tweed Lombanks follow up their Thursday night battle with the Juniors with an OASA intermediate "C" tussle with a Trenton R.C.A.F. team on Friday night at the RCAF diamond. Second tilt is slated for Aug. 16th.

Next Wednesday night Bloomfield enters the OASA Intermediate "B" lists, entertaining Cobourg with the second tilt set for the following Saturday. I hear, by the way, that Rolly Campbell and Dick Turpin, two well-known softball names around here are the mainstays of the Cobourg club.

On Wednesday, August 18th, the Trenton Printers - Kingston intermediate "A" series gets under way, starting at Trenton. And on Tuesday, August 24th, Trudeaus clash with Kingston on the latter's diamond, in the first of their Senior "B" series. Second game is set for this city Thursday, August 26th.

Meanwhile, over on the Commercial League pastures the battle for second, third and fourth playoff berths is tighter than that dowager's girdle.

Up on top of the heap the City Hotel, who need binoculars to locate the second place Lightfoots, are riding high. But they'd better watch their suds and peanuts. I remember a Yankee team which had a 20-game spread and got clobbered but good in the world series.

Back in the pack with six teams eyeing each other with the look of a hungry jackal at a fat rabbit, the situation is reaching the point where "yer pays yer money—and takes yer choice."

Bunched closer than a hand of bananas are Lightfoots (26 points), Point Anne, RCAF Cosmos, Stewart Warner (all with 24), Belvedere with 22 and Black Diamond with 20.

Lightfoot's hold on second is precarious. They have four games left to play. Point Anne and Cosmos have five. Stewart-Warner, Belvedere and Black Diamond have four left.

So it's dog-eat-dog from here in.. The chips are down and you'll see some wing-dingers yet, with the possibility of a playoff for that fourth playoff berth.

Brilliant Bunning Blanks Bucs 4-0

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way Gene Mauch was talking you'd think Jim Bunning was his own personal invention.

"It has to be one of the best pitching performances I've seen," Philadelphia Phillies' manager said after Bunning's five-hit, 4-0 conquest of Pittsburgh Pirates in National League baseball Friday night.

"Beautiful," said Mauch, "that man can pitch and he's going to keep on doing it for some time and for several reasons. He's got a great arm and a great delivery."

The right-hander struck out 12 and walked none in marking up his fourth shutout of the season and reducing his earned-run average to 2.66.

Jim Coker's pinch hit single in the 11th inning before in the winner in Cincinnati Reds' 5-4 decision over leading Los Angeles Dodgers, San Francisco Giants edged St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, Milwaukee Braves whipped Houston Astros 6-4, and Chicago Cubs edged New York Mets 4-3 in the other National League games.

HIT FOUR HOMERS

Cincinnati's first four runs came on homers by Don Pavetich, Pete Rose, Deron Johnson and Tommy Harper. The Dodgers tied it twice, the last time in the eighth when Wes Parker walked, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on John Roseboro's single, prolonging it until Coker delivered his winning single in the 11th.

Hal Lanier doubled in two runs and scored the third on a bad throw in leading the Giants past St. Louis. His fourth-inning drive came with two out and drove in Willie Mays and Willie McCovey. The relay throw trying to get McCovey at the plate bounced away from the catcher and Lanier slid home with the winning run.

Gene Oliver drove in four runs with a homer and a double, Hank Aaron had three singles and Mack Jones lashed his 20th homer in Milwaukee's triumph over the Astros.

Ted Abernathy's 59th relief performance of the season preserved Chicago's victory and Larry Jackson's lifetime 13-0 record against the Mets. He came on after Gary Kolb's three-run homer pulled the Mets to within one in the bottom of the ninth.

Browns Defeat All-Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Namath, one of the most highly-publicized rookies of all time, gets his first major professional test tonight in pro football's opening exhibition weekend.

Namath will work for the New York Jets in an American Football League exhibition against Houston at Alexandria, Va.

Namath is scheduled to work the second and third quarters. As much attention will be paid to his right knee, on which an operation was performed during the off-season, as his strong passing arm.

Both survived tests in a rookie game against the Boston Patriots rookies earlier this season.

Most of the rest of the rookie standouts were in action in Chicago Friday night as members of the College All-Stars who took a 24-16 drubbing from the National League champion Cleveland Browns.

John Huarte of Notre Dame and the New York Jets, who entered the game with Cleveland leading 24-3, engineered two quick All-Star drives, but the Browns held on. He passed 68 yards in one 80-yard touchdown march and for 54 in another.

In the end, however, the passing of Frank Ryan—with Gary Collins his favorite target—and the pile-driving running of the fabulous Jimmy Brown were too much for the All-Stars to handle. Brown scored the first touchdown on a seven-yard run and Collins the last on a 10-yard toss from Ryan.

Canada Leads Cup Golf

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Mexican youngster and a United States veteran were the individual standouts as the America's Cup opened Friday, but Canada walked off the course with the halfway lead in the biennial amateur golf classic.

After two 18-hole rounds—one of teamed three-ball sixsomes and another of three-ball threesomes—Canada had 9½ points, half a point better than Mexico and a full point above the United States.

But even Canadian fans, who began to visualize an end to the Americans' perfect record in the competition, admitted that 19-year-old junior star Ricardo Vega and 42-year-old Bill Campbell almost stole the show.

Vega particularly caught the gallery's fancy. The youth took on Canadian champion Nick Weslock and American titleholder Campbell in what should have been a round strictly between the two veterans.

Instead he stopped Weslock cold 3 and 2 and went down fighting to Campbell by a similar score. Erratic putting was the Mexican's weakness—he sank a 60-footer for a birdie on the 10th at St. Charles Country Club but missed at four feet on the 11th.

Pontiacs Nail Senior Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Pontiacs clinched first place in senior Inter-County baseball action Friday night by edging Guelph CJOYs 7-6 in 13 innings.

Second-place Stratford Chiefs finished their season with a 6-5 win over Kitchener - Waterloo Panthers. They now trail the Pontiacs, who have three games remaining, by 2½ games.

Whitey Lapthorne singled home Hank Czerwieniec with two out in the 13th for London's winning run.

Pontiacs scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth on one hit, two errors and two walks. Johnny Ambrose won the game in relief.

Teacher, Student Reach Final

By JIM CRERAR

KITCHENER (CP) — A teacher and a student made it to the final of the Canadian women's open golf championships with victories in the semi-final round Friday.

Jocelyne Bourassa, an 18-year-old high school graduate aiming for a degree in physical education at the University of Montreal starting in September, and Mary Ellen Driscoll, a 27-year-old teacher of physical education in a private school for girls in Ottawa, clash in the 36-hole test scheduled to start at 9 a.m. with the first 18 holes. The second 18 holes was slated to begin at 2 p.m.

The two played it cool Friday despite temperatures which hovered around the 90-degree level.

Miss Driscoll defeated Joann Riddell of Montreal 5 and 4 in her semi-final match while Miss Bourassa ousted Carolyn Mclure of Saskatoon 3 and 2.

Miss Driscoll, playing out of Saint John, N.B., is in her 11th open tournament but only once got beyond the first round.

FIRST IN DECADES

She is the first Maritime entry to get as far as the finals since Miss M. Thompson of Saint John won the tournament in 1908.

Miss Bourassa, who bubbles with enthusiasm off the fairways but who plays with cold precision on the course, is in her fourth open event.

Miss Bourassa, aiming to become the third junior-age player in the 65-year history of the open to win, wasn't nervous. She wrapped up her match by knockgn in putts on the 15th and 16th holes for birdie-fours.

Miss Driscoll was three holes up at the turn after winning the first, losing the third winning the fifth with a birdie four, taking the sixth with a one-over-par four and the eighth with a par four.

She went four holes up with a par five on the 11th, five holes up with her birdie on the 12th and clinched the victory by halving the 13th and 14th.

Consolation flight winners were Anna Cleland of Winnipeg with a 7 and 5 victory over Pearl Colpitts of Moncton, N.B in the first flight; Mrs. Don Black of Kitchener with a 2 and 1 win over Pat McClellan of Toronto in the second flight; Bonnie Mae Legg of Toronto with a 6 and 4 victory over Christine McCrea of Hamilton in the third flight; Mrs. D. H Parks of Hamilton with a 1 up win over Jean McNeil of Milton, Ont., in the fourth flight; Mrs. J. L. Reynolds of Plaster Rock, N.B., with a 1 up victory over Mrs. N. J. England of London, Ont., in the fifth flight, and Mrs. T. W. Lambrick of Orillia, Ont., with a 6 and 5 triumph over Mrs. A. G. Macmillan of Charlottetown in the sixth flight.

Jets Zero Leafs 4-0, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pitcher Billy Knoch couldn't have picked a better time to burl his first shutout of the season as far as Columbus Jets are concerned.

The young right - hander blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 5-0 on four hits Friday night as the Jets moved three games in front of the second-place Leafs in the International League pennant race.

In other league action Rochester Red Wings dumped Atlanta Crackers 10-5, Syracuse Chiefs edged Jacksonville Suns 5-3 in 10 innings, and Buffalo Bisons defeated Toledo Mud Hens 3-1.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Brockton Boy, owned by Larkin Maloney of Toronto, had too much speed for a field of five in the six-furlong feature here Friday.

Jockey Nick Shuk moved the colt out in the mid-way point of the race and raced to the front at the top of the stretch, winning by three lengths. Brockton Boy was odds-on at 4-to-5, and he combined with second choice Famous Road for a $16.30 quinella.

Friday was a big day for trainer Frank Merrill Jr., as he saddled the winners of the first two races. Noel Turcotte booted home Ace Astronaut in the first and Wayne Harris won the second with Ann's Reply for a daily double of $13.80.

Best pay of the day occured in the third race when John LeBlanc won with Vicky. The two-year-old filly returned $21.70 for a $2 wager.

"Just Lost Everything"

Palmer Quits Tournament!

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP)—Dick Sikes led the $125,000 Philadelphia golf classic into the third round today with Jack Nicklaus breathing down his neck, but the big news was Arnold Palmer.

Nicklaus charged through the second round with six birdies and an eagle for a seven-under-par 65 and a 36-hole total of 136, one stroke behind Sikes' 135. Palmer stirred the crowd with the announcement he was packing his clubs and going home to Latrobe, Pa.

"I don't remember ever doing what I did on the golf course today," Palmer said. "I just lost my concentration . . . and everything."

The 35-year-old Palmer shot a 34-43—77 for a 36-hole total of 146, which would have made him anchorman among the 70 qualifiers if he chose to continue in the 72-hole competition through Sunday.

Cheers echoed from the course, where his army of followers were screaming for a patented Palmer charge to the front. But on the 10th hole, his game collapsed after he drove into the woods and then hit a tree with his second shot. The crowd watched stunned as the famed golfer went one over par on each of the next six holes and was over on the 16th.

He finally ended the tailspin with a birdie on No. 17, and a par on the 18th.

The 25-year-old Sikes, admitting the pressure of leading was affecting his putting, shot a one-under-par 71, and clung to his slim lead over Nicklaus, who said pressure makes him a better player.

Behind the top pair were Johnny Pott, 29-year-old pro from Gulf Hills, Miss., who hasn't won a tournament on the tour in almost two years; 44-year-old Kel Nagle of Australia, and Joe Campbell, 200-pound veteran of eight years on the tour. Each had 36 hole totals of 138.

George Knudson, Toronto's touring professional, shot a 74 to bring his two-round total to 144 and survive the cutoff.

Paces 9-3 Victory

Understudy Fires Twins' Spark-plug

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The injury-riddled Minnesota Twins have a secret formula for keeping Zollo Versalles out of a sick bed—Orlando Martinez.

The formula was first concocted four years ago and Versalles is thriving on it.

Friday night he clouted a three-run homer, climaxing a six-run explosion in the sixth inning that carried the Twins to a 9-3 victory over Boston Red Sox and a 6½ game lead in the American League.

The Twins have been fighting for the pennant without some of their starters because of injury and illness — pitchers Camilo Pascual and Dave Boswell plus slugger Harmon Killebrew currently are disabled.

But Versalles has played in all but one of the team's 109 games, trailing only team-mate Tony Oliva in durability.

The Cuban's playing frequency wasn't that high until Martinez came along. It happened at the start of the 1962 season, manager Sam Mele explained.

"Things weren't going too well for Versalles," Mele recalled. "I guess he wasn't hitting. Anyway he looked crippled, complained about his back and said that he didn't think he would be ready for the opener that was only two days away.

"So I contacted our owner and told him to get me a shortstop. He called up Orlando Martinez from the minors. Eight o'clock in the morning of opening day I received a call from Versalles. He told me he was feeling fine and would play. Apparently he had seen Martinez come in."

Elsewhere Kansas City Athletics whipped Baltimore Orioles 9-4, Chicago White Sox stopped Cleveland Indians 11-5, Detroit Tigers nipped New York Yankees 5-4 and Los Angeles knocked off Washington Senators 6-1.

Surprise Defence Factors Rider Win

Defeat Argos 17-14

TORONTO (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders' offence was never any secret before the start of the Eastern Football conference, but few expected them to field such a solid defence.

The Rough Riders unveiled it in the EFC opener Friday night when they held off two major scoring threats to salvage a 17-14 win over Toronto Argonauts after the highly-regarded Ottawa backfield did the damage.

The Rough Riders scored a pair of touchdowns in the second quarter, after a scoreless first quarter. Veteran quarterback Russ Jackson pitched a two-yard pass to halfback Bo Scott in the end zone and full back Rick Black bulled his way up the middle 20 yards less than four minutes later.

Moe Racine kicked both converts and added the winning points in the third quarter with a 14-yard field goal.

Sherman Lewis and Dave Thelen counted the Toronto touchdowns.

Veteran Jackie Parker kicked both converts.

NO TELEVISION

Hamilton Tiger - Cats and Montreal Alouettes open their EFC season at 8 p.m. tonight in Hamilton. The game will not be televised.

Quarterback Lamar McHan, who came to Toronto after service with San Francisco '49ers of the National Football League, carried the Argonauts 200 yards on the strength of his passing arm and manoeuvred them into another scoring opportunity.

He completed 12 of 25 attempted passes and had two intercepted.

Jackson took the Rough Riders 75 yards for the first touchdown, running wide and lobbing the short pass into Scott's arms. Ottawa made it 14-0 on Black's charge down the middle.

Jackson had one of his poorer nights, completing only five of 15 attempted passes for a 92-yard gain.

McHan completed five passes in engineering Toronto's first touchdown, accounting for 62 yards in the air. Lewis went around the end for the six points.

KICKS WINNER

After Racine kicked the game-winning field goal, Toronto again marched 79 yards for a touchdown. McHan's arm again carried most of the play, ending it perfectly with a short angle pass to Thelen, who drove 38 yards into the Ottawa end zone.

The Rough Riders' defence then held off what could have been two touchdowns for the Argonauts. Ottawa fumbled on the kickoff and Toronto gained possession on the Ottawa seven-yard line. The Ottawa defence tightened up and rushed McHan to break up the threat.

Later in the same quarter, Toronto halfback Bob Reed caught McHan's long pass and carried to the Ottawa 24-yard line for a 50-yard gain. Ottawa's defence again held and a final field goal attempt by John Vilunas was short.

Ottawa had 16 first downs compared to Toronto's 15, and gained 218 yards rushing to the Argonauts 35.

Trailed 18-0 At Half

Sasky Comeback Nips Stampeders 20-18

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders, who seem to make pride an extra man on their roster, registered another of their patented comeback victories Friday night in a 20-18 Western Football Conference victory over Calgary Stampeders.

The Stamps had waltzed into the second half of the game leading 18-0. Then Ron Lancaster pitched three touchdown passes to push Saskatchewan ahead, and Rider end Garner Ekstran snapped up a Calgary fumble as a saving stroke in the last 10 seconds of play

The game gave Riders a split of a home-and-home series opening the WFC season. Stampeders won 37-8 in Calgary Monday.

The clubs line up second in standings behind Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who have won both their games. Trailing after opening-game losses are Edmonton Eskimos and British Columbia Lions, who meet tonight in Vancouver.

So many mishaps plagued the game here that Stampeder coach Jerry Williams called the second half "bush-league football."

Riders were badly stung when their brilliant halfback Ed Buchanan, a former Stampeder, suffered a broken ankle on the second play of the second half. He will be out of action for at least six weeks.

The game was played before a capacity crowd of about 16,000.

Calgary's untrammelled march through the first half began with a 24-yard field goal by Larry Robinson in the first quarter. Fullback Lovell Coleman hit end Frank Budd with a 27-yard pass and quarterback Eagle Day hit Coleman from seven yards out for Calgary's two second-quarter touchdowns.

The second touchdown was set up by two breaks. Lancaster fumbled and Calgary's Larry Anderson kicked the ball down to the Rider 11-yard-line, then a missed field goal was called back on a Saskatchewan interference penalty and Calgary was granted a second try. They made good.

Robinson converted both touchdowns and picked up a single on another field goal try, missed at the first-half gun.

Rider coach Eagle Keys said Lancaster's switch to rollout plays did the trick for Riders in the second half. They scored within two minutes as Buchanan gained 26 yards on the play in which he was injured and Lancaster threw twice to end Hugh Campbell, the second time for a touchdown.

Passes to Campbell, halfback Bill Gray and finally flanker Gord Barwell brought another touchdown in the fourth quarter and Riders went ahead with the recovery of a Coleman fumble and a 28-yard scoring pass to Campbell.

Rookie Jack Abendschan converted two of the three Rider touchdowns.

Stampeders still had two minutes after the last Rider touchdown to try for a score. They moved 39 yards after the kickoff and were taking position for a field goal try when halfback Ted Woods, with his second fumble in three plays, coughed up the football to Ekstran.

Football TV Still "In Air"

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiations continued today in an attempt to remove obstacles to televising this season's Canadian Football League games.

No decision was reached Friday night as representatives of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Canadian Television Co. (CTV), John Labatt Ltd., London, Ont., brewery, and the Bouchard, Champagne and Pelletier advertising agency of Montreal met to decide on the disposition of television rights.

Robert W. McGall, CBC assistant general manager for English broadcasting and spokesman for the group, answered most questions with a "no comment" but did say that "if, and when a contract is signed, the commentators in English and French would be named by the two networks."

He denied before the meeting, however, that BCP, reported to have paid $2,000,000 for exclusive television rights for the 1965-66 season, had abrogated them.

In any case, "there will be nothing doing until our meeting Saturday," Mr. McGall said.

Labatt is a willing sponsor for Eastern games and the obstacles to an agreement appear to be the desire of the two networks to televise both the CFL's Eastern and Western conference games.

Minor Baseball

Fountain Park Peewees exploded for 13 runs in the first inning and went on to trounce the Jaycees 27-4 in a one-sided contest at Pine Street last night. The game went five innings.

Allan Wood hurled for the winners. He gave up three hits, struck out six and walked eight.

Paul Wolfe, Larry Burnette and Don Landrey shared the losers pitching. They allowed nine hits, struck out three and walked 10.

Freddie Stickle and Mike Goegan led the Fountain Park team with a pair of hits each. Allan Wood slammed a double, and David Wood, Carl Yates, Danny Lupenette and John Mulvihill had base-hits.

CHARLES SCORES

WINDSOR, England (AP)—Prince Charles, 16-year-old son of Queen Elizabeth, scored two goals Friday night in his first public polo tournament. The heir to the British throne helped Rangers defeat Blacknest 7-3 in the American tournament Cup in Windsor Great Park.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Ben Herbert, owned by William Herbert of London, Ont., took an early lead and was never headed in the featured eighth race at Greenwood Raceway Friday night.

The pole horse in the eighth race, Go For Broke, broke shortly after the start of the race and caused odds-on favorite Twinkle's Adios to lose stride. The two horses were left far behind as Ben Herbert, with Jack Herbert aboard, raced to his easy victory.

Ben Herbert paid $12.10 for the win.

The daily double of Postal Chief in the first and longshot Wee Crusader in the second was worth a handsome $298.90.

A crowd of 8,373 wagered $416,443.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Butch Johnston, owned by the Johnston Stable of Dresden, Ont., and driven by Joe Johnston, won the feature race at Connaught Park Raceway Friday night.

The six-year-old brown gelding paced the mile in 2:14 4-5, paying $10, $3.90 and $3.10.

Butch Johnston came from behind on a rain-soaked track, winning in a photo-finish over Ben's Boy of Smiths Falls, Ont., the odds-on favorite.

It was the horse's second win at Connaught Raceway this season, bringing his total earnings this year to $1,500.

Ben's Boy paid $3.10 and $2.40. Peter Dawn was third, paying $2.90.

Clay Puts On Act, Booed

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Cassius Clay, the world heavyweight boxing champion, opened his exhibition tour of Sweden Friday night and was booed by many in a crowd of 10,000.

After boxing two rounds each with James Ellis of Louisville, Ky., and Cody Jones of Detroit, Clay pretended to become angry with the booers, most of them admirers of Floyd Patterson, the former heavyweight champ who is a favorite in Sweden.

"I wanted them to boo," Clay said afterwards. "That's why I did not show them my best. I want them all to root for Floyd and not lose confidence in him."

Clay has aid he "very likely" will make his next title defence against Patterson. He has mentioned several sites, among them Sweden, Washington, D.C., and New York.

Aussie Girl Swims Channel

DOVER, England (Reuters) Blonde, 19-year-old Australian Olympic swimmer Linda McGill waded ashore near here early today after swimming the English Channel in 11 hours and 12 minutes.

She became the first Australian to achieve the feat.

The Buxom daughter of a Sydney policeman took only 11 minutes more than the record established by Greta Andersen of Denmark in 1958.

The young Australian was the first women to swim the channel this year.

Dominion Shoot

Student Wins Aggregate

By PETE McNAUGHTON

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—At 18, Ralph Grant has assumed a role normally played by veteran shots at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championships.

The tall, Dartmouth, N.S., high chool student Friday was declared winner of the Grand Aggregate, based on major matches in the first six days of the week-long event, held annually at the defence department's mile-wide range west of Ottawa.

The young sea cadet won the honor—which carries with it $100 in prize money — over hooters three and four times his age.

The aggregate accounts for most of the points in the total that makes up the Canadian team for the Commonwealth championships next summer at Bisley, England.

Grant, with a comfortable five-point lead over the rest of the field of about 550, seemed assured of a berth on the Bisley team as one of the youngest members in its history.

In addition, he was only a point behind Dick Hampton of Alliston, Ont., after two stages of the three-stage Governor-General's Match.

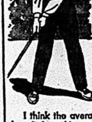
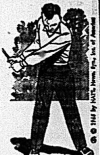
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

SLOWER BACKSWING MAY ADD DISTANCE

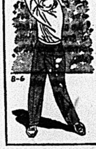


The 1956 U.S. Open tournament was played over very narrow fairways at the Oak Hills Country Club of Rochester, N.Y. In an attempt for greater accuracy on my tee shots, I consciously slowed down my driver backswing. I was amazed to discover that my drives were actually traveling farther than normal.



© 1965 by NANA News Syn. Inc. of America

I think the average golfer can benefit from this experience. Many amateur players actually get better distance, relatively speaking, from their middle and short irons than they do from their drives. This happens because, in striving for accuracy on the iron shots, they actually slow down their backswing.



A slower backswing (see illustrations) can add distance for several reasons. It will produce a squarer club-ball contact more frequently. It will result in a firmer grip on the club at the top of the backswing. It will enable the player to move his weight more readily to the right on the downswing.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — "If you hold still, I'll leave your mustache on!" Jerry Lewis plays a bungling hospital orderly in his new Technicolor comedy for Paramount, "The Disorderly Orderly," which opens tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. In this comical scene, Jerry tries, in a somewhat odd fashion, to shave one of the hospital patients. "The Disorderly Orderly" was directed by Frank Tashlin and produced by Paul Jones, the same team that brought Jerry's "Who's Minding The Store" to the screen. 2nd feature attraction, also in color, "Duel Of The Titans" stars Steve (Hercules) Reeves and Gordon (Tarzan) Scott.

AT THE BELLE — Elizabeth Taylor clasps young Morgan Mason, cast as her son in Metro - Goldwyn Mayer's "The Sandpiper" Miss Taylor is seen as an unconventional artist who falls in love with Richard Burton, headmaster of her boy's school. Eva Marie Saint. Filmed in Panavision and beautiful Color, "The Sandpiper" is showing Today thru Thursday, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville

AT THE PARK — Elvis Presley stars as a singing wrangler on a beauty spa dude ranch handily stocked with girls in Allied Artists "Tickle Me", a romantic comedy in color and Panavision, co-starring Julie Adams, Jack Mullaney, Merry Anders, Bill Williams and, in the feminine romantic role, English nymphet Jocelyn Lane. Norman Taurog directed for producer Ben Schwalb. "Tickle Me" opens Monday evening at the Park Theatre for its first showings. Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.10 p.m.

Attitudes Toward Sex In Films Revolutionized

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The career of Elizabeth Taylor provides a notable example of how attitudes toward sex in films have been revolutionized.

Twenty years ago at MGM she was playing a fresh-faced ingenue whose greatest concern was whether she would get a date for the prom.

Today in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" she portrays a fortyish housewife who taunts her professor husband (Richard Burton) by bedding down with his university associates.

The most publicized star of the 1960s, Elizabeth Taylor, 33, represents the American films' newfound freedom in dealing with sex. In her most recent films — excluding Cleopatra—she has portrayed the mother of a love-child (The Sandpiper), an adultreress (The V.I.P's) and a call girl (Butterfield 8). The latter performance drew her Hollywood's ultimate honor, the Academy Award.

Hollywood's sex revolution has been hailed by some critics as an overdue admission of reality. It also has been denounced by many as a danger to the American family and a long step down the road to decadence.

CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

The man caught in the crossfire is earnest, amiable Geoffrey Shurlock, 71, Liverpool-born administrator of the industry's production code. He denies charges that movies are corrupting American morals.

"Eighty per cent of the changes in the moral aspects of films are due to changes in the country's morals," he argued. "The movies are not about to set patterns for behavior. We merely reflect what is going on in the country. And attitudes toward such matters as sex have greatly changed since the war.

"The code used to say that seduction could not be a subject for comedy. But then the Doris Day-Rock Hudson comedies proved that seduction — though she never was seduced— could be funny and inoffensive.

"Then Tom Jones came along to set the pattern. When I read the script, I didn't see how we could ever pass it. But the film was done with such style and taste that we couldn't reject it.

"When I speak before women audiences, they often ask me how far movies will go in undressing. I tell them, 'Just as far as you women strip.' If the topless bathing suit becomes accepted at the beaches, we'll show them on the screen.

"As of now, we are not permitting objectionable exposure on the screen. There may be nudity, but that doesn't necessarily mean nakedness. For instance, in The Collector the girl (Samantha Egger) strips to seduce her captor and try to win freedom. But the scene is done in good taste."

Says Shurlock:

"The screen reflects the life of the people. Whatever is morally acceptable will be seen in films. Some people say we should teach. I don't think so. Movies are supposed to be entertaining, and I hope they go on being just that."

WORK GOES SLOWLY

It takes the Walt Disney studios an hour to produce 15 feet of color cartoon film and about six months for the whole production of the average six-minute cartoon.

THAT AIR GROUNDHOG! TELLIN' ME, A PSYCHIATRIX, THAT HER SON GRUNDOON AIN'T NUTS!
PIGGY— BE CUTE AN' DIMPLES, LI'L AUNTY!
HAND-GROWN NEW FALL APPLES
NEW FALL APPLES!? IT'S ONLY QUARTER-PAST AUGUST!
THEY JUST THIS MINUTE FALL OUTA THE TREE!
YOO HOO!
BUT HAND-GROWN!? THE TREE GREW 'EM... ALL YOU DID WAS WATCH 'EM GROW!
I'LL CHANGE THE SIGN—
YOO HOO!
THERE—
GRUNDOON IS NUTS— HIS MA IS NUTS— THESE TWO IS NUTS, I'M NUTS... WE IS ALL NUTS—
YOO HOO!

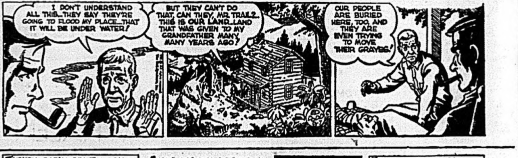
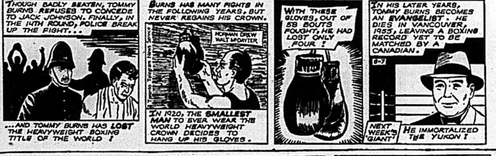
MARK TRAIL



I DON'T UNDERSTAND ALL THIS... THEY SAY THEY'RE GOING TO FLOOD MY PLACE... THAT IT WILL BE UNDER WATER!
BUT THEY CAN'T DO THAT, CAN THEY, MR. TRAIL? THIS IS OUR LAND... LAND THAT WAS GIVEN TO MY GRANDFATHER MANY, MANY YEARS AGO!
OUR PEOPLE ARE BURIED HERE, TOO, AND THEY ARE EVEN TRYING TO MOVE THEIR GRAVES!

THE GIANTS



THOUGH BADLY BEATEN, TOMMY BURNS REFUSES TO CONCEDE TO JACK JOHNSON. FINALLY, IN THE 14TH ROUND, POLICE BREAK UP THE FIGHT...
...AND TOMMY BURNS HAS LOST THE HEAVYWEIGHT BOXING TITLE OF THE WORLD!
BURNS HAS MANY FIGHTS IN THE FOLLOWING YEARS, BUT NEVER REGAINS HIS CROWN.
NORMAN DREW WALT McDAYTER
IN 1920, THE SMALLEST MAN TO EVER WEAR THE WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT CROWN DECIDES TO HANG UP HIS GLOVES.
WITH THESE GLOVES, OUT OF 58 BOUTS FOUGHT, HE HAD LOST ONLY FOUR!
IN HIS LATER YEARS, TOMMY BURNS BECOMES AN EVANGELIST. HE DIES IN VANCOUVER, 1955, LEAVING A BOXING RECORD YET TO BE MATCHED BY A CANADIAN.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For August 8

Aries (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Consolidate forces. Confide in family members. Stick close to home base, if practical. Build solid foundation. Avoid short-cut methods. Be sure, steady and thorough.

Taurus (Apr. 20 — May 20): Spiritual enlightenment indicated -- if you open mind and heart. Now you can learn and benefit. Enjoy friendship . . . be grateful for possessions, opportunities. Be quiet within.

Gemini (May 21 — June 20): Fine now for evaluating motives, ambitions. Budget may need attention. Be sure of directions, ultimate goal. Put cards on table face up. No time for schemes or secrets.

Cancer (June 21 — July 22): Contacts and comments highlighted. You are due for some surprises. What appears on surface could soon change. Heed advice of person associated with the law or press.

Leo (July 23 — Aug. 22): Basic duties may require special attention. Be aware of details, commitments to family members. Accent harmony. Be especially courteous to those who serve you.

Virgo (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your emotions tend to dominate actions now. Be aware of this -- act wisely. Means control impulses . . . measure words. People important to you are observing -- closely.

Libra (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Practical discussions, plans are featured. You could tend to lose patience . . . but gain indicated if you are persistent. Exercise determination. Get to the heart of the matter. Revere facts.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 — Nov. 21): Family visits, much activity indicated. Messages, calls received. You can play an integral part in home, community life. Overcome feeling of inadequacy. Exude confidence.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 -Dec. 21): Fine time for activity connected with hobby or special interest. Avoid extremes. Heed spiritual counsel. Obtain hint from Scorpio message.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Cycle moves up. You can be happier now. Accent consideration, warmth. Many attracted to you. You no longer are alone. Highlight manner of dress, appearance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Be aware of subtle changes in others. What you seek is "hidden." You can find it when you stop pressing, chasing, forcing. In plain words -- relax, Aquarius!

Pisces (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Your intuition now works overtime. You are able to size up people, situations. Trust inner feeling. Be with congenial people. Avoid individual who argues over nothing.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you have aptitude for making money. Would be fine executive.

For August 9

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Gain indicated if you add to your knowledge. Means do not be satisfied with status quo. Strive for improvement. Correspond, communicate thoughts and ideas. Important message due.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Favorable lunar aspect highlights reading and writing. Obtain hint from Aries message. May be necesary to rearrange plans. Strive for originality — and a new understanding of associates.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Give completely of yourself today. Accent sincerity. Halfway methods end in failure. Delve deep beneath surface indications. You could make profitable discovery!

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Many examine your ideas today. Express yourself. Make meanings clear . . . take precautions against being misquoted. Day features change, dealings with public.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Emphasize service. Give attention to health requirements. Be moderate. Avoid extremes. Seek harmony. Associate may tend to irritate you. A smile is your best defense.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Find outlet for creative efforts. Break away from restrictions. Emphasize freedom of movement, thought. You could receive money-making opportunity. Be ready!

LIBRA (Sept. 23— Oct. 22): Activity centres around home base. Situation affecting security may be settled today. Highlight receptivity. Means be willing to listen to "voice of experience." Check details.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Stress new starts, added independence. You succeed if versatile. Deal with relatives. Bring forth sense of humor. You gain if you are flexible. Fine for calls, correspondence.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Income possibilities highlighted. Consult one you trust. Seize opportunity when it appears. Pay attention to Cancer - born individual. Read between the lines!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Your judgment, intuition now ring bell of accuracy. Know this — respond accordingly. Accent confidence, optimism. Avoid tendency to scatter forces. Finish what you start.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Be philosophical about certain restrictions. Realize time is on your side. Weigh actions. Be considerate of those who make mistakes. Don't cast first stone. Deal with large organization.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Now you can take steps to turn wishes into realities. Make contacts with individual who can aid cause. Be outgoing, friendly. Stress public relations. Cooperate in community projects.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you have ability to inspire confidence . . . you would excel as hospital administrator or teacher.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces. Special word to Libra: Take steps to insure future security.

Reader Collects Stamps In Effort to Delay Senility

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — I never miss reading your column and hope it is to be a permanent one in our paper.

You have encouraged people to take up a hobby to give them an interest in something apart from the daily monotony. I think this an excellent bit of advice and have decided to follow it. I have reached the age when I need something to delay senility.

I am interested in postage stamps. I have some, attached to postcards, which date back to 1906. It is possible that some of these cards have a value apart from the stamps. Where can I find out about which, if any, stamps and cards have a value?

Also, I have a collection of dishes over 50 years old. Can you recommend a book on antique dishes? — STAMPS AND DISHES.

DEAR STAMPS — "To delay senility" is no idle phrase. It is a fact that the active, interested mind is more likely to retain good mental health than the one which has settled for going more or less blank on retirement!

You can join a stamp club and get help from experts; you can read fascinating facts about old dishes. Your library can help; and I'm sending you some names and addresses.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — In reply to the lady asking about a shower for someone who isn't there, this happened in our little town. We just reversed proceedings.

The gals took gifts unwrapped and after everyone had seen them, we had a great time wrapping so the bride could unwrap her own. — TURN ABOUT.

DEAR TURN ABOUT — That's a nice twist. Another friend tells about a shower she attended for a bride-to-be who had moved to Florida and was to be married there.

At the shower, held in her home town in Canada, gifts were opened, then re-wrapped for shipping. During the fun and games, the bride-to-be telephoned her greetings from Florida.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My boy friend, whom I like very much, walks hump-backed most of the time; he also slurps his coffee, which doesn't sound very good in public.

Also, when we double date, he tends to let the other couple pay the expenses. This isn't because he is short of money, because he is 21 years old and makes his own money.

How could I get him to correct these faults without hurting his feelings? — FOND OF HIM BUT . . .

DEAR FOND — The little things count!

Standing tall, silent coffee drinking, sharing expenses of a date; don't these things add up to self-respect? I'd suspect that the day he begins carrying his weight he'll stop slumping and slurping.

Any remarks from you have to stress your pride in him; how tall he is; the fact that he has a good job and can pay his way; and that it behooves an adult to know good manners when it comes to silent eating and drinking!

* * *

Confidential to EIGHTEEN AND TIRED — My guess is you are not so fed up with school as with having your every move dictated by your mother. By now, and with your drive and intellect, it is frustrating to be constantly held down. Yes, you may leave home. But I'd advocate a talk with Father first; and some serious thoughts about continuing that education. Your career could be brilliant.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — The enclosed cards were given to me. Could you please advise me regarding the occasions when it is correct to use them? — CARD-SHY.

DEAR CARD-SHY — What you have sent me is a personal calling card. It bears your name and nothing else. Nicely engraved.

It is not as common now, but still good form, to leave such a card when you visit, or when the one visited it not at home. (In these busy days we use our telephone to save useless trips and to save our hostesses confusion!)

Other uses: Tucked into the gift box which carries a "bon voyage," or anniversary remembrance, or a bouquet. Or to announce an "At Home" by mail. Or clipped to a magazine, or book, or article we are passing on to a friend. A brief handwritten message may go under your name.

Then again: To produce after a chat with a new acquaintance who may wish to contact you later. Saves embarrassment for the unspellables!

* * *

Confidential to CRYING — Your mother flares up at your father; he accuses her of running around. And he runs her down. Then you cry and fail your school subjects. And I'm not to send you nor them to a counsellor!

Believe me, a few words in my column are not going to transform your parents into love birds nor restore your jangled nerves. At 16, your help will have to come from personal guidance from someone understanding, who is outside your home.

Seek it yourself, by going by yourself to the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira St., Belleville, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

* * *

(Do you wonder why the people you care about act as they do? Let Doris shed light on your particular human problem. And remember that stamped envelope.)

Question of Jurisdiction In Picton Flag Controversy

JUDGE W. S. LANE

By CLAIRE HOY

PICTON — Judge Wilfrid S. Lane stirred up a hornet's nest Thursday and focused province-wide attention on Picton.

Judge Lane adjourned court in the morning and moved the sitting to the County Court House because the new Maple Leaf flag was not being flown outside Shire Hall, where Division Court Sittings are usually held. The new Ontario flag is the one being flown there.

When the Judge opened court he announced point blank that he would not sit in Shire Hall.

According to the Picton Gazette, an informed source said, "So far as the court room is concerned, when a Judge is in charge of a building, which is a court house, he has his rights.

"The County Building is not a court house. It is the property of the County of Prince Edward, actually the County Council Chambers and also the meeting place of town council, as well as Magistrate's Court, both the latter by licence and leave of the county.

"The same applies to the use of these Council Chambers by any Magistrate or Judge — by permission of County council.

"The court at the County Jail is in a different category. When in such an established Court House, the presiding Judge has overall authority in both the court room and over the building. The situation concerning the County Building is somewhat different."

The issue is expected to come to a head Monday night at the County Council meeting at Shire Hall.

Everett Sloane Worked in Scores of Movies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Everett Sloane, 55, one of the most durable of Hollywood character actors, died Friday.

Rated one of the finest in the business, Sloane first came to Hollywood with Orson Welles' Mercury Theatre group when they made the movie Citizen Kane.

Before that he had been well known on Broadway and radio. He worked eight years on The Goldbergs, one of the perennial radio favorites of the '30s.

He also worked the old Crime Doctor radio show. In the early days of television, he gave memorable performances on CBS-TV's Studio One.

He had worked in scores of movies. His performance as the agent in The Big Knife, a story about a Hollywood "star," is considered a classic performance.

He was found in his bedroom by his wife, Lillian. The couple had a grown-up son and daughter. He was a native of New York.

6th Tyendinaga

6th TYENDINAGA — Mrs. Harold Treverton and Susan visited recently with grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Markland of Picton and Mrs. Roy Boldrick spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Boyle and baby also in Picton.

Mrs. Emerson returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton and Clare.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire of Crookston were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lancaster and Ann.

Several from this line attended the funeral of Mr. Wilbur Sherry which took place from the Grant Funeral Home in Belleville on Saturday afternoon to Thomasburg Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick returned home from Excelsior Springs Missouri last week where they spent about three weeks.

Andrew Davis of Belleville spent a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie.

Miss Vera Renelle of Trenton is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Treverton and family.

Bobby Goodman of Harold and Rickey Fox of Trenton are spending a couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Glass spent a couple of days at Lake Placid N.Y. recently. Mr. Glass had the misfortune to fracture his arm when he fell from a load of hay recently.

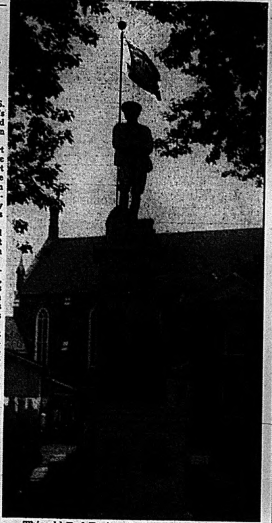
Darlene, Donna, and Gail Elliott of West Huntingdon spent a couple of weeks holidays with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Emerson and girls of Centenary were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lancaster and Ann.

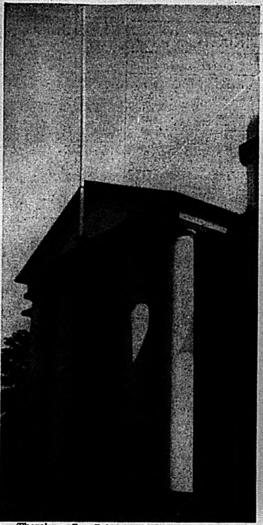
Mr. Maurice Dent and Gail Thurlow and Mr. Henry McKenzie of Cochrane called on Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie on Tuesday.

Mr. Lorne McKenzie had the misfortune to have several ribs broken when he got caught between the tractor and a load of hay, recently.

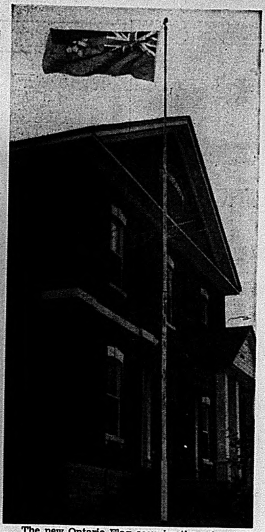
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick spent a couple of days last week at a cottage on Papineau Lake.



This old Red Ensign flutters nonchalantly in the breeze over the Picton War Memorial while a battle rages in the town over whether it should be there or not.



There's no flag flying on the mast at the County Court House right now, but when court is in session the Maple Leaf flag is flown. Judge Lane moved court proceedings from Shire Hall to this building Thursday morning because of the Maple Leaf flag.



The new Ontario Flag occupies the pole outside of Shire Hall. Judge Wilfrid S. Lane upset town and county officials by refusing to hold Division Court in the building because of the flag.

Picton Controversy

Fly Red Ensign or Maple Leaf? Decision Up to County Council

By CLAIRE HOY

A tattered Red Ensign stands watch over the Picton War Memorial.

The chairman of the parks committee wants it replaced by a brand new Maple Leaf flag.

The Legion likes things the way they are.

And the War Memorial Committee is sending the matter to County Council.

A real old fashioned donnybrook is in the makings.

The whole affair broke into the open yesterday following flag problems at the County Buildings where Judge Wilfred S. Lane refused to hold Diviison Court Sittings because the Maple Leaf flag was not being flown outside the building.

However, the trouble really began in May when Picton Town Council passed a bill which allowed Mrs. Bessie Ward, parks commission chairman, to buy new flags for all the parks. Mrs. Ward bought the flags, all Maple Leaf flags, and proceeded to have them flown in the parks.

She went to the Chief of Police, George Pitt, and asked if he would put the new flag up in the cenotaph for her. "The Chief told me that if I got permission from the Legion, he would put it up for me," Mrs. Ward said.

Chief Pitt said, "Mrs. Ward asked me about the flag at the memorial, but we have no jurisdiction over that at all. I told her to see County Council and the Legion about it. The Police Department has no connection with putting up flags."

NOT OBLIGATED

However, Mrs. Ward said that although the Police are not officially obligated to put the flag up for her, they have been doing it as a favor to the commission. "I have no way of putting the flag up," she said, "so the police have been kind enough to assist."

An authoritive source told The Intelligencer that police constable George Wright has been putting that flag up for a long time.

Mrs. Ward added, "I am bewildered why we can't put the flag up without the legion's permission. That's why I want to find out about, so I wrote to the Chairman of the Memorial Committee, Major Gordon Walmsley and to the Legion, and invited them to a Parks Commission meeting to clarify the situation. Nobody showed, [illegible] I think it was because of a mixup in the date of the meeting due to the holiday Monday.

"That Ensign that is flying there now is a tattered old thing and looks terrible. It doesn't give a very good impression of the town to our tourists.

An earlier report stated that the Legion would take down any Maple Leaf flag put up in the memorial park. One unconfirmed report even suggested that a new Union Jack placed in the park two years ago was taken down the same day.

Lance Nethrey, crown attorney and past president of the Legion, labelled that report as "a complete fabrication."

"The Legion is a law-abiding organization," he said, "and would not be involved in tearing flags down or breaking any other laws.

"If someone wanted to put the Maple Leaf flag up on your property we'd tear it down, but if they put it up some place that is not under our jurisdiction, then it's their business.

JUST SPECULATION CLAIM

"No spokesman for the Legion has ever said we would take a new flag down from the cenotaph. That is pure speculation.

"The Picton Legion has never formally considered the matter of the Maple Leaf flag at the monument, either at an executive meeting or a regular meeting.

"The only place that this flag is mandatory is on Government buildings and property. A man can fly the flag he wants over his own office, home, business or wherever.

"The Maple Leaf flag is an act of government, no more or no less. No government can confer any sacred or supernatural quality on any symbol. It is alway open to any citizen to withhold support or oppose any act of government provided it is done in a legal matter, because we don't live under rule of government in our democracy, we live under rule of law, and the government itself is subject to this rule as much as ayone else."

Gordon Walmsley, Q.C., chairman of the War Memorial Committee, said his committee met yesterday morning and viewed the flag now flying at the Cenotaph. "We have dispatched a letter to Mrs. Ward and the Legion and anyone else concerned, informing them that we are referring the matter back to county council. We are not county council, we are only a committee, and because there is so much controversy over the matter, we do not want to take it upon ourselves to legislate a final answer.

"I'm sorry to see a controversy over a thing like this that involves the men who lost their lives for us in the war."

WILL CLARIFY MEMORY

Major Walmsley, a long-time army veteran, and an expert on military tradition and protocol, has written to the former chief of staff of the Canadian Army, in an attempt to clarify his memory of proper procedure in a case of this nature.

"As I recall," he said, "the flag of Canada goes up only when there is a memorial service. It is not flown on a Cenotaph at any other time." He noted a flag is not flown on the Kingston and Toronto Memorials unless a Memorial service is being observed.

"I am anxious to see proper formality observed here in accordance with military tradition.

"If a flag goes up, then according to tradition, it has to be the official Canadian flag, which means of course, the Maple Leaf flag. After all, the Canadian flag is the Canadian flag. There is no doubt about that."

The problem of just who has jurisdiction over the flag is somewhat complicated by the fact that the front part of the Memorial Park is the property of Prince Edward County — their property ends at the memorial structure, a good 20 feet in front of the flag. The town of Picton owns the portion of the park where the flag stands, but according to an authoritative souce, the Legion owns the flag pole.

The matter will be considered at County Council Monday night. Meanwhile, the battle rages on.

HOUND ARRESTED

HAINES CITY, Fla. (AP)—Carl Boozer got tired of Bill (Runt) Combee's hound dog hanging around his yard. So he obtained a court order Wednesday charging the hound with trespassing. Deputy Wesley Johnson, who served the order, said it was the first time he ever arrested a dog. The hound was taken to the county pound at Bartow.

Terms of Royal Commission Are Announced

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Attorney-General Arthur A. Wishart Friday divulged terms of the recently-announced royal commission into the affairs of troubled Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd.

Terms were not announced when the commission was appointed. Mr. Justice Samuel H. S. Hughes is the royal commissioner.

He has been empowered to "investigate, inquire into and report upon:

—"The events involved in and the causes of the recent failure of Atlantic Acceptance.

—"The effect the failure has had on the money market in Ontario and on the affairs of any person, company, corporation or organization.

—"The existing legislation relating to loan and trust companies and to corporations engaged in the finance business and the money market generally and to consider what, if any, additional legislation may be required in regard thereto."

Mr. Wishart also said steps have already been taken to provide Mr. Justice Hughes with necessary staff and facilities.

He is also empowered to examine anyone who has had any connection with the firm, "including British Mortgage and Trust Co."

Postmen All Back On Jobs

MONTREAL (CP)—The city's 4,100 postal workers were all back at work early today—the postmen carrying back-breaking loads of first-class mail sorted during the weekend.

The return to work—after a 17-day strike—followed a unanimous vote by 3,000 sorters and postmen who attended a meeting Saturday during which their leaders reported Ottawa had agreed to a $22 increase in the $38 shoe allowance for letter carriers.

This was on top of salary increases for letter carriers of $510 a year. Inside postal workers won increases of up to $550.

The agreement raised annual salaries for all postal workers to maximums from $4,470 to $4,830, which, including the $22 increase in shoe allowance, will cost the government an additional $5,000,000 a year.

Workers at the meeting Saturday cheered when union leaders announced the government was soon going to establish a system of collective bargaining.

The lack of collective bargaining for civil servants was scored by Postmaster-General Rene Tremblay during a press conference Saturday, and he blamed the strike on the lack of such a system.

GIVE BARGAINING RIGHTS

"Fundamentally, the reason for this strike was a lack of collective bargaining machinery. This is in the process of being rectified—as speedily as possible as far as the government is concerned," he said.

William Houle, Montreal president of the Postal Employees Association, told the meeting that failure to win retroactivity to Oct. 1, 1964, for the whole increase was "unsatisfactory", but that otherwise he was happy.

The government had earlier agreed to an increase of $300 to $360 retroactive to Oct. 1 but would not budge on its stand that the additional increase based on Judge J. C. Anderson's report would only be effective as of Aug. 1.

Judge Anderson was appointed a one-man commission

Six Hurt In 401 Centre Blast

TRENTON — Six persons were taken to Trenton hospital, suffering from burns, shortly after seven o'clock Saturday night, after an explosion ripped through the rear middle section of Horne's Restaurant at the 401 BA Station, west of Trenton. The blast originated in a furnace room on the ground floor, demolished an unoccupied restroom on the second floor, storage space back of the second floor kitchen and broke a large pane of glass in the patio.

Kept in the hospital were Eric Lawson of Wooler and Larry Paradis of Henry Street in Trenton, both 17, and both suffering from burns to face and arms and 43-year-old Sgt. Frank Gerritt of McGill Ave., Middleton Park, who suffered burns to his hands and arms.

Treated at the hospital and released were Murray Tomlinson, 33, of the Wooler Road, who suffered burns to his arms; 20-year-old Paul Todd, the son of Councillor and Mrs. Edward Todd, of Johnson Rd., suffering from burns to the back of his head and arms and 17-year-old Rick Munroe of Regina Crescent, Middleton Park, suffering from burns to his arms.

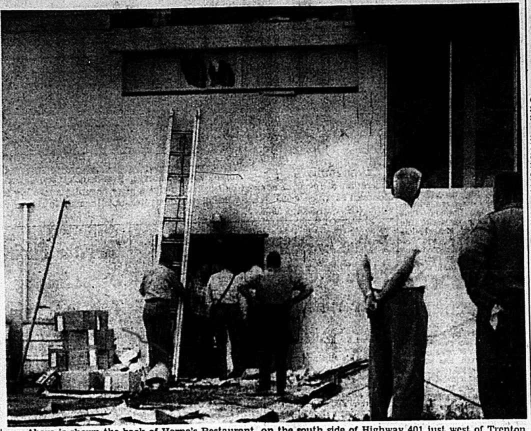
Inspector. Del Hope of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office at Belleville has been called in to determine the cause of the explosion, which sent diners scurrying from the lunchroom area. One American woman, who was in a rest room outside the explosion area, ran from the building, leaving her purse behind. It was recovered intact, later.

An eyewitness, Miss Loueen Myles, 18, who is the attendant at the Lake Ontario Tourist Association booth in the service centre, was standing on the patio, east of where the explosion occurred.

Miss Myles said smoke had been noticed in the second floor kitchen. The six employees injured in the explosion were sent down to the furnace - storage room to remove supplies and try to pinpoint the cause of the smoke.

"Suddenly there was a muffled explosion and then I saw the men 'shoot' out the furnace room door . .. two of them with their clothes on fire." said Miss Myles.

Miss Myles telephoned the provincial police and Rushnell ambulance and Paul Todd ran up to the dining area to tell the diners to get out of the building. Rushnell immediately despatched two vehices to the scene but five of the injured men were taken to the hospital by station wagon. Miss Myles drove Murray Tomlinson to the hospital in her car.



Above is shown the back of Horne's Restaurant, on the south side of Highway 401 just west of Trenton, after an explosion Saturday evening. Six persons were treated for burns at Trenton Hospital following the blast. The above picture shows police and firemen entering the furnace room, where the blast originated, while onlookers gaze at broken windows.

Klansmen March In Silence

By BEN CHESTER

Americus, Ga. (AP)—The Ku Klux Klan, adopting a tactic of Negro demonstrators, staged a silent march and massive rally Sunday only a few hours before Negroes held their own demonstration.

State troopers and city policemen stood by in large number as each group gathered. There were no incidents.

Klan members and white sympathizers marched 600 strong to the street corner where Andrew Whatley, a 21-year-old white man, was shot during a civil rights demonstration. Two Negroes have been indicted on murder charges in his death.

After marchers knelt for a brief memorial service, they followed flags of the United

Malaysia Ousts Singapore Which Is Now Independent

From AP-Reuters

SINGAPORE (CP)—This island state pulled out of the 23-month-old Federation of Malaysia today and immediately became embroiled with federal Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman over relations with Indonesia.

Premier Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore told a press conference Singapore wants to be friends with Indonesia, which has sworn to crush Malaysia. Singapore once carried on a flourishing trade with Indonesia and obviously wants to regain it.

Lee declared, however, that co - operation with Indonesia would be impossible unless the Indonesians recognize Singapore as a sovereign, independent nation.

In Jakarta, Indonesia Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia was ready to recognize Singapore but would continue its hostile policy toward the federation.

In the federal capital of Kuala Lumpur, Rahman was asked at a press conference what would happen if Singapore established diplomatic relations with Indonesia and Red China.

"If they do that, the obvious intention is to harm our interests," Rahman replied. "We can't allow that to happen. We would take action."

Rahman did not elaborate, but he noted that the separation agreement signed by his government and Singapore included a pledge "not to undertake to enter into any treaty or agreement with a foreign country which may be detrimental to the independence and defence of the territory of the other party."

Lee said nothing about seeking diplomatic recognition from Peking in charting a neutral course for his new nation, but said Singapore would trade with all nations, including Red China.

Rahman told parliament in Kuala Lumpur that Singapore and Malaysia would continue to co-operate in defence and economic affairs despite secession of the federation's chief port and metropolis.

In Singapore, riot police stood guard in Malay sections of the largely Chinese port ready for any demonstrations against secession.

Singapore's 1,200,000 Chinese, 70 per cent of the population, began exploding firecrackers as soon as the break was announced.

There were no immediate reports of violence, but police were on guard against any outbreak of Malay-Chinese rioting similar to that in which 23 per-

Rescue Force Comes Under Snipers' Fire

SAIGON (AP) — Government forces on the march to relieve the besieged Duc Co special forces camp were attacked by snipers today, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

"Cavalry elements attached to road clearing troops on Route 19 took some sniper fire Monday with light casualties," the spokesman said.

Communist forces have laid siege to the camp 220 miles northeast of Saigon near the Cambodian border for 66 days. Twelve Americans and more than 150 mountain tribesmen and Vietnamese are in the camp.

The Viet Cong hits the Duc Co camp daily with mortars and small arms fire. Two Americans and 20 Vietnamese and Montagnards (mountaineers) have been killed since June 3.

A large Vietnamese paratrooper force was sent in last Thursday to lift the siege but was driven back into the camp lines when it tried to move out against the Viet Cong.

Ground action in the war continued light during the weekend and into today.

Three Slain On Ship Off Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The coast guard is piecing together clues to mysterious murders on the high seas that left a 125-foot cargo vessel adrift off Florida with a frightened crewman and three bodies aboard.

Eight men were on the Panamanian flag vessel Seven Seas when it left Miami Saturday bound for repairs in a Tampa dry dock. It was due to arrive today.

The crewman, Elvin Burywaise, 25, was hiding in the vessel's chain locker room when the coast guard boarded the Seven Seas shortly after noon Sunday.

Burywaise told them he saw a crewman shoot the first mate in his bunk. He said he ran to the bridge to notify the captain, and found Capt. Rogelio Diaz of Miami dead.

Burywaise said four men had been shot to death, but there were only three bodies on board.

Coast guard aircraft and a boarding party are sending for the vessel's missing 14 - foot skiff and the three persons believed to be aboard.

Local Families Tent Camping At Canoe Lake

Instantly killed when lightning struck their tent at Canoe Lake, 20 miles southeast of Sharbot Lake were Dawn Polmanteer, 6, and her three-year-old brother, Dennis, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Polmanteer, 33 Byron Street.

The Polmanteers had gone camping with their next-door neighbors' the family of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hughes.

The Polmanteers and their eight-year-old daughter Pat, and the Hughes family, which includes four children ranging in age from six to 12 years, all received minor burns and shock.

Both families tented side by side for the weekend under the shade of a big elm tree, when the storm broke.

"We went to bed about 10.45 or shortly after," recalls Mr. Hughes. "It was nice and calm when we went into the tent."

The squall blew up about 20 minutes later.

It is believed the fatal lightning bolt struck the tree and was carried to both tents by the tree's roots.

Mr. Polmanteer recalled waking up and being unable to move. The first thing he recalled seeing was a small ball of fire. He later found holes burned in his socks and burns on his feet.

Meantime, Mr. Hughes said the squall had blown down his tent and his family were struggling to replace it when the lightning hit.

"It knocked us all down," said Mr. Hughes.

"We ran out to the car and I yelled for Bruce and he said he was hurt."

Then they discovered the two children apparently critically burned.

Piling into an automobile both families raced frantically to nearby Westport. En route, Mr. Polmanteer attempted to administer artificial respiration to his son.

At Westport the distraught families were taken in by a Mr. and Mrs. W. Woods who summoned help. The two children were pronounced dead on a doctor's arrival. They were believed instantly killed.

Besides being neighbors, both men work together at the Union Carbide in Belleville.

Both families enjoyed the outdoors together.

"We just finished a week of our holidays camping a week ago," said Mr. Hughes. "This one turned out bad."

Dawn Gail Polmanteer, 6, and Dennis Bruce Polmateer, 3, of 33 Byron Street, had lived in Belleville all their lives and had attended Sunday School at Wesleyan Methodist Church. Dawn Gail had been a student at Hillcrest Public School.

The children are survived by their parents, Bruce and Marion Polmanteer; a sister, Patricia, at home, and their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Polmanteer and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Vader.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Thompson Funeral Chapel with interment at White cemetery.

District Storm Vicious

A Saturday-night thunderstorm in the Quinte district was brief but vicious.

It wrought havoc with power lines and caused two fires.

On the Bay of Quinte it indirectly brought near disaster to four young boatmen and further north near Sharbot Lake caused the deaths of two Belleville children. (See stories elsewhere in this edition).

The squall dropped nearly a half-inch of rain on the city, more in other parts of the district.

On the Marshall Road lightning struck the home of Robert Keegan, setting fire to the rear of the house. Family and friends tore off a side to fight the fire until firemen arrived.

Early Sunday morning firemen were called to a storage shed used by the McFarland asphalt plant operation at Bayside, also believed struck by lightning. The shed was gutted.

Hydro supplies to Belleville and district also were fouled by the storm when four transformers were damaged.

On the fourth concession of Thurlow township, farmer Farley Vermilyea lost eight cows and a heifer when they were struck by lightning.

Street lighting and domestic power was off for hours in parts of the city and public utilities crews worked through Sunday to restore services.

The Weather

Synopsis: Warm humid weather continues over most of Southern Ontario again today. This will mean another day of near - 80 degree temperatures with scattered showers and thunderstorms. In Northern Ontario a thrust of cooler air will bring cloud and some showers later today. This cool air will push as far south as the lower Great Lakes by Tuesday evening.

Two Boys Missing From Malton Since November Return Home

TORONTO (CP)—Two boys from the suburban Malton area, missing from their homes since last November and believed dead by their parents, returned here alive from New York City on Saturday.

Clinton Edward Carpenter, 12, and Anthony Diamond, 14, were sent here by bus from New York after Toronto lawyer Anthony C. Bazos exchanged a series of telephone calls with an unidentified informant who knew where to reach the boys.

The two boys were met at the main bus depot here by Toronto Township detectives and were later taken to a juvenile detention home where they were expected to be kept at least until today.

The boys' mothers were allowed to visit them at the Cooksville police station, 16 miles west of Toronto, where one detective said the mothers tearfully hugged them while the boys wept.

The parents had not been told the boys had been found until the pair were safely in police hands. Detectives feared the youngsters might be killed if it were known they were coming home.

The boys were recovered from a house in Queens, one of New York's five boroughs, after Mr. Bazos was told of the boys' circumstances by a third person.

Detective William Teggart, never giving up hope the boys were alive, said he recognized a photograph of the Carpenter boy taken from the wallet of a suspect being questioned by Toronto Township police.

Det. Teggart said the boys are above average in intelligence and have given lengthy accounts of their activities since they left their homes Nov. 29 to meet each other.

The Carpenter boy, in Grade 7 when he left home, apparently was unhappy with what he considered onerous household chores because he was the eldest of 10 children in a fatherless home. His parents were separated and he lived with his mother, Mrs. Alin Carpenter at Cooksville.

The Diamond boy, Det. Teggart said, explained that he wanted to see the world after getting tired of only reading about it. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Diamond of Malton.

Det. Teggart said the Diamond lad destroyed all recent photographs of himself at home and that both boys saved their pocket money and at the same time gathered a series of road maps.

The boys, he said, hitchhiked a ride from Malton south to the Queen Elizabeth Way and were picked up by two men in the Oakville area, 20 miles west of Toronto, and the next day taken to the U.S. border where they crossed in a bus with forged identification papers.

August Rains Damp Holidayers But Delight Ontario Farmers

By DAVE MILLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Holidays and picnics in Ontario were slightly dampened by heavy rain last week, but farmers didn't mind it in the least.

More than two inches of rain fell in most regions during the first week of August and drought conditions eased in nearly all areas.

The heaviest rainfall reported was the night of Aug. 2 when nearly an inch fell on the province. Scattered storms dumped another half inch on some regions Aug. 6.

Total rainfall for May, June and July was below normal.

In May, Ontario received 1.62 inches of rain compared with the normal fall of 2.76 inches. The June rainfall was 1.49 inches—an inch below normal.

Rainfall in July, usually Ontario's driest month, was 2.5 inches. The normal July rainfall is 2.9 inches, but 4.86 inches was recorded in 1964.

The drought, which started in early spring and hampered growth in mid-July, has severely affected Ontario's hay crop. Most areas said hay prices are ranging from $20 to $30 above the normal price of $20 for a ton of baled hay.

Farmers are seeking government control of prices to stabilize them at 1964 levels. They have asked federal and provincial governments to provide five-year-loans as well as a one-year extension on existing loans. They also want a system of grants at $15 an acre for improvements on hay acreage.

Agriculture officials in the Ottawa Valley, one of the hardest-hit areas, say hay crops are down at least 25 per cent and in some areas as much as 60 per cent from previous years. Prices are about double, with top quality baled hay selling for $40 a ton.

The valley recorded 1.74 inches of rain last week, but farmers are faced with the prospect of a hay shortage for next winter. Other crops in the valley are past the danger point and farmers expect fair yields.

Four Youths Snatched From Teeth of Squall When Boat Capsizes

Four Belleville youths, snatched from the teeth of a fierce squall Saturday night when their boat upset in the Bay of Quinte, reckoned they were rescued in the nick of time.

Their cries for help, heard above the storm, launched a frantic search by police, firemen and volunteer boatmen. The shouts also were overheard by cottagers on the Prince Edward County shoreline opposite Belleville and resulted in rescue.

"Thank God they spotted us," said one of the quartet as they were helped ashore in driving rain. "We were out there half-an-hour. We yelled and yelled."

The four were Frank Soule, 21, Bill Van Allen, 19, Dave Fitzgerald, 22, and Paul Shriner, 17.

They had gone boating and skiing in a 12-foot boat owned by Soule and powered with a 20 - horsepower motor.

The storm blew up around 10 p.m. breaking over the bay in a fierce shower of lightning and driving rain. At the time, the four were just off the Union Carbide plant in the centre of the bay.

'We saw the storm coming and decided to make for land," said one of them.

As they started, a two-motored cabin - cruiser – apparently also seeking a haven from the squall – passed their boat in the darkness.

They figured the wash swamped their small boat, upsetting it and throwing the four into the water.

"All of a sudden the waves caught us and we just went down like that," another recalled.

CRIES HEARD

Their cries were overheard by a resident on the city shoreline, who called police.

A cruiser raced to the scene and firemen launched a search boat.

Police cars were station at intervals along the shoreline and officers trained spotlights on the water.

Other boats took off from the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club to join the search in blinding rain being carried out by fire captain Elmer Helm and fireman Bill Lake.

The quartet said they were picked up by two men who had heard their cries at a cottage on the south shore and launched a boat to investigate.

They could only immediately identify their rescuers as Gerry Matthews and "a man named Gerow."

Still clad only in shorts and bathing trunks they were driven home in a police cruiser.

Ireland's Moving To New Location End of Month

Since losing his lease at 210 Front Stret where he has been in business for a number of years, Jack Ireland has announced that he will soon move to a new location at 380 Front Street- just south of the upper bridge.

Ireland's will occupy the main floor of this store plus 3,000 square feet upstairs for displaying living room, bedroom and dining room furniture and for demonstrating stereo. To make shopping easier there will be ample free parking space for customers.

Because of lower overhead in this store, Ireland's will be able to offer name brand, quality merchandise at prices comparable to the lowest in the area. At the same time, they will continue to extend the same reliable, personal service on which they have built their reputation.

We must vacate by the end of August .... help us move and save money. We've slashed prices on our stock of refrigerators, ranges, washers, dryers, TV, stereo and fine furniture. We would rather sell it cheaply than move it - that costs us money! But hurry! There's less than three weeks left to shop and save at our old location, 210 Front Street - just south of the four corners.

India Rushing Security Forces To Kashmir

NEW DELHI (AP)—India is rushing security forces to Kashmir to cope with Pakistani "infiltrators" who already have clashed with Indian troops in several places, an official spokesman said today.

He said there has been "extensive infiltration" of armed men from Pakistan since Aug. 5 at several points along the cease-fire line, and the number of infiltrators has swelled to considerable strength.

There was no immediate comment from Pakistan on the Indian statement.

Local Rink Wins Trophy At Kingston

The Molly Galt Memorial Trophy of Kingston will grace the trophy cabinet at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club lounge after a convincing win on Saturday by Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon of this city and William Fuller of the Trenton Club who plays out of the local club. This trophy has been won by the Belleville club on other occasions but never with as big a margin.

There were 44 mixed doubles rinks entered from Peterborough, Perth, Campbellford, Trenton, Belleville, Madoc and Kingston and on exceptionally fast greens, the competition was exceedingly keen. The winning rink scored a 22-7 win over Howard Jagges and his wife of Kingston and then Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smart took a 20-10 loss and in the final game William Piercy and Mrs. Kitty Ovens, also of Kingston were beaten 28-8.

Bill Duncan Jr. and Mary Edney of the host club were second three-game high, Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan Sr. and George Martin and Mrs. Jennie Hinton both rinks from Kingston were tied for the next two spots and Eddie Dennison and Mrs. Vi Matthews also of Kingston were in the last spot of three-game winners. R. Woods and his partner from Cornwall won the two-game high score, while Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smart won the one-game high count.

Six other rinks, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William VanTassel, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vince and Mrs. Grace Clapp and Roy Hall from the Belleville Club were in attendance but did not make the prize list.

On Wednesday at Campbellford a tournament will be staged for the Seagram trophy and a full draw of 32 mixed doubles rinks have been entered. A number of Belleville rinks will be participating.

Two Injured In Collision

Two teenagers were injured Saturday when thrown from a motorcyle after collision with an automobile at Donald and North Park Streets.

Brian Lynn Robb, 16, R.R. 5, Belleville, was treated for cuts and bruises and a passenger on his machine, 15-year-old Kenneth MacDonald, 9 Union St., received a broken ankle.

The driver of the car was Clarence Morgan, 240 Bridge Street East.

Police Answer Flood of Calls Over Weekend

If it wasn't the heat it may have been the humidity.

Whatever it was, Saturday saw Belleville citizenry steamed up as police have never seen them steaming before.

As the city sweltered through the day and most of the night, patrol cars dashed hither and yon answering a flood of phone calls.

By nightfall the cells were crammed with what one perspiring police officer called "just about everything."

Offences listed drinking and impaired driving; assaults and a sex offence.

On Moira East two men were hospitalized with cuts and bruises after police broke up a stone - throwing bout.

Officers brought in drunks and charged drivers with being impaired. Detectives investigated minor house breakins. A man was arrested for an alleged sex offence.

And then there was the woman who phoned in an alarm to report a man under her bed. Police found a bat in her room.

Lemuel Scott Found Drowned In Moira River

The Moira River in Belleville set a grisly record Saturday as it claimed an 83-year-old man as its fourth victim this year.

Drowned was Lemuel Randolph Scott, 37A Pepper Ave., whose body was found floating near the river's west wall, south of the Lower Bridge.

Police still are probing the circumstances surrounding his death.

Mr. Scott was found floating face down in about 18 inches of water, 25 feet from the bank. Police today were awaiting the results of an autopsy for clues as to what caused the incident.

The body was discovered around 4 p.m. and police and detectives blocked off the area as firemen trod the water to recover the body.

Mr. Scott, retired for the past ten years, had lived with a daughter, Mrs. Eva Reynolds.

Born in Tamworth, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius James Scott, he had worked at Canada Cement, Point Anne, for 15 years and later at Corby's Distillery.

A member of the United Church, he belonged to an Oshawa Orange Lodge. His wife, the former Lillian Vance, died some time ago.

Besides Mrs. Reynolds, he is survived by two sons; Leonard and Norman, Belleville, and four other daughters, Mrs. Jack (Marie) Young and Mrs. Manley (Marjorie) Wannamaker, Rossmore; Mrs. Roy (Marian) Baldwin, Napanee, and Mrs. Raymond (Georgina) Brant, Deseronto; a brother, Arlie Scott, Belleville, and 19 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mariposa Folk Festival Ends Without Fuss

By VOLKMAR RICHTER

CALEDON EAST, Ont. (CP) The 1965 Mariposa Folk Festival ended Sunday night a financial success despite bad weather and strict police patrols.

Rain on all three days of the weekend festival interrupted the outdoor folk-music concert but the audience of about 3,000 persons sat through the showers to watch the shows.

Saturday night a blown fuse in the Woodbridge, Ont., substation caused a power failure and cut short the concert. The two acts remaining appeared Sunday afternoon.

The festival was moved this year to a private park around tiny Innis Lake about six miles east of Caledon East, a community 40 miles northwest of Toronto.

The festival's original site was Orillia. But in 1963, the last year it was held there, residents complained of noise and vandalism after folk - singing buffs numbering up to 15,000 thronged to the festival.

A court injunction was obtained banning the annual event from the town. Last year it was staged in Toronto.

More than 100 provincial policemen, who had supplies of tear gas on hand, were in this area during the weekend to prevent trouble. Fourteen cruisers and 14 motorcycles drive by the site and billy clubs were distributed to the officers in view of the crowd.

An undisclosed number of plainclothesmen mingled with the crowd and camped among the folk-singing fans.

Several members of an Oshawa motorcycle gang and five from a rival Toronto group, the Black Diamond riders, attended Saturday's concert. Police moved 60 men into the concert area.

With all the precautions, no serious trouble occurred in the camping area but drinking was widespread. Only one arrest was made during the weekend —on an impaired driving charge.

Some festival spokesmen blamed the modest turnout on the strict police supervision.

No complaints were received from area residents. Several even came to watch the shows.

An estimated 10,000 paid admission will eliminate a $4,000 debt incurred last year. Festival President Randy Ferris was pleased with the results and said the annual show would be continued. A three-year lease on the site was obtained this year.

Kingston Choir Opens Singing Tour in Britain

YORK, England (CP)—The choir of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, Ont., opened a month-long singing tour of five famous English churches here Sunday. It appeared before capacity congregations at morning, afternoon and evening services in medieval York Minster Cathedral.

Dr. George Maybee, director of the choir of 22 men and 32 boys, described the response to the group as "enthusiastic." The congregations numbered more than 500 at each service.

The choir, which arrived Saturday in this ancient Yorkshire city, sang 12 works by British composers including the Coronation anthem, I Was Glad, by Hubert Perry at the Sunday matins, choral eucharist and evensong. They will sing the evensong at the cathedral until Thursday.

The Dean of Kingston, Very Rev. Richard Fleming, spoke to the morning congregation, bringing greetings from the Kingston parish and discussing the important contribution of cathedral music to the Anglican Church.

SING AT ST. PAUL'S

The Kingston choir moves to London Saturday to begin daily performances at St. Paul's Cathedral until Sept. 1, with single recitals at Canterbury Cathedral Aug. 26 and at London's Westminster Abbey Aug. 27.

They wind up the tour with daily performances at the famous chapel of King's College, Cambridge, Sept. 1-5.

The volunteer choir's later programs will include works by Toronto composer and organist Healey Willan and by Dr. Graham George, professor of music at Queen's University, Kingston.

FAILS BY TWO HOURS

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A journey by a Canadian woman to the bedside of her dying father in Australia failed by two hours Saturday. Paulette Comdon of Vancouver arrived in Melbourne two hours after her father, police superintendent Vivien Thomas, 57, died in hospital.

Playground Activities

WEST HILL

On Tuesday, August 3rd, the annual Neighborhood Night was held at West Hill playground. Allison Mueller welcomed the parents on behalf of the supervisors. A parade of the contestants followed. They were: Ellen Doig, Debby Wardhaugh, Darlene Brown, Susie Shriner, Donna Larouche, Annette Larouche and Donna MacKinnon. Carol Ripley then sang two songs, followed by the Blue Bells who were Kathy Sine, Allison Mueller, Heather Wardhaugh and Bob Cretney. The judging was then completed and Miss West Hill was then crowned. She is Debby Wardhaugh with first runner-up being Susie Shriner and second runner-up, Donna Larouche.

Judges were Collen Marsh, Denton McBride, Bob Cretney, Tom Cain and Elaine McBride.

This was then followed by a baseball game, the men against the women. The captains were Mr. and Mrs. Goegan and the girls beat the boys 22-18.

On Wednesday afternoon the annual mothers' tea was held. While the children did arts and crafts the supervisor talked to the mothers. After a display of the art work some of the boys served the mothers kool-aid and cookies. When the mothers had finished the children had their own little tea.

Thanks goes to the boys who helped set up and serve the tea and to the mothers who provided it.

Next day was the day to prepare for the Penny Carnival. Three boys and the leaders went up to the east hill and set up the booths. The boys were David Potts, John Garvin and Jim MacKay.

On Friday the baseball team played O.S.D. and defeated them 11-9.

The supervisors are Elaine McBride and Bob Cretney.

Diefenbaker Challenged By Benson

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson challenged Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Saturday to take him to court for saying Mr. Diefenbaker made untrue statements during the postal strike.

Mr. Benson, who headed a federal cabinet postal strike committee, also accused the Progressive Conservative leader of irresponsibility and of encouraging the striking postal workers to stay off the job during the dispute which ended Saturday.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker had stated that the civil service commission's pay research bureau had recommended a $660-a-year pay boost for the postal workers.

"He (Mr. Diefenbaker) made a statement that was just not true—and I repeat it was not true—and any action he would like to take against me, I am making this statement outside of Parliament and he can, of course, take action against me in the courts if he wants to, for that statement."

Mr. Benson said Mr. Diefenbaker acted irresponsibly "in encouraging postal workers to stay out on strike, when the government had already taken action to resolve the matter."

U.S. Fiddler Wins Contest At Shelburne

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP)—A 38-year-old professional musician from Springhill, N.S., successfully defended his title Saturday to take top prize money of $1,000 in the Canadian open old-time fiddlers' championship here.

John Henry Mooring retained his crown in competition with a record 123 fiddlers from four provinces and five American states.

Ed Gyurki, 27, of Woodstock, Ont., who won the open title in 1958, placed second, while 1963 champion Graham Townsend, Townsend, 23, of Ottawa came third.

The novelty championship was won by a 49-year-old professional musician from Louisville, Ky. Wayne (Sleepy) Marlin carried off the novelty crown for the eighth time.

Yvonne Dugay, 32, of St. Arthur, N.B., was second in the novelty championship. Charles Joyce, a 14-year-old Sarnia high school student who has been playing for five years, came third.

The Sarnia youngster also placed third in the teen-age championship for fiddlers 18 years of age and under. The teen-age title was won by a 12-year-old Toronto boy, Bernard Dolan. William Mulholland, 17, of Stroud, Ont., was second.

WINS LADIES' TITLE

Dorothy Houston, a 44-year-old housewife from Earlton, Ont., carried off the ladies' championship. She last won the ladies' crown in 1962. Laura Graham, 19-year-old Woodstock, Ont., high school student, placed second and Eleanor Irwin, 21, of Lucknow, Ont., third.

The 65-and-over championship was won Friday by Arthur McKinlay of Gore Bay, Ont., on Manitoulin Island, who was competing in the national fiddle contest for the first time.

Lana Granger, 18, of Toronto was named national fiddle queen.

Paralytic Saves Girl From Suicide

By OLE DUUS

COPENHAGEN (AP) — A teen - age Danish paralytic stood in muddy water to his waist Sunday night, facing a young woman intent on drowning herself in a lake in the heart of Copenhagen.

"I can't go on living," she cried. "Leave me alone . . . I want to die."

The young woman had jumped into the Sortedams Lake fully dressed and waded toward deep water.

Bent Staerkaer, 18, a watchmaker's apprentice who has been partially paralyzed from the waist down since a childhood attack of polio, was watching from the window of his room on the third floor of a home for disabled persons.

He grabbed his two walking sticks, hobbled down the stairs, got on his motorized bicycle and rode a quarter of a mile to a place where he could enter the water.

Slipping and nearly falling on the muddy bottom, the boy waded out. He almost lost one of his sticks. When the water reached his waist, he could go no farther. He called out to the young woman, about 10 yards out in water up to her neck:

"Look at me," he said quietly. "I am a cripple. I walk with two sticks. I don't kill myself.

"Look at me . . ."

For a long minute she stared at him, then slowly waded back. They came ashore together.

Postal Workers At London Accept Offer

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The London branch of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association voted unanimously Sunday to accept Judge J. C. Anderson's report recommending $510-$550 wage increases.

Branch President James McCormick said the membership felt Judge Anderson's recommendations were a sound basis for future negotiations. He said the workers generally were happy with the report and happy to be returning to work.

Meanwhile, Sarnia remained opposed to the offer despite Montreal's decision to accept it.

Letter carriers there voted Friday night to reject the offer, saying the "association isn't happy" about the way the increases would vary among employment categories.

An official said Sunday Montreal's acceptance of the report does not alter Sarnia's position.

51 Fatalities Across Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 51 persons died accidentally across Canada during the weekend, including four when they were struck by lightning.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times showed that 27 persons died in traffic accidents, 15 were drowned, two died in a fire and two in miscellaneous mishaps.

Four persons in Ontario, all under 18, were killed by lightning while on camping trips. Another youth was electrocuted while repairing his car.

Also in Ontario, traffic deaths killed five persons. Eight persons were drowned and one man died in a fire.

Quebec reported 23 fatalities—16 on the roads, five drownings and two unclassified.

Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Manitoba also reported one drowning and one death by fire. British Columbia had two traffic deaths as well as a drowning.

Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and Alberta were fatality-free.

Rhesus Monkey Lighting Love Fire Of Ape

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Love can overcome great obstacles.

The Monkey Island at the Memphis zoo is placid at night with most of the population snoozing in the grass after a hard day of play and grabbing peanuts.

But one female Rhesus monkey can be seen nightly primping for a rendezvous with a big barbary ape across the water.

Each evening the little monkey plunges into the moat surrounding her island, swims to the other side and inches her way up the sheer six-foot concrete wall.

There follows a moonlight tryst with her steady date at his cage. Stout wire separates the two, but it doesn't seem to chill the romance.

At dawn the love chatter ceases. The female runs to the railing—gives a last backward glance — and plunges into the moat.

"It's the craziest thing I ever heard of," says Zoo Director Robert Mattlin.

Mattlin says he has no intention of interferring with the romance. Zoo keepers had been worried about the lonely ape, who has no mate. Now he seems to be doing fine.

OMA Office Manager Held For Fraud

TORONTO (CP)—Frank William Renwick, 27, an Ontario Medical Association office manager, was remanded Saturday without bail to next Thursday on charges of embezzling more than $100,000.

Police said that money from the medical welfare plan account, an insurance plan administered by the association for the Ontario public welfare department, was placed in bank accounts opened in the names of fictitious doctors.

Cheques for sums ranging from $300 to $1,000 were withdrawn from the OMA account and deposited under these fictitious names over a 1½-year period, police said.

Police have seized on court order $40,000 in connection with the case from five accounts in city banks. They began their investigation after an anonymous telephone tip.

Renwick, arrested Friday night, had been an OMA employee for seven years. He now is in the Don jail.

Avert Office Strike at Chrysler Plant

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A strike by more than 650 office workers at Chrysler of Canada Ltd. and two of the auto firm's subsidiaries was averted Sunday, an hour before a midnight deadline.

Members of Local 240, United Auto Workers (CLC), who are employees at Chrysler, Walker Metal Products Ltd. and Young Spring and Wire Corp. of Canada, agreed at a meeting with management to call for a vote by Tuesday on a new three-year contract suggested by the company.

William Scott Of Kinmount PC Candidate

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP)—E. Davie Fulton, former justice minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, called Saturday for unity within the Progressive Conservative party.

"This is a summer of crisis," Mr. Fulton told a nominating convention here for the riding of Victoria - Haliburton - Ontario North.

William Scott of Kinmount was elected on the sixth ballot to contest the riding for the PCs when an election is called.

The riding became vacant when Conservative member Charles Wesley Lamb, 75, died July 12.

Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon (PC — Ontario) told the meeting there will probably be five federal byelections in the near future.

Ridings vacant are Digby-Annapolis-Kings in Nova Scotia, Montreal Dollard and the Ontario ridings of Kenora-Rainy River and Victoria.

Gerald Regan, Liberal member for Halifax, has also indicated he will resign his seat in the Commons, following his election as leader of the Nova Scotia Liberal party.

Flag Rumpus

It might have been thought Canadians have had enough controversy on the subject of the national flag to last a lifetime. However, in Loyalist Prince Edward County a new rumpus is brewing.

Judge Wilfred Lane refused to hold Division Court sittings at the County Buildings in Picton last Friday because the new Maple Leaf flag was not being flown.

In a statement the judge made repeated references to the absence of "a proper flag" without actually naming the Maple Leaf emblem, and added that the Ontario flag flying overhead was not a proper flag to fly over a Court. The Court, he said, was part of Canada.

County Clerk Thomas Walker contended that Judge Lane had made no formal request concerning the flying of the Maple Leaf flag at the County Buildings and County Council had not refused to fly the Maple Leaf flag.

Ever since the new national flag was introduced in Canada there has been considerable confusion over its display. It is taking time for the emblem to become properly identified with the life of the nation, to blaze a trail, as it were, in the fabric of Canadian society.

Meanwhile, many people still fly the Union Jack and the Red Ensign, particularly in areas like Prince Edward County, while others fly both the old and the new—Union Jack, Red Ensign and Maple Leaf. Sentiment dies hard.

United Appeal

The addition of two new members and ncreases in the budget of all but four of the 2 agencies in last year's campaign has resulted n an increase in this year's United Appeal budget o $127,902 from $106,000 last year.

This is a fairly modest increase considering wo new organizations—the March of Dimes and he Family Counselling Service—have joined the ppeal, and in view of the inevitable extension the work of the existing members.

The March of Dimes is seeking $5,228 and he Family Counselling Service $2,000. Of the maining 12 organiations, the YMCA is seeking 7,500, the Red Cross Society $19,214, the Vic- rian Order of Nurses $16,000, the National stitute for the Blind $11,912 and the Children's d Society $10,000.

Attainment of such a target as has been set another matter, of course, considering that the tober campaign comes only two months away m Christmas. Nevertheless, last year's total $86,000 was just 20 per cent short of the goal. extra effort will be needed this year if Belle- le is to come near the new target of $127,902.

Anyone for Adventure

Toronto Parks Commissioner Ivan Forrest s been quoted as saying he has almost given hope of providing a recreation program that ld attract the coffee-house set and what he cribes as anti-social youth. He said the city's reational facilities cannot compete with the ht lights and come-hither atmosphere of the kville district.

No use, we suppose, attempting to interest e young people in a dash of adventure—like jeep tour through Africa by two young Cana- s that led to their arrest and beating by golese police.

This is apparently the season for adventure, ybody is interested in such an old-fashioned ime. Even newspapermen are getting away it all—like the Cleveland Plain-Dealer er who is on a lone voyage across the Atlantic yacht.

And there was the middle-aged couple from Welland area who rode to Alaska and back motor-cycle and took their boat along with . (Yes they pulled is on a trailer behind motor-bike!)

There is no stopping the women either. A ar-old widow recently sailed a 25-foot sloop Los Angeles to Hawaiii, and two British nbia women are currently crossing Canada orseback. A 24-year-old American girl is travelling across Canada on horesback, en- to California.

These people are getting more out of life they would sitting at home and watching sion or dancing the frug in a coffee-house rkville.

The epoch of individuality is concluded, and he duty of reformers to initiate the epoch ociation. Collective man is omnipotent the earth he treads.—Giuseppe Mazzini.

Construction Program Slows

The Globe and Mail

Prime Minister Lester Pearson's sudden call for a slowdown in construction is an unusual step and one for which there seems to be no exact precedent.

He has announcedl that the Government will postpone a number of large undertakings. He has said that he will ask Parliament to extend the cut-off date for three programs of aid to the provinces and municipalities from 1967 to 1970 — presumably to lessen the immediate demand for labor and money. Such steps by the Government would not be unusual in a time of high prosperity (though Mr. Pearson's public and somewhat electric method of announcing them is not in the tradition of similar withdrawals in the past), for Government activity in the construction field might well be decreased at a time when the economy is booming.

But Mr. Pearson has gone beyond an announcement of Government intentions and has urged the private sectors of the economy to delay commencement of construction projects.

If Mr. Pearson's responsible advisers feel that the country is confronted by a crisis in the areas of money and labor supply, and the possibility of a greater crisis in the near future, then it is, of course, quite proper that he should move without hesitation to halt what they believe to be a dangerously inflationary trend.

In doing so, however, he has invited speculation as to how serious the problem is. The normal method of handling an inflationary curve would have been for the federal Government to tighten the money supply. But that would have driven developers to the United States for money, and the United States, concerned about its own balance-of-payments problem, has indicated that it will not submit to an excessive money drain from Canada. Is Mr. Pearson attempting to forestall action by Washington? Has Washington already promised action?

Or is it purely domestic problem? Mr. Pearson seems anxious to delay large developments beyond 1967, Centennial year. Is he afraid that the normal demands of an expanding economy may take money and labor away from Centennial projects, and specifically away from Expo 67 projects?

Yet if either Washington or the Centennial celebration is creating problems for the construction industry, why did Mr. Pearson not say so? An exposition of neither problem would have called for the elusive dramatics he used. Speculation will continue.

If the problem is indeed serious, Mr. Pearson has also aroused speculation about what the Government will propose in the way of long-term correctives. It is one thing to put a temporary damper on an economy in danger of over-heating; it is quite another to cut off development in a country that must expand to prosper.

Canada is not in any mood, and certainly not in any practical position, to stall development for long. Many of the construction projects which Mr. Pearson would postpone are needed now, and will be more urgently needed in the future. The post-war baby crop is coming into the market, as workers, as consumers, as the formers of new family units. Their need for housing, transportation, job opportunities, consumer goods and education can scarcely be under-estimated. Canada must grow or strangle.

How, over the long term, does Mr. Pearson plan to provide the money and the labor to meet these needs? The removal of Finance Minister Walter Gordon and his obsession against foreign capital would seem to be one answer to the money problem; and possibly in a deside to evade this answer Mr. Pearson concentrated less on the money shortage and more on the labor shortage.

Yet here was a shortage he could have anticipated. There have been many warnings, spread back over several years and several governments, that Canada's production of skilled workers was not equal to its needs and that they must be found from immigrant sources. Immigration Minister J. R. Nicholson has himself said that there is an immediate need for 90,000 such workers, and that the need is certain to expand. He has just returned from a European tour intended to spur recruitment of immigrants. But he has done no more than hint at the introduction of one of the essentials to a vigorous flow of immigrants — assisted passage. His complacency does not match Mr. Pearson's urgency.

The country will wait with more than curiosity for Mr. Pearson's fuller explanation of that urgency.

Reds Spurn Negotiations

Montreal Gazette

The Americans are willing to negotiate in Vietnam. They do not really want this war. There is not the slightest doubt about that. It is Hanoi and Peking which turn down every offer made by the West, or by the non-aligned countries. It is the Communist bloc alone in the world which has made no offers or proposals for a peace conference.

But this emphatically does not mean the matter is divided into black and white, right and wrong. For the fact must be faced that it is the Viet Cong, North Vietnam and China which have the most to lose from a compromise peace, even on the most favorable terms which they could conceivably get from the United States.

Hindsight is not perhaps a very useful commodity, especially when the guns are speaking. But hindsight can offer some explanation of the extraordinary reluctance of the Communist countries even to sit down around a conference table.

And hindsight shows that American policy or strategy in Vietnam has been so badly timed as to make any worse timing difficult to imagine.

For ten years, an entire decade, the United States failed to show that it regarded the defence of South Vietnam as one of its vital interests, worth any price.

During those years following the 1954 Geneva agreement, which divided Vietnam temporarily into a Communist North and a non-Communist South, the United States showed a decided lack of interest in the Communist threat to the South.

The Viet Cong was allowed to reform and reorganize. It was allowed to get leaders from the North. It was allowed to carry out terror raids and occupy large sections of the country. It was allowed to set up an administration in the South which, over large regions, become the effective government. It was allowed to gain dominance over some half of South Vietnam. It was allowed to maintain a gathering momentum.

The United States did little to meet this threat, or to show that it was determined to prevent a Viet Cong victory. As late as 1960, American advisers in Vietnam numbered only 800 men. By 1962 strength had risen to only 11,000 men — still very small by any military standard. By 1964, it was still no more than 23,000. It is only this year when the Viet Cong was on the verge of victory, that the United States began sending large numbers of combat troops, and began undertaking bombings of the North.

Now the Viet Cong, having been allowed to advance for some ten years, unhindered by any significant American opposition, cannot help but have concluded that Vietnam was not regarded as a vital interest by the United States.

If the United States had intervened in Vietnam three or four, or five years ago the way it has done this year, it would have gone in before the Viet Cong saw victory in its grasp, and when the military situation did not look so hopeless from a Western view-point.

What the United States has done is suddenly to take an area it had largely ignored, almost overnight declare it to be a vital interest, pour in troops and planes, and demand negotiations leading to a Viet Cong withdrawal.

The Viet Cong can be excused if even today it does not know how seriously to take American policy. And it can be excused for thinking that, having victory almost within its grasp, it ought to go on fighting to the end.

Thus the situation is only too clear. No matter how generous the Johnson administration is prepared to be, it cannot offer the Viet Cong what the Viet Cong thinks it has won and deserves — victory. Hence the contempt with which all offers of negotiations are treated. It is the voice of the guns which will continue to speak in Vietnam for a long time to come.

Typical Day Query Can Irritate

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My recent response to the question "What do you do when you don't feel like writing a column?" reminded me of Persistent Question No. 2, which is "How do you spend your day?"

Possibly because the creative process seems so vague and mystical to the layman, writers, painters, and composers are forever plagued with this query.

The best answer I have ever heard, in extenso, was made by Erik Satie, the fine French composer, whose description of a "typical day" appeared in a Parisian music magazine about a half-century ago. It went:

"I rise at 7:18. I am inspired from 10:23 to 11:47. I lunch at 12:11 and leave the table at 12:14. A healthy ride on horseback around my estate follows from 1:19 to 2:53. Another session of inspiration from 3:12 to 4:07.

"From 5:00 to 6:47, various occupations (fencing, contemplation, immobility, visits, reflection, dexterity, swimming, etc.) Dinner is served at 7:16, and I finish it at 7:20. From 8:09 to 9:59, symphonic readings (aloud.)

'I go to bed regularly at 10:37. Once a week (on Tuesdays), I awake with a start at 3:14 a.m.

"My only nourishment consists of food that is white: eggs, sugar, shredded bones, the fat of dead animals, veal, salt, coconuts, chicken cooked in white sauce, moldy fruit, rice, turnips, sausages in camphor, white cheese, cotton salad, and certain kinds of fish (without the skin). I boil my wine and drink it cold, mixed with a fuchsia juice. I have a good appetite, but never talk while eating for fear of strangling.

"I breathe carefully, a little at a time, and dance only rarely. When I walk, I hold my ribs and look steadily behind me. My expression is very serious; when I laugh, it is unintentional, and I apologize very politely.

"I sleep very soundly, with only one eye closed. My bed is round, with a hole in the middle for my head to go through. Every hour a servant takes my temperature and gives me another.

"I am an old subscriber to a fashion journal. I wear a white cap, white socks, and a white waistcoat. My doctor has told me to smoke. 'Do smoke, dear friend,' he advises, 'otherwise, someone will smoke in your place.'"

Life After Deep Freeze? Some Day Perhaps, Not Yet

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother and I have been having an argument. I heard somewhere that people can be frozen for days or years and then be defrosted with no change in them. She says this is impossible. Who is right? — Barbara

In these days of astonishing scientific achievements, I'm reluctant to say that anything is impossible. There has been a good deal of contention, in print that perhaps people with incurable diseases can be put in a sort of deep freeze, with the idea that they can be thawed out later, once a treatment for the problem has been discovered.

This is an intriguing idea, but I have grave doubts that sound methods of doing it will be found in the near future.

We have learned how to deep-freeze cells, keep them indefinitely, then thaw them out and find them to be viable. We can do much the same thing with blood — but it is necessary first to separate the cells from the liquid part; then they can be mixed in glycerine, frozen, later thawed and reconstituted into blood by adding plasma — the fluid.

The fluid has to be removed before freezing because of all substances, water has a peculiar property. Like other things, it contracts when cooled — except that when it reaches the freezing point, it expands sharply. You know what used to happen when a bottle of milk would freeze on the back porch. The milk (the water in it, that is) would expand and sometimes lift the bottle cap an inch or two or more. Sometimes the bottle would break.

Now how, I ask can a body (human or other) be frozen without the molecules of water doing substantial damage? Perhaps someday there will be a way. I don't know.

True, we can cool parts of the body, notably the blood stream and thus the brain, so that less oxygen will be required, and intricate operations requiring considerable time, become possible. But there is a difference between cooling and freezing — an important one. We also have on record some examples of recovery of individuals who collapsed outdoors and when found had body temperatures many degrees below normal. But they were not frozen, in the true sense of the word. In the case of a foot or hand being actually frozen (rather than "frost-bitten") we are confronted with necrosis: The tissues die and gangrene is the result.

Bears, turtles and some other creatures hibernate. Through a physiological mechanism, they can slow their metabolism, so they use up only a minimum amount of energy and can live for months on fat stored in their bodies. But they do not freeze.

Hibernation is fascinating and mysterious, and is being studied by scientists. If ever it becomes fully understood, perhaps that knowledge will be valuable to mankind.

Since the human body is two-thirds water, putting it into deep freeze presents enormous problems. Perhaps they can be solved, but I don't see how, at present.

Dear Doctor: In regard to relief for constipation, you mentioned dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate. Can it be bought only under that name? — M. B.

It comes under about 20 other names. Your druggist knows about it, or if he doesn't he can look it up in the reference book that every pharmacist uses. The chemical is a "softener." I don't want to play favorites among the many pharmaceutical companies which have good products which include it.

The second and last use of a nuclear weapon in war took place 20 years ago today—in 1945—when the plutonium atomic bomb was dropped on Nagasaki. As opposed to the uranium bomb dropped on Hiroshima three days before, the Nagasaki "fat man" bomb used synthetic radioactive components and could be readily mass-produced. It was the designs of this bomb which Klaus Fuchs and the Rosenberg spy ring transmitted to Russia.

Following an hour's discussion on the subject, members of Belleville Cheese Board Thursday night voted to pay three cents per box warehousing charge asked by Belleville cheese warehousemen for cheese passing through their plants prior to shipment to Montreal.

The three cents per box charge had been asked at the last meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board, but factory salesmen considered the charge was not their responsibility and appointed a committee to investigate the matter.

Warehousemen attending the local board stated it was the practice in other centres for factories to pay a service charge for cheese passing through refrigerated warehouses prior to shipment, but in Belleville this service has been supplied free of charge. Service charge paid in other centres ranged up to five cents, it was stated.

Danger Signals

Globe and Mail

The error of Finance Minister Walter Gordon's failure to accept the two basic recommendations of the Royal Commission on Banking and Finance—removal of the statutory 6 per cent ceiling on loans by the chartered banks and the extension of control over the "near banks"—is becoming readily apparent. Among the danger signals are: the failure of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. Ltd.; rumored difficulties of the British Mortgage and Trust Co., a holder of Atlantic Acceptance notes; the reported agreement of the Bank of Canada to make money available to the chartered banks, if required to meet urgent needs of finance companies; increasing tightness of loanable money; uneasiness over the short-term money market, primarily because of fears that its uncontrolled and undisciplined activities have been over-extended, in turn putting pressure on the chartered banks to pick up the slack.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Radiore Uranium—a small speculative mining issue—gyrated madly in moderate morning stock exchange dealings today.

Opening on the stock was delayed for five minutes as traders tried to find buyers for a wave of sell orders. The stock traded as low as 83 cents.

Radiore rebounded, however, and hit $1.46—up 16 cents—on volume of 570,950 shares in the first hour of trading. The general tempo of penny trading heightened considerably.

The main list was mixed with gains and losses evenly scattered. Algoma Steel, Industrial Acceptance and Royal Bank each fell ⅛ to 64⅛, 23⅜ and 72½, respectively.

Moore Corp. and Union Carbide each rose ½ to 69¾ and 28.

Cassiar rose ⅜ to 13¼ among senior base metals.

Golds were dull.

On index, industrials rose .14 to 162.44, the Toronto Stock Exchange index .16 to 152.69, base metals .29 to 77.46 and western oils .49 to 95.02. Golds fell .26 to 171.16 and volume at 11 a.m. was 1,445,000 shares compared with 618,926 shares traded at the same time Friday.

British Trust Takes Loss of $1,050,000

STRATFORD (CP)—A loss of about $1,050,000 has been taken by British Mortgage and Trust Co. on shares of Atlantic Acceptance Corp., says a letter sent to shareholders during the weekend.

Substantial but as yet undetermined have been losses on notes of Atlantic, notes and other securities of subsidiary and associated companies, and notes of individuals on similar security, says the letter, signed by British Mortage Chairman W. H. Gregory and its recently appointed president, H. R. Lawson.

The letter, which gave formal notice of a shareholders' meeting Sept. 14 to consider an amalgamation proposal from Victoria and Grey Trust Co. based in Lindsay, Ont., was British Mortgage's first direct communication with shareholders since Atlantic collapsed in mid-June after failing to mee about $12,000,000 in short-term obligations.

"Directors earnestly advise the ratification of this agreement," the letter says of the amalgamation proposal.

"We have invested in both the common and preferred shares of Atlantic," it als says.

"Most of these shares have now been sold and after writing down the remainder, the estimated loss on the entire block is about $1,050,000."

The letter said that the alternative to amalgamation with Victoria and Grey is the possibility that Dennison Mines Ltd. will take up its option on a block of treasury shares that would represent control of 88-year-old, family-owned and Stratford-based British Mortgage.

United Appeal Public Services Chairmen

L. J. LEONARD W/C C. OLSON T. BORETSKI

The United Appeal campaign for public service group employees will be divided into three separate divisions, it has been announced today by J. D. O'Flynn, United Appeal campaign chairman.

Heading the Federal Services Division on a direct appointment by Ottawa, is L. J. Leonard, Collector of Customs and Excise. The federal government having granted payroll deduction priveleges to civil servants for donations to United Appeal and Community Chest campaigns, Mr. Leonard will have complete charge of organizing and conducting the "in-plant" campain throughout the local federal offices.

Wing Commander C. S. Olsen of the RCAF Station Trenton, is named chairman of that section directed to air force personnel living in Belleville, while T. Boretski of G.T. Lanning Limited will co-ordinate the campaign for all other public service employees in Belleville, other than federal civil servants.

Oshawa Youth Held at Cobourg For Murder

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—Manfred Grune, 19, of Oshawa has been charged with non-capital murder in connection with the stabbing Sunday of an 18-year-old Bowmanville youth. Geoffrey Bonnecastle, crown attorney for Northumberland and Durham counties, said here today.

He said Grune, being held in custody in this community 25 miles south of Peterborough, will appear in magistrate's court in Bowmanville Tuesday.

Earl Fraser Ross, 18, a native of New Glasgow, N.S., died early Sunday after he was stabbed during an argument at a cabin outside Bowmanville, 40 miles east of Toronto.

Grune was arrested in Oshawa by provincial police early today.

Workers Urged To Oppose Abandonments

MOOSE JAW (CP) — New Democratic Party MP Douglas Fisher urged Canadian Pacific Railway workers here Sunday to oppose proposed federal legislation to permit abandonment of railway branch lines.

The MP for Port Arthur said at a rally of railway workers that while some branch lines may show a "loss on the books" for the railway company, abandonment could mean disaster for communities on the lines.

Mr. Fisher said railway workers across Canada should amalgamate to form a single body for bargaining with management and communicating with the federal government.

He said the 40 or more railway unions in existence can't claim to provide an effective voice for railway workers.

Railway employees also would be wise to join forces with workers in other transportation industries such as air lines and trucking companies in which railways have major interests, he said.

Mr. Fisher said it is well-known that the CPR intends to get out of passenger service. "Now I half suspect it also wants to get out of the railroad business entirely," he said. "I think the CPR has just found its other holdings too attractive to stay in the transportation business."

Chimney Spark Ignites Roof

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Fire Department answered a call to the home of F. M. Rutherford on Ranney St., on Friday afternoon.

Dr. R. Vandervoort, a neighbor passing the house noticed a piece of burning paper flutter to the ground and on looking up saw the roof of the Rutherford home ablaze. He immediately called the fire department who were successful in confining the blaze to the roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford were at their cottage about three miles distant and had left their house only about an hour previously.

Due to the excessive dryness of the shingles it is presumed a spark on a piece of burning papper lighted the fire on the roof.

Smoke and water damage were excessive to the upper portion of the house. A high wind was blowing at the time which created a hazard to other houses in the immediate vicinity. Fire Chief Charles Cork discovered the fact that garbage was being burned in the vicinity, almost directly behind the Rutherford home, in the old high chimney of Trent Valley creamery, a chimney which has been abandoned for use since a fire at the creamery which destroyed a building there some years ago.

Police Chief Baird also investigated and both police chief Baird and Fire Chief C. Cork gave orders that no more burning was to be done in the chimney. Pieces of burned paper blown in the path of the wind were found all the way from the Trent Valley Creamery to beyond the Rutherford property.

S.A. Prisons Defended By Minister

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters)—Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster said Sunday he has nothing to hide about conditions in South African prisons.

Articles have recently appeared in the Rand Daily Mail of Johannesburg alleging ill-treatment of prisoners, including electric shock treatment.

Vorster said in an interview: "Our prisons—and I know them. I visit them regularly—are comparable to the best in the world and our integrity and the devotion of our prison officials cannot be questioned by anybody. I have the highest regard for the way they have performed their duties and for the way they treat prisoners.

"Naturally there are black sheep in any force and we have our black sheep, too."

Vorster said recent allegations about brutality in prisons have been referred to the attorney-general, who will take the necessary action.

MAY LAY CHARGES

He said it is likely there will be libel actions, perjury charges and charges for offences under the prisons act.

"Naturally any members of the prisons department who have committed acts they should not have done, will have action taken against them as well," he said.

Asked about secrecy regarding South African jails, Vorster said: "There is no more secrecy about South African jails than about any other jail in any other Western country.

"You can publish anything about jails. All the act says is that you are not allowed to publish untrue stories about them."

The Anglican Bishop of Johannesburg, Rt. Rev. Leslie Stradling, has called for a judicial inquiry into the country's prisons.

RCAF Team Wins Group Swim Meet

The first annual East Central Ontario Age Class and Open swim meet, co-sponsored by the Kinsmen Club and the Belleville Recreation Committee, held Saturday at the Kinsmen Pool in Belleville was a huge success. 180 swimmers took part.

Top flight swimmers from the area produced some outstanding performances. The Trenton R.C.A.F. Dolphin Club won the Kinsmen Trophy with a total of 331 points, Peterborough was second in the team standings with 157 points, Belleville third with 47 points, Kingston Parks fourth with 18 points, Bicroft fifth with 12 points, Kingston Y.M.C.A. sixth with 11 points, Marmora seventh with 3 points and Tweed, while putting up a gallant effort did not manage to gain a point.

This being the first meet of its kind to be held at the Belleville Pool, all winners times in each event will be considered records for the 110' long pool, and with the calibre of swimmers competing, some of these times will stay in the record book for a long time to come.

Trophies for most improved Belleville swimmers were won by Wendy Woodman and Brian Rodgers. Individual event results:

Cross-Canada Survey

Many Provinces Permit Women to Serve on Juries But Only a Few Accept

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Before 1954 only men could sit on juries in New Brunswick. That year, after a vigorous campaign, the law was changed to enable women to serve if they applied. Since then about six women have applied.

Quebec and Newfoundland don't allow women to sit on juries although both provinces have had women judges for some years.

Prince Edward Island is a little more consistent. It bars women from juries and at the same time has no women judges.

Other provinces permit women to do jury duty, sometimes with restrictions, but a cross - Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that few actually serve.

In Alberta, the reason is that they're confined to civil cases and there have been only two such cases tried before juries in the last 10 years, with no women serving either time.

In Nova Scotia, women are permitted to serve only in Halifax and this automatically keeps the figure for the province low. they don't want to serve.

But elsewhere, the explanation seems to be that it is too easy for women to beg off. Usually they need say only that working for years to get exemptions made the same for both sexes.

In July, 1964, British Columbia amended the law so that women could no longer claim exemption just because they are women. They must show that service would mean personal hardship or illness, the same as for men. But a successful claim can be made by a woman with young children.

FEW CALLED

Until last year, of about 400 women a year called for duty in Vancouver, about 30 accepted. Sheriff Edwin W. Wells says an increasing number of women have been serving since the amendment but the number called is still small because their commitments in the home make it less likely they will serve.

"If we called 50 per cent women we would end up with a very small jury panel," Sheriff Wells says.

In Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario, a woman doesn't need any excuse at all to escape jury service.

The most persistent campaign to get this changed is being carried on in Ontario where women's groups have been

"A woman may want to serve but she gets pressures from her employer and her husband to claim exemption," says Toronto lawyer Margaret Hyndman. "No employer wants his employees on jury duty unless he has served and recognizes the responsibility. Men would take advantage of it too if they could claim exemption just because they are men."

Sheriff E. H. Ford of Edmonton says that since women can claim exemption for no reason even in civil cases it has been the practice simply not to bother calling them. He couldn't recall a woman serving as juror in 20 years.

In Saskatchewan, where a woman may claim exemption for a year just by making an application in writing within three days of being called, there is a move afoot to ask for a change.

Mrs. R. B. Ramsey, president of the Regina Council of Women, says the council has approved a resolution asking the government to amend the act.

Generally, in Saskatchewan, the sheriffs' lists of potential jurors include about 10 per cent women. A spokesman for the attorney - general's office says no statistics are kept but he thought more women served in spring session this year than in 1964.

Manitoba women may also claim a year's exemption without excuse. Miss A. V. Patrick, president of the Manitoba Council of Women, says she thinks women should be allowed to go home, instead of being locked up with other jurors at the end of each day's sitting, but she also believes they should do their duty and serve. About 10 per cent of jurors in Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench last year were women and the proportion was about the same this spring.

LACK OF INTEREST

In New Brunswick, Mrs. E. E. Thomas, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Saint John, says she knows of only two instances where women actually served. One was a 1958 assault case, the other a 1963 murder trial.

Saint John Sheriff T. E. Desmond attributes the small number of offers to serve to lack of interest.

25 PER CENT WOMEN

Ontario calls a larger number of women than other provinces. Since 1961 the attorney-general's office has asked selectors to make 25 per cent of their list women.

P. J. Ambrose, sheriff of York County, says a little less than half the women called accept.

"If a woman is working, the boss knows she can get an exemption. It's hard for her to say, 'I want to do my duty.'"

Miss Hyndman has headed a committee which has several times requested an amendment from attorneys - general. The women represent such groups as the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Zonta, the Council of Women, Council of Jewish Women and Women's Institutes.

On their most recent visit, in April, "Attorney-General Arthur Wishart listened to us politely but so far we have heard nothing further about it," she says.

The same groups have worked for changes in jurors acts in other provinces.

In Alberta, Deputy Attorney-General J. E. Hart says he is tired of having "middle - aged women's groups phoning and asking me why women don't serve on juries; it's really for their benefit that women are not allowed to serve."

CITES FEDERAL LAW

It has been explained that women are barred from criminal cases in Alberta because the federal law requires that such juries must be kept together throughout the trial.

Mrs. Thomas feels there hasn't been enough effort made to get women to apply. "It would be a good thing to bring before our provincial meeting in September."

In Halifax, County Sheriff Stanley Hall says about 15 or 20 women of a total of 48 prospective jurors were called in 1964 and not all served. Women are chosen on the same basis as men—property qualifications and assessment—and Attorney-General R. A. Donahoe emphasizes that this makes fewer women eligible than men.

Quebec, which got its first woman judge in 1961, isn't moving quickly to give women equality in the field of jury duty. Attorney-General Claude Wagner says there's no immediate thought of changing the law "but we will have to come to it one of these days."

Attorney-General J. A. McQuigan of P.E.I. says simply "no changes are contemplated," and there appears to be no concerted effort to get any changes although Mrs. L. G. Ramsay, past - president of the P.E.I. Women's Institutes says "there's no reason women shouldn't be on juries."

Newfoundland got its first woman judge seven years ago but still bars women from juries. Attorney-General Leslie R. Curtis says his department is making a study of the practice in other provinces. He said the same thing when questioned on the subject three years ago.

Family Reunions

FLEMING CLAN

IVANHOE — Recently the Fleming family held their 29th annual reunion at the Col. Roscoe Vanderwater Park, Thomasburg. A record of the names and addresses of those present revealed 136 in attendance coming from neighboring villages and from Oshawa, Toronto, Kingston and Ottawa. The afternoon began with a picnic lunch after which the vice-president, Elmer Wood extended a warm welcome and hoped that all would enjoy the day. He expressed regret that the president, Mrs. K. Nicol was unable to attend due to illness but wished her well.

The secretary read the minutes of the 1964 reunion and these were adopted on motion of Mr. Clifford Ray and Mrs. Maude Rollins. The treasurer, Mr. Ray Grant of Belleville gave the treasurer's report and moved its adoption. A report of the historian, Mrs. Harold Francis revealed that there had been three marriages, seven births and four deaths in the Fleming clan during the past year as follows: marriages — Claire Constance Wickens to Delbert Wayne Francis, Sharon Anne Devolin to Walter Daniel Francis, Deanna Mae Edwards to Edmund Delbert Fleming; births — Sara Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Elliott, William Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Cooke, Susette Adell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Downey, Scott Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Adams, Nicholas Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Fleming, Eleanor Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vance, Patricia Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wright; deaths — Mrs. Hugh McMullen, Mr. Fred Mallory, Mrs. William A. Love and Warren Haggarty. After this report a moment of silence was observed in memory of those deceased.

Mrs. Ray Grant distributed special prizes to the following: the most recent bride — Mrs. Daniel Francis; the youngest member of the clan present — Miss Patricia Wright (six months); eldest lady — Mrs. Richard Fleming; eldest gentleman — Mr. Richard Fleming; the one travelling the farthest distance to attend the reunion — Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wright, Ottawa: lucky spot prize to Mr. Percy Ray.

Comment was made on the fact that the historian's job was a difficult one in a family of this size and it was decided that the head of each branch of the family be asked to assist in bringing the family tree up to date and that a loose leaf note book be purchased for the historian to assist in this endeavor.

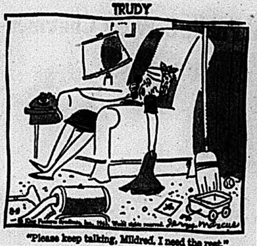
An election of officers for the 1965-66 period was conducted by Mr. Bob Woodswith the following results: honorary president — Mrs. A. D. Runnalls, Frankford; past president — Mrs. K. Nicol, Madoc; president — Mr. Elmer Wood, Crookston; 1st. vice-president — Mr. Clifford Ray; 2nd. vice-president — Mr. Carman Downey; secretary-treasurer — Mrs. Edward W. Fleming; historian — Mrs. Harold Francis; sports convener — Mrs. Delbert Francis; sports committee — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ray and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Kerruish.

A nominating committee made up of Mr. Hary Rollins, Mr. Ray Grant and Mr. Jack Francis was appointed to hand in a slate of officers for the coming term.

Members decided to hold the reunion for 1966 at the Park in Tweed on the third Sunday in July. The Fleming Trophy is to be presented at the Belleville Fair this year by Mr. Willie Ray.

This concluded the formal business of the reunion and everyone disbursed to take part in various sports. Mrs. Delbert Francis organized games and races and was assisted by the afore-mentioned members of the sports committee. The small children enjoyed wading in the river and a fine game of ball was played by the men and boys in another part of the park. Gifts were handed out to the children by the sports convener, Mrs. Delbert Francis.

Some were able to stay on for an evening picnic and a social time afterwards when Mr. Jack Francis provided guitar music.



"Please keep talking, Mildred. I need the rest."

Rising Hems, Necklines Dominate Fashion Trends

By LOUISE HICKMAN

PARIS (AP) — Rising hems and necklines and lengthening suit jackets were the dominant fashion trends in the Paris collections for fall and winter.

There was little change in silhouette. Almost every designer built his collection around the familiar shape of the A-line shift. In most cases the look was more conical and more controlled.

Hems were as high as two inches above the knee, although a mid-knee level is high enough to be in fashion for the moment.

Collars went up to the chin sometimes over it. Most popular shapes were high - rising band collars, loose and wide. Rings of soft fur created the right effect over something low-collared.

Sleeves were long and for the most part slender, and often cut very close and high under the arm.

Suit-jacket lengths dropped to hip level at most houses. Among the best were Dior's, flipped out in a concave curve over gentle skirts, slightly flared and slightly gathered, and Cardin's, bias-cut with a seam at the natural waistline, and very slightly flaring peplum.

COATS LOOSER

The only sure thing about coat shapes is that, in one way or another, they should loosen up. The fullest of the season were tent styles from Ricci and Molyneux.

On dresses, belts had new importance. Most were thin and slung lightly around the hipbones.

Courreges did not show this season, but his presence was felt. The welt seaming which he has made popular in ready-to-wear was also popular with the couture, as were edges bound in contrast.

Feathers flew in Paris and the newest looking were barnyard varieties: Guinea hen, grouse, speckled hen, grackle, and partridge. The most widely used were dark, shiny, stiff feathers which were worked up into everything from collars and cuffs to coats.

In evening gowns, the newest trend was toward strapless bodices cut in a high, cleavage-covering arc. Without a seam, these dresses are shaped empire-style closest to the body just under the bosom. Lanvin and Dior were exponents of this style.

PANTS OUT

Pants and boots were dropped by most designers. Only Heim showed a collection in which pants prevailed. They were Harem-full knicker types in fur or fabric. Boots have been replaced by high, close gaiters in fabric matching coat or dress. There were few patterned stockings.

Most hats were smooth-domes. Dior showed big, wide soft black felts that could break up the space-helmet look.

There was more black in Paris this season. Biggest bright color was parma violet, followed by emerald green and yellow ochre. A yellowy camel beige was extremely important and there were many dark browns.

ROAST STUFFED CHICKEN

There are so many young housekeepers who do not know how to properly stuff and roast a chicken that steps have to be taken.

Consequently, instead of eating a ham sandwich for lunch yesterday, we had a grand spread, for my daughter-in-law Margaret and my two youngest grandchildren, Jennifer and Douglas, are here. Pete is being moved back from New York to Canada and his family has come in advance to spend a month here for the children can play happily in my garden.

MONDAY
Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Corned Beef Hash with Hot Catsup;. Creamed. Onions; Cottage Cheese - Stuffed Tomatoes on Lettuce; Summer Apple Pan Dowdy; Tea.

ROAST STUFFED CHICKEN WITH CREAM GRAVY (serves 5 or 6):

One 4-lb. roasting chicken.

Stuffing Ingredients: 3 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon green onion flakes or grated raw onion, ⅛ teaspoon rosemary leaves, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 5 cups ½" bread cubes (I used half white bread and half 60% whole wheat bread).

Gravy Ingredients: fat in pan, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1½ cups whole milk.

Make the stuffing by melting the butter in a large frying pan. Add the onion flakes or grated onion, rosemary leaves, salt and pepper. Mix well, then stir in bread cubes over low heat until butter is soaked up. Do not brown the bread cubes at all. Stuff into chicken. You will have some stuffing left over. Reserve this until later (see below). Skewer opening shut with 3 or 4 small steel skewers. Place chicken on trivet in open roasting pan. Dry the skin with a clean tea towel and butter the breast and all exposed skin with your fingers. Roast at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. It does not require basting. During last ½ hour add leftover stuffing to one end of the pan in a mound.

To make Cream Gravy tip excess fat from pan into saucepan. (I had about ¼ cup). To fat add flour and bouillon cube and blend in. Stir in milk until thick.

Transfer roasted chicken to hot platter, spoon the surplus stuffing onto one end of platter and as the host carves the chicken he could serve each plate some of the stuffing inside the bird and a little of the crisp outside stuffing. Spoon cream gravy over the stuffing.

For our noonday lunch with this we served cabbage salad (see Monday, August 16th) and blueberry cottage pudding with clear lemon sauce (see tomorrow August 10th).

Ann Landers

Newspapermen Have No Priority on Lushing It Up

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I've wanted to be a newspaperman all my life. My dad, who is a physician, told me that of all the people he has encountered in his career, newspapermen are the worst lushes.

ANN LANDERS

Three years ago I graduated from the University of Missouri and went to work on a small town daily. In May I applied for a job on a larger paper and was hired. The day I started there was a big flap about the city editor missing a big story because the guy who was supposed to be covering it was stiff. It turns out that the city editor was not exactly sober himself. This led to a blast-off from the executive offices.

A notice was posted on the bulletin board saying no liquor would be allowed on the premises and anyone caught with a bottle in his desk was automatically canned.

This morning I was called into the editor's office. He handed me a bottle of Bourbon and said, "This was found in your desk drawer." I denied knowledge of the booze and was put on probation. I don't drink but I know who does. However, I'm not the rat-fink type. Got the picture? What should my next move be — if anything? — BLUE NOSE-

DEAR NOSE — I've got the picture — and you got the frame. Keep your desk drawers locked and give a set of keys to the editor and invite him to check for himself whenever he feels like it.

And you can tell your dad for me that some doctors lush it up pretty good, too.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Two years ago our second child was born with a heart defect. We lost him the week before his first birthday. Several months later we had another child.

When people ask me how many children we have I tell them "Two," but my heart cries "No — we have three."

At times I have actually said, "Three," then the questions start. People want to know how old the children and so on. I become terribly upset. I am writing to ask how I should answer the question — with my heart or my head? — UNFORGETTING MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER — The correct answer is "Two." If it's easier to say, "We have two children and we lost a boy last year," go ahead, but be prepared for questions and expressions of sympathy — all of which will only keep the tragedy fresh in your mind.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — An attractive, divorced woman who works in our office is a great help to me when it comes to accounting problems. She is my right hand. My wife met Wilma at an office party two years ago and she's been like a dog with a bone ever since — she just won't let go of it. Almost every day it's a question about Wilma. Did I see her at lunch? Did I give her a lift home?

Two weeks ago Wilma had her appendix out. I sent her a bouquet of flowers. I didn't see any point in putting my wife's name on the card. Wilma knows my wife doesn't like her.

When Wilma left the hospital I visited her at home. There was no point in asking my wife to go, it would only have started an argument.

Somehow my wife got wind of the flowers and the visit and she really took my hide off. Do you think my wife has a right to be sore over a couple of innocent little acts of friendship? Don't forget, Wilma is my right hand. — ARTY.

DEAR ARTY — When the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing there's usually trouble. So why don't you cut your wife in on those innocent little acts of friendship? Then you wouldn't have to worry about how things sound when she hears them from others.

* * *

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Family Reunions

DONALD CLAN

This year the family reunion which has been held annually since the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Donald in 1950 was held at Zwick's Island. Those in attendance came from Matheson, Kincardine, Eldorado and other local places.

After a basket picnic games were played and races run. The men's race was won by Wilbert Green. Mrs. Olga Donald excelled in the balloon busting contest. The teenagers played a game of "Pit", the game being the prize and going to Miss Wanda Wood. The 8 to 12 group had a shoe race won by Mark Donald and Beverly Vanclief. The 5 to 8 group ran both forward and backward and was won by Timmy Donald and Roy Vanclief. [illegible] 2 to 4 year olds had a per [illegible] scramble and Tommy McAdams was the winner.

All the small children enjoyed a candy scramble. There was a prize given for those who came the farthest that day and it went to Mrs. Dick Derry and Colin Donald. Gerald Dawson won the lucky draw and Robert Stickle won the prize for being the youngest baby.

WANNAMAKER CLAN

The Wannamaker family reunion was held at Tweed Park recently. Due to rain there was only a fair attendance. Members registered from Stirling, Peterborough, Bancroft, Springbrook, Belleville, Holloway, Napanee, Toronto and Madoc and all enjoyed a picnic lunch.

Prizes were given to the oldest man, Mr. Martin Miller of Stirling, the oldest woman Mrs. William Wannamaker, the largest family Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wannamaker, Bancroft, with seven children, the youngest baby girl was the 13-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morse, the youngest boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wannamaker, Eldorado five months and the one coming the farthest was Miss Brenda Wannamaker of Toronto. The one having the closest birthday was tied between Peggy Wannamaker and her brother Steven.

A short business session was held and it was decided to hold the reunion again next year at the same place on the 3rd Sunday in July. Officers were appointed as follows: president, Mrs. Ken Thompson Tweed, vice - president Mr. Laurel Wannamaker Rossmore and secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Emil Wannamaker Madoc.

Mr. Laurel Wannamaker displayed the work he had done on the family tree and is still finding new members of the family.

Little Girl Going to Get Raise in Pay

VANCOUVER (CP)—They're thinking of raising Shelley Kamlah's pay to a dime a load this year.

Last year she only made $5 all summer, driving a tractor four hours a day, and getting a nickel for every load of potatoes heaved onto the flat-deck behind her.

It wasn't much money—and now that she's six, her father admits a raise might be in order.

"She's been driving the tractor for a couple of years now," says her father, Dennis Kamlah, who operates a 100-acre potato farm in Ladner, on the outskirts of Vancouver.

"She got started at it one day when we needed someone to hold onto the wheel to keep the tractor going, and now she starts and stops the machine, changes gears and generally runs it."

Mr. Kamlah said Shelley is under supervision at all times, but she has no trouble with the one-mile-an-hour pace required for loading potatoes.

"She's pretty patient," says her father. "And she regards the whole business as work."

Isolation Merely State Of Mind Say Residents Of Small Sawmill Town

By STEPHEN SCOTT

TAHSIS, B.C. CP — Isolated?

The question caused indignation.

How could a town perched on the side of a mountain-rimmed fiord 20 miles from nowhere and with no road communication be called isolated?

Isolation is merely a state of mind, says a group of persons living happily in this sawmill town of 1,300 operated by Tahsis Co. of Vancouver.

The community, a narrow band of buildings strung out on the steep side of Tahsis Inlet, is on the west coast of Vancouver Island 170 miles northwest of Victoria.

Its communication with the rest of the world is by boat and plane. Its residents have a surprising number of cars to operate on a total of six miles of road.

It has a large sawmill, deep-sea dock, theatre, library, two churches, a marina. There is radio but no television.

The company is spending $600,000 on a modern shopping centre to replace a soon-to-be-vacated general store with sagging roof and sloping floor.

The centre will contain a hotel and the town's first beer parlor, replacing thrice - weekly shipments by boat from Zeballos, 30 miles away.

There are such obvious advantages to living here as high wages, low rents and no taxes. But what about isolation?

At mention of the word, indignation boiled up among a group sitting in the living room of the home of Mrs. Douglas Abernethy, wife of the mill manager, a room with a magnificent view of the fiord.

In the group besides Mrs. Abernethy were Mrs. Margaret Weivel, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lashaw, comparative newcomers, and Mr. and Mrs. Neil McLeod, 20-year veterans.

CLOSE BY PLANE

"What have you got that we haven't?" asked Mrs. Abernethy. "If I want to go to the opera I can get to Vancouver in two hours by plane. I read. I have close friends here."

"We are more aware of the world than others are," said Mrs. McLeod who has never been able to get at the knitting she thought she would need to kill time when she first arrived.

"We get to know people," said Mrs. Weivel, who admitted she misses TV.

"We live a full life," said Mrs. Lashaw, who said she didn't miss it.

The word "isolation" annoys Mrs. Abernethy more than it does others. She knows what it really means. For nine years she lived in a small logging camp [illegible] north - central British Columbia while her husband spent most of the winter in the woods.

Mr. McLeod, the town fire chief, said he has everything that a suburban family finds desirable without the bills that go with it. His expenditures for rent, fuel and power never top $60 in the coldest winter months.

The company owns all the homes and bunkhouses. Houses rent for $35 a month or less. There is good hunting and a nearby succulent bed of oysters.

And with little expense, it's relatively easy to save money.

"In town you're always digging," said the owner of a small logging operation. "Here you've got to pay for only food and rent and a little liquor once in a while. Couple of loggers just went to Hawaii for a month with their families."

Women's Institutes

MOIRA W. I.

MOIRA — The Moira Women's Institute meeting was held at the home of Emma Thompson recently with nine members, one visitor and the seven girls responsible for the program present.

The president, Mrs. Jean Thompson, opened the meeting in the usual manner after which some business was discussed. Mrs. Katy Ketcheson voiced thanks to the Women's Institute for the lovely birthday cake which she had received on her 80th birthday.

Jean Thompson, assisted by Gail Thompson and Linda Ketcheson, conducted the program which included readings by Bessie Holbert, Marilyn Thompson, Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Gail Thompson and Linda Ketcheson. The girls enjoyed a contest of making brownies and a contest was conducted for the adults.

At the close of the meeting the hostess and her assistants served refreshments.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wallace McInroy.

DIVORCE CAME EARLY

One of the earliest records of British Canada is of the divorce in Halifax of William and Amy Williams in 1750, two years after the city's foundation.

Mr., Mrs. Fred Radford Happily Wed 50 Years

Family members were much to the fore Sunday as Mr. and Mrs. Fred Radford, 45 Moira Street, East, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

All ten of their children — four boys and six girls — were on hand to pay honor to their parents as they were "at home" to friends and relatives at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Grant Wright, 69 Moira Street. Included among the many congratulatory messages received was one from Hon. John Diefenbaker.

The couple were married 50 years ago at the Methodist parsonage at Bayside, later taking up residence at the groom's farm at Centenary 3rd Concession Sidney where they spent the next 40 years and reared their family.

For the past ten years the couple have lived in the city. They attend Holloway Street United Church. Mr. Radford is a native of the Centenary area, while Mrs. Radford, the former Blanche Helen Bennett, was born in the Madoc district.

All ten of Mr. and Mrs. Radford's children live in the Belleville district, seven of them in the city.

Their children are Mrs. D. (Audrey) Smith of Trenton; Russell of Belleville; Mrs. G. (Aileen) Wright, Belleville; Gerald Belleville, Miss Velma Radford, at home; Mrs. Ron (Barbara) Cronkwright, Belleville; Max of Foxboro; Orville, Sidney township; Mrs. Robert (Betty) Hutchinson, Belleville and Mrs. M. Gaffney, Belleville.

There are 18 grandchildren.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Sydney J. Harris an erudite editorial-page columnist, levels his guns of criticism on the "cheap and synthetic and commercial" loyalty of professional baseball.

He dubs these professional athletes "a group of mercenaries who have been hired merely to wear the name of a town across their chests."

He calls the modern baseball player "A Hessian of the sports arena playing anywhere for anybody who will pay him a larger salary, transferred every two years and having no real interest or roots in the town he represents. Money, not community endeavor, is the determining factor for a winning team."

"The big league teams," Harris says, "represents nobody but the owners who are in the business—and let's not call it a sport—for personal vanity, or promotion, or percuniary gain whenever possible."

Mr. Harris' idea of sportsmanship is for the New York Yankees, the Green Bay Packers, the Detroit Red Wings and all other pro sports organisations, to send the boys packing and recruit native born sons to take up the baseball, hockey and football cudgels.

Fan-wise the 73,000 howling baseball buffs I once saw playing in Yankee stadium, didn't give a tinker's dam whether Yogi Berra was born in Honky-Tonk, Arkansas, Whitey Ford in Pickup, Alaska, or Mickey Mantle in Tooth-Ache, Arizona.

I wonder what attracted Mr. Harris to leave his home, wherever it is, and become associated with a big newspaper syndicate. In his idea of loyalty and sportsmanship he should have remained on the local newspaper as a cub reporter.

Surely he did not become a "Hessian of the typewriter brigade working anywhere for anybody who will pay him a larger salary?"

Admittedly pro sport is business and big business. It has its supply, demand and competition. And the better the product, the bigger the profits.

I do not believe the loyalty of the "working men" has ever been questioned in professional baseball—which is Mr. Harris prime target—except perhaps for the 1920 Black Sox scandal.

Also true is that money is a big factor. In pro baseball the laborer is worthy of his hire and the better the player the higher the monetary reward. But isn't that also true of bankers, business tycoons and editorial columnists?

Harris says: "I can understand and admire loyalty to a genuine home town team, but how cheap commercial and synthetic is the loyalty to a group of mercenaries . . ." as before noted.

"If a city like Milwaukee for instance carefully developed its own high school players and grew a big league team out of its native soil there would be occasion for esteem and civic support," he maintains. That is just plain hokum.

The New York Mets, who set an all-time low for victories last season, attracted over two million Gotham and Brooklyn fans. The proud Yankees of the Bronx, ten-time pennant winners and American League champions, drew some 200,000 less.

And if there's a Met player who was born in the shadow of Coogan's Bluff, or a Yankee near the Stadium, I'm the proverbial monkey's uncle.

Both National and American Baseball Leagues, if memory is correct are on their way to establishing new attendance records.

Pro sports loyalty phoney? . . . Phooey.

Keane's Yankees Hope To Halt Twins

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new gleam in Johnny Keane's eye may be the last glimmer in a vanishing American League baseball pennant race.

"I don't think the race is over," the New York manager said Sunday after the sixth-place Yankees' second straight 6-5 victory over contending Detroit Tigers. "But we all know an eight-game lead is pretty good at this stage. It will take a pretty good run by somebody to catch the Twins."

Although the Yankees, 17 games off the pace with only 49 to play, appear to be out of it, they'll have a chance to forestall a Minnesota runaway in a three-game series against the Twins beginning Tuesday night at New York.

The Twins ran their winning streak to five and pulled eight lengths ahead of second-place Baltimore Orioles by blanking Boston Red Sox 8-0 Sunday on Jim Perry's two-hitter. The Orioles divided a doubleheader with Kansas City Athletics, losing their third game in the four-game series 4-3 after rallying for a 9-5 victory in the opener.

WASHINGTON WINS

Washington Senators topped Los Angeles Angels 6-4 and Cleveland Indians defeated Chicago White Sox by the same score before the second game of their doubleheader was rained out.

In Saturday's games the Twins walloped Boston 9-4, Chicago edged Cleveland 4-3 in 10 innings, Kansas City dumped Baltimore 7-4, the Yankees outlasted Detroit 6-5 and Washington shaded the Angels 2-1 in 11 innings.

Led by a resurgent Mickey Mantle, the Yankees took two of three from both the Tigers and White Sox on last week's road trip and climbed within one game of the elusive 500 mark. They haven't been at the breakeven point since May 1.

Mantle collected two hits for a total of 13 in his last six starts, and boosted his batting average to .270.

The loss left the Tigers tied for fifth place with Chicago, 11½ games off the lead.

TWINS HITTING

Minnesota's Perry didn't allow a hit until Felix Mantilla doubled with two out in the seventh and breezed to his eighth victory in 10 decisions. Tony Oliva sparked the Twins' attack with four hits while Don Mincher knocked in three runs with a triple and single.

John O'Donoghue checked Baltimore on four hits until the eighth inning, when Jack Aker came on to end a three-run rally, as the Athletics gained a split of their doubleheader.

The Orioles struck for five runs in the ninth inning of the opener with Norm Siebern, whose two-run homer in the previous inning had tied the score, singling across the go-ahead run.

Chico Salmon's double touched off a five-run Cleveland rally in the seventh that broke up a 1-1 pitching duel between winner Sonny Siebert and Chicago's Gary Peters.

Two-run singles by Jim King and Mike Brumley keyed a five-run Washington eighth that overhauled the Angels.

Dunbricks Defeat Parsons

Belleville Parsons were downed six goals to none by the Kingston Dunbricks in a Kingston and District Soccer League battle at Zwick's Island on Saturday.

Parsons were hit badly by injuries and played most of the first half with ten men, and part of the second with nine.

Westerhoff put the winners into the lead with a goal at 20 minutes. Shortly after Gridley made it 2-0.

Just before half time, Alan Brown's shot was deflected into his own net by Vanakhool making it 2-1.

Gridley kicked in two more scores and Westerhoff added another, making the final count 6-1.

Parsons will play an exhibition game at Trenton High School on Wednesday. Kick-off time is 6.45 p.m.

The next league game will be in Kingston against the German Sport Club on Saturday. Kick-off time is 4.30 p.m.

City Boats Win At Caledonia

Caledonia is thirty miles west of Hamilton.

Len Vigodda of this city won the "A" Class Hydroplane even with Tom Bolton also of Belleville winning the "B" Class Hydroplane race.

The victories were all the more creditable since Vigodda and Bolton defeated Canadian and American 1964 high points winners in "A" and "B".

A large field of international craft took part in the various heats.

Bill Ireland, Trenton led the field in the "B" Alcohol Class for two heats but was later sidelined by engine trouble.

PITCHER DISABLED

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets placed pitcher Dennis Musgraves on the disabled list Sunday. Musgraves, called up from Buffalo July 7, injured his pitching elbow in a game against the Cubs in Chicago July 29. It has not responded to treatment.

Canadian Women's Championship

Jocelyn Bourassa Wins Crown

By JIM CRERAR

KITCHENER (CP) — Jocelyne Bourassa, 18-year-old winner of the Canadian women's golf championship was hoping her family would be able to come from their home in Shawinigan, Que., to root for her in Saturday's final round.

They couldn't, so the five-foot-six brunette who plays out of Trois-Rivieres, Que., took the championship home to them.

"I hoped my brother, Gilles, could come too. But he did not. My parents didn't either, so now I'll just have to take the trophy back to them."

Miss Bourassa, the third junior-age player in the Open's 65-year history to win the championship, learned her golf from Gilles, a professional in Shawinigan.

She used her knowledge and a putter her brother gave her for a 5-and-3 victory over Mary Ellen Driscoll of Saint John, N.B., in the 36-hole match-play final.

TURNS THE TIDE

And she beat Miss Driscoll on her own favorite hole, the par-three 12th, to turn the tide in the final played before more than 600 fans in humid weather which neared 90 degrees.

Miss Bourassa, hitting good wood shots, won the first hole but lost the sixth, 12th and 13th to fall two holes behind. Then she won the 15th and 17th to even the match.

Miss Driscoll, in her 11th open tournament, won the 18th and was one up going into the second tour of the difficult par-75 Westmount Golf and Country Club course.

Miss Bourassa won the 19th to tie the match and the 23rd, 24th and 26th to go three up. But Miss Driscoll won the 27th and 29th as Miss Bourassa, becoming nervous, began spraying her tee shots.

At that point Miss Bourassa turned on the pressure with her gift putter, the shaft of which was bent several years ago by her brother. She won four holes in a row from the 30th to the 33rd.

The 30th, a par-three hole, was a favorite of Miss Driscoll's all week. She had birdied it four times in a row until Saturday, when she parred it twice.

The only birdie on the hole went to Miss Bourassa, who hit the green with her tee shot on the 30th and sank a 12-foot putt for a two.

Both golfers agreed that was the turning point in the battle.

Poland-U.S. Track Meet

Pole Sets World Mark

WARSAW (AP) — Willowy Irena Kirszenstein of Warsaw set a world record in the 200-metre sprint Sunday and won the broad jump to add to her Saturday 100-metre and 400-metre relay victories in the two-day U.S.-Poland track meet.

The Americans won both sections of the meet, by 118-93 in the men's section and by a narrow 59-57 score in the women's, the first international victory in track and field for the U.S. women.

Starting slowly back of the two U.S. Olympic champions, Edith McGuire of Atlanta and Wyomia Tyus of Griffin, Ga., in the 200, the long-legged 19-year-old Kirszenstein put on a burst of speed in the last 50 metres for her triumph in 22.7 seconds.

She slashed 2-10 of a second off the mark set by Olympic queen Wilma Rudolph in 1960 and equalled last year by Australia's Margaret Ann Burvill.

TEAMMATE SECOND

Eva Klobukowska, Irena's teammate, was second in 23 seconds, followed by Miss McGuire in 23.1 and Miss Tyus in 23.8.

Saturday, Irena defeated the two girls with whom she shares the world record of 11.1, Miss Klobukowska and Miss Tyus, in the 100 metres and almost singlehandedly won the 400-metre relay. She added the broad jump Sunday with a leap of 20 feet, 8¾ inches.

The U.S. women standouts were 15-year-old Marie Mulder of North Highlands, Calif., who won the 800 metres in 2:10.2, Cherrie Sherrard of Oakland, Calif., who won the 80-metre hurdles in 10.8 and Lynn Graham of Pasadena, Calif., who captured the shot put with a heave of 50-3½.

Highlighting the men's triumph was a 1-2 finish for Tom Farrell of New York and George Germann of Port Crane, N.Y. in the 800 metres, a sweep for Ron Whitney of Glendale, Calif., and Rex Cawley of Los Angeles in the 400-metre hurdles and an easy victory for Olympic champion Bill Mills in the 10,000 metres in 29:10.

EOBA Minors Win Three

Belleville Tyke, Peewee and Bantam entries in the E.O.B.A. playdowns advanced into the second round as a result of weekend games with Kingston.

The Booth T.V. Tykes and Peewee Merchants both clobbered Kingston's teams on Saturday. The Tykes won 12-4 and the Peewees 18-10.

In the fourth games that were to be played at Park Dale yesterday, both home teams won by 9-0 defaults as Kingston failed to make an appearance.

Richard Ellis Bantams swept their series in three straight games when they edged Kingston 6-5 on Saturday at Kingston.

"Midge" McTaggart and Ted Shaw combined to hurl the win, and gave up six hits while walking seven and striking out 11.

S. Brown handled the losers chore, and allowed seven hits, whiffed 13 and walked only two.

Barry Culkin, Glen Carleton, Terry Meagher, Mario Venutti, Paul Hall and Moe Thompson slammed a variety of hits for Belleville.

Danny Lapenette smashed a homer and two singles to lead Belleville at the plate, and Wayne Andrews, McTaggart, Mike Burley, John Mulvihill, and Mike Hayes all had hits.

Tigers Defeat Als

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats launched their 1965 Eastern Football Conference campaign Saturday night with an 18-9 victory over Montreal Alouettes, but they had to score two touchdowns in the final five minutes to do it.

The defending league champions, contained most of the night by a hard-hitting and hard-charging Montreal front wall, found the range in the dying moments with two quick scoring thrusts.

The decision nullified a brilliant performance by Bernie Faloney, the Ticat discard who went to the Als in an eight-player trade earlier this year.

The underdog Als, with Faloney, a 10-year Ticat, directing traffic from the quarterback slot and halfback George Dixon carrying most of the offensive, were ahead 9-5 before Tiger-Cats made their big moves. The Als had built up a 9-3 first-quarter lead and held Ticats to a single point in each of the second and third quarters.

Then, with unexpected suddeness and with the clock ticking away the minutes and a slim Civic Stadium crowd of 21,735 ready to head for the exits, Tiger-Cats powered to a game-winning touchdown that wrapped up the game. That came at 11:38 and then, with 15 seconds remaining, they scored their clincher.

ZUGER STARTS

Coach Ralph Sazio of Ticats started with import Joe Zuger at quarter. He couldn't move the club and homebrew Frank Cosentino took over in the second quarter. The change paid off.

The 27-year-old Cosentino, who appeared shaky at times and who was smeared for big losses, moved Ticats 76 yards in 10 plays for their first touchdown. That came on a six-yard end zone pass to Stan Crisson. They wrapped things up nicely three minutes later when Johnny Counts dashed over the Montreal line from 11 yards out.

Don Sutherin, who kicked a 33-yard first-quarter field goal that gave Ticats a temporary 3-0 lead, kicked the convert on Counts' touchdown. Zuger booted the Hamilton singles.

Sutherin's field goal, at 6:48, put Hamilton on the scoreboard the first time Ticats had the ball. But the margin didn't stand up for long.

Als went ahead 6-3 three minutes later when Dixon, a terror on offence particularly in the first half, made a spectacular one-handed stab of Faloney's pass down the sidelines and scooted over for a 28-yard touchdown.

It was set up when Ticat halfback Art Baker fumbled and Garland Boyette, first-year man in the Canadian game from St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League, pounced on the loose ball, giving Montreal possession on the Hamilton 28.

Bill Bewley kicked an 18-yard placement with just over a minute remaining in the quarter.

Battle To The Wire

Bloomfield Ousts Trudeaus

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

PICTON — Warren (Moose) Ostrander singled home the winning run in the ninth inning to give Bloomfield a 2-1 victory ver Trudeau Motors in the 5th and final game of the B. and D. emi - final playoffs between he two teams played here Sat- rday night. Bloomfield's win unched them into the league inals against Tweed or the llis Juniors.

Ostrander's blow ended a fine itching duel between the op- sing batteries. "Moose", a onsistent right - field hitter, rossed up everyone by lining shot into the hole in left eld.

Keith McDonald's first inning ad - off single started Bloom- eld rolling. Bob Green, Trud- u's hurler, threw a series of ild pitches that enabled Mc- onald to move around the ises and ultimately score.

The winners, who threatened almost every inning, could t, until the ninth, get the itch hit that would put them ead. They left 14 men strand-.

Ken DeMille, on the home ams mound, allowed more s than the Belleville combina- n of Green and Bill Baldwin, t his control was much better. Mille, who had been on the losing end of a 11-4 score in the previous game, was untouchable when the situation called for it.

In the fourth frame, an argument between umpire Al Kelleher and Belleville short-stop Pete Weston broke out over a decision at third. Weston was ejected from the game by Kelleher when he protested the call.

Trudeaus tied the score in the seventh when Hugh Brennan singled, reached second on a passed ball, and crossed the plate on a base - hit by Bill Latchford.

Green walked the first two batters that he faced in the ninth, and Bill Baldwin came in to relieve him. Another walk loaded the bases, but the next two batters hit grounders that forced the runners. With two out, Ostrander ended everything with his hit.

Belleville's pair of moundsmen gave up only five hits, whiffed eight and walked 10.

Bloomfield's five hits were all singles, with McDonald, Weese, Frank Forester, Leo St. Denis and Ostrander getting them.

The teams:

Belleville: Wannamaker; Meeker; Plane; Weston; Baker; Brennan; Mavety; Zakos; Latchford; Green; Baldwin.

Bloomfield: McDonald; Forester; Weese; Stacey; St. Denis; Ostrander; York; DeMille; Guernsey.

Wins Quebec Bike Race

QUEBEC (CP) — A Belgian rider and the Polish team shared the honors Sunday as a sharply reduced field of 32 riders completed the Tour du St. Laurent bicycle race.

Henri Pauwels of Belgium, who never won a lap during the 15-day tour, finished at the top of the individual classification because of his consistently strong but unspectacular performance. He took first-prize money of $1,000.

Canada Wins Coveted Americas Cup

First In 8 Years

By BOB PARKINS

WINNIPEG (CP) — The experts said experience would win the 1965 Americas Cup and Canada backed them up Saturday by winning the coveted amateur golf prize for the first time in eight matches.

The giant killers as Canada ended the United States' streak —the Americans were seven-for-seven before Saturday — were Calgary veterans Doug Silverberg and Keith Alexander.

Both playing in their fourth Americas Cup, Silverberg and Alexander scored impressive singles wins and, in sixsomes play, led the way to four more team wins, accounting for eight of the 12½ points Canada gained in Saturday's play.

The Canadians finished the two-day biennial competition with 22 points, 2½ better than the Americans, who fell down in Saturday's sixsomes play and failed to recover sufficiently in afternoon threesomes.

Third for the seventh time was Mexico. The Mexicans collected only 12½ points—eight during Friday's threesomes play in the first day of the two-day matches.

AMERICANS BRILLIANT

Canada's victory erased brilliant performances by Americans Bill Campbell and Mark Hopkins. Campbell was unbeaten in either singles or team play during the two days while Hopkins, only 22, was eight under par for 14 holes Saturday in winning both his singles matches on the St. Charles Country Club course.

Canada had only a half-point lead after Friday—9½ to nine for the U.S. and 8½ for Mexico — but came on Saturday morning to take five of six possible sixsomes points while the Americans managed three and Mexico, one.

Campbell led the U.S. in afternoon singles play as the Americans scored eight points, but Mexico failed to come through and halt the Canadians who picked up 7½, enough for victory.

The five-point sixsomes drive was led by Silverberg and Winnipeg's Bill Pidlaski, who took Mexico's Mauricio Urdaneta and Roberta Halpern 5 and 4 and stopped Americans Dale Morey and Don Allen 3 and 2.

Alexander and Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., whose game was off both days, stopped Hopkins and Dave Eichelberger 4 and 3 and caught Juan Estrada and Augstin Silveyra of Mexico 3 and 2.

The other Canadian sixsomes point came from Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., and Johnny Johnston of Vancouver, 2 and 1 over Mexico's Tomas Lehmann and Jorge Molinar.

Cowan, another Americas Cup veteran, was hardly less spectacular than Hopkins in threesomes play as he went five under par to trounce Eichelberger 5 and 4 and Molinar 3 and 2.

FAVORITE LOSES

Silverberg was 4 and 3 over both Estrada and Ed Tutweiler of the U.S. Alexander took Mexican gallery favorite Ricardo Vega 3 and 2 and was 2 and 1 over Morey.

Weslock stopped Mexico's Augustin Silveyra 2 up for his only singles win and Johnston got the other half-point for a tie with Urdaneta.

Johnston lost to the veteran smoothie Campbell 2 up in the same threesome despite a strong start that had him 2 up after nine holes. Campbell was 2 and 1 over Urdaneta.

In sixsomes play, Campbell and Downing Gray trounced Lehmann and Molinar 5 and 4 and stopped Cowan and Johnston 3 and 2.

Morey and Allen defeated Urdaneta and Halpern 3 and 2 for the other American sixsomes point.

Hopkins's eight-under threesomes performance got him 5 and 4 victories over Weslock and Lehmann. Gray picked up two more points with a 4 and 3 win over Bert Ticehurst of Vancouver and a 5 and 4 crusher over Halpern.

The other American singles points came from Eichelberger, 1 up over Molinar, and Morey, 3 and 2 over the junior star Vega.

For Mexico, Estrada and Silverya beat back Hopkins and Eichelberger in sixsomes play. Estrada also earned a threesome point, taking Tutweiler 1 up.

WBA Meet

Discuss Heavies Muddle, Commissioner

By JERRY GLADMAN

TORONTO (CP)—The muddled heavyweight division and a proposed federal boxing commissioner are the main items slated for discussion at the World Boxing Association at Las Vegas Aug. 14-18.

"Since this is a crucial time in boxing, this is an extremely important meeting," WBA President Merv McKenzie said in an interview.

"We are mainly interested in clearing up that heavyweight mess," said McKenzie, who will not seek re-election. "I've had a lot of fun and have enjoyed it very much, but I think someone else should get a shot."

He said he is not sure whether a proposed heavyweight championship doubleheader slated for Madison Square Garden at New York in the fall will be feasible.

Garden officials said they are interested in staging the doubleheader with Cassius Clay of Louisville, who is not recognized by the WBA, meeting former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and WBA champ Ernie Terrell of Chicago meeting George Chuvalo of Toronto.

CLAY INVOLVED

The problem here involves Clay, who was suspended by the WBA last year along with former champ Sonny Liston of Denver for signing a return match contract.

"The WBA is against a rematch clause in a contract which is signed before the first fight," he said.

"However, we are not against rematches if the first fight is a close one and warrants a second meeting."

If the proposed doubleheader comes off and is recognized by the WBA, the association would have to lift its suspension on Clay. They have to decide under what terms they would reinstate Clay.

"Another problem is whether we should agree to have the WBA champ on an undercard," said McKenzie. "If both fights were given equal billing and equal publicity, it would enhance the chances of holding this doubleheader."

If the doubleheader doesn't come about, the WBA is faced with getting Terrell to defend his title. WBA rules state that a champion must defend against a top challenger within six months after winning the crown.

"We gave Terrell an extension because of the muddled situation involving Clay and Liston," said McKenzie. "And he also made an offer to Chuvalo, which the Canadian turned down. We can't really blame Terrell for that."

CHUVALO APPROACHED

Terrell's camp offered Chuvalo $50,000 to fight in Chicago, but Chuvalo's manager, Irving Ungerman, turned it down because he didn't want to take a fight in Terrell's home town.

Ungerman said he was still interested in a bout with Terrell, preferably in Canada, but he was not ready to commit himself.

The rest of the divisions will be run through at the meeting and special consideration will be given to Edre Jofre of Brazil, who is seeking a return match with Ebahara (Fighting) Harada of Japan. Harada took the world bantamweight title from Jofre in a close match in Tokyo in June.

Also on tap for discussion will be the cases of Sugar Ray Robinson of New York and Willie Pep of Hartford, both former champions who are in their early 40s.

Robinson, former welterweight king and five-time middleweight champ, at 44, has been considered past his peak for several years and has lost a number of fights to unknown boxers.

"WBA men across the U.S. who have seen Robinson fight in the last couple of years, have advised me to suspend Robinson from fighting," said McKenzie. "They said he looked 10 years older than he did last year. His reflexes are gone."

Pep, two-time featherweight champion, made a comeback after six years' absence and has won five straight bouts. However, McKenzie feels that at 42, Pep should not be licensed to box.

Pep was refused a licence to fight in Ontario and has also been banned in several states.

Score Was 38-13

Lions Whip Eskys

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions pulled away on two pass interceptions and a fumble recovery to defeat Edmonton Eskimos 38-13 in a Western Football Conference game Saturday night before 32,055 fans.

Until the three late breaks, Lions had been held to a 14-7 lead despite an injury to Eskimo quarterback Jon Anabo that shattered Edmonton's game strategy.

It was the second match of the season for both clubs after opening losses to Winnipeg and left B.C. in a second-place tie with Calgary and Saskatchewan. Esks are last, but coach Neill Armstrong said he saw evidence Saturday night "that we're going to win lots of ball games this year."

The second-quarter loss of Anabo with a twisted ankle forced Edmonton to switch Randy Kerbow from flanker to quarterback. The Rice graduate, who had played only one previous quarter of professional football as a pivot, stood up well until he hit eight minutes disaster in the second half.

Lions led 14-0 after the first quarter, 14-1 after the second, and their lead was 14-7 as late as the 12-minute mark of the third quarter. Interceptions by B.C.'s Bill Munsey and Norm Fieldgate, and a fumble by Butch Pressley that went to Lions' Paul Seale, gave the ball to Lions three times and by 5:16 of the fourth quarter score was 31-7.

WILLIE HAS GAINS

Willie Fleming's first-quarter gains of 46 yards on a pass and 40 yards on a sweep around left end set up a pair of one-yard touchdown plunges by fullback Bob Swift for Lions.

Quarterback Joe Kapp scored himself from the nine after the first interception, Fleming scored on a pass from the six after the second and halfback Amos Bullocks carried across for Lions' last touchdown from the three.

Peter Kempf converted all five scores and kicked a 12-yard field goal set up by the fumble.

Kerbow handled the ball expertly for Edmonton's last-half touchdowns. The first, set up with a 29-yard pass to end E. A. Sims on a fake field goal attempt, was by fullback Bill Tobin from the one. The second came on an 80-yard march that Kerbow finished off by rolling a yard through the B.C. line.

Neither score was converted. Kerbow picked up the other Edmonton point on a 57-yard kick in the second quarter.

Junior Track Meet

Shatters Two Records

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—Ain Roost, a 19-year-old field competitor from the Don Mills Track Club, shattered two Canadian junior records in the Ontario juvenile and junior track and field championships Saturday.

The 6 ft. 4 in., 220-pound athlete, who will attend Stanford or Utah State on an athletic scholarship in the fall heaved the javelin 216 ft., 10 in. and won the discus with a throw of 148 ft. 3½ in.

Roost also finished second in the shot put won by Mike Mercer of Oakville.

Judy Dallimore of Ottawa won the 100- and 220-yard dashes as well as the long jump to capture the junior girls' title. Vesca Issayevitch also took three junior events with victories in the discus, shot put and javelin.

Ingrid Gotzsch of Oakville, a native of Holland, was the outstanding juvenile girl at the meet. The 17-year-old won the juvenile javelin with a heave of 118 ft. 7 in. and captured the high jump with a leap of 4 ft. 9 in.

A loss of balance prevented Marg Chatland of Don Mills from setting a Canadian juveniles long jump record and from being a triple-winner. Miss Chatland jumped an estimated 19 feet in the long jump before she lost her balance and sat down in the pit. The judges, instead of measuring from her heel mark had to measure from the spot where she sat down.

Cathy Chapman, also of Don Mills, won the event with a distance of 17 ft. 7 in. Miss Chatland was second ½ inch behind the winner.

Miss Chatland still managed to win the individual juvenile girls title with victories in the 100- and 220-yard dashes.

Sewell Bisley Leader

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—An Air Canada employee from Winnipeg will lead a relatively "new-blood" Canadian team to the Commonwealth shooting championships at Bisley, England, next summer.

Don Sewell, 38, a tall, slender markman who has been to Bisley twice, failed to win a single major match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championships but was close enough to the winning pace in all of them to top the field of 550 in the Bisley aggregate.

Eight members of the 20-man team are newcomers. Of the 12 repeaters, only three have made the trip to Bisley as often as three times and only Bill Brown of Virden, Man., has gone four times.

Sewell, who scored 865 of a possible 925 points in the nine matches that contribute toward the Bisley total, was making his seventh appearance in the annual week-long DCRA championships.

U.S. Football Exhibition

Redskins, Bills Win Openers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bills are getting a boot out of Billy Joe but the American Football League champions could do without some of Pete Gogolak's kicking.

Gogolak, who has been kicking about his contract and has threatened to play out his option, booted three field goals in his soccer-style fashion, and Joe rambled 38 yards for a touchdown Sunday as the Bills opened their exhibition schedule with a 23-0 victory over Boston Patriots.

Joe, acquired from Denver in a trade for Cookie Gilchrist, and Gogolak are on different sides of the field when it comes to expressing their thoughts about being with the Bills.

Joe has slimmed down to 235 pounds and has fully recovered from an operation to remove calcium deposits on his feet. He gained 61 yards in seven carries against the Patriots and also grabbed three passes for 25 yards.

DENVER LOSES

Gilchrist, the former Canadian Football League star, scored two touchdowns on short runs but Denver lost to Kansas City Chiefs 30-24. In other AFL exhibition games, Don Trull stole Joe Namath's thunder, as Houston Oilers defeated New York Jets 21-16 and Kent McCloughan led Oakland Raiders to a 10-3 victory over San Diego Chargers.

Washington Redskins humbled Philadelphia Eagles 37-0 in the only National League exhibition with a 99-yard touchdown pass from rookie Rich Badar to rookie Jack Dean putting the finishing touches on the romp.

Trull, a high-priced 1964 bonus baby, connected for three touchdown passes—30 yards to Charlie Frazier and 55 and 48 to Sammy Weir—as he completed nine of 12 passes for 225 yards. Namath, the Jets $400,000 quarterback, was unable to launch a scoring pass in a six-for-14 effort that gained 110 yards.

Beatty Wins Golf Title

KINGSTON (CP)—A 42-year-old Toronto golfer won the eastern Ontario golf championship for the third time here Saturday.

Ernie Beutley of Weston Golf Club had a 36-hole total of 144 to finish two strokes ahead of Kingston's Ron Brown.

Bill Pugh of Toronto's Cedarbrae Club tied with Pete Turner of Toronto Summit for third place. Both men carded scores of 147.

Bentley shot a one-over-par 71 in the 18-hole morning round and recorded a 73 in the final 18 holes.

Bill Strothers of London, Ont., had a 137 score to take low net honors. Cliff Crawford of Napanee, Ont., placed second with 138.

BACK IN ACTION

DETROIT (AP)—New York Yankees removed pitcher Bill Stafford from the disabled list Saturday night. Catcher Doc Edwards was optioned to Toledo of the International League on 24-hour recall to make room on the 25-man roster for the hurler. Stafford was placed on the disabled list July 7 with tendonitis in his right shoulder.

Will Play Chess By Telephone

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. chess champion Bobby Fischer, who can't get U.S. government permission to go to Cuba for an international tournament, will participate anyway—by telephone.

The state department rejected his travel bid on grounds he didn't meet any of the classifications for Americans allowed to visit Cuba.

The tournament runs from Aug. 25 to Sept. 25 and Fischer will make his moves at the Marshall Chess Club in New York. A referee will watch his play.

The state department has ruled that U.S. journalists, businessmen with long-standing interests there and persons on humanitarian missions are eligible to visit Cuba.

BLED, Yugoslavia (AP) — Mikhail Tal, chess grandmaster from the Soviet Union, defeated Danish grandmaster Bengt Larsen Sunday in the 10th semifinal match leading to the world championship series.

Tal's 5.5 points to 4.5 for Larsen earned him the right to meet Boris Spasky of the Soviet Union to decide who will play current world champion Tigran Petrosyan for the world title.

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP)—Abdel Latif Abou Heif of the United Arab Republic won the annual 24-mile marathon swim across Lake St. John Saturday. He won $3,500.

Rain Halts Meet After 6th

Lint Sets Mile Record

Rain called an effective halt to the Quinte Driving Club meet here Saturday, cutting off the "fun" after the sixth heat had been completed.

However, 825 paid customers liked what they saw, although the handle through the pari-mutuels was a new low for the season, $7,204.

George Dolley drove Lint to a new 1965 track record in the fifth heat, doing the mile distance in 2.09 4/5th.

Lint nosed out Leo Lad driven by Larry Zebedee with Hal's Pence finishing in the show position. Direct Dillard, Mr. Spudkey and Juann also started.

All Vance drove Nida Dillard in the second best mile of the night in 2.12 2/5ths, paying $8.00 and winning over Jacken and Atomic Selka.

Zebedee took Flash Togo under the wire to win the opening mile in 2.16 3/5 in front of Hi Acres Direct and Admiral, Junior. Togo paid $13.10.

Photo finish cameras decided the winner of the third heat giving Ben Etawah the nod over Double Star and Dorann Grattan. The winner paid $11.10.

Riverdale Bill reversed his position in the second and sixth events, the only double-heat race of the night.

He finished on top in the second, winning over Queen's Magic and Irish Lane Lassie, coming out in front to pay $5.40.

The daily double paid $56.70 for the second and third heats. The quinella was good for $18.70.

Leafs Nip Bisons 1-0, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Joe Altobelli has been conducting a one-man campaign to get Rochester Red Wings into the International League playoffs.

The Red Wing first baseman stroked his fifth homer in the last four games Sunday to give Rochester a 1-0 victory over Jacksonville Suns and move them within five games of the fourth-place Suns.

In other Sunday action Toronto Maple Leafs edged Buffalo Bisons 1-0, Atlanta Crackers defeated Syracuse Chiefs 3-1 in the nightcap of a doubleheader after dropping the opener 7-5, and the doubleheader between Toledo Mud Hens and Columbus Jets was postponed because of rain.

In Saturday's game Rochester outslugged Atlanta 9-8 in 10 innings, Syracuse downed Jacksonville 5-1 and Toledo battered Buffalo 12-9. Toronto's game at Columbus was postponed.

Canadian Swimmers

Win In West Germany

BOCHUM, West Germany (AP) —Canadian swimmers dominated Saturday's final meet events against a West German team billed as second string, winning both men's and women's over-all competitions by overwhelming margins.

The Canadian men crushed their opponents 87-49 while the women also won easily 74 35. Canada had opened a strong lead in the first races Thursday in Bonn.

On the final day, Canada finished first in seven of eight individual events and won all three freestyle relays, at 800 and 400 metres for men and at 400 metres for women.

The Canadians, who smashed five Canadian records in Thursday's races, added two more Saturday.

Dan Sherry of Hamilton, who broke the Canadian 100-metre butterfly record Thursday, added the 400-metre butterfly in record time of 2:11.7.

Marjon Wilmink of New Westminster, B.C., also set her second Canadian record in three days with a 1:20.2 time for the 100 - metre breaststroke. Her other record was set at twice the distance.

Sports Briefs

COOKIE SCORES

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Fullback Cookie Gilchrist and the Denver Broncos came on like gangbusters with three touchdowns in the final quarter but it wasn't enough to overtake Kansas City as the Chiefs posted a 30-24 American Football League exhibition football victory Saturday night. Gilchrist, for many years a tempestuous star in Canadian football, scored two touchdowns.

REPORTS NHL DEAL

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins have traded forward Reggie Fleming to New York Rangers for centre Earl Ingarfield in a National Hockey League deal, the Boston Herald reports.

Minors' Track Meet

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Two members of the Ottawa Upland Harriers Track Club won titles Saturday in the Ontario bantam and midget track and field meet.

Jane Fisher won the midget girls' championship with 15 points, one more than ID Verduyn of Peterborough. Jeff Hamblin tied with John Stewart of Windsor as midget boys' champion with 15 points.

Roselin Smith of Scarborough won the bantam girls' title with 15 points and George Yurikiw of Toronto's Given Track Club captured the bantam boys' crown with 19 points.

Miss Fisher won the three track and events in which she participated—the 60-, 100- and 220-yard dashes.

Miss Smith won the 60- and 100-yard dashes and the long jump.

Stewart and Hamblin each won three events. Stewart took the 220, 440 and the long jump. Hamblin won the 100-yard dash, the shot put and the discus.

Yurkiw was first in the shot put and discus and second in the long jump, triple jump and javelin.

Nicklaus Grabs $24,300

Two strokes behind after 54 holes in the $125,000 Philadelphia golf classic Saturday he went out and practised for about an hour and a half.

"I was hitting the ball lower than I wanted to and worked on getting it up higher," he said Sunday after overtaking the leaders for his second straight victory in the Philadelphia tournament.

The practice paid off with the $24,300 first prize, boosting his 1965 earnings to $114,000 and just $14,230 off the single-season money record set by Arnold Palmer in 1963. He can surpass it this week in the PGA championship.

Deadlocked with three others at nine under par with two holes to play he rammed home a 45-foot putt for an eagle three on the 515-yard par five 17th hole. Nicklaus made a key shot on the 17th by getting the ball high, which is what he practised on Saturday. His drive was in the rough behind trees. He used a wedge to loft the ball onto the green, 45 feet past the cup, from where he putted in for all the money.

Nicklaus carded a 71-65-73-68—277 over the par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course. His 11-under-par 72 hole total gave him a one stroke win over Joe Campbell and Doug Sanders. Randy Glover was fourth with 280. Gary Player and Tony Lema were next at 281.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Royal Tara, rated one of the top fillies in Canadian racing history, walked off with her fourth stakes victory of the season when she won the $10,000 added Auspicious Stakes Handicap at Fort Erie Saturday.

Owned by Jack Stafford of Toronto and ridden by John LeBlanc, the four-year-old daughter of Hasty Road took the lead in the final quarter-mile to defeat Bandangan and Runadir in 1.43 over the 1 1-16 mile run and pay $3.60, $2.60 and $2.20.

The win pushed Royal Tara's earnings for the year to $36,775 in six starts. Last season she collected $38,670 in eight starts.

The daily double of Nacuba in the first and Chinese Sabre in the second paid $70.70, with the quinella of Beauante and Speedy Lament in the sixth paying $13.20.

Willie Leads Charge

Giants Breathing Down Dodger Necks

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that Willie Mays has ended his drought, San Francisco Giants are threatening to turn the rest of baseball's National League into a disaster area.

Mays increased his major league - leading home run total to 30 Sunday as second - place Giants trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 for their sixth straight victory and charged within one game of first - place Los Angeles Dodgers.

Starting July 9 and lasting for three weeks, Mays hit no home runs, drove in no runs and managed only six hits in 40 at-bats for a .150 average.

The star centre fielder finally rediscovered his home run swing July 30, and in the last 11 games has clouted seven homers. In the last four games he has recorded five homers, 10 RBI and 10 hits in 16 trips to the plate for a .625 average.

Another slugger, Ed Mathews, led the Braves within two games of the Dodgers as he wrapped five hits and drove in seven runs in Milwaukee's 8-5 and 8-3 sweep of Houston Astros. Cincinnati Reds also were two games back following their 18-0 trouncing of Los Angeles.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Philadelphia Phillies 7-1 before losing 5-2 and Chicago Cubs took New York Mets 7-6 and 10-10.

In Saturday's game the Dodgers downed Cincinnati 5-3, the Giants thumped the Cardinals 10-4, Houston blanked Milwaukee 4-0, the Pirates nipped the Phillies 4-3 and the Cubs whipped the Mets 7-1.

Mays' Homer and Willie McCovey's 26th roundtripper helped Warren Spahn end a nine - game losing streak. Spahn, replaced in the sixth inning, hadn't won since May 23. He's now 5-13.

Mathews knocked in six runs with his 23rd and 24th homers plus a double in the first game. Reliever Billy O'dell saved Wade Blasingame's 14th victory against eight defeats by striking out Jim Gentile with two on and two out in the ninth inning.

Jim Maloney coasted to his 13th triumph in 18 decisions with a four-hitter as Cincinnati pounded out 20 hits. Los Angeles' Don Drysdale, now 15-10, lasted only two innings. Leo Cardenas led the attack, collecting three hits and batting in four runs.

Bob Veale set Philadelphia down on six hits in Pittsburgh's opening - game victory but the Phillies came back in the nightcap as Ray Herbert scattered eight hits and Tony Gonzalez triggered a three-run out-burst in the second inning with a double, then homered in the third.

Ernie Banks drove in four runs and Ed Bailey three in the Cubs first - game triumph. The Cubs won the second game with a six-run rally in the ninth. Joe Amalfitano raced home with the winning run as outfielders Gary Kolb and Johnny Lewis let Billy Williams' high fly drop for a single.

'Quality' Is Word Used For New TV Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The forthcoming U.S. television season's word is "quality." This is a change from previous seasons' "creative" and "original."

Time was when performers and producers inevitably inserted somewhere in an interview a sentence like, "Harry Smith, who created the series, has a really original idea in taking this professional gunfighter and making him sheriff of a lawless town."

But this year, "creative" and "original" are words that start arguments, because almost every program that was successful last year has what looks suspiciously like one, two or even more imitators this year.

The strong family resemblance, it is asserted, is mere coincidence.

Can it be pure coincidence that The Loner will slip into the CBS niche held so long by Have Gun, Will Travel? Doesn't The Big Valley of ABC remind one of NBC's Bonanza except that the head of the family will be Barbara Stanwyck instead of Lorne Greene?

Isn't Please Don't Eat the Daisies built on very familiar situation comedy lines, except there are four boys in the family replacing the regulation son and daughter?

The answer — this year — goes: "Ah, the framework isn't important. It's the quality of the scripts that matter, and I may tell you that we've been working like dogs to make sure we get real quality . . ."

GUARD LIKE JEWELS

Plots of television soap operas are usually guarded like crown jewels on the theory that knowing story lines in advance is like reading the last chapter of a detective story before tackling the rest of the book.

Even the one - line teasers written for newspaper program schedules are carefully noncommittal: "Dr. Charlie comes to a critical decision" or "Claudia finds she must help."

However, amid the publicity surrounding Mia Farrow's yachting trip with Frank Sinatra, whom some say she may wed, word has leaked out that the Peyton Place bosses have decided to put Allison McKenzie, that's Mia, into a coma until they find out how Mia's personal plot is resolved.

Allison will have an automobile accident and be hurried out of the viewers' sight. If Mia returns, Allison will recover from her head injuries. And if she doesn't—well, viewers have survived the deaths of their favorite characters before.

Ginger Rogers to Play Dolly As Channing Goes on Road

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—"So I said to myself," Ginger Rogers reports, "maybe somebody's got a better view of you than you have yourself and maybe, kid, you're just rusticated."

Sunny - haired Miss Rogers, brisk and bubbly as ever, thus explains events leading up to her return to Broadway as the new star of Hello, Dolly!

As the replacement—a status which fazes her not at all—for Carol Channing, the film veteran is making her first Broadway appearances since 1951.

Obtaining her approval entailed a sedulous coaxing campaign by David Merrick, the show's insistent impresario. She turned down three bids before putting her name on a year-long contract.

Miss Rogers recalls another occasion of protracted reluctance on her part which led to career triumph. That was Kitty Foyle, the movie that earned her Hollywood's Oscar. She has her fingers crossed that history will repeat this time.

"All you've got to do is challenge me about something," she asserts, "but sometimes I get in moods and don't hear wonderful offers."

Soon after the production premiere more than a year ago, she was asked to portray Dolly Gallagher Levi, Hello Dolly's matchmaker extraordinary, for a company going on national tour.

REJECTED PROPOSAL

"I told my agent I just didn't think I was right for the part," declares Ginger. "After a few months, they broached the idea of going to London. I still didn't feel right. After that, I thought "So long, goodbye."

"The next thing I knew, Merrick had become part-owner of a Las Vegas club and wanted me for a tabloid version out there. A few months went by after that no, and then my agent phoned and said:

"'Ginger, whatever you are doing, please sit down because I want you to think out very carefully what I'm going to say. How would you like to be in New York for about a year?'"

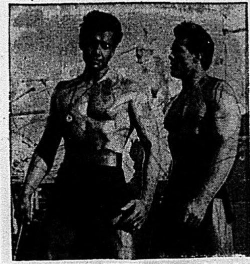
The opening came because Miss Channing is shifting into the national company when its present star, Mary Martin, sets off on international travels with another troupe.

Much discussion ensued before the Rogers demur turned into high enthusiasm. During four weeks of rigorous rehearsal under the eye of director Gower Champion she has been working out her concept of Dolly.

"If anyone expected me to do it like Carol Channing, I'd bow out," she says. "But nobody wanted that."

A large part of her screen laurels were won as the twinkle-toed partner of Fred Astaire in such cinema classics as Flying Down to Rio, The Gay Divorcee and Top Hat.

Miss Rogers' looks and figure at age 54 testify handsomely to the star's lifelong enthusiasm for keeping in condition with plenty of outdoor sports.



AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Remus and Romulus — Gordon (Tarzan) Scott and Steve (Hercules) Reeves appear here in a scene from their new Cinemascope and Eastmancolor movie, "Duel Of The Titans", showing tonight and Tuesday at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. They enact the roles of the two legendary brothers who later become bitter enemies. 2nd feature attraction, also in color "The Disorderly Orderly" stars Jerry Lewis, Susan Oliver and Glenda Farrell.

FORMER ATHLETE DIES

Viet Cong Lays Siege To Camp for Five Months

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett spent two days in the besieged outpost of Duc Co near the Cambodian border. Here is his report.

By PETER ARNETT

DUC CO, South Viet Nam (AP)—Communist troops have laid siege to this special forces camp only five miles from Cambodia for more than two months.

A large Vietnamese paratrooper force, sent in Tuesday to lift the siege, has been driven back into the camp lines.

Late Saturday, Viet Cong mortar fire from as close as 500 yards was smashing into the camp. Nine soldiers were wounded in one attack.

Duc Co came under mortar fire seven times from noon Friday to late Saturday afternoon. Casualties among the paratroopers were high. Their plight was made worse because of difficulties moving them to hospitals.

Among the casualties were Montagnard strike forces that normally protect the camp, and regional forces from the provincial capital of Pleiku, 40 miles to the northeast.

MAKE AIRLIFT

An emergency helicopter airlift of wounded was made late Saturday. Scores were carried or hobbled to the helicopters.

Duc Co is a heavily-bunkered camp built by United States special forces in 1962.

The Viet Cong laid siege to Duc Co apparently to prevent Vietnamese patrols from interfering with supply lines into the central highlands. The camp lies on Route 19, long a key Viet Cong supply route.

The Viet Cong first began hitting Duc Co with sniper fire, making overland travel suicidal for government forces. They have steadily increased the pressure, hitting with mortars or recoilless cannons daily.

Vietnamese and Montagnard casualties have been high. Two Americans have been killed.

The Vietnamese paratroopers were flown in from Pleiku to relieve the pressure on Duc Co. They moved north from the camp Tuesday, met little resistance, and started eastward. They encountered a Viet Cong ambush, which they evaded, killing five of the enemy.

REMAIN IN POSITION

When they moved South Thursday, the Viet Cong stubbornly remained in position, in spite of heavy bombing from the air and from artillery.

The paratroopers headed back to camp, but were hit with machine - gun fire as they crossed an open field.

Next day, communist mortars raked the edges of the airfield beside which the paratroopers were encamped. Severe casualties were inflicted.

The paratroopers got in their own licks when the Viet Cong probed Saturday. The guerrillas were beaten off with heavy casualties.

The mortar attacks convinced paratrooper officers they were surrounded.

Viet Cong mortar fire sneaked into the camp with deadly accuracy as constant government bombing missions were flown in close support.

The defenders of Duc Co are worried that a combination of bad weather and Viet Cong mortaring could isolate them from air support. This would be disastrous for the little camp that already has taken a tremendous amount of punishment.

Malaysia

sons were killed in July, 1964.

Racial differences have been one of the major causes of friction between predominantly Chinese Singapore and the rest of Malaysia in recent months. The federation has been accused of giving preferential treatment to Malays.

The split is the outcome of political rivalry between the Malaysian Chinese, who dominate the economy of the federation, and the Malays who control the federal government in Kuala Lumpur.

OUTNUMBER MALAYS

The Chinese made up about 42 per cent of the federation's population of 11,000,000 and slightly outnumber the Malays. But the constitution gave 104 of the 159 seats in the lower house of Parliament to mainland Malaya, and the Malays had most of these.

The secession agreement gives Britain continued use of its extensive military bases in Singapore as long as necessary for the defence of the area and the preservation of peace in Southeast Asia.

Britain has some 50,000 troops committed to the defence of Malaysia.

In a televised press conference, Singapore's Premier Lee Kuan Yew made an overture to regain the big trade with Indonesia which President Sukarno banned when he launched his campaign to smash Malaysia.

Lee said Singapore wants to be friends with Indonesia and co-operate with it but cannot do so if Indonesia does not recognize Singapore as a sovereign and independent nation.

TRADE WITH ALL

Lee also said his government will be neither pro-Communist nor anti-Communist and will trade with all countries, including Communist China. He said the Communist Bank of China will be allowed to continue its Singapore branch — which the Malaysian government had ordered closed by Aug. 14—but no officials from Peking would be allowed to direct its operations within the state.

Lee said the split was forced on him by Malaysia's federal leaders. He broke into sobs and wiped tears from his face as he made the announcement.

"All my adult life I have believed in the merger of Singapore and Malaya," he said.

He agreed to the split Saturday at a meeting in Kuala Lumpur with Rahman. He said Rahman told him the only way to solve the problems of Malaysia was for Singapore to leave the federation.

"I told him that I thought there was another way out, that we could remain in the federation if it were a little looser," Lee said. "But Tunku said if insisted, he would not be able to control events."

CHINESE

Lee pledged that Singapore will be a multi-racial nation and "not a Chinese nation," he said.

As Lee spoke, the Malaysian Parliament approved 126-to-0 a constitutional amendment separating Singapore from the federation. One member abstained. All but one of the 15 members representing Singapore were absent.

Town's Reserve Water Supply Nearly Exhausted Over Weekend

PICTON (Staff) — This town's reserve water supply on Friday was nearly exhausted and officials of Picton Public Utilities were provided with further ammunition to support thei cause for an appeal to update the town's water supply. Following last Tuesday's meeting of Town Council, when a motion was passed to proceed with preliminary planning for a $250,000 improvement program, the breakdown of the reservoir on the hill near Picton Army Camp seemed ironic. Sometime Friday cracks in the cement at the bottom of the reservoir gave way and water leaked out of the storage pool until it barely covered the intake level. The reservoir normally holds some 750,000 gallons of water and officials say that the supply when it was this low was a very serious situation. One spokesman stated that if a fire had occurred in town at this time they could not have used the pumping equipment. Workmen poured cement and patched the cracks in the reservoir until 3 a.m. Sunday in an effort to repair the damage. At noon Sunday the water was almost back to the normal level.

Among the matters brought up at council meeting regarding the updating of water works system were the following proposals:

Million-gallon high level storage reservoir at the existing site, $120,000.

Half million gallon clean water storage reservoir at water works plant, $72,000. Total estimated at approximately $250,000.

Summarized, the factors entering into the need of updating the town's water supply system include: leakage in the present reservoir, possible contamination of water in present open reservoir, possible expanded distribution due to the growth of population through proposed annexation and also need for more water in case of fires and also to meet peak demands. The clean water reservoir at the Spencer Street plant is said to be an "unsafe structure."

It was also brought out at the council meeting that the present reservoir has been a definite source of leakage in the past and last year's high average water consumption amounted to 1,038,000 gallons or about 148 gallons per capita.

Three Drown As Car Plunges Into Welland R.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Three Montreal residents were drowned Sunday when their car plunged into the Welland River at Chippewa, a village five miles south of here.

Police identified two of the victims as Jacques Dozic, 20, and Marie Tremblay, 21. The identity of the third victim, a man aged about 24, was not immediately released.

A fourth occupant, Jeannine Golec, 25, also of Montreal, was rescued when a nearby resident paddled out on an air mattress and brought her to shore.

Robert Crone, who was in his pyjamas at the time, first threw the woman a beach ball to keep her afloat.

Miss Golec, who came to Canada from Paris nine months ago, was taken to hospital suffering shock.

China Still Wonders Who Is Top Man in Soviet Union

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK (AP)—China still wonders who is top man in the Soviet Union, but judging from its tirades, Peking thinks less of the present Kremlin leaders than it did of Nikita Khrushchev.

Propaganda assaults on Moscow's leaders are frustrated by lack of any one personality to single out. Peking attacks "Khrushchevism without Khrushchev." It has yet—after 10 months—to abuse any one member of the Soviet collective leadership by name.

This suggests that Peking considers practically all the Soviet leaders as anti - revolutionary and beyond redemption. At least Khrushchev had been highly vocal against the United States. His words—if not his deeds—produced thunder at each new development in Viet Nam just a year ago.

The new leaders have been a pale substitute.

The Chinese predicted—correctly, as events demonstrated—that Khrushchev would be overturned. They now are predicting that the present Soviet leadership "will bring ruin and shame upon themselves."

CAN'T PINPOINT LEADER

But the attacks fail to say which of the Soviet leaders will come to grief. The Chinese, like much of the rest of the world, lack a clear idea of who dictates Soviet policy today. The collective leadership is nominally headed by Leonid I. Brezhnev as party chief and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier, but apparently many other powerful figures are involved, representing a wide variety of opinion.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For August 10th,

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Seek needed answers. Don't be afraid to ask questions. Overcome tendency to let pride rule logic. Break out of emotional rut. Visit with close friend could help.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): No time to be stubborn. Problems could arise. Recognize facts as they exist. Move with the tide. Changes due. Member of opposite sex could prove valuable ally.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Favorable lunar aspect later highlights journeys, enlightenment. You learn by doing. Base actions on past experiences. Be versatile. Fulfill obligation to one who is far away.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): May be necessary to deal with accountants, legal advisors to get financial affairs in order. Be aware of clauses, leases, loopholes. Avoid wishful thinking. Key is practical approach.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Much in your favor if you respond quickly. Means avoid procrastination. Make a decision. Then stick to it. Be aware of advertising, public reactions. Check with expert.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Not wise to take situations, persons for granted. Build solid base. Leave no "loose ends." Trusted associate may appear irritable. Be understanding — and patient.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Take initiative. Highlight originality, independence of thought and action. Good lunar aspect tonight accents romantic pursuits. Cement ties of affection.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 —Nov. 21): Persistence can now pay off. You are able to arrive at constructive conclusion. Hold tight to purse strings. Be aware of surroundings. Call your shots! But don't forget principles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22— Dec. 21): Key is steady pace. Don't try to do everything at once. Keep on even keel. Tendency is to scatter forces. You succeed if you stick to prescribed course. Remain calm!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Necessary you give attention to money affairs. Be "on top" of situation. Avoid get-rich-quick schemes. Stick to what is familiar . . . stay within own field of endeavor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Cycle high. Circumstances "turn" in your favor. Be aware of timing. Your judgment tends to be correct. Be sure, confident. Follow through on plans, hopes, desires.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Work with materials at hand. Appreciate advantages. Complaining accomplishes nothing. Seek cooperation of friends, family members. Consider needs of one temporarily incapacitated.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are inventive, able to originate and carry through plans, programs. You are at your best when working for yourself.

Not Every Girl Who Dates Ends Up in Trouble

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — My girl friend and I always used to go to dances at our school. Then students began to appear drunk so we decided to stay home from then on. Now we spend the week ends either at her place or mine and do things we enjoy. I can really and truly say that every girl at school would laugh and torment us because we never went out with boys like they did.

You want to know something? These girls have become pregnant now and will not be allowed to return to school next term. Of course not every girl became pregnant.

My girl friend and I are both 16 and can truly say we've never had a date yet and we don't consider ourselves squares nor do we think we're missing anything. We have decided to wait until we're 18 or 19 before we do go dating.

I cannot say this way will be helpful to every young girl but I'll say this much to them: "Remember girls, if you're single and pregnant, it's always the girl and never the boy who gets blamed for it." — SOMEONE WHO CAN TELL YOU.

DEAR SOMEONE — Want to know something yourself? Whenever you start, you'll be babes in the woods, until you've become used to associating with the opposite sex. Don't narrow your acquaintanceship to one girl at a time when you should be expanding on all fronts.

Avoiding the issues may make you feel—and appear—virtuous. But it's a poor way of learning how to get along in a world which is made up of both sexes.

It is plain idiocy to assume that every girl who goes out with a boy is ready to go all the way with him.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My dear wife passed away after a long illness leaving a son and daughter both in their fifties. The daughter left her secretary job to keep house and look after mother.

Then she got me to make a will and passed so many leaflets saying sign this, sign that, that in my sad condition I simple-mindedly signed some. I have no idea what they were. Then she told me nothing could be altered without her consent.

After a while I told her I signed a lot of leaflets without knowing what they were and I intended to break the will, but not a word would she say. I must get rid of her some way. Before taking action will await your decision. — SIGHT VERY DIM.

DEAR DIM SIGHT — If you have signed a will to which you do not agree, make another one. The only legal will is the most recent one.

* * *

Above all, hire a lawyer to draw it up for you. And never, never sign another thing just because it is stuck under your nose. Say you want to think it over. Then get the document, whatever it is, to your lawyer for his O.K.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — My father is of a sort of stubborn kind. At times he is right, but then at times in my opinion, he is wrong.

Sometimes I'll talk to my mother about going out and other things, but we always end up in an argument.

I'm going to be 17 and I would like to go out once in a while and besides I have two older brothers. But because we don't agree she tells me I'm too young because if I was old enough I would understand how they feel.

But I think I do understand. What do I do now? — MIXED UP.

DEAR MIXED UP — Most girls argue with their brothers. Most girls go out on dates. The way to improve your understanding of boys is to associate with them.

If you are showing maturity by carrying your share at home, point this out. And next time you talk with your mother, do your level best to keep tempers out of it.

* * *

(What's troubling you? Putting it on paper to Doris is the first step towards solving your problem.)

Members Tell of Intimate Visits to Home Villages In Eastern European Tour

MONTREAL (CP) — Members of Parliament who wound up a tour of two eastern European industrial countries last week began arriving home during the weekend. They came in small groups, some flying to Ottawa unnoticed Saturday night, others facing press cameras here Sunday.

Four who arrived at Montreal International Airport Sunday from London told the press of intimate visits to home villages and 1½-hour interviews with Soviet Premier Kosygin and President Mikoyan.

"Some of the landmarks were still as my parents described them," said Conservative Senator John Hnatyshyn of Waskowtz, the Ukrainian village from which his parents took him as a two-month-old baby. The Soviets transported him by car from Kiev.

He was interviewed in Ukrainian by the CBC's international service Sunday afternoon in a broadcast that may go back to the village, part of Austria-Hungary when his parents left to make their home in Saskatchewan. Waskowtz now is part of the Soviet Ukraine.

Senator Hnatyshyn's most enthusiastic comments as a delegate from Canada, however, were about Czechoslovakia, where the 14-member parliamentary group spent a week after their fortnight in the Soviet Union.

SEES INCREASED TRADE

"There are definite possibilities of increasing our trade with Czechoslovakia," he said. "We have a favorable trade balance which will probably have to be fixed up, but they make, for example, the best glass in the world."
